

Lord of War Vol 2-361

Chapter 361: .Smart and perfidious

The march of 15,000 infantrymen is extremely powerful.

Although Thain has repeatedly emphasized making these people pretend to be more sloppy and decadent, he can still see many characteristics that only Jing Rui veterans have. This made Thain's heart even more yin sinking, because he knew he was given a line by Hela: Although he was the commander of this army in name, in fact, the Fourth Army of the Kingdom of Dabion The soldiers did not really obey his orders at all.

If even he could see the special nature of this army, it would be impossible for people like William and Sean to fail to see it.

Originally wanted to kill Sean by surprise, but now in this state, let alone killing Sean by surprise, I am afraid that even he himself will be dragged into the water. In order to kill Sean, he can do whatever he wants, but if he is completely hopeless, then such a result is not what he wants.

Thinking of this, Thain had already made a decision in his heart.

This army departed from Mitchlin City under the leader of Day, and did not go through the leader of Yadby-so it only takes half a month to reach the core of the leader of Panda, which is the economy, politics, and culture of Sean. In the center of the Void City, but in terms of food and supplies, it is obviously not satisfactory. For the soldiers of the Fourth Legion of Darbion, who has been receiving the highest level of treatment in the Kingdom of Darbion, this is naturally a painful process.

About half a month later, when this army officially arrived in the outskirts of Void City, only from its embarrassed appearance, to say that this army was the Fourth Army of the Jing Rui Army of the Kingdom of Darbion, not many people would really believe it. . But for people like Thain and William who are really good at the army, it is not difficult to discover the nature of this army hidden under the embarrassed appearance. After all, you have to know that these five thousand people are not there. The logistics unit is taking care of it, so it's hard not to be embarrassed after more than half a month's journey.

In the suburbs of Void City, several camps have been established here, judging from the scale, they are all over 5,000 people, and two of them are even 10,000 people. If you say that the forces gathered in the void city at this moment, there are 40,000 people, which is almost half of the total force under Xiao En's command.

Sean glanced at these camps and found that almost all of them were hung with black square flags.

This is a mercenary banner different from the title banner.

As we all know, the designation banner is a special honor of the military. Each designation banner is recorded in the military history. It can not only study the origin, year and month of establishment, but even the commanders of the past generations, belongings, major changes, etc. There are detailed records, so the designation and banner are not arbitrarily used.

But the mercenary regiment is also equivalent to the army in its essence, but these mercenary regiments belong to the unowned army, so in order to distinguish them from each other, they will naturally draw some unique things on the flag. It's just that these are not designation flags, but are called mercenary flags—different from the gold and silver borders of the designation flags, the mercenary flags mostly use red, black, and blue as the borders of the banner. The meaning also symbolizes red rock, black iron, and bronze.

In the world of mercenaries, it is also a kind of knowledge to use the fringe of the color se, as long as the combat power is compatible with the strength, the upper-level color se can be used as the flag fringe.

Like the red se, it is usually used by small mercenary groups or fledgling mercenary groups; the black se fringe means that the size of this mercenary group is more than 5,000; as for the green se, they are usually large-scale mercenary groups. The symbol of this means that the number of people on the scale exceeds 30,000.

There is also a kind of Yan se on top of the green se, which is different from the golden se, and belongs to the exclusive fringing of the top ten mercenary regiments. If you want to get this kind of fringe, there is only one way—replacement.

Of the seven camps present at the moment, six are hung with black square flags, and the remaining one is hung with the family crest of the Connelly family.

"Six mercenary regiments and a private army?" Thain whispered, "As expected of William, who does everything without leaking. The preparations are really proper, and there is no gap left."

"My lord, what are you talking about?" Hearing Thain's murmur, because some of them couldn't hear clearly, Yard leaned forward and asked in a low voice.

"It's nothing." Thain shook his head, "These people don't listen to me, so you take them to camp first.... Remember, don't have any conflicts with the people here, I will go into the city to report now. , There will soon be a logistics staff to take charge, you guys take a break first. Then I will go to Xiao En to report the situation and figure out a way to trick him out."

"Yes, my lord." Yard nodded with excitement.

Then Thain didn't say anything, but left soon.

Looking at Thain's departure, the smile on Yard's face gradually disappeared.

As a noble from the Nugus family, Yard has a sense of superiority like everyone else, so from the bottom of his heart, he is naturally very repulsive or even despise of Thain. But since he is a noble from a large family, Yad is naturally very good at forbearance, not to mention that his noble communicative studies graduated with full marks at the beginning, so this kind of pretending to be grandson in front of others is his specialty.

The reason why he was so courteous and respectful to Thain before was purely because of the orders of the Nugus family and the future of Thain. But when he discovered that the Fourth Legion of Darbion did not pay much attention to the orders of the new star of Darbion Kingdom, Yad's mind immediately became active: if he could kill Sean successfully this time, only If he can return to Dabian alive alone, then he will undoubtedly become the biggest contributor to this incident.

But how to go back alive, this is a difficult problem.

After thinking about it, Yad finally only figured out a way to push Thain out as a substitute for the dead. After all, Sean was assassinated by the rebel army when he came to review the army. Someone must be responsible for it. And Sean Hastings is undoubtedly the best candidate. After all, people from Sean and Darbion Kingdom know that the hatred between Sean and Hastings family is inevitable. thing.

And after everything was considered, Yad has not been idle for more than half a month.

Using the identity of the Nugus family, he easily gained the trust of the commanders of the Fourth Army of Darbion. Thus, although Thain was nominally the commander of this army, in fact he was completely emptied by Yad and became a polished commander.

At this time, when Thain left, Yad had already turned with a calm face and turned to several middle-level officers of the Dabian Fourth Army, who is now promoted to his confidant, and gave orders to prepare them to fight at any time.

On the other side, Thain also quickly came to the Lord's Mansion.

The people in the lord's mansion are no strangers to this powerful general with extremely high speed. Of course, he is also no stranger to his superior methods. So Thain did not wait long before he was received by Sean, and the people present also included William, Anno, and a person whom Thain had never met before-Bannock. As for Rena, she was not seen. .

"Ready?" William said.

"Yes." Thain nodded. "The fifteen thousand people secretly transported from Dabion, although I am the commander in name, the army is not under the command and control, but by A person named Yad Nugus is in charge of the command.... His other identity is responsible for monitoring me, but he is currently very busy at work, so there is no time to enter the city with me."

"The Nugus family can't hold back their anger, even the people in their own family are sent out." Sean snorted coldly.

"I think that should be the meaning of the Nugus family to show respect to Thain." William frowned, "It can be seen that the other party is really wooing you."

"My lord is joking." Thain bowed slightly, "I only have one person who is loyal now, and that is Lord Sean."

Shaun looked back at Thain. Whether it was his expression, gestures or tone of voice, Thain was impeccable. He was like a true loyal minister. There was a fearless jing of sacrificing his life for Shaun. God. It's just that in the sight of Sean's True Eyes, the scarlet se brilliance exuding from Thain's body is even more intense than those seen by the previous Rizi, which is obviously an increase in hatred for him.

"It's hard for you." Shaun's words were obviously a pun.

"It's an honor to serve adults." Thain's head lowered lower.

"With our troops deployed in the suburbs, enough to deal with those people?" Sean turned his head and looked at William.

"More than enough." William said with a calm face. "There are only two places in the neighborhood that are suitable for camping, and I have cut them very cleverly. Just picking one place will definitely not be able to accommodate 15,000 people. Therefore, if there is no conflict, the other party can only be divided into two camps. Of course, if the other party is in conflict with other people, then we have more reasons to take action.... And with 40,000 troops to deal with 15,000. People, as long as those in the mercenary regiment don't be stupid, there will be no problem."

"Swallowing these 5,000 people, plus Fred's victory at Suoan, only about 220,000 troops remain on the southern noble faction of Darbion." Sean said in a deep voice. "However, the current situation is indeed very critical. The Boulder family has joined the war and is now in a confrontation situation with Asuna on the Mordgarn side, and I heard that there is an army of about 100,000. Reinforcements are being made to the Mordge leader, so no matter what, we must weaken the forces of the Nugus family as much as possible, otherwise we really have no retreat."

"As long as the second phase of the plan is successful, we will proceed to the third phase of tactics." William said in a deep voice. , We can not only regain the Chiraff collar, but even the Berbis collar can be swallowed in one go."

"Then, please prepare for battle. We will start the battle early tonight."

"Master Shaun, I have one more thing to report." Just as Shaun was about to issue a combat order, Thain suddenly spoke.

"What's the matter?" Sean asked.

"This time it was not ordinary soldiers who came with me, but soldiers of the Fourth Legion of Darbion!"

When he heard Thain's words, Sean's brows suddenly raised.

William's reaction was much more straightforward than Shaun's: "A soldier of the Fourth Legion of Darbion!? Why did you wait until now for such an important thing!"

Chapter 362: .The seventh to seize the opportunity

Under the dark night se, what should have been a quiet camp, but it resounded with painful wailing.

In this camp, the fire is as bright as the day. It is the brightest area in the suburbs of Void City. Even standing on the wall of Void City, you can see the bright lights in the distance.

"What the * is going on!?" Yad's face looked extremely anxious.

"I'm not too sure. I have asked someone to report to the Void City immediately. The Lord's Mansion said that they would send someone to check immediately." Someone reported.

"Damn it!" Yard cursed fiercely, "Where is Thain?"

"I don't know, the person who was sent to the Lord's Mansion did not find him." The officer who was doing the report continued, "It seems that the target person has left the city temporarily, but I don't know where to go. We are here in our capacity. Obviously there is no way to understand the Void City too clearly.... But I heard that we will be back tomorrow. At present, we have something like this, and Thain and the target person will definitely come to check it as soon as they come back, but..."

"But what?" Yard roared impatiently.

"I am worried that with our current situation, even if Thain brings the target person over, we will not be able to start."

The target person naturally refers to Sean.

Hearing this officer's report, Yard gritted his teeth, his face became more angry, and he felt a kind of helpless sorrow about his situation.

Bad luck.

Originally because their army was the largest, but Thain specifically said not to conflict, so he could only split the army into two camps. Although this has some problems with the order and command, it is still possible to divide it into a ten-thousand-man battalion and a five-thousand-man battalion, so Yad did not consider too much. Only at this time, an order came from the Void City, and a 10,000-person mercenary group that had been built next to it suddenly withdrew and gave them the camp, so that they only need to make some repairs and expansions to accommodate them. There are fifteen thousand of them.

So at that time, Yade thought his luck was still very good. Even in order to be more confident in the plan to kill Sean, he also divided the camp into a second camp, that is, a core camp where the upper-level officers are concentrated in the camp. In this way, Yad can naturally use "for the safety of officers" as an excuse to deploy key defenses and defensive layouts in this camp.

As long as Sean comes to inspect and deceive him into it with an excuse, then Yard has the final say?

Everything had been planned, but I didn't expect such a big accident at this time. This was completely beyond Yad's expectations.

After dinner, a large number of soldiers began to experience toxic reactions such as vomiting and diarrhea. In addition, they were accompanied by weakness, dizziness, and excessive exhaustion. This is also the reason why the soldiers in the camp are all in the air. However, if it is for their poisoning, close to a quarter of the people in the camp did not experience this situation, especially the upper-level officers in the core camp, who obviously did not have this problem.

According to common sense theory, to disrupt the true combat effectiveness of an army is not simply to reduce the number of soldiers. The quickest and best solution is to resolve middle-level and upper-level officers who can command, so that the orders from the upper level of the army cannot be transmitted to the lower level immediately, so it is a matter of course that the army is in a state of chaos-this kind of thing , Even ordinary soldiers can understand.

Because of this, Yard didn't think much about it.

And soon, the doctor sent from Void City also came.

After conducting a diagnosis on some soldiers, the final diagnosis conclusions reached were similar to what Yad had guessed in his heart: long-term fatigue and lack of sleep, combined with digestive disorders caused by overeating, and food caused by inadequacy of water and soil. Poisoning. A single item is not too fatal, just take a break, but if the two are concurrent, the situation is more serious, but if you don't take a few days of rest, I'm afraid there will be no way to recover.

This is an important reason why the military will have logistics and maintenance support.

Wait until the medical staff prescribes the prescription, and then boil the potion to help detoxify. After everything is done, there are only one or two hours before dawn.

The remaining quarter of the soldiers were already exhausted, not to mention the officers and Yard in the barracks.

"My lord, do you want to arrange for patrols?" an officer asked.

"What are you patrolling!" After a day of anger, coupled with various discomforts caused by exhaustion and lack of sleep, Yad finally inevitably exposed the ruthlessness of the nobleman. "Who do you think is there now? Can patrol? Are you? Or me?"

Being scolded by Yard so much, the officer did not dare to say anything. The other officers saw his eyes full of pity.

Obviously, everyone is very tired at this moment, and I can't wait to get a rest immediately. At this time, I came out and said these things. This is not for scolding, even if I really want to do my duty, it is not now. At this moment, if the soldiers who are still able to act continue to stand guard, it will definitely arouse military grievances. This problem is much more troublesome than food poisoning.

It's just that Yad is so angry, or makes others feel a little dissatisfied. Of course, no one would say anything at this moment. Soon someone came out to make a round. Yad just snorted and went back to his camp to rest. The other officers looked at each other and looked a little helpless. An easy task, but no one thought it would become so troublesome. This was completely beyond their expectations, so they could understand Yad's anger.

Back in the camp, Yade's face looked very ugly.

"It's Jing Rui, bah!" He spit out a thick sputum, then took a bottle of good wine and took a big gulp. After feeling that his throat and even his entire stomach were completely burning, Yade sat down. On the edge of the bed, remove the outer robe.

Perhaps because of excessive exhaustion, coupled with the effect of wine jing, Yade soon felt a little sleepy, and fell asleep behind him in a daze. He just fell asleep like this, and even the wine bottle in his hand fell on I didn't feel the slightest sensation when I poured the precious golden liquid inside.

Soon, the entire barracks fell into silence.

.....

"Time should be almost up." A middle-aged man with a big beard suddenly said.

"Wait, be careful." Compared with the burly figure of the middle-aged man with a beard, the figure of the speaker is much thinner. "According to the information from the employer, the opponent this time It's not easy..."

Before the thin man finished speaking, another person interrupted: "Do you mean that you don't believe in our abilities?"

The person who said this was a woman, but her voice was not soft and charming, but rather rough and hoarse. She may have been a beauty once, but now there is a hideous scar on her face that almost spans half of her face, across the entire throat and spreading to her chest, apparently even the vocal cords have been damaged. Even if such a woman has a proud figure that is not inferior to Elizabeth, it is really difficult for anyone to have any sex.

Of course, people who know her identity will not have any thoughts about her.

"Sister Scorpion, I believe that the old wolf doesn't mean that." Another man who should be considered the youngest in the crowd smiled roundly, "Everyone knows that you are the most poisonous, but the other party is from the Fourth Legion of Darbion. Soldiers, there is nothing wrong with us being careful."

"Red Scorpion, I am not very good at talking. You also know that I have never entered the Temple of Wisdom, so don't mind if there is anything wrong." The thin man called the old wolf also smiled apologetically. "Anyway, we all know that poison is a thing. The longer the time the greater the advantages and benefits for us, so it doesn't matter if we wait."

"Huh." The woman named Red Scorpion snorted coldly, but this time there was no objection.

Seeing that the atmosphere was a bit stiff, and the four people who spoke were all famous in the mercenary regiment world on the southern side of the mainland, the other two mercenary regiment leaders who could be said to have come to gather the number of people did not dare to speak much. Anyway, in these six mercenary regiments, although the number of their two mercenary regiments has the size standard of 5,000 people, but in terms of their combat effectiveness and other capabilities, it is naturally not comparable to the four in front of them, so they It would not be ashamed to shut up and not speak.

"Time, almost." The youngest man said.

And just before the heads of the two mercenary regiments could react, the three known as the Red Scorpion, the Old Wolf, and the burly man had already waved their hands and issued the combat order to attack.

More than a dozen teams with a size of about dozens of people, with a clear division of labor, immediately sneaked into the camp.

Originally, everyone had prepared a lot of archers to deal with guards who stood guard, but unexpectedly, no soldiers were in charge of standing guard. This saved them a lot of effort. Among the ten mercenaries who were responsible for the first infiltration, those wearing black leather armor with a black skull emblem on a white background were obviously the most professional, followed by the same wearing black leather armor. It is the person embroidered with the red se scorpion pattern.

These two groups are from the Yemei Mercenary Group and the Red Scorpion Mercenary Group.

The two mercenary regiments, along with the wild wolf mercenary regiment led by the old wolf and the fierce bear mercenary regiment led by the burly man, are all quite famous mercenary regiments on the southern continent. Although limited to the scale, only the black banner can be used, but for many large mercenary groups that are qualified to use the blue banner, if they can, they will not want to provoke these four mercenary groups, especially the red. Scorpion mercenary regiment.

Although this mercenary group has only 5,000 people, it is a mercenary group that is very good at field operations and poisoning, especially in terms of how to weaken the enemy's strength and combat power.

In contrast, the members of the Yemei Mercenary Group are particularly good at assassination and night combat skills. Especially in places such as jungles and mountains, they can even lay traps all over the mountains, completely change the benefits of the terrain, and completely control the geographical benefits in their hands.

As for the bear mercenary group and the wolf mercenary group, the combat style of these two mercenary groups is similar to Alfred's Thunder Lion. Especially the Fierce Bear Mercenary Corps. They rarely lose in wars with a scale of less than 10,000 people, but the death rate is staggeringly high. Therefore, the employment they accept is usually very high. Every attack is done well. Psychological preparation for annihilation. Relatively speaking, the wild wolf mercenary group is also in the size of 10,000 people, but what they are best at is more bullying wolves tactics, especially in pursuit.

At this time, these four mercenary regiments each with their own characteristics, together with the other two mercenary regiments with a size of 5,000, attacked a regular army that had been poisoned at night. No matter in which aspect, they were completely Occupy the advantage. But despite this, judging from the actions of these mercenary regiments, there is still no slack. They all abide by the tactical experience of mercenaries.

Be cautious after being cautious.

The first group of dozens of mercenaries who sneaked into the camp quickly dispersed. At this time, the second group of mercenary groups sneaked in, and then the third group.

The three groups of mercenary regiments have a total of 2,000 people, and they are responsible for solving those soldiers who are not affected by the poisoning.

This is a night assassination plan.

Although there will be resistance, if you are cautious and careful enough, you can solve the last batch of enemies in this camp who still have resistance before the soldiers of the Fourth Army of Darbion can fully react.

Yad's idea is indeed correct. The officer who solves an army can indeed paralyze the combat effectiveness of an army and cause chaos. But in the same way, if it can solve all the soldiers in an army, then the empty officers are also worthless.

According to William's temporarily revised battle plan, the soldiers of the Fourth Army of Darbion were obviously useful. So if you can, of course, you must retain these soldiers as much as possible. As for the middle and upper-level officers and generals, they are the most threatening existence, so they are not in William's plan.

The sound of the leather ripped apart by the sword, sounded slightly in the camp.

Although is not very strong, it is already enough to attract some people's attention.

Immediately afterwards, the smell of blood also began to permeate the camp.

At this time, even the six heads of mercenary regiments standing outside the camp can smell the pungent blood in the air, in addition to the moist moisture in the air, so they are the enemy soldiers who have settled in the camp. How could the commander not smell it?

Vaguely, the sound of weapon collisions from inside the barracks rang out one after another, accompanied by loud and hasty shouts.

"Hey, do you still need to work hard in the end?" The head of the Yemei Mercenary Group sighed helplessly.

"Leave these things to me." The burly middle-aged man gave a grin, then took off a horn from his waist, leaned to his mouth and blew it.

"Woo——Woo——"

The sound of the horn, finally completely tore the peace of the last moment of dawn.

The violent stepping sound began to sound, although the sound was not as neat and coherent as the steel wings and the thunder lion, but in terms of momentum, it was not inferior to the two extremely powerful armies under Sean. A large number of warriors wearing black armor and holding a long-handled battle axe began to appear on the horizon.

As the burly man lifted the tomahawk that had been inserted on the ground a long time ago, and waved his hand forward, this black wave chao finally rushed towards the barracks where the Fourth Army of Dabion was stationed like a tsunami.

.....

The sky, just turned up white.

Tianse, it is not yet completely bright.

But standing on the wall of Void City, you can see the scenery like sunset.

It was a continuous fire.

The raging flames are burning completely, dyeing the entire sky into a blushing scene like sunset clouds.

Sean looked at the flames stupidly, and from the corner of his eyes that bounced slightly, it could be judged that his mood at the moment was obviously not very calm. It was not until last night that he said that the 15,000 people who came with him this time were soldiers of the Fourth Legion of Darbion, did he know that four of the six mercenary regiments employed by William this time were nothing. Simple angle se, but he clearly remembered that the flags hanging on the camp at that time were not the flags he was familiar with.

He always thought that he had successfully entered Sean's core system. But he didn't know until now that all this was not as simple as he thought. Perhaps if William had not hired those four famous mercenary regiments, or perhaps there was no mercenary regiment called Red Scorpion in it, then the 15,000 soldiers of the Fourth Legion of Darbion that he brought with him would indeed be true. Can give Sean a surprise.

But unfortunately, there is no possibility in this world.

In other words, even if he can surprise Sean, he can't kill Sean.

Because he already knew the identity of the middle-aged man standing next to Sean at this moment, who he had never seen before, and now finally knows his name.

Bannock, the Paladin of the Bulwark.

Looking at him in heavy armor and equipment, you know how difficult it is to kill Sean under his protection. In particular, this man is also a demon hunter, which shows that his concentration can be highly concentrated under any circumstances, and he will never be distracted or slack.

At this moment, when the skyrocketing fire was burning, Thain knew that the 15,000 people of Darbion's Fourth Army were completely planted in the hands of Sean and William. In the original plan, these five thousand people were naturally to be killed, but after knowing that it was the Fourth Legion of Darbion, William actually had the intention of surrendering-of course, this is not the case under any circumstances. What may be accomplished, but with the joint hands of Red Scorpion and Sean, it is not difficult at all.

The answer is still poisoning.

The food eaten before, plus the medicine that pretended to be a doctor afterwards, both the food and medicine are mixed with poisonous ingredients. And when these two poisons are mixed together, they form a highly poisonous cyclical nature. If these people want to survive, they must follow Sean's command. Only in this way can they obtain the antidote. Of course, Thain believes that with Sean's personality, it is impossible for him to detoxify these people once. For long-term use, he must use periodic detoxification.

There is no doubt that these soldiers who know the truth will eventually choose to join Sean's command.

And this, but a total of 10,000 Jing Rui soldiers!

When he thought that he had brought Sean a source of 10,000 Jing Rui soldiers, Thain had an urge to draw himself.

"You did a good job." Sean stretched out his hand and patted Thain on the shoulder, recalling Thain who was still in thought back to reality.

"My lord, I don't think these 10,000 people are willing to surrender." Thain has a feeling of lifting a rock and smashing himself in the foot, and this feeling is the second time. And for the first time, it naturally meant that he took people to chase down his relatives, and brought the things in the treasure treasury to Sean. If he had known that there was a set of angel armor in it, he would definitely not get close to Xiao. Grace and killed his own relatives.

However, there are no ifs in the world.

Wrong one step, you lose all the games.

This is the game.

"It doesn't matter." Sean shrugged. "Even if there are only five thousand people, you can form a powerful army.... Didn't Clough's Cecilia Guards have suffered heavy losses before, this time this batch People can just give Clover. With these people's military literacy and combat effectiveness and Clover's abilities, they can officially appear on the battlefield in less than a month. This is definitely a timely rain for us."

Thain looked constipated.

"Indeed." William nodded. "In terms of strength alone, there are Yemei, Red Scorpion, Wild Wolf, Fierce Bear and those two are purely for the number of people. We are no less inferior to any of the current Darbion Kingdom. A powerful earl, even in terms of the quality of the army, we have a level comparable to those of the powerful marquis of the Kingdom of Darbion. As for the territory of the Principality of Ryan, except for Asuna-sama and the commander of the Holy Wall, as well as those shown in the intelligence. Besides personally, there are few people who can compare with me....When Cloff is ready, we can formally confront the fellows of the southern nobles of Darbion."

"Heh, don't forget we still have two hole cards."

When he heard Sean say the word "hole card", Thain's heart jumped suddenly, because he didn't even know what the two hole cards were!

"My lord, urgent report!"

A sudden shout made Xiao En's brow suddenly raised, but when he turned around, he saw a red-seed scroll letter being presented in the hands of an officer.

Red se, which represents military emergency report.

William quickly snatched it, then opened it, and his face instantly became yin sinking: "It seems that we can't wait for Clover to be ready."

"what happened?"

William handed the note in his hand, which was obviously passed through magic communication, to Sean.

The note is not big, it can even be said to be very thin and light, but when Sean holds it in his hand, he can feel the heavy weight on it.

There are only two sentences in , but the scribbled handwriting can be faintly distinguished. The content on this note is very hastily written.

——Hiero was occupied, two fortresses were breached, three thousand guards died four hundred in battle, five hundred routs, and the rest surrendered. The main enemy force is the 35,000 Darbion Fourth Legion, with a total strength of 50,000. It has deployed a defensive layout around Hierro, and the Jederby has completely fallen.

"It seems that you were completely used." Sean took a deep breath, and then handed the note to Thain.

Seeing what was written on the note, Thain's face became extremely difficult to look like: "Hela Nugus!"

"It should be using the guise of secretly transporting troops to Mitchlin City, and at the same time transporting the remaining soldiers of the Fourth Legion of Darbion to Yedby." William frowned and thought about it, and he also had the answer in his heart. The reason why we were not discovered was that we had adopted similar tactics as we used to lead in Suoan. These soldiers were disguised and dispersed, and then they gathered and launched a surprise attack, which caught us by surprise."

"Besides, you should know all about Thain's actions." Shaun added, "Otherwise, he wouldn't attack as soon as Thain arrived in the Void City. This is a double trap. ... the other side. There must be someone from the Nugus family planted beside Thain."

Yad Nugus!

Sion's pupils shrank suddenly. At this moment, if he still didn't understand why this kind of task, which was not a big deal, would send an excellent child of the Nugus family over, then he was really a fool. And for a long time, Thain also knew that Yad was here to monitor him, but he still did not expect that Yad could have such another role!

"I know who it is." Thain exhaled. At this moment, he also knew that he was not completely trusted on either Sean's side or Hela's side. He thought he had everything in control, but The feeling of being treated as a * by both sides really took a big blow to his self-esteem. But because he is a smart man, he knows exactly what he will do next so that he won't even have the value of being a * on Sean's side.

"Yad Nugus. Hela Nugus' cousin, although he is a member of the side family, he is actually a more talented person. I used to think that he was just the person who was in charge of monitoring my actions, so I didn't dare to bring him this time into the city. I didn't expect..." Thain lowered his head, "I'm sorry!"

"It doesn't make any sense to say this now. The most important thing is what we are going to do next." Sean also sighed helplessly in his heart. Thain is indeed a very smart person, and he is extremely capable in all aspects. Such a person's allegiance is definitely something that any lord wants, but Sean knows very well that the red halo on Thain's body is not a joke at all. This is a time bomb, if it weren't for him to have real eyes. If he had killed Thain long ago, how dare to keep such a person by his side.

"Hella is indeed very smart. Instead of attacking the Daj collar, which has almost no military strength at present, he chose the Yedby collar." William said in a deep voice. For us, there is no value other than a rich territory, but for the Darbion Kingdom, it is a strategically important place equivalent to the Chiraff....This territory is currently being renewed by Darbion. Retaken, this is equivalent to saying that whether it's the Dayi collar or the Tinky collar, even the Panda collar is completely within the opponent's attack range. It can even be said that because the Yeder is closer to the Void City, the opponent is fully capable. Attack directly on the void city."

"What do you mean... We are currently in Void City all the forces restrained?"

"You can say that." William nodded, "The opponent's current strength is 50,000, but our Void City is only 60,000 including the 10,000 just captured, and there is no advantage in military strength at all. So if we still want to divide our troops to protect Dayi leader, the opponent will definitely attack the Void City without hesitation.... In this way, we can only abandon Dayi leader."

"In this case, aren't they in danger in Florence?"

"It's not just Florence." William shook his head, "Don't forget that the Soan collar is next to the Daj collar."

"This....."

"Although we have eaten the 15,000 soldiers of the Fourth Army of Dabion, we are considered to have won this battle, but in the overall situation we have lost this war. Unexpectedly, Hela Nugus There is also this trick. Before her general trend was completely offset by me, she seized the opportunity and once again took the upper hand." William sighed helplessly, "At this time, even I have to admit. I lost this round."

Is there really such a big gap between the seventh and tenth?

Hearing William's words, Sean couldn't help feeling a little surprised.

"However, we just lost a war. We haven't completely failed in this battle." After William took a deep breath, a drunken red appeared on his face, and his eyes became unusually bright. Get up, "You now find a way to contact Florence immediately and ask him to retreat from Tinci, and temporarily give up the territory.... On the side of Suoan, I will contact Fred personally.... As for Thain, you return immediately. Dai leader, be prepared to take over Florence, your hidden troop may not be able to use it as a surprise soldier."

Because of agreeing to Hela's tactics of concealing the sky, Thain naturally wanted to vacate the 5,000 soldiers of his troops first. But it was a pity that he was disbanded in this way. Therefore, under William's plan, these five thousand people were prepared to be used as marvelous soldiers. However, the current situation of the battle is changing too fast, and obviously there is no way to hide it anymore. It comes in handy immediately.

A series of orders were quickly ordered by William, without the slightest confusion and panic.

Even, under the calm and calm command of William and Sean, the panic that had gradually spread was completely calmed down.

Sean, who has nearly 100,000 troops, can already clearly see the hideous outline of a war beast after it has been fully operational at this time.

And on the beacon tower of the tallest tower in Void City, wolf smoke has slowly risen.

Chapter 363: .The tenth counterattack

In this era, the concept of Parllay is not original by Sean.

In the territory of the Zenas Empire, beacon towers, post stations, and military post roads constitute a huge intelligence network covering all corners of the entire empire, and this huge intelligence network also allows the entire Zenus Empire to completely control the territory. And all situations abroad. To some extent, the Zenas Empire does not believe in the power of magic, and this set of methods that require a huge investment in military expenditure is certainly not likely to be absorbed and adopted by other countries that admire magic.

Shaun, just chose a compromise.

This kind of compromise is the method that all players like and are best at.

Of course, the setting of the beacon will actually have many obstacles. It is not that the function of the beacon is omnipotent. This is why the Zenas Empire still has military post roads and post stations. Fortunately, Sean's territory is not too big at present, so he doesn't need to consider other obstacles for the beacon tower, just draw a gourd in the same way.

The sky is still sunny.

The bonfire of the beacon tower is as bright as a lighthouse. Even if it is a sunny morning, you can still see the shining light on the tallest newly built tower in Void City from thousands of miles away.

A very young man looked astonished when he saw the light ignited on the tower: "How did the beacon tower be lit? The time is wrong?"

The other young man who was closing his eyes with a piece of grass in his mouth listened to the words of his companion. He jumped up with a carp, spit out the grass that was still chewing in his mouth, and looked into the distance with his head sideways.

At this distance, of course he could not see the Void City, and it was also impossible to see the tower and the beacon tower. However, because the fuel used in the beacon tower is not ordinary fuel, at this distance he can also see the orange red se light in the distance, and he seems to have seen the blazing flames in the beacon tower. .

"This time is really not quite right." Another young man who was slightly older than these two also frowned, and said in a deep voice, "According to Lord William's instructions, we will have more than two months. The rest period. Now that the beacon is suddenly lit, I am not ready here, and those recruits obviously have not been able to fully integrate into the team..."

"We are not the same." The man who was still holding a root of grass sighed. "Although it is a good thing to expand our army in order to cope with the war, many of them are recruits and have no experience in the war. If you are going to the battlefield at this level, I am afraid that you will suffer heavy losses."

"If the three of you join forces, you won't lose a lot."

A female voice suddenly sounded.

The three people on this plain were immediately taken aback, and quickly stood up straight, and at the same time saluted Rina, who was walking towards them.

Today's Rina does not wear that angel armor, but wears a black and red military uniform.

This is a new masterpiece created by Sean and William recently. The shape of the military uniform is a template of the improved design of the military uniforms of the Zenus Empire and the Millennium Covenant Empire, not the uniform used by the Ministry of Ryan.

This military uniform is obviously tailor-made for Rina. The trousers make her legs look more slender. On the feet are a pair of black mountain boots, and the upper body is lined with a white sequin. On the outside is a dark black shirt. The cuffs of the outer shirt are about three millimeters shorter than the cuffs of the inner shirt, revealing a circle of white shirt cuffs. Although the front of the outer shirt has six gold buttons on both sides, Rina did not button it up, because that would make her  appear fuller, which made Rina very uncomfortable. In addition, there are red se lines on the cuffs, neckline and placket of the outer shirt.

Rena in a military uniform, although not as full of awe-inspiring aura as wearing angel armor, but the whole person is more charming and heroic. The military uniform was originally equipped with a long windbreaker, but apparently Rina did not wear this windbreaker today.

Military uniform, this is the job that has been put on the itinerary in Shaun's territory. It's just that because of the tight war situation, although an order has been placed for the workshop in the Void City, only a dozen sets have been temporarily produced for the captains of each legion to change their clothes. As for the soldiers under his command, they have not yet been equipped. .

Basically, this is a set of clothing that can be applied to any occasion in non-war situations and can symbolize identity at the same time. After all, it is impossible for Rina to wander around the street wearing that suit of angel armor weighing tens of kilograms every day-the same is true for other soldiers.

"Although I haven't received the exact news from Lord William, it is certain that the war has indeed started." Rina glanced at the three people standing in front of her, and then said in a deep voice, "No need to think about it. Too much, as long as you are responsible for your own work."

"Yes!" The three of them responded in unison.

Looking at the reaction of the three people, Rina swept the three people's eyes with a kind of evil spirits again, which made them all raise their throats. Perhaps feeling their nervousness, Rina did not continue to look at it, but she said: "Next time, I don't want to see you dressed in such sloppy clothes. The military uniforms specially made for us by Lord William and Lord Lord are just for consideration. We can't wear armor all the time, so you either don't wear this uniform, but if you do, I hope you can take this uniform more seriously!"

"Yes!" The three of them looked somewhat embarrassed.

These three people are naturally Stalin, Aldolf and Knok.

As a new generation of generals under Sean, second only to Alfred, Rena, Anno, and Clover, Stalin, Aldolf, and Knok are also in the military system that already have a certain degree of influence. Existence, especially in the minds of the young people in the villages and towns led by Chiraf, these three are synonymous with "idols". At present, the army of these three people can be expanded, except partly because of the permission and deployment of William, but also the recruits drawn from Chiraf by the three people relying on their own influence.

When retreated from the leader of Chiraf, almost all the young and middle-aged in several villages and towns followed these three people to evacuate together. Currently, those who are still in the villages and towns of Chiraf are elderly people who have been unable to travel long distances. Naturally, there is no extra material left. Therefore, although the southern nobility of Dabion will retake it without a single soldier. Chiraf collar, but their army has not received the slightest supplement at present, and they still need to rely on the military supply line from the southern rear of the kingdom.

However, even though these three people have grown up to be alone, and can even command a force of two or three thousand people, these three people still fear when they face Rina.

This is not just because of the weak personal strength of these three people, it is completely because the three of them were also Rina's subordinates, so they were once trained by Rina's cao. When they saw Rina, the three of them naturally remembered the pain they had when they were recruits—but if you want to talk about resentment, there must be no. On the contrary, while fearing Rina, they are more grateful in their hearts. , Because if there was no strict guidance from Rina at the beginning, naturally there would be no them now.

Even today, in terms of rank and status, these three people can already sit on an equal footing with Rena, Alfred and others, but when facing Rina, they are still like recruits back then, without any Haughty arrogance.

So in the face of Rena's admonition, the three of them bowed their heads like good babies and did not dare to say anything. They did not have the demeanor of being a military commander.

"Master Rina!" While Rina was still admonishing the three, an officer rushed over.

"What's the matter?" Rina turned around and asked in a deep voice.

"Emergency report." The officer immediately handed the information sent through magical messaging to Rina.

When I saw the red se mark on this note, not only Rena, but also Aldolf, Stalin, and Knok's faces became solemn. Although they all knew that the ignition of the beacon tower meant that the war started ahead of schedule, but they did not expect that the following combat order would actually be marked as an emergency report of the red se, which was designed by William. The intelligence priority is already at the highest level.

Unfolded the note and glanced at it, Rina's eyes have become sharp.

She did not hesitate at all. She immediately turned to Aldolf, Stalin, and Knok and said, "You go back and prepare now. The war has officially started, and there is no time for you to continue to linger.... Aldolf, yours. The Legion must be launched before tonight. No matter what method you use, within a week you must break through the first two lines of defense that Darbion has set up at Chiraf!"

"Yes!" Aldolf saluted, and after a deep voice, he immediately ran away.

Since his legion is the vanguard of the counterattack of the Chiraff leader, and must be launched tonight, there is not much time left for him now.

"Stalin!"

"Yes!" Stalin replied in a deep voice.

"You must rush to the back valley hills within three days, and build a defensive line there, firmly resist the enemy that may be brought from Berbice, and fight for Aldolf to attack the enemy's line of defense. Time... At least you have to hold on for four days, after four days you can evacuate and join Aldolf!"

"Yes!" Stalin's face changed slightly, but he responded quickly and left quickly.

Huigu Hill is a hilly area located in the northern part of the Chiraf Neck, close to the Berbish Neck. It is the closest to the second line of defense deployed by the Darbion Kingdom in the Chraf Neck. Reinforce the defenders led by Chiraf, then you must pass from here. Otherwise, you can only take a detour from the Fallen Flower Valley into the Chiraf Neck, but then it will take half a month if you want to make reinforcements.

Half a month, this is enough for Aldorf, who is best at attacking warfare, to dismantle the second line of defense of the Kingdom of Darbion under the Chiraff collar two or three times.

So the real difficulty of the problem lies in the Huigu hills.

Because Knok knows very well that there are still 30,000 enemy troops in the Berbice leader. If all of these troops are coming in, it will be impossible to stop the enemy with the first corps with only 4,000 men at present— Let alone four days, I'm afraid the 1st Corps will be removed from the list the next day. But now that Rina has given the order to die, it shows that Stalin has no room for rejection or maneuver, so even if he is dead, he can only die in the Huigu hills.

But for Stalin, who is best at defensive warfare, this task is really only entrusted to him.

"Nock."

"Yes!" After three people left two, naturally there was only one Knock left.

"You also set out. In terms of strength, your Second Infantry Regiment is the least, and you are actually not very good at attacking or defensive battles." Rina's voice was a little low, "But you also have what they can't. It's within reach, so I won't give you any hard indicators.... In this battle, your ziyou degree is very high, so try to help them both. I hope... when the war is over, I will still be able to watch To the three of you."

Looking at Rina, Knok was silent for several seconds before saluting Rina, and then said: "I see, my lord."

After that, Knok also left.

"My lord..." It seemed that Rena was feeling very heavy. The officer responsible for sending the information was silent for ten minutes before finally couldn't help but speak, "What are we going to do next?"

"You immediately go back and send the order to get everyone ready, and our troops will also start tonight." Rina said in a deep voice, "This time the war is still a tragic * battle, because we will go deep into Bo Bess led, completely cut off the retreat of the Berbs led enemy and the reinforcements of other territories to the Berbs led."

Hearing Rina's words, the officer's eyes widened in disbelief: "My lord, although we are a cavalry unit, but...but we only have a thousand people..."

"I know." Rina's hand holding the paper slipped slightly, and the whole paper was quickly squeezed out of shape or even shattered. "This is Lord William's order.... We only need to be within this week. It is enough to expand and stabilize the results as much as possible, and reinforcements will arrive in a week."

"I see, my lord!" The officer saw Rina's appearance, and of course he knew that Rina was in a bad mood, so he turned and left without talking nonsense.

If someone else dares to use a thousand cavalry to go deep behind the enemy and try to injure and stop the enemy, this officer will definitely slap the opponent and ask him if he wakes up. But since it was what their most trusted commander Rina said, then he believed that their entire first cavalry unit would definitely not have the slightest doubt, and reinforcements would arrive in a week, which is undoubtedly a booster.

Looking at the back of the officer leaving, Rina sighed slightly.

As someone who has participated in several real military meetings, Rina is naturally very aware of William's overall strategic plan, but the current situation and orders are clearly inconsistent with the third phase plan she knows. Although the third phase of the plan, in a sense, she, Aldolf, Stalin, Knok, and the upcoming Anno, a total of 23,000 people, would eat Chilafling and Berbis. Lead two enemy forces totaling 70,000.

However, in the original plan, after Anno arrived, they took the lead in attacking and directly consumed the 40,000 garrisons led by Chiraf, and it was also Anno's steel that was responsible for blocking the reinforcements of Berbice in the Huigu hills. wing. And these three thousand of them, after eating the enemy army led by Chiraf, went around from the Fallen Flower Valley to the enemy's back, and flanked Anno back and forth.

Although this way, there will still be a certain degree of loss, and it may even cause two or three armies to withdraw in the next war.

However, after consuming the enemy's 70,000 troops in one breath, and the success of the first and second phases of the plan, the private soldiers of the Southern Noble faction of Darbion, without counting the Boulder family, are left with only ten. At most 50,000, this number can no longer pose any threat to Sean and others. Because in William's plan, when the war progressed to this stage, it should be that the national war between the two countries officially broke out. For Sean, who has already occupied six territories, they only need to do a good job and wait. The fruits of victory in this war between the two countries will do.

But now, the plan has obviously changed.

Rena knows that they must win this battle no matter what, and they must do all they can to expand the result within a week.

Because this is a counterattack from William.

is the final fuse for forcing the official war between the Principality of Ryan and the Kingdom of Darbion!

Chapter 364: .Aldorf's Blitz

Aldolf Hitler, is now one of the eight generals in the entire military system under Sean. From the point of view of having a surname, we can know that this young man's origin should not be bad, because in this world common people generally don't have a surname.

But here, no one cares about Aldolf's past, and no one asks why he joined the White Wing Mercenary Corps. In this era where results are only valued, people only know that Aldolf Hitler only took more than a year to become one of the eight generals who can be on an equal footing with Alfred, Rena and others, and even now belongs to him. The infantry cavalry regiment has also been expanded to 5,000 troops.

Although this force is considered to be given the default permission of William, the provision of armaments is not very sufficient.

If divided by the armament level of each kingdom, Aldolf's infantry cavalry regiment can only be regarded as the second echelon army, which is the so-called second-line legion. There must be a gap compared to the three first-line armies under Sean, like Iron Wings, Thunder Lion, and Cecilia Guards.

Just for this, Aldorf did not complain at all.

He also knows that Sean and William are not easy.

So the entire infantry cavalry regiment, except for the thousand sets of armaments provided by William at the beginning and some necessary support later, the rest was made by Aldolf himself. Therefore, this infantry cavalry regiment, which is regarded as a regular army in William's eyes, has a very speechless mix-and-match style-it is not so much an army, as it is a mercenary regiment, from this point of view. It can be seen that Aldolf is very adept at learning the white-winged mercenary regiment in the past.

But despite this, the combat effectiveness of this army is not compromised at all.

Aldorf played his aggression and offense to the fullest.

In just two days, he completed 50% of the mission goal.

The first line of defense deployed by the southern aristocratic faction of the Kingdom of Dabion in the Chiraf collar. Has completely collapsed.

The Chiraff collar is just an oval mark on the map, but in fact the terrain here is hilly mountains and jungles. The land is relatively barren. There are only three registered villages and towns in the territory. The other two are not registered, but It is no stranger to those who live in Chiraffner. And because of the barrenness of this territory, this territory has never been valued by the Kingdom of Darbion before Sean took over the Rift Valley. Naturally, no one would want to learn about this territory in detail. .

Naturally, it is naturally impossible for the Kingdom of Darbion to lay out a perfect line of defense in this territory-after William made a field inspection. The tactical layout he made also allowed Aldorf, Stalin, and Knok to conduct various interspersed sports battles here, instead of focusing on defense.

It is an earl who is in charge of the defense of the Chiraff leader, and he does not know what he thinks, but actually builds three lines of defense on this territory. And the first line of defense was about 30 kilometers away from the territory of Panda Territory from Chilaf: this is a line of defense that is one mile long, with a total investment of 10,000 troops.

Although it relies on the fortifications that have been built. In terms of geographical advantages, the Darbion Army is undoubtedly more dominant.

But the concepts of offense and defense are completely different.

As the offensive side, Aldorf can attack anytime and anywhere he wants. But as the defensive side. Of course, it is impossible for Darbion to have such a choice. They can only choose to use their existing means to resist Aldorf's attack with all their strength. So from the beginning of the war, the initiative was not in the Darbion Army, but in Aldorf's hands.

Aldorf did not spend too much effort. He just concentrated his forces like conventional operations, and then broke through to a point-because the line of defense was stretched, this first line of defense had an advantage in strength. And fortifications do rely on. But compared to Aldorf, it is still relatively weak. Of course, given the size of the infantry cavalry regiment before the withdrawal from Chiraf, this line of defense was definitely more than enough to block Aldorf.

After all, at that time, the infantry cavalry regiment commanded by Aldorf was only a thousand men in size.

But even so, the infantry cavalry regiment still has nearly a thousand troops lost.

In fact, if it weren't for Rena's death order to break through two lines of defense within a week. With Aldorf's ability, the battle damage can actually be controlled within five hundred people, and even the death toll will not necessarily exceed two hundred. It was only because of the death order from Rina that in this battle alone, the infantry cavalry regiment killed more than 600 people and slightly injured nearly 200. The rest were severely wounded who could not participate in the next battle.

Of course, the record is equally brilliant.

Annihilated more than two thousand enemies and captured one thousand enemy troops. The pivot point of the entire line of defense was completely penetrated. Although the remaining seven thousand people organized two effective counterattacks, they still could not help Aldorf. He took advantage of his familiarity with Chiraf's terrain to fight an anti-siege and annihilation battle, resulting in fewer than 5,000 soldiers who fled back to the second line of defense.

Then, two hours after breaking through the first line of defense, Aldorf set off again.

Dabion's second line of defense is located in the middle of the territory of Chiraf, and surrounds a heavy defense line opened around the valley and hills. There are two registered small towns in the valley hills. These two small towns are located on the east and west sides of the hills. According to Aldorf's intelligence, the Darbion Army obviously uses these two small towns as supply points. It is temporarily unknown whether the expropriation will be carried out or used as a temporary base.

In the valley hills, about a hundred miles deep into the north, it is Huigu hills.

Huigu hills, valley hills, and highland hills, these three terrains are all part of the once-fallen mountain range, but due to many natural disasters such as mountain weathering and earthquakes, these three hills appear. In the direction east of the valley hills, there is another part of the Xiri Luohua Mountain Range. Although this part is still relatively intact, it can no longer be regarded as a mountain range. In the mouth of the Chiraf, this part has been changed. The name is Luohua Valley, which is integrated with the valley and hills.

Go back. That is the territory of a marquis of the Kingdom of Darbion.

After breaking through the first line of defense, both sides of the war will naturally know the situation of the war.

So Chiraf, who was originally in a dispersed situation, led the private armies of other expensive Darby tribes, and naturally immediately increased troops to the second line of defense.

Just before the increase in troops was completed, Aldorf had already launched an attack on the pivot point of the second line of defense.

Time is the third morning since Aldorf sent troops from Panda.

The two sides invested 19,000 troops.

Aldorf four thousand; Darby's expensive private soldiers fifteen thousand, of which nearly five thousand are remnants who fled from the first line of defense.

This is a war of absolute disparity in strength.

So there was no suspense, and finally ended with Aldorf's retreat. The fighting between the two sides was not fierce, and nearly a hundred corpses were left behind.

And just when the opponent laughed at Aldorf's uncontrollable ability, Aldorf was the commander of the infantry cavalry regiment. But a small discussion meeting has already started.

"The composition of the enemy's forces is obviously wrong." At the meeting, Aldorf directly unfolded the map, and then pointed to the position where he had marked the red circle. The troops are scattered across the three lines of defense. The first line of defense has invested 10,000 troops, and the purpose is already obvious. It just serves as a buffer. In order to give them more reaction time, but this It does nothing for us at all."

Participants were several similarly young officers. They were Aldorf's subordinate commanders, the so-called captains, and they were the command center officers of the entire infantry cavalry regiment.

"According to the known intelligence, the enemy's reserve force should be 10,000. Located in the Luohua Valley, in addition to ensuring the safety of the logistics route, it also has the possibility of defending our surprise attack on the Berbice leader and bypassing the attack. But this is the case. Because of our frontal attack, we are now on our way to reinforcements. It is initially expected that we will arrive here in about four days." A young officer said, "By then, the enemy's strength will reach 25,000. ... This is no longer to the extent that we can solve it."

"We only wiped out the enemy's 5,000 troops in front of us yesterday. If we count 25,000, that's 30,000 troops." Another officer said with some confusion, "Where is the remaining 10,000." ?"

"This is the goal I want to talk about." Aldorf said in a deep voice, "At present, there are only two places that can accommodate this 10,000-strength hiding spot."

While saying so, Aldorf waved his hand and drew two blue circles on the map.

The positions of the two blue circles are exactly on the left and right sides of the red circle, that is, the east and west sides of the valley and hills. On the map, here are two registered towns. However, the young and middle-aged in the small town have already followed Aldolf, Stalin, and Nok to leave, and those who are still in the town are old, weak, sick and disabled.

"here....."

Immediately, there is a slight change in the face.

"These two places have invested as much as 10,000 troops. It is estimated that the two small towns should have 5,000 troops each." Aldolf continued, "From the perspective of the size of the troops, these two small towns should be against Darbion. It has a very large strategic value, otherwise it would not be stationed here. I guess this should be the enemy's supply station. As long as we destroy these two places, we can cause a great deal of damage to the enemy."

"Then commander, which one shall we attack first?" someone asked.

"It doesn't make any difference which place to attack first, anyway, our goal is to take these two small towns in one day." Aldorf said in a deep voice.

To capture two small towns that have already deployed fortifications in one day, and the enemy's total strength is as much as 10,000. This kind of thing sounds like a idiot. But all the officers present did not show any shock or hesitation after hearing what Aldolf said. Instead, everyone looked excited. It seemed that as long as Alfred said this, they would definitely be able to. Do it so.

"I have calculated that the normal distance between the two small towns is two days, but if we use horses, we can rush from one small town to another in one day." Aldorf said. "Now the enemy doesn't know that we have horses. After all, it's not suitable for cavalry operations in Chiraf. In addition, we have just ended the war at this pivot point, and we still ended up with our retreat, so At this time, the other party will definitely feel that we are taking a break, so we must make good use of this opportunity to take down one of the small towns in one fell swoop."

"Yes!"

Everyone suddenly promised.

When Aldolf announced the end of this meeting, the whole army sent troops again after five minutes.

Only this time, they did not launch an attack towards the pivot point of the second line of defense, but turned towards the east. In fact, as Aldolf expected, the enemy force at the pivot point of the second line of defense obviously did not notice the sudden disappearance of Aldolf's unit, because in the common sense of normal operations, no unit can experience it. After a fierce battle, you can go to another battle without any rest.

If it is clear from the beginning that it will conduct a long and protracted battle, then any force will try to avoid fierce battles as much as possible.

Of course, if there is a huge disparity in military strength, then this is an exception.

However, for Aldolf's infantry cavalry regiment, as long as it is not a serious injury that cannot continue to fight, then even if it is wounded on their body, they can immediately go into another battle. To put it simply, being in a state of combat anytime and anywhere requires almost no rest, which is the biggest special feature of Aldolf's infantry cavalry regiment.

Because the so-called blitzkrieg does not mean that they end the battle very quickly.

refers to the fact that the time between their fights is very short.

This is the true essence of Aldolf Blitz!

Chapter 365: .Rena deep behind enemy lines

Under the cover of night, a cavalry is galloping.

Although the size of the cavalry is not large, it is not small either. There is still a scale of nearly a thousand horses. This black and oppressive piece, like another thick ink splashed in the dark night environment, carries a breath that is suppressed to the extreme, like the deep chill that tears the space.

The cavalry is not slow in running, but there is no thunderous noise.

is as quiet as a ghost force.

If you look carefully, you can find that the horseshoes of the horse are covered with a white canvas, and there is a material that can absorb the sound source inside. However, this kind of props generally used by night raiding cavalry troops can only reduce the sound of cavalry when they attack. Once the scale exceeds 300, there will be no thunder and vibration, but the ground vibration like an earthquake and The billowing smoke and dust is also unavoidable.

But all this, for this cavalry unit, there is no sign at all.

Not to mention the vibration of the ground when the cavalry rushed, even the smoke and dust did not produce a large-scale envelope. As for the sound, it is even more subtle, which is difficult to detect as long as a hundred meters away.

Obviously, what this cavalry unit wraps on the hoof of the horse is a brand-new special material.

At least, it has never been discovered in any previous battle.

The leader of the cavalry unit is a rider wearing a dark black se cloak.

The cloak covered his whole body densely, and the brim of the hood was also very low, it was impossible to observe his identity at all. The only thing that can be seen is that when the wind blows occasionally, the brilliance can be seen from the cloak that is slightly raised.

Soon, this cavalry unit, led by the leading horseman, came to a hilly plain.

Seeing the arrival of this large force, several cavalymen who had been waiting for a long time in this hilly plain immediately approached with their horses.

This is fifteen cavalry.

Generally in a standard cruise formation, ten to twenty riders form a reconnaissance team, and only the stronger ones will be allowed to ride alone. The three standard patrol formations are a standard formation. They will maintain a certain distance from each other so that they can support each other in case of special circumstances.

So there are fifteen cavalry waiting here. This is obviously the vanguard reconnaissance team sent by this large cavalry force.

"My lord." After these cavalymen approached, one of them stepped forward to greet the rider in the dark black cloak.

"Where are the others?" the rider said.

Listen to the voice, it is the voice of female xing. And when she stretched out her hand to lift the cloak, she also revealed the face under the hood-it was a face that was not particularly beautiful, but the facial features were very coordinated, and it looked very attractive. She has short hair of flaxseed, originally this hair is shoulder-length, but maybe because of combat considerations, she cut this hair short. At this time, you can see the unevenness in the back of the head. Qi's broken hair.

This woman is naturally the strongest person under Sean's command other than Xuefanio.

Rena.

The unit that followed her was naturally the first cavalry regiment led by Panda.

At this time, the "other people" Rina asked obviously refers to the other two teams in the reconnaissance formation.

Rina is naturally inferior to Aldolf, Stalin, and Knok in the talents of leading the army. So although she is one of the eight generals of Panda, she still has a very obvious gap with the others. Of course, in fact, one of the eight generals is comparable to her, but Anno is a Northland barbarian. This race is basically a group of guys who are not afraid of death. No matter how large it is, there will be no mismanagement. Therefore, this is actually a force that needs the most cao heart.

It's just that, although I am still very clear about my position. She knew that she was not very suitable for such talents as commander-in-chief, so she didn't let the size of her cavalry squad expand. She has always maintained the level of one thousand people. And it is precisely because she clearly understands her own shortcomings that Rena understands the principle of "less talking and doing more". No matter how rigid, some of her commands are based on the knowledge that William taught her at the beginning, and they are meticulous. implement.

It is like sneaking into the Berbish collar secretly this time. Rena splits one hundred of her guards into two reconnaissance formations and set off first, and secretly inquires about all the situation of the Berbish collar and the dynamics of the garrison along the way. After all, there are nearly a thousand people following her, so you must choose those roads far away from the town along the way, and sometimes even because the terrain is not concealed and not suitable for rest, you must continue to drive at night.

This hill was the first meeting point that Rina chose.

And here, it is actually the deep belly of the Berbish collar. At this time, it has been five nights and four days since she set off from the Iron Winged Army town of Panda collar. Even the long journey and short rest of Ri came, obviously let This cavalry unit has reached a critical point.

"The signal has been sent, and is on the way back." The cavalry who was questioned said.

He is a young man, about the same age as Sean, and he is naturally several years younger than Rena. It's just that among the people present, no one would despise this ordinary-looking blond young man, not only because of his status, but also because of his strength.

He has been following Rina for almost a year. He has already followed Rina when Rina was still in charge of investigating the intelligence work of Dayi. So naturally, he followed Rina through several battles that could truly be called life and death, especially the charge in the Wildlands. The last battle hit him and opened a big hole in his body. If It wasn't for Xuefanio's timely appearance, and his fate was also explained there.

But this kind of experience wandering on the edge of life and death is also of great benefit to him.

After several deadly battles, this young man named Dwight has also reached the pinnacle of silver in the upper ranks, and belongs to a true powerhouse who can only become a lower rank gold. And on one day, he had a whim to gather all these people who had survived the battle with Rina, and formed a guard team belonging to Rina. Only when he found out that he had survived the battle with Rina. Almost every one of these people is at the upper silver level, and even if there is none, they are at the pinnacle of lower silver.

They all know that their talents and various conditions are actually not very good, otherwise they would not choose to become mercenaries or even soldiers today. People with real strength, talents, and talents are either commanders or generals like William and Rena, or they are valued by Sean like Bannock, who choose to become mercenaries or soldiers like them. All belong to mediocre people.

And, the most important point is.

Masters and powerhouses who have grown up to join the army like them, although their fighting style is fierce and killed in one shot, they can hardly get any benefits when facing a real master and powerhouse like Rena. At least as far as Rina is today, she can beat a few high-ranking golden powerhouses with the same level of strength alone. If it is a mediocre military-born powerhouse like Dwight, she can even easily solve a dozen or so. .

This is the gap.

So Dwight is not stupid. He knows that as long as he closely follows Rina, he may not be able to become a strong man like Rina who is deeply dependent on Shaun in the future, but at least he will be valued by William the commander. Even if it doesn't help, as long as Rena doesn't fail for a day, then he doesn't need to worry about his future, or even if he won't be needed.

And their cavalry team, formed by Qingyi se's upper silver master, can already be regarded as the strongest unit in the entire territory. Even if there are only a hundred people, they are much more powerful than the Jingwei company beside the Thunder Master and Clover. If you count the effects of Rina's activation of the aura, only these one hundred people It is enough to defeat any tripolar army with a size of less than a thousand.

Dwight called their guards the Scarlet Knights.

Rena did not object to this. She even confirmed the official knighthood of all members of the Scarlet Knights, so in the First Cavalry, it is an extremely honorable thing to be a member of the Scarlet Knights, which belongs to Rina's personal guard. It's just honor and responsibility. For the most difficult tasks that any 1st Cavalry Regiment needs to face, such as the current reconnaissance work going deep behind enemy lines, Rena naturally entrusts them with extremely tyrannical combat power. Of troops.

This is a kind of trust.

Many marches have made this cavalry unit accustomed to resting on horses, so in this quiet night, no cavalry dismounted, they were all sitting on saddles. Rest on horseback. As other members of the Scarlet Knights gradually returned to the team, the information they brought gradually became complete and detailed.

In the past four days, Berbice has made two large-scale troop movements.

The first time was to assemble south, and the second time was to press in on Panda.

From this point of view, it can be seen that the commander in charge of the 30,000 garrison in the territory of Berbice has a better understanding of how to fight than the one with Chiraff.

The army assembled to the south is two aristocratic private soldiers, with a combined strength of about 15,000. They will directly reinforce the garrison located in the valley hills through the Huigu hills, thus completely defeating Aldolf who is attacking the Chilaf collar on the front battlefield. This force had already formally passed through the territory of the Chilaf Nation two days ago. If there is no accident, it should have had a fortified battle with Stalin's First Corps yesterday afternoon.

At this time, because Rina also has important strategic goals, the knights of the Scarlet Knights did not dare to approach the Chiraff collar rashly. However, they all knew that the First Step Corps only had a size of 4,000, and it was confronted with an attack of 15,000 people. The pressure was completely predictable. If Rina sneaked from behind them at this time, then it should be able to cooperate with Stalin to eat all these five thousand people.

Even if it cannot be eaten, it can at least cause heavy losses and save the First Corps.

But Rina was unable to give such a combat order.

She can't ruin William's rearrangement of the battle.

Because this will only make other people's sacrifices meaningless.

The only thing she can do is to complete the strategic goal given to her by William as quickly as possible, so there may be time to go back and support Stalin.

However, if it is a disaster for Stalin to face these five thousand people, then there is still good news in this war.

That is another private army of Berbice leader nobles who is pressing into Panda leader.

This is an army of 10,000 people.

According to the intelligence, if there is no accident, they will officially enter the land of Pandaria at noon tomorrow. And the next marching route of this enemy army, I'm afraid you can know what they will do without even thinking about it-definitely directly capture the original Panda Town, the current steel wing base, and build a strong defensive stronghold here. . And then, after the 40,000 coalition forces, which must be formed by the confluence of the Berbish and Chilaf, after solving the three forces of Aldolf, Stalin, and Knok, they directly took control of the Gorge Rift.

Presumably, this should be the strategic plan planned by the commander named Hela Nugus.

However, Rina didn't need to think about this kind of competition for each other's strategy and wisdom. The only thing she knew was that Stalin only needed to face 15,000 people, instead of the three that they had planned for the worst in the first place. Ten thousand people. In this way, it is impossible to completely break through the defense line constructed by Stalin within a day. Even if Stalin really cannot hold back to the valley and hills in the end, it will at least delay Aldolf long enough.

Of course, the other news that Rina needs to know is that there are only five thousand people left in Berbice.

The scale of five thousand people, for other troops with a scale of only one thousand people, this is definitely a very difficult problem. But for Rina and her First Cavalry Regiment, this is not a problem at all. Although there will be losses, and it is likely not small, and it is not realistic to wipe out these five thousand people, but the frontal defeat of this force, and even capture the opponent's commander alive, thus blockade Berbice and Darby. On the passage over there, this is still okay.

Once Berbice's collar is completely sealed off, the only way for the enemy to retreat is the Chiraff collar, and as soon as Anno and his steel wings arrive, go through the Fallen Flower Valley of Berbice's collar to go to the Chiraff collar. From the rear, then the Seventy Thousand Dabion Army trapped in these two territories would no longer be able to escape.

Therefore, Rena did not dare to reinforce Stalin.

She can only choose to move on.

Because, about three kilometers in front of this hilly plain, it is the place where the last five thousand garrisons of Berbice lead.

Everyone dismounts, and removes the canvas and special materials wrapped on the horseshoes of the horse. Then everyone took out the prepared dry food and began to eat silently. At the same time, they did not forget to feed the war horse with the high-quality soybean food that had been prepared and rinse the nose and mouth for the war horse. At the same time, they took off the saddle and gently Pat the horse back, so that the horse can relax properly, and these cavalry use the saddle as a pillow, and start to rest on the spot.

Rena and Dwight are the only people who have no rest.

The commander of the Scarlet Knights, the deputy commander of the First Cavalry Regiment, and Rina's most trusted adjutant stood beside Rina.

"After this battle, the next war will be nothing to do with our four troops." Rina said softly.

Dwight was silent.

After this battle, the four units of the First Infantry Regiment, the Second Infantry Regiment, the Infantry Cavalry Regiment, and the First Cavalry Regiment will certainly be severely maimed. It's up. As the captain of Rena's guard, Dwight knew that it was only their four troops that was fine. At that time, Rena was truly liberated.

After all, a strong man who is about to become a strong man in the sanctuary can definitely play an extremely powerful role in the next war.

So as long as Sean is a normal person, then he can't let Rina do nothing in the next war.

Dwight really wants to continue to follow Rena, but there are some things that he can't even think about. The Scarlet Knights' combat power is indeed tyrannical. They can even defeat Alfred's Jing Guard Thunder Lion in a frontal battle, but what about? If the Thunder Lion and the 1st

Cavalry Regiment go to war, it will only be their 1st Cavalry Regiment that will be defeated in the end, because their numbers are too small.

Rena is not good at leading, this is her fatal injury.

It is precisely because of this that Dwight will work very hard to learn a lot of knowledge about the military. And these efforts are very effective for him, for Rena, and even for the entire First Cavalry Regiment. The secret infiltration operation and refusal to support Stalin are all his proposals, not to mention the previous formation. The Scarlet Knights and several feats that turned the tide when Rena failed to command.

It can be said that Dwight's current reputation in the First Cavalry Regiment is second only to Rena.

"Before you formed the Scarlet Knights. I didn't stop it because I wanted to see what your talents are. I was very pleased with the result, because I have seen that your commanding ability is stronger than mine, and your leadership ability is not better than Aldolf's. How inferior you are, you're a natural fit to be a general, but being a deputy commander is really wrong to you." Rina said softly, "I've already proposed to Lord William and Lord Sean, if there are no surprises. , You should be promoted after this battle."

"My lord!" Dwight was taken aback for a while, and then he reacted, "I just want to continue to follow behind you and become a sharp sword for you!"

"You are wrong." Rena shook her head. "The object of your allegiance is Lord Sean, not me.... I am just a sword in Lord Sean's hand. I don't want to hear from you in the future. Said this kind of discourse that can be determined as a betrayal."

Dehuai's characteristic head: "Yes, my lord."

"Actually, the formation of the second cavalry unit has already been put on the agenda. After all, as the only cavalry unit in the territory, the scale cannot always be only a thousand people." Hearing Dwight's words, Rui Na's tone only eased a little, "But Lord William and Lord Sean knew that I had some wishes, so they kept letting me serve as the commander of this cavalry regiment. But I know that my ability is very limited, so I can fight alone. That's what I'm best at. I'm really not good at commanding things like this. If you follow me, the death rate is too high. So I hope you can all have a better future."

Dwight was silent for a while.

"Actually, I am still very happy. Because no matter it is you, Aldolf, Stalin, they all walked out under my command, even the guy Knok who didn't like Lord Shaun in the first place was with me. My subordinates have been tossed hard by me.... If according to Lord William, all four of you should be regarded as my students. I am very proud that I can teach four such excellent students."

After hearing Rina's words, Dwight's unsmiling face finally pulled up a slight smile.

"It's about to dawn, you go to rest." Rina looked up at Tianse, and then said, "After dawn, we are going to set off. The enemy is only three kilometers away from us. In this battle, we must not only win beautiful , And we must reduce unnecessary casualties as much as possible!"

"Yes!"

Dwight, nodding heavily.

When the sky turned white, all the soldiers of the First Cavalry Regiment woke up. All of them didn't say anything, but silently picked up the saddle and bound it to the war horse, washed it briefly, and then fed the war horse. Then they turned on their horses and quickly formed a square formation.

At the forefront of the square is Rena.

She has taken off the cloak on her body, and the brilliance of the angel's armor is completely blooming.

One horse position behind Rena's left is Dwight.

The deputy commander's face turned into a smirk again, perhaps under the influence of Rena, the spear in his hand is also red, and even the light armor on his body is red, and at this time he is holding it. The tip of the spear has been polished to shine.

After the deputy commander, there are a total of ninety-nine riders who also wear red seized light armor and are armed with red seized spears.

They are members of the Scarlet Knights.

After that, there were 900 cavalymen of the First Cavalry Regiment wearing black light armor.

In the First Cavalry Regiment, only members of the Scarlet Knights can use the red se paint.

The breath of solemnity is condensed on this cavalry regiment.

As Rina kicked the horse side lightly, the old horse that had followed Rina for a long time also started to move lightly. Then, the entire cavalry regiment began to move slowly.

This time, they didn't wrap those special materials around the horseshoes, so the sound of horseshoes landing echoed in the air.

And this chucking sound soon began to gradually evolve into a roar.

The First Cavalry Regiment began to accelerate the charge.

Their goal is the enemy base camp three kilometers away.

As long as you capture here, Berbish will be completely occupied!

Chapter 366: . Stalin who perseveres

Stalin is different from Aldolf Hitler.

He was a civilian from Xiaojiaxiaohu, and it is said that his ancestor was a slave at first.

According to the regulations of the Marvel Continent, those who have been slaves throughout their lives will be slaves for generations, so his descendants will also be slaves for generations.

However, this slave ancestor had good luck. He made great contributions in a war and was able to redeem himself as a civilian, so he became Stalin's civilian status. Even the name of Stalin was also followed by his father's name-it is said that the ancestor of Stalin All men are called by this name.

I'm just a commoner, I don't know what the second generation, the third generation, and so on.

Stalin, who was born in the White Wing Mercenary Corps, grew up in the dead, and naturally participated in a lot of battles and even wars, so his war talent and sense of fighting can't be considered weak. It's just that Stalin and Adolf have completely different attitudes on these issues about war. Therefore, they naturally evolved two completely extreme tactical styles. For this reason, the two did not quarrel less, even in the sand table deduction. Have a contest.

Many people think that the relationship between Stalin and Adolf must be very bad.

But in fact, these two people are very good friends.

Especially, when these two people appear on the same battlefield at the same time, Adolf can safely hand over his back to Stalin. Because Adolf knew that as long as Stalin was defending his rear, unless Stalin died in battle, no one would be able to successfully attack his rear.

At this time, on the hills of Huigu, the earth has been stained black.

This is the trace of a lot of blood that has penetrated into the earth and condensed.

In just two days and one night, more than 3,000 people died on this land!

is only the First Step Corps under Stalin's command, and it left more than a thousand corpses here.

One to two battle loss ratio, although it sounds pretty good. But you must know that all of this is based on the geographical position of Stalin's fortifications. And the most important point is that because the enemy did not expect Stalin to lay a defensive formation here to ambush, it suffered a lot when the first encounter broke out. In addition, there was only a team of 7,000 men at the time. The army was advancing, but when the storm was launched the next day when he recovered, Stalin's losses began to become heavy.

According to intelligence, there were only two enemy troops that passed Huigu hills this time. They were a 7,000-man infantry regiment and an 8,000-man mixed infantry regiment, which belonged to the three earls. However, the front commander was two of the three earls, and the relationship between the two seemed to be a bit at odds. This is the key that really allows Stalin to achieve a one-to-two loss ratio.

However, this kind of good thing will probably end today.

Because the commanders of these two regiments have abandoned the previous discord and started to choose cooperation. After all, they had been blocked by Stalin for two days and one night, and a force of 15,000 people was blocked by a force of about 4,000. In addition, two days and one night were wasted, which is a shame for any commander—after all, the outside world would not know that it was only a unit that was actually in charge of the attack. Nor would he bother about the feud between the two commanders. The only thing they will see is the incompetence of these two commanders.

So, the real most fierce war is about to break out.

Bundles of arrows were quickly transported to the forefront of the battlefield, scattered in piles on the small soil slopes piled up nearby. At this time, the soldiers who had been waiting by the side quickly wrapped the cloth strips that had been prepared on the arrows. Then put these arrows in a crock full of kerosene. It only takes about 20 minutes. The kerosene will be completely absorbed by these white cloth strips, and even soak into the iron arrows. When the time comes, as long as you burn it on the fire, it will immediately become a fire arrow.

This kind of pre-war preparations is already familiar to Stalin's First Infantry Corps.

As a defensive army, Stalin had only four thousand people under his command—less than three thousand people are left at this time, but this is also a really good mixed warfare army.

There is a big difference between a mixed corps and a mixed corps. Generally, a mixed corps means that there are more than three types of arms in the corps, so that it can be competent in combat situations under a variety of situations. The mixed war regiment usually refers to a regiment composed of soldiers who are good at using a variety of weapons, just like Clover's Cecilia Guards, it is a very typical mixed war regiment.

Although the First Step Corps is not as good as the Cecilia Guards, the two are essentially the same. It was just different from the sharpness of the Cecilia Guards requested by Clover. Stalin had only two requirements for the First Step Corps: he could quickly and skillfully set up a defensive shield, and all members must be good at it. she hit skills. Although there are more than 1,000 recruits in the 1st Infantry Corps today, which greatly affects the overall combat effectiveness of the entire army, it is not a problem to be responsible for some pre-war work as it is now, and even if it is a she strike, the coverage strike within 100 meters. It's still competent.

Of course, Stalin wouldn't dare to let these recruits on board.

In the previous two days and one night of the war, they had used up nearly five thousand arrows, and the only four thousand arrows left at this moment are the final inventory of the First Army Corps, and many of them even passed. The battlefield was recovered and collected again.

In fact, this time the counterattack of the Chiraff leader, whether it was their First Infantry Regiment, Second Infantry Regiment or Aldolf's Infantry Cavalry Regiment, there was no logistical supply. It's not that they don't want to, but the situation does not allow them to pull out a logistics line. Of course, there is no more military material inventory on the military base of Steel Wing, so how much military equipment they brought out when they went to war There is only how much, and once all these materials are used up, then they will have nothing left.

These tasks were completed before they kept them busy for long, and then soon someone began to dig a small shallow hole in the ground.

This shallow pit is only a few millimeters or so, which is almost equivalent to inserting a long sword into the ground to make a cut, but the width is more than two centimeters. Immediately afterwards, soldiers began to carefully pour the remaining kerosene into this shallow pit, but because of the hilly land, the kerosene was poured into the deeper geology. Therefore, repeated coverage is required to ensure that the kerosene in this shallow pit is in a normal state.

This is a relatively tedious task.

But no one sighed. They all knew that these pre-war preparations were the greatest guarantee for whether they could continue to live.

Looking at the pre-war work in full swing on the entire battlefield, the worry on Stalin's face remained undiminished.

Stalin was a relatively handsome young man, but for several days of rushing and fierce fighting, he did not have any extra time to clean up his appearance. At this moment, the newly grown beard and messy hair on his face made him a little sloppy and haggard. . The leather armor worn on the body also has traces of several swords and swords, especially at the left shoulder position, and there is a not small opening. From the damage of the leather armor, it can even be seen that there is still white se inside. Bandage.

Stalin's left shoulder. Obviously injured.

"The battlefield in front, is there already an ambush?". Stalin asked.

"Yes, my lord, the arrangement was already started when the battlefield was cleaned last night. According to your requirements, my lord, the arrangement has been scattered as much as possible."

"Very good." Stalin reached out and wiped his face. But because it is a habitual movement, the left hand is slightly harder and involves the injury on the shoulder. This made his brows frowned slightly. Yin Hong's blood has penetrated from the bandage, but he didn't say anything, but slightly nodded, "It's now the fifth day. As long as we get through these two days and one night, we can evacuate the next morning.... Persevere. live!"

For Stalin's words. Everyone chose to be silent, and no one answered the conversation.

"What's the matter?" Stalin turned his head and asked in a deep voice, feeling the stagnation of the atmosphere.

"My lord, more than a dozen people escaped last night." He was still standing behind Stalin at the moment. They all belonged to Stalin's direct line. At this moment, facing Stalin's Shen question, someone finally said helplessly, "In the morning, I found that nearly a hundred people were missing." There was a slight silence for a while, and the officer added again: "It's nothing. Recruits who have been on the battlefield."

"Where is the supervising team?" Stalin asked.

"Last night's battle was too fierce. In the end, the supervising team also personally went into battle, basically..."

The following words, he doesn't need to say anymore, because the answer is already very obvious.

"From now on, you will take over as the captain of the supervising team!" Stalin turned and pointed to one of the officers and said, "Any deserters and those who leave the team without authorization will be killed!"

"My lord..." Hearing what Stalin said, the captain who was newly appointed as the supervising team did not have the slightest joy on his face.

"Say." Stalin glanced at each other.

"My lord, based on our current situation, even if the thunder fire areas are arranged according to your instructions, the thunder fires are arranged separately, so that although a wider area can be covered, the threat to the enemy is much smaller." The officer said directly, "My lord, even if we can block this wave of attack, what about the next wave? What about the next wave? My lord! The enemy's strength is five times that of ours, as long as they If we simply come to a general offensive, we will not be able to stop the enemy forces. After all, this is not a town or a dangerous place, and there is not even any natural barrier to use!"

"So what?" Stalin asked back, his face still as calm as ever.

"My lord, while we still have a choice, let's retreat first!" The officer gritted his teeth and said in a deep voice, "As long as we ignite the thunder zone and fight and retreat along the way, we may not be able to block the enemy, but at least We can delay the advancement of the enemy.... My lord, I am willing to lead my team to stay. After the break, please leave immediately, and start laying a second line of defense along the way!"

Tail docking tactics.

This is a common retreat tactic that leaves some wounded soldiers in the face of an enemy force that is very large in size and number. Of course, depending on the situation, the people left behind are not just wounded soldiers, there are even other options such as cannon fodder, second-line troops, etc. The main purpose is to preserve the integrity of the main force.

Stalin has been here for two days and one night. Counting the three days itinerary on the road before, it is equivalent to saying that he has completed two-thirds of the order given to him to stay here for a week, so at this moment, even if Stalin retreats. It's not a sin. After all, as long as the enemy's journey of two days can be successfully blocked in the next tail docking tactics, Stalin's mission will be completed.

"Your current identity is the captain of the supervising team. What kind of behavior you have said when you say this. You should know it yourself." Stalin said blankly. "This time, I will not hear it. If you say or think so, then I will deal with you in accordance with military law."

"grown ups!"

"I, Stalin, the commander of the First Step Corps, will stand here to the end! Never retreat!"

Several officers looked at each other, and then the captain of the new superintendent team finally bowed his head and saluted: "My lord, I will be here. Advance and retreat with you!"

Hearing his comrades say this, several other officers also said in unison: "My lord, I will be here to advance and retreat with you!"

The voices of everyone are not very loud, but their attitude and tone are very determined. Obviously, they were not talking about these words perfunctorily. Some soldiers who were closer, after hearing the words of these officers. They all looked back at this place in surprise. Although the faces of these young soldiers still have fatigue, some stains, and even some scars on their bodies from the fierce fighting before, the eyes of each person are very bright, and it is obvious that they have not given up their desire for life. And pursuit.

Stalin stood a few steps forward, and then stepped onto a high platform piled up with wooden boxes in one fell swoop, and in a flash attracted everyone's attention.

He said: "Everyone! I think some of you should have known it last night and in the morning. Some cowards have run away! They have abandoned our trust! They have abandoned our friendship! They have also abandoned their beliefs and beliefs. Commitment! I think you should already know that the enemy's strength is more than five times ours, so it is a very normal thing for you to be afraid. In fact, I am also afraid, no one is not afraid of death. ..."

"But so what!" A fierce roar suddenly came from Stalin's mouth, "Can we make excuses for our cowardice because of our fear? Because of our fear, we can choose to run away and let these enemies attack our brothers. Is there a way for the troops?"

"No! We have to face up to our own inner weakness! We can be here, stop the enemy's footsteps, and give them a head-on blow! Let them know that our First Army Corps is powerful! ... Tell me, you want to be like heroes. , Here to fight the enemy bravely to defend your homeland, or hide like a coward in a dark corner, let your enemies laugh at you! Tell me!"

"Like a hero!" A roar sounded.

"Like a hero!"

"Like a hero!"

Soon, several roars rang out one after another, followed by thunder roars that gathered together.

"Very good!" Stalin raised his hand and pressed it down, the thunderous roar gradually subsided, "My dearest soldiers! I Stalin, will advance and retreat with you here! Remember, it is not you and me. Advance and retreat together! It is me, advance and retreat together with you! You are not only my pride, but the pride of the First Corps! I believe that you will become the entire Pandaren, and even our Lord, Sean. Connery's pride!"

"Oh!" The excited and passionate roar sounded again.

At this time, a melodious and heroic bugle was suddenly sounded.

Immediately afterwards, the bugles of the battlefield came and went one after another.

This is the bugle sound of Darbion's army launching a general offensive.

Obviously, the enemy has no intention to continue entangled here. They intend to rely on a full-scale offensive to completely eradicate Stalin who is blocking their path.

"The enemy has decided to launch a general offensive. Tell me, are you afraid?".

"Don't be afraid!"

"I'm afraid." What Stalin said suddenly made everyone stunned. "But as I said, so what? I face up to my inner cowardice, I am afraid, but I won't just be a coward like this. What if the enemy is five times more than ours? As long as I can kill five people, this is enough to offset the opponent's advantage! If I can kill six people, I can even share the pressure for my comrades!"

The eyes of all the soldiers were shining, and some people who originally showed nervousness on their faces became extremely enthusiastic at this moment.

Yes, even if the enemy is five times as large as ours, what about it?

As long as I can kill five people, won't the enemy's advantage be lost?

If I can kill ten people alone, how about fifteen people?

What every soldier thinks at this moment is not how tragic and difficult the next battle will be. The only thing they are thinking at the moment is how to bring five people to bury them, even six or seven people, before they die, so as to relieve the pressure on their companions.

Standing on the wooden box, Stalin shouted again: "Let this battle today achieve the fame of our Pandan collar wall!"

"Panda collar wall!"

"Panda collar wall!"

Stalin jumped out of the wooden box, and then quickly stepped forward, snatching the horn of a herald, and then blew it suddenly.

"Woo—"

also represents the bugle sound of the whole army's offensive, which is also sounded on the side of Stalin's army.

Then soon, someone lit the shallow pit that had been filled with fire oil with a torch, and the raging flames turned into a fire dragon and roared out.

"All archers, light the fire—"

All the archers who stood in a row behind this line of fire took out some arrows that had been soaked in fire oil, and then put them on the line of fire in front of them and burned them. All the arrows of the arrows were immediately swallowed by the flames.

"Up Arrow—"

All the archers put their arrows on the bow, but did not pull the string.

Waiting for a while, in the line of sight ahead, the enemy's mighty phalanx finally appeared.

The distance between the two sides is constantly shrinking. When the distance between each other is finally shortened to 300 meters, the herald finally shouted again: "Prepare—"

This time, the archers finally drew their bowstrings and started to raise their angles.

"put!"

A roar.

The rocket flew out all over the sky.

Then, on the enemy's advancing position, a series of explosions finally sounded!

Thunder and fire that have been prepared for a long time, in this final fierce battle, they finally revealed their ferocious and violent!

Chapter 367: .Nock and his Second Infantry Regiment

Gray sky, dark clouds, occasionally Razers roaming in the clouds.

Strong, but fierce.

When is not long, rain will begin to fall.

In fact, as early as yesterday, there had already been a heavy rainstorm of not short duration on this land.

In the barren Chiraff collar, because of its proximity to the wild land and the huge mountains that lie across it, even in the late summer rainy season, it rarely rains here. It is precisely because of the lack of rain water that the Chiraff collar The land has always been very barren, even with very few prey. Therefore, rain is a very happy thing for the residents of Chiraff.

Of course, this is only for the residents, but for other people, it is really hard to make them happy about this  rainy day.

Because it was less than ten seconds before and after, the rain that was just drizzle gradually increased. In a flash, the whole world was gray, and the water vapor completely blocked people's vision, and the visibility was even less than five meters. But if it was just like this, the hilly terrain was originally uneven, and there were many potholes and mud, washed away by such violent rain, not to mention the problem of stagnant water, the road is muddy and difficult to walk, that's for sure.

So, this will definitely slow down the marching speed of the troops greatly.

Nock wiped the rain off his face, and his frowning eyebrows fully showed his inner anxiety at the moment.

According to the normal marching situation, the most important thing to do at this time is to find a place to stop and rest, and then continue marching when the rain is less or the view is better. After all, in this situation, in addition to disjuncting and falling behind, it is easy to cause the team to lose touch and fall behind. Because of many problems such as lower body temperature and physical exhaustion, this will bring many negative effects to the entire team.

Don't say anything else, the decline in combat effectiveness is certain.

It's just that, at this time, even if you know these things. But Knok still didn't dare to stop and rest.

Because today is the seventh day they have counterattacked the Chilaf collar.

Originally, Knock led his second infantry regiment to cut into the battlefield on the flanks of the Huigu hills at the first time, give the enemy a heavy blow, and rush to support Stalin as soon as possible. But when he received the news that the enemy troops led from Berbice into the valley hills had only 15,000 troops, Knock changed his mind at the first time and chose to rush to attack the second enemy line of defense in the valley hills. Aldorf.

I have to say that Knock's choice is indeed correct.

In one day, Aldorf took down the Darbion Army, located in two important towns in the east and west of the valley hills, with only four thousand troops, annihilating five thousand enemies and taking two thousand prisoners. The remaining three thousand fled. Of course, Aldorf's loss was also quite heavy. In the end, there were only less than 2,000 people left. This was because Aldorf's first choice to attack happened to be the enemy's armory, so he was able to rely on the weaponry. The ordnance seized over the depot took the second important town-the granary.

Immediately afterwards, Aldorf did not give the enemy the slightest chance to breathe. When the enemy learned that the two important towns had been taken down, five thousand soldiers were urgently sent to the important town located in the granary. Aldorf led a force of two thousand prisoners that had just been collected. Launched an extremely fierce night attack on the base camp of the second line of defense.

In this battle, although Aldorf won a big victory, completely tearing the enemy's defense line and preventing the opponent from continuing to take advantage of the geographical advantage, his loss also reached the level of trauma.

From a strategic point of view, this can only be regarded as a tie.

just at dawn the next day. Knock led his Second Infantry Regiment directly into the battlefield.

At this time, the enemy had just experienced a fiasco that could be regarded as a nightmare: in the night attack last night, only less than 5,000 of the 10,000 Darbion's troops survived, and three of them remained. Thousands of people were completely defeated. At this moment, the enemy is sending a small team to gather the defeated troops, so the new base camp that has been reorganized actually only has less than two thousand troops.

But as long as it waits until the morning, the 5,000 troops sent out can be returned to defense, and the base camp can still recover to 10,000 troops by then. And as long as one more day is passed, the 10,000 rushing reinforcements on the side of Chiraf's Fallen Flower Valley can reach the battlefield. By then, their strength will surge to 20,000. At the same time, they have also received The news that the Berbice leader sent reinforcements, as long as the reinforcements of their Berbice leader converge, the total force will be as high as 35,000.

At that time, let alone the Chiraff collar, even the Panda collar may be taken in one fell swoop. After all, there are still 50,000 own troops in Yadby, and a 10,000-scale infantry regiment has already entered first. Panda took it.

As long as they converge, this is an army of 100,000 people!

So, their weakness period is less than an hour right now.

Aldorf's troops have also been completely maimed. They have no reason to worry and be afraid.

But on the contrary, in this short period of weakness of less than an hour, it was seized by the Second Infantry Regiment of Nok!

So this battle, it can be said that there is no suspense.

Nock easily captured the earl of the opposing commander-in-chief, and on the battlefield also beheaded three barons, one viscount, and the enemy's two thousand defenders were even wiped out. The second line of defense led by Chiraf was now completely shattered. After that, Nok merged with Aldorf's remaining remnants of less than a thousand people, and in turn ate the enemy's remnants in the valley hills.

At this point, Darbion's 30,000 troops stationed at Chilaf are only 10,000 left. The three lines of defense have been broken twice, and it is only a matter of time before Chilaf collar is regained. Of course, the most important thing is the significance of the strategic layout. This move completely prevented or even stopped the enemy's invasion of Pandaling.

It's just that no one thought that in this situation, which was almost a complete victory, there would be an unexpected accident.

In the south of the valley hills, reinforcements from Berbice appeared. According to the scouts, the number of enemy troops was about 5,000. So at this time, whether it was Aldorf or Nok, both knew that the Huigu hills that Stalin was responsible for were completely lost, and it was even possible that the entire army was wiped out. And seeing the arrival of Darbion's reinforcements. The nearly four thousand Darbion soldiers who had been captured by Aldolf and Nok immediately mutiny.

In this conflict, the earl who could have been used as a good bargaining chip was naturally beheaded on the spot, and nearly two thousand soldiers were buried with him, but after Nok paid hundreds of casualties In the end, the turmoil was completely suppressed. At this time, Nok also discussed with Aldolf, and Aldolf led the remnant and the remaining nearly two thousand prisoners to continue to entangle with the Darbion army here in the valley hills, and he immediately rushed to the battlefield on Stalin's side. , Check the specific situation.

After the two made an agreement, they immediately split up.

only. For some unknown reason, the reinforcements from Berbice did not pursue Aldolf, but instead focused on Nok and his Second Infantry Regiment.

Fortunately, at this time, there was a sudden rainstorm. The action of Darbion's army was blocked, allowing Nok to get rid of the pursuit smoothly.

These. It's already yesterday.

At this time, he marched for two hours in the heavy rain. Nock finally felt the icy chill.

He knew that since he even felt the chill, it was obvious that the combat effectiveness of the entire army had definitely dropped to a very low level. The ensuing situation is likely to be the illness of a large number of soldiers. This kind of non-combat attrition is definitely an intolerable mistake for him. But. On the hills of this valley, it is not easy to find a place to shelter from the rain.

As for the temporary construction of camps, this is even more nonsense-there is no army. Able to build a camp in a heavy rain.

It can be said that Nok has been caught in a dilemma at this time.

As a last resort, he can only choose to move on.

Next, there is a real war of attrition between will and physical strength.

However, reality is cruel after all.

In half a day, the number of non-combat attritions that fell due to heavy rains exceeded 400 people. This is a weakness for the Second Infantry Regiment, which has experienced successive fierce battles and only has less than 2,000 troops remaining. Loss of movable bone. So when the rain was getting smaller, Knok even felt a sense of relief. He hurriedly chose a relatively flat terrain to camp. All the wounded rested here, and he himself was able to continue fighting with him. After a short break, the soldiers set off again in a hurry.

At this moment, it is not far from the place where Stalin laid the defense line in the Huigu hills.

And when Knok arrived, he saw an extremely tragic battlefield.

There are countless corpses scattered all over the battlefield, densely packed, and it looks like a mass grave, many of which are even mutilated.

The place where these mutilated corpses fell was surrounded by a large area of scorched black pits. It was obvious that these people died in the thunderfire area arranged by Stalin. From the layout point of view, Knok knew that Stalin had fully considered the disadvantages of the disparity in force when he arranged the thunder fire zone, so he expanded the explosion range as much as possible instead of concentrating the lethality, but even so, those who died in the thunder fire zone were killed. The enemy soldiers also occupy far less than one-tenth of all the corpses on the battlefield.

Most of the corpses died in the confrontation between the two armies charging.

Knok saw a young man belonging to the 1st Corps with four or five spears stuck in his chest and abdomen. These spears had come out through his body, revealing a small tip of the spear on his back. , But he still did not fall. His body leaned forward, relying on the long spear that came out of his body as a support point, his right hand still held the long sword, but the long sword was broken everywhere, and there were six or seven on his feet. The corpse, the * se on his face is a kind of contented smile.

But corpses like this are everywhere on the battlefield.

Two consecutive days of torrential rains still couldn't wash away the blood on the entire battlefield, and even the  air still filled the sky.

Looking at this hell-like Shura blood scene in front of him, no matter it is the soldier of Nok or the other soldiers of the Second Infantry Regiment, everyone's face is shocked.

The first corps with only four thousand people, facing an enemy army of up to fifteen thousand people, stayed alone on this land for four days and three nights!

In the end, more than 5,000 people broke through the  line of defense under Stalin, but at this moment, no one would think that Stalin was lost in this battle.

"Look!" Knok let out a crazy roar, "Even if it is dead, I will see Stalin's body!"

Faced with Nok's order, the soldiers of the Second Infantry Regiment quickly rushed into this Shura field. Start to organize and clean the battlefield.

Patters of splashing water pace, one after another on this battlefield.

And when the soldiers of the Second Infantry Regiment pulled out the spears, arrows, and swords that pierced the corpses of their comrades, there was no blood splashing out of the wound, because the blood in their bodies had already drained.

Many soldiers had real tears streaming down their faces at this moment.

This kind of cleaning work requires a lot of physical strength and Jingshen, but at this moment, every soldier in the Second Infantry Regiment is very serious.

As time passed, the inventory work on the battlefield soon came to an end.

When the last corpse was removed from the battlefield, I don't know why. The entire Second Infantry Regiment felt relieved.

Everyone's gaze couldn't help but look at the young soldier who moved out the last corpse.

I saw a touch of joy on the soldier's face. He turned his head and looked at Nok, then shook his head suddenly: "My lord. It's not Stalin's corpse! Stalin is still alive! He's alive!"

Hearing this, Nok's eyes suddenly lit up.

"My lord. What shall we do next?" an officer asked immediately.

The earliest combat style of an army is formed. Much depends on the tactical style of the first commander of this army. As the commander of the 2nd Infantry Regiment, Knock's offensive and aggression are not as strong as Aldorf, and his defensive command layout is not as decisive as Stalin's, but in the same way, he has A talent that Aldorf and Stalin had never possessed.

if we assume. Which general in Sean's command has the most keen intuition, then this person must be Nok.

Although William has a very keen sense of warfare, he is more based on the formation of strategic layout and tactical policy, because once the war situation becomes clear. A famous general like William can naturally judge the trend of the whole war situation at the first time. But Knock is completely different. In terms of command, he relies solely on his personal keen sense of smell to make judgments, and his approach has always brought him great victory.

Of course, it's not that it didn't happen without hitting a wall, but most of the time, his results were very fruitful.

is like the decision to assist Aldorf not long ago. His appearance is completely the last straw that overwhelms the second defense deployed by the Darbion Army in the Chiraff collar. At that time, if it were not for his assistance, once the enemy was revived, let alone Aldorf, even his Second Infantry Regiment would not have been spared. However, because of his decision, it also led to the end of the isolated and helpless Stalin almost completely annihilated.

But, can this be said to be Knock's fault?

From a strategic point of view, the importance of Nok's aid to Aldorf is far greater than that of reinforcement of Stalin.

"Go north!"

"Going north?"

"Yes." Nok nodded. "To the south is the valley and hills. After the enemy broke through Stalin's line of defense, they appeared on our flank, but we did not see the remains of Stalin. This proves that Stalin was attacked by the enemy on the line of defense. After the breakthrough, it did not retreat to the south. On the east is the Fallen Valley, and on the west is the Pandan collar. There are large enemy forces in these two directions. So in the past, going in these two directions must be self-rejecting. Only the north can survive in danger."

"My lord...do we need to join the follow-up troops first?"

"No need!" Nok shook his head, "Stalin and the others will definitely not escape too far. They will break out after a fierce battle. There must not be much physical strength left, plus two consecutive days of heavy rain, so Stalin and the others are sure I will choose a place for the final fix.... To be honest, if Stalin is still alive, we really have to thank the heavy rains in these two days, because the impact of the weather is not just for one party."

No one refuted Nok's words, because as soldiers of the Second Infantry Regiment, they all knew that Nok's battlefield intuition had always been extremely accurate.

Soon, the Second Infantry Regiment set off again.

This time, their marching speed is no longer a rapid march, but the marching speed is also not too slow, and the formation is still a jingling line. This formation can ensure that the Second Infantry Regiment will not be defeated due to a surprise attack. Similarly, it can also switch to an attack or defensive formation as soon as it finds an enemy. Usually when the Second Infantry Regiment assumes this kind of forward formation, it means that Nok is ready for a full battle.

When night fell again, Nok finally found the traces of Stalin and others.

In fact, in the current situation, it is absolutely impossible that Stalin cannot be spotted as long as he is not blind.

.....

This is a relatively high slope. It is a peak on the side of the Luohua Mountain Range, with a height of only a hundred meters.

Although the height is not that high, there is a very steep  on this slope. There are only two flat terrains, that is to say, if you want to go up to this slope. You can only start from these two relatively flat terrains.

Occupying the top of the highland is the first corps that chose to break through after the defense line of Huigu hills was broken by the Darbion Army.

There are fewer than 30 soldiers of the First Infantry Regiment who survived here at this time.

Although there were more than a hundred people at the time of the breakout, the subsequent pursuits continued to produce attrition, and when they arrived at this high ground, there were only about 70 people left. Immediately afterwards. It was another round of extremely fierce highland offensive and defensive battles, perhaps because the gods were pitiful. The First Step Corps, which was about to wipe out the entire army, finally escaped this lore fortunately in a sudden heavy rain.

only. Because of hunger and exhaustion, coupled with scarred bodies, more than a dozen soldiers eventually died because of this torrential rain.

Until today, after the second rainstorm, there are only more than 20 people still alive.

Stalin, although he is still alive. But his face was already very pale, and there was almost no blood at all. The leather armor on his body was taken off by him or for other reasons, anyway, it was not worn on his body at the moment. Instead, there was a red se bandage wrapped around the entire upper body-it was a bandage soaked in blood and rain. It stands to reason that Stalin's wounds should be cleaned and the bandage should be replaced at this time, but it is obvious that there is already There is no such material.

Of course, the most shocking thing is not so.

But at this moment, Stalin was tied to the pole of a flag, but if you look closely, you can find that Stalin's right leg has a hideous wound from the base of the thigh to the ankle. Obviously, because of this wound, Stalin could no longer stand, but his pride and honor did not allow him to lie down like this, so he fixed himself on this flagpole-as long as he could still use his weapon. , Then he will never give up.

"My lord, the enemy seems to be preparing to attack." A man aged about twenty-six or seven said in a deep voice.

There was a scar on his face that crossed his left eye from his forehead. The scar was rolled over with flesh and blood, faintly purple, and blood would flow out from time to time. Obviously, this was a very "fresh" wound. Except for such a hideous scar on his face, he also didn't wear leather armor on his body. Instead, he was wrapped in blood-red bandages like Stalin. Fortunately, he could still stand here by himself without the need. Hold your body steady.

In that * defense line that defended honor with blood and lives, nearly a hundred officers of the First Corps belonging to all levels of the command system died. This man was originally a squadron leader with a relatively low rank in the First Infantry Corps, and he was far from enough to enter the command system, but at this moment he was the highest rank among the First Infantry Corps soldiers present besides Stalin. people.

And this hideous scar on his face was also dropped to save Stalin.

Hearing this man's words, Stalin glanced at the downhill of the high ground, where dense torches were already lit. At this time, the sky was not too dark. In fact, no ignition was needed for lighting, so the enemy's purpose was very high. It's easy to guess-morale blow. In the face of a besieged enemy, lighting a torch in the night to besiege can greatly weaken the morale of the enemy, resulting in a decline in the enemy's combat effectiveness, and even victory without a fight.

These are conventional tactics.

It's just that Stalin has a bit of disdain on his face for making such a move under the current circumstances. Not only Stalin, but the other soldiers of the First Corps who survived at this moment also had a deep disdain and mockery on their faces.

If it can really hurt their morale, or make them surrender, will the 1st Corps make the last fight in such a place? Because it is clear that the next time the enemy army launches an offensive, it will be the time when the entire army of the First Step Corps is annihilated, so all of them have already put their lives and deaths aside. As long as you can bring another person to bury. For them, it is not a disadvantage. If they can bring two people to the funeral, then it will basically make a profit without losing money.

"are you afraid?". Stalin asked. Although his face was pale, his voice was still very powerful.

"Scared!" Everyone laughed loudly.

"Yeah, I am afraid too." Stalin smiled, "But..."

"Like a hero!" Someone interrupted Stalin. This was a young man-not so much a young man, as a teenager, because his face was still a little immature. It's just that his eyes are very determined, and he is not afraid of the imminent death.

Everyone burst into laughter again.

The smile on Stalin's face remained the same, and he said softly: "Everyone, please allow me to say thank you sincerely.... I am very happy to be able to accompany you in this last time. You are in my eyes. They are all true heroes. You not only defended your dignity. You also defended the honor of our First Infantry Corps! I think. We have succeeded in letting the  Darbion Army know that our First Infantry Corps is not Nice soft persimmons. Although we can't completely block them this time, we have successfully broken their teeth. Next, let us break their teeth fiercely again!"

"Break their teeth!" The soldiers shouted loudly, and everyone's face was renewed with vitality.

Even if they know it. This may be the so-called back light.

Behind Stalin, there were more than forty corpses neatly arranged, and each of them had a peaceful and content smile on their faces. Although the leather armor on his body was in tatters, it only had to be swept away. It is still possible to find that their appearance after death has been sorted out. These are the soldiers of the 1st Corps who followed Stalin all the way to break through.

If Stalin has any regrets at this time, it is probably that he failed to personally collect the bodies of the robes who died in the Huigu hills.

However, he believes that Pandaling will definitely collect their bodies.

Of course, someone will avenge them!

"My lord!" Suddenly, the squadron leader exclaimed.

"What's wrong?" Stalin asked.

"My lord, look over there!" The squadron commander stretched his hand to a short distance from the slope.

Stalin's eyesight was not particularly good at this time, but he was still vaguely able to see that in the direction the squadron leader was pointing, there was a sudden light of fire.

That should be a lighted torch.

Is it the enemy's reinforcements?

The people on the high ground were a little dazed: "Those guys are really timid, haha! They have to send reinforcements!"

But the next moment, near this lit fire, flames began to be ignited continuously.

One by one orange flames spread out densely, covering a large area, which looked like the blooming Styx flowers.

Then, this army of flames, like a sea of flowers, quickly rushed towards the high ground.

From far to near, the cry of killing gradually became louder.

The Darbion Army below the high ground quickly became chaotic.

"My lord, look at that banner!"

Stalin tried to open his eyes wide, looking at the square flag fluttering in the wind a hundred meters away.

The pattern on the banner may not be understood by others, but for Stalin and even the entire First Army Corps, it is absolutely impossible to forget.

The left wing fully expanded and the right wing fully closed.

That is the family crest belonging to the Connery family!

is the banner of Panda's army!

It is exactly the same as the pattern of the flag Stalin tied behind him at this moment!

"My lord! It's reinforcement!" The squadron leader exclaimed with excitement, "It's our army!"

Tears slipped down Stalin's face. He firmly grasped the long sword in his hand, wiped the tears from his face with his left hand, and said with a smile: "That guy Nok, every time he chooses this kind of critical moment!... ..Everyone listen, keep in mind your combat position, hold on! Our reinforcements have arrived, and the victory belongs to us! There is only one request for me, to survive!"

"Yes!"

How far is the distance between  and heaven?

Stalin didn't know.

But if you want him to publish an answer at this moment, then he will definitely answer: one second.

Chapter 368: .Tin Qi leads the retreat

On the third day of the official implementation of the counterattack Chiraffling plan, a small team was escorting a carriage on the plain.

This team has only two hundred people, but it is a cavalry unit of Qingyise. Each cavalry wears a set of light armor. A broad-edged sword hangs behind the saddle of the horse. A longbow hangs in front of the horse. There is a bag of thirty white feather arrows. In addition, there is another one. Standard lance. Judging from the supporting equipment, it is proved that these cavalymen can use at least three kinds of weapons. They may not only be able to use horse warfare, but are also very good at foot warfare. According to the standards of Marvel Continent, these two hundred people can no longer be regarded as cavalry. It should be regarded as a regular knight.

Obviously, this is a knight order.

The so-called knights refer to those who have mastered the use of at least three types of weapons, at the same time jing horse warfare and foot warfare, and obtained at least the proof of the title of quasi-knight. And only a regiment composed of such people can be called a knight regiment, otherwise it can only be regarded as a cavalry unit.

This is why Rina will assume that all members of the Scarlet Knights have the title of knight.

You must know that the status of a knight is only one level lower than that of a jazz. Although it is not a formal nobleman like the jazz, at least the rank of "squire" is still enough. A true knight must be an apprentice with a regular knight for several years. This is also the steps and stages that ordinary people must go through to climb the road of nobility. Therefore, not everyone can become a knight, so it is only With the title of quasi knight.

And to distinguish the noble degree of a knight group, it is natural to look at the purity of the knighthood in this knight group.

At present, the advancing knights can be regarded as standard knights, but in fact all members are quasi knights, not real knights. Knights like this are usually called hillbilly knights or mud knights on the Marvel Continent. But it is very subtle that more than two-thirds of the knights with the strongest combat effectiveness on the mainland are the so-called mud knights.

The leader of this knight order is a knight whose body and horse armor are all silver se, but unlike the knight order which has three weapons and equipment, he only has a silver se spear placed horizontally on the saddle. But the awe-inspiring aura radiating from his body also clearly showed his powerful strength.

Higher gold.

This person is naturally the [Knight] of Florence, the Knight of the Silver Flame Falcon, and Dante Alighieri.

Two hundred knights, under the leadership of Dante, protected the carriage at the most zhongyang in an arching formation.

But this time, the person driving the car is not the thin old man that Sean had seen before, but one of the two twins who had worked with Sean, Pepe Rossi. Similarly, Ze Nana Rossi sitting next to Pepe at this time was not the mysterious person who was tall and covered in a cloak. As for the top of the carriage, the archer is still sitting, but looking at his frowning brow and the anxiety in his eyes at this moment, it is obvious that he is in a certain state of alert at this time, and even bows his head from time to time. Looked at the carriage.

"How is it?" In the carriage, there was an anxious sound.

Listening to the voice, it seems to be the voice of Florence.

"The fever has gone." The thin old man Bode said softly, "As long as the fever is gone, the remaining problems will not be big, but I am afraid that at least one and a half years of recuperation will be needed."

As the words fell, the eyes of the few people in the carriage couldn't help but fall on the tall and strong man.

This brawny man is the huge man who has been with the thin old man who has been serving as a groom all the year round. But at this moment, he was lying motionless in the carriage with his eyes closed. If it weren't for his breathing and undulating chest to fully show that he was alive, no one would believe it was a corpse. But at this moment, the brawny man was indeed in a coma. From this point of view, there are still blood-stained scars on his body, and he can know that the injury he suffered is definitely not light.

In fact, it's not just this brawny man, except for Menso and Florence, whether it is Pod or the twin sister, the archer on the roof, or Dante or even the entire Knights, everyone has it. Injuries of varying severity, and even many people still have blood stains and crude treatment techniques for emergency bandaging. It is obvious that these people have just experienced a * battle.

After all, even a strong man like Bod who has already stepped into the sanctuary realm with half of his foot was injured, which shows the difficulty of the battle that broke out before.

"As long as you are still alive." Florence was slightly relieved when he heard Bode's words, "Then, Mr. Bode, your injury..."

"Compared with Luo, my injury is nothing." Bode shook his head, "If you recuperate for a month or two, you will be healed, and your strength can even go further."

"Go further!" Florence's eyes brightened instantly, "That means..."

Bode nodded slightly.

Pod's current strength is already half of his foot in the lower sanctuary. Although he has a seven-point chance of winning against even a high-level peak gold expert like Rena, he is still not as good as those who have truly stepped into the sanctuary. The strong. But now, Pod said that his strength can be further improved, which shows that as long as his injury heals, then becoming a low-level sanctuary powerhouse is a certainty, and once an experienced person like Pod has been fighting for many years, once he succeeds Stepping into the sanctuary realm, the soaring strength is definitely not comparable to the average lower sanctuary powerhouse.

If this is after the announcement of Florence, there is no need to worry about attacks by strong people below the middle sanctuary.

"If Luo's luck is good enough, I'm afraid he can also step into the lower sanctuary, no matter how bad it is, he can still touch the threshold." Pod glanced at the unconscious man, and then said. "Able to fight against the sanctuary powerhouse, as long as you don't die, you will definitely gain."

Florence's eyes became brighter.

If it is really what Bod said, if he has two more sanctuary powerhouses under his command, even if it is only a lower sanctuary, this strength is definitely enough to be called luxury. Because as far as he knows, there are only five to six lower sanctuary powers in the entire Principality of Ryan. If he has two more sanctuary powers under his command, then this will be a great sublimation of strength for the entire Principality of Ryan. , So in order to win him at that time, he will have to give him a marquis or higher title and a rich territory.

In this way, it is not too sad for him to lose the Ting Qi.

But the only thing that made him feel a little pity was that the three thousand private soldiers that Sean sent him only left two hundred people.

In fact, if it hadn't been for Sean to inform him in the first place and ask him to leave Ting Qi's collar immediately, I'm afraid he would suffer more than this. Because he never imagined that the woman who was feared by Sean as a snake and scorpion would actually be willing to pay for it, and sent a mercenary regiment consisting of a lower sanctuary powerhouse and a quasi-fourth-level army to attack Tin Chiyin, facing With such a strong combat power, it is simply impossible to hold Ting Qi's collar.

So under the command of Mensuo, they did not choose to fight hard, but broke through in the direction of Dayi in the first time. With the support of tail docking tactics, and the number of strong men under Florence is far more than others, so they really let them fight all the way out of the encirclement, and even left one for the opponent's sanctuary strong deep impression. .

For this alone, Florence can definitely be regarded as a great achievement.

Because the kingdom of Darbion, which has not been established for too long, has experienced the last war with Asuna, now there are only seven sanctuary powerhouses left—six lower sanctuary and one middle sanctuary. But not long ago, the low-ranking sanctuary powerhouse of the Nugus family was hit hard by Vivian and Thunder's Front. Basically, it is impossible to recover the strength of the peak period without a one or two years of rest, but now it comes from Howard. The lower sanctuary powerhouse of the family was also hit hard, which was tantamount to the abolition of the two lower sanctuary powerhouses.

As a result, there are only five sanctuary powerhouses that can be used by the Kingdom of Darbion, and they are in the hands of the three Duke of Darbion, the Prince of Hodgdi, and the royal family.

At least, in the scale of high-end combat power, the Kingdom of Darbion has no advantage. It can even be said that as long as it is delayed for a few more months, after Bode's injury has completely recovered, the Principality of Lane can even be said to have a slight upper hand in terms of high-end combat power.

Once the high-end combat power of the two countries is the same, the real competition is the military quality of the two countries and the commanding ability of the generals.

It can be said that as long as Florence can return to the territory of the Duchy of Ryan alive, then the many marquis of the Duchy of Ryan will definitely have his place.

But Florence is very clear that he is undoubtedly much luckier than Sean in terms of climbing speed, because he hardly spent too much effort and time to establish his future status in the Principality of Ryan. But when it comes to the achievements of both parties, he thinks he is far behind Sean, because Sean does not have a huge resource base and foundation like him from the beginning. According to his understanding, Sean just came to Lane. In the Principality, it can be said to be poor and white.

But it was such a small person who hadn't paid attention to him at the beginning, but now he has grown to the point where no one dared to ignore it. It is not an exaggeration to say that Sean has the background of a powerful duke.

"Mr. Menso, what should we do now?" Florence asked very modestly.

"Borrow soldiers." Mensuo replied without even thinking about it.

"Who borrowed it from?"

"Sean." The * se on Mensuo's face was very calm. "There are two reasons. The first is that when this war is over, he will definitely be on the cusp of the storm, so now he is helping us, that is, helping him. Myself. The second is that we are an ally with him.... So no matter whether it is public or private, he will not reject us. Moreover, if we can regain the Ting Qi, it can also cause considerable damage to the enemy. This is the reason why the other party has to completely eradicate us at all costs."

In fact, it is exactly as Mensuo said.

With Hella's character, it is impossible for her to have in-depth investigation and understanding of Florence, so she is naturally surprised by the strength of Florence. She could not care or even ignore the little force that Florence possessed. After all, in the battle involving the entire Southern aristocratic group of Darbion, there were only a few thousand soldiers and horses that couldn't make a splash, but Florence was a strong man. The scale is the strength that she really can't ignore.

So just to be on the safe side, HELLA simply hit the ruthless man directly.

If it wasn't for her to command the Prince Hodgety, she even wanted to use the Scarlet Knights and the sanctuary powerhouse under the Prince's command. However, if Hella really mobilizes the power of Prince Hochdi, then Florence will not be able to break through smoothly, so at this point I have to say that it is Florence's luck.

It's just that temporary luck doesn't mean anything, because behind them there are still chasing soldiers—from an earl's mercenary army.

Earth Bear Mercenary Corps.

Speaking of it, there is still a long way to go between the Earth Bear Mercenary Corps and the Fierce Bear Mercenary Corps currently hired by Sean.

The current commander of the Earth Bear Mercenary Corps was once the deputy commander of the Bear Mercenary Corps. However, after an incident that murdered the head of the Mercenary Corps failed, he led a group of loyal men to leave the Mercenary Bear Corps and re- The Earth Bear Mercenary Corps was formed. After that, the Earth Bear Mercenary Corps somehow got in touch with a Marquis of the Kingdom of Darbion, and became the private soldier of the family.

This time when Sean signed a contract with the head of the Mercenary Bear Corps, there was a condition in it that he must give him the head of the Mercenary Corps of Earth Bear. As long as this condition can be met, the Fierce Bear Mercenary Group is willing to only take half of the commission in the employment contract. Of course, William and Sean have no reason to refuse.

Although according to intelligence, this Earth Bear Mercenary Corps is an army that is not inferior to the Fierce Bear Mercenary Corps in terms of size and equipment, and even rumored to have the combat power of a quasi-fourth level army, but such an army alone is still not inferior. Not qualified to enter Sean's vision.

There are only two Darbion's southern aristocratic faction armies that are truly threatening to Sean, namely the Darbion's Second Cavalry Regiment and the Darbion's Fourth Army, because only these two armies are only 30,000 in size. Above, the size of other noble private soldiers did not exceed 10,000. As for the Scarlet Knights under Prince Hodgety's command, there were only three hundred men. This strength does not have any advantage against Sean's army. .

Fleeing and pursuing, the two sides launched a four-day pursuit battle on the plains of Tinkiin.

In this process, the Earth Bear Mercenary Corps showed the perseverance and tenacity that made Mensuodu a headache. Of course, if there were only the Earth Bear Mercenary Corps, Mensuo would naturally not care too much. After all, he is a cavalry-type unit. With the speed of the two legs of the Earth Bear Mercenary Corps, it is impossible to chase him. Deserving of them. What really made Menso helpless was that the 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Darbion, who had been defeated by steel wings before, joined the pursuit, and even the 4th Regiment of Darbion, who had already occupied the Jederby, was in another one. Expand the enclosure in the direction.

The two armies posed in the front are the real core of this encirclement and annihilation. The Mercenary Corps of the Earth Bear at the rear can only play the role of a shepherd dog at best. Judging from this series of tactics, not only Mensor, but also Florence and others are very clear that Darbion is determined to hang them all here. Because just as Florence severely inflicted a heavy blow on the opponent's lower sanctuary powerhouse, it was a great feat, if they were all strangled here, it would also be a great feat for the people of the southern aristocratic faction of Darbion.

If you were an ordinary person, you would have already surrendered in the face of such an almost desperate situation.

But Mensuo did not give up. He could always find a way out and escape smoothly at the moment before the encirclement net was formed. Although every breakout is always accompanied by sacrifice, his tenacity and tenacity also dazzled the faces of the members of the southern noble faction of Darbion, because this time three Jing Rui troops were dispatched. It's far from the previous scale of petty fights, and these people have already booked tickets in front of Hella.

Now, seeing Florence are less than a day away from Dayling, how can they not be in a hurry?

"My lord, the enemy has been chasing up."

A knight quickly approached the leader Dante, his voice a little more anxious.

In the previous several breakout battles, they were not without losses. At this moment, there were less than a hundred members of the more than two hundred knights. However, after so many * breakouts, the strength of these knights is growing rapidly. Almost everyone's personal strength is close to the lower silver peak. As long as it can continue to grow, the Florence knights will also be in the future. It will definitely be an extremely powerful army.

Of course, the premise is to survive.

Hearing what the knight said, Dante's brows couldn't help but frowned.

At this time, Dante's silver armor had already turned dark red. Those were caused by the enemy's blood spilling on it. If you didn't observe it carefully, you might even mistake it for a rusty set. Broken armor. Although he had the protection of this armor, which saved him from too heavy injuries, the horse under his crotch was obviously a little sluggish.

You must know that Dante's war horse is not an ordinary horse, but a horse-type monster. Although it is only a level four monster, its endurance, charging speed, endurance, etc. are by no means comparable to ordinary horses. Regardless of whether it is a knight or a cavalry, the strength of the horse depends to a large extent on the horse under the crotch. Now this white flame horse is so exhausted, Dante's strength will naturally be restricted to a large extent.

Therefore, at this time, he heard that there was another chaser approaching, and he would naturally feel a bit tricky.

But at this moment, several knights quickly approached from the front.

This discovery made Dante's brows wrinkled again. He knew that these people were all arranged by Mensuo to investigate the horns similar to the scouts. They contributed to the success of the breakout these days. At this time, he saw these people. When the man came back, he immediately asked: "Is there an enemy in ambush ahead?"

"No, sir." Several knights said immediately, "The Fourth Legion of Darbion had already opened the front. This time the opponent's front was a bit long. We didn't find a suitable breakthrough for a while, but just At this moment, suddenly an army cut in from the enemy's rear and directly tore apart the formation of the Fourth Army that had become somewhat weak due to the long front."

"What's the matter?" Dante was a little surprised.

"I don't know." Several knights shook their heads. "However, judging from the other party's actions, it should be not hostile to us, and now the Fourth Legion of Darbion is in chaos. Sir, if we want to break through, we will. We must take advantage of this opportunity, otherwise, if the enemy calms down, we may not be able to break through the siege, because judging from the situation of the two armies, the army that assaulted the Fourth Legion of Darbion is not the enemy's opponent at all."

"Have you seen the banner of that army?" Dante asked.

"Yes." A knight nodded, "But the family crest is strange, it is a pair of asymmetrical left and right wings. The left wing is unfolded, and the right wing is closed."

"Void Wings!" Dante let out a startled, "That's Sean's army! This is reinforcement!"

Hearing the term "reinforcement", everyone immediately felt a burst of excitement. To everyone who was already exhausted, it was simply the sound of nature.

Almost no order from Dante or Mensor was required, and the whole team immediately approached the battlefield ahead at the fastest speed. For them, the emergence of reinforcements completely means that they are about to get rid of the enemy's pursuit behind them. As early as the previous secret contact, Mensuo and others had already known that Sean had decided to temporarily abandon Dayi collar, but at that time they I never thought that Sean would send troops into Tin Chiyin to lead them to meet them. They were all ready to fight to the end, so at this moment they heard that Sean had sent someone to break through the blockade of the Fourth Army of Darby, they naturally There is an unspeakable touch.

Soon, when Dante and others approached the battlefield, they saw the extremely fierce battle in the forefront.

Dabion Fourth Army, as the long-famous Jingrui troops of the Dabion Kingdom, is naturally known for its tyrannical combat power. There are even rumors that this army was initially separated from the Third Guard Army. However, the truth of the matter is that, apart from those who are too idle in the capital of Darbion, there are not many people who will pay attention to the history of the establishment of these troops, but it is undeniable that this army's combat effectiveness. It is indeed obvious to all.

So when they arrived at the battlefield, what Dante and Menso saw was almost a one-sided battle.

In the initial assault, the army that came from the Dai leader was indeed caught off guard by the Fourth Legion of Darbion, and easily tore the front line opened by the Fourth Legion. However, after a brief period of chaos, when the Fourth Army stabilized under the command of the commander, the raid army not only failed to expand its results, but was directly encircled by the Dabion Fourth Army to shrink the front. , Fell into a bitter battle, even the front line they finally tore, like a wound that was about to heal, began to slowly close together.

This raid army is naturally the army that Thain hides and prepares to be used as a surprise soldier.

In fact, this army did play a role as a surprise soldier—Hella didn't know that there was such an army. It is precisely because of this that the Fourth Army of Darbion will open up such a long line. If they had known that there was such a hidden army in the Dai leader, then they would definitely pay attention to it in the Dai leader. The defensive work of the direction, it is impossible for Thain to tear the front line so easily.

However, the gap between Jingrui's army and the ordinary army, even if it has the effect of a surprise attack, is still a great moat that cannot be made up.

Dante just glanced, and he could already see that if they could not break through within half an hour, then when this torn front line closed again, not only them, but even this one came to meet them. The army will also be annihilated!

The battlefield situation is already precarious!

Without any hesitation, Dante gave a soft drink, flicked the rein, and then left the team, rushing into the battlefield all by himself.

The soldiers of the Fourth Legion who were fighting against the siege of the Sion army did not relax their vigilance on the original goal. Therefore, when the Florence group discovered the battlefield situation, the soldiers of the Fourth Legion naturally watched it for the first time. The approach to Florence and others. However, when they saw that Dante Yiqi charged them first, the faces of several commanders who were in command showed solemn se.

For this pure cavalry unit, in fact, through these time ri contacts, they already have a relatively in-depth understanding.

People who dared to despise Dante before became the opposing spears in the first few short confrontations. Naturally, there will be no arrogant people at this time. Soon there were several groups of soldiers from the Fourth Legion out of the queue, and then formed a cone to greet Dante. But this is not over yet. Behind the cone formed by the first wave of soldiers, there are several more groups of soldiers out. This time they did not form an army, but quickly dispersed into two groups, facing Dante's The two sides dispersed, seemingly intending to bypass Dante and attack the rear directly.

Looking at the enemy's cautious formation, Dante was actually a little weak.

Although he is a high-ranking golden powerhouse, and has a stronger combat effectiveness than the so-called master powerhouses who have grown up in the military, his limit is at best to face 500 people. At this time, the opponent is facing him. There are as many as three hundred people in the Cone Formation, and with his strength, he can't penetrate it in the first time, let alone return to support. Even if he is trapped in the enemy's formation, as long as the opponent is willing to fill his hole with human lives, then even he has to fall here.

It must be a quick fight!

drove the horse straight, Dante didn't mean to dodge at all. The white flame horse under the crotch seemed to feel the master's fighting will, and the four hoofs gradually ignited a circle of white flames, and the speed of the gallop suddenly increased more than doubled. The brilliance of light green se began to surround Dante's right hand, and gradually spread to the spear in his right hand, looking like this silver gun was coated with a layer of green se dye.

The next moment, Dante slammed into the enemy formation like a shooting star.

The dozens of people who acted as the spikes in the front of the cone could not stop Dante's charge at all. Almost the two sides had been completely knocked into flight as soon as they touched, and they could not even stop for a moment.

Cone formation is originally a hard formation to break the enemy. This formation is usually used to tear apart the enemy's defensive formation. Of course, this formation is occasionally used in a head-to-head confrontation, so the spike position of the cone formation They must be held by veterans in the military, as they are the core part of the entire formation. But at this moment, the dozen or so veterans were hit and flew directly under the confrontation with Dante. The few people in the later position may not die, but the few people in the front were knocked into flight. He spurted blood on the spot and killed him directly.

The others in the array immediately took a breath.

And Dante seemed to have known such a result a long time ago. He did not have the slightest surprise or hesitation. As soon as he hit these people, the spear in his right hand was swiftly pointed forward.

No tip of the gun, only the shadow of the gun.

The gun shadow of light green se joined together, truly as horrified as a violent storm.

Being so shrouded by this gun shadow, every soldier in front of Dante had countless more pokes in his body. These people even failed to slash Dante with the weapons in their hands. The fate of the veterans who hit the fly fell one by one.

At this moment, Dante is like a burning knife directly pierced into a piece of butter.

Along the way, there is no enemy!

The effect of the cone formation failed to really play, but was dragged by Dante alone. As a result, the soldiers of the Fourth Army who bypassed from both sides naturally had an awkward situation of disjointed formation, and the speed began to slow down. After coming down, there was even the idea of turning around to besiege Dante. Just at this moment, Ling Qi's command came from the rear, and the two teams that had slowed down no longer hesitated, turning around and continuing to rush towards their goal.

The young man standing on the carriage could not help showing a bit of disdain on his face.

He drew the bow silently, and put a peculiar arrow with bright red tail feathers and arrows on the bow.

Release your hand and arrow out.

After the arrow was shot, the teenager's face became pale a little, and big beads of sweat even ooze from the corner of his forehead.

Obviously this arrow is not as simple as it seems.

When the arrow flew halfway, an orange-red spiral flame suddenly appeared from the arrow. This flame quickly wrapped the entire arrow, and the situation became more and more intense. The soldiers of the Fourth Legion on the right who were targeted by the arrow quickly showed panic on their faces. In the previous conflicts, they did not see the archer taking action. There were many people. Subconsciously regard the other party as a sentry. At this time, I saw that the other party made a move. This is a magic archer, and the strength is definitely not low!

Soon, this group of soldiers was in chaos, and the formation that had been maintaining the charge immediately dispersed.

Everyone wants to avoid this magic arrow that seems to know that its power is definitely not low.

But, after all, they underestimated the power of this magic arrow.

Arrow didn't have anyone in the she, it just landed on the enemy's formation. The next moment, a roar suddenly exploded, and nearly one-fifth of the soldiers were involved in the blazing flames and black smoke in an instant. Soldiers closer to the place where the arrow fell were blown into a pile of minced meat on the spot, while soldiers a little bit farther away failed to escape serious injuries. Many people almost watched as a certain part of their body was just like that. It exploded, and the painful howls echoed on the battlefield for a moment.

As for the soldiers who escaped by chance, everyone's face was full of lingering fear, and the gaze at the archer was a little more fearful.

As for the troops on the left that weren't targeted, their faces now showed a lucky god. Because they are not too far away from the target at this time, the two sides will start a contact battle in about a few minutes. Judging from the explosive range and power of the magic arrow, if the archer also attacks them If you do, then you will definitely involve yourself in it.

It's just that the lucky se on their faces didn't last long before they saw two figures, one red and one blue, rushing towards them quickly.

These two people are naturally the twin sisters.

For the twin sisters, the soldiers of the Fourth Legion of Darbion are not unfamiliar, because they have also seen these sisters' shots in the previous few short confrontations. It is called a cruel and ruthless, basically A phalanx of less than a hundred people is completely wiped out by the two of them several times back and forth. This is the gap between the real strong man and the soldier, especially a pair of gold-level strong men who cooperate tacitly. That power is not as simple as one plus one equals two, but greater than three or four.

Of course, the face of the two hundred soldiers is more than that. Following these two sisters, there are also twenty knights.

For these knights, the soldiers of the Fourth Legion had not paid attention to them before, but after several confrontations, these knights have grown to the point where they have to pay attention. If there were only those sisters, they might be able to sacrifice some people to entangle each other's main formation, but counting the participation of these twenty knights, then let alone entangle each other's main formation, how could they keep themselves from being entangled? It is a problem that the opponent is completely wiped out.

This is the battlefield situation when the strong cannot be threatened and contained enough!

As for the remaining nearly seventy knights in this formation, they continued to charge forward without hesitation. They must break through before Dante's hard-to-tear front line closes, otherwise, once they are entangled, it will be for them. For the team with only more than ninety rides left, it will be a catastrophic disaster.

The conflict between the two sides quickly unfolded completely, and quickly entered a fever pitch within a short period of time.

However, compared with the level of casualties on the Florence side, the level of casualties on the Thain side is very strong. In just twenty minutes or so, more than half of the five thousand people under Thain's command were killed in battle. If the injured part is counted, there are fewer than two thousand people who can continue to fight at this moment. So there was almost no suspense. Thain's team collapsed on the spot, and the military appearances that fled around quickly caused even greater chaos. Even Thain was completely unable to continue to command the army in this situation.

In this way, the Fourth Army can naturally allocate more troops to encircle and suppress the troops on the Florence side.

The Fourth Legion of Darbion who came to participate in the roundup did not have the golden rank powerhouse, because only 10,000 soldiers of the fourth legion were involved in the roundup operation. The golden rank strongmen who came with the army are all sitting here at this moment. Yadby led, in order to prevent Sean from counterattack Yadby led, they did not have the strong to hold back. However, in terms of the size of the army, if they are willing to make sacrifices, it is not a problem to contain or even kill Dante and even the twin sisters.

The reason why the previous few encounters failed to kill is entirely because under the command of Mensuo, their unit is as cunning as a fox, and it does not give the enemy a chance to entangle. The tactical policy is to follow the approach of touching and leaving. , On the contrary, a lot of soldiers were lost, so the Fourth Army and the Second Cavalry of Dabion were empty and helpless. But this time the situation is different. Their encirclement has been formally formed. Although Thain's troubles caused them to make some mistakes and some flaws, their flaws are gradually healed over time. Almost every commander was full of confidence in this siege of Florence.

Even they would like to thank this army that did not know where it came from, because it was another great achievement to annihilate 5,000 enemy troops!

To round up Florence, their military exploits need to be divided equally with the Second Cavalry Regiment and the Earth Bear Mercenary Corps. However, their military exploits to annihilate these 5,000 enemy troops were accomplished by duli of their Fourth Corps-of course, the premise is that they must rush in. The 2nd Cavalry Regiment completely defeated the enemy before entering the battlefield. Therefore, after a little more troops were divided to contain and deal with Dante and the twins and others, a senior commander of the Fourth Army did not hesitate to order the contraction of the front. He decided to fight for this within ten minutes. An army of unknown origin is completely resolved!

It's just that sometimes, destiny always gives people some anxious and helpless jokes.

Dante, with the assistance of more than seventy riders, completely penetrated the cone formation, and then quickly moved closer to the home court. And the twins, Nana and Pepe, after confirming the safety of the Florence carriage, they also turned on the two horses that had lost their masters immediately, and led the remaining knights to immediately follow the end of the ride. This entanglement. No matter how fast the soldiers of the Fourth Army reacted, they immediately regrouped to pursue the pursuit, but faced with the blasting magic arrow from the archer on the carriage, these soldiers could only give in unwillingly. .

After that, the archer opened the way with a blasting magic arrow, and Dante successfully met with Thain.

Without any hesitation, Thain immediately ordered the withdrawal of troops to break through.

The originally tight front line, after joining the strong assistance of Dante, Nana, and Pepe, the twin sisters, naturally seemed a little vulnerable. The situation on the battlefield has always been changing rapidly. The fourth legion of Darbion, which was still dominant, was soon at a disadvantage. This made the senior officer in charge of the operation instantly pale in anger. If he was still If he prayed that the 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Darbion would not appear so quickly, then at this moment he could not wait to become the lord of time and space and directly open a portal to let the people of 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Darbion enter the battlefield immediately.

Perhaps the piety of this senior officer moved the gods. When he had to order the use of human lives to fill the defense line and increase the thickness of the defense line, the roar of horseshoes instantly sounded from the other side of the battlefield!

Dabion's 2nd Cavalry Regiment has finally entered the battlefield!

And what's even more incredible is that the 2nd Cavalry Regiment of Darbion, which was originally chasing Florence and others from the rear, did not appear at the rear, but appeared from the northeast of the main battlefield in a large circle, and was moving towards The astonishing speed quickly approached the main battlefield. In other words, even if Dante and the others broke through the thickness of the Darbion Fourth Army's defense line filled with human lives, they would also face the danger of being attacked on the flanks by the Darbion Second Cavalry Regiment.

Judging from the entry point and speed of the 2nd Cavalry Regiment at this time, once they are bitten by this wolf-like army, then they really have no chance of escape.

at the same time!

At the moment when the Dabian 2nd Cavalry Regiment quickly approached the battlefield, a large cavalry unit suddenly appeared in the direction southwest of the main battlefield, which is the direction of the Dai leader. And behind this cavalry unit, you can even see a phalanx of the infantry regiment that is rushing forward. The size of the phalanx of the infantry regiment is not lower than the sum of the fourth and second cavalry regiments. .

Menso opened the door of the carriage, and glanced at the flag hung by the third-party army that suddenly appeared on the battlefield. His heart sank in an instant.

Because this army holds a distinctive banner.

The border of the flag is silver se with hanging ears, and embroidered on the front of the flag is a black se giant bear that is making a roar.

Silver borders and hanging spikes, no family crest mark, only a xing pattern, all of which show that this is a sharp army with duli designation!

As an outstanding general, Mensuo naturally recognizes which army the registered designation flag belongs to.

This is the real misfortune.

The newly arrived third-party army is surprisingly the Grim Bear Corps belonging to the Dubai family, the leader of Romea!

This is an army of Jing Rui, whose combat effectiveness is not under the Fourth Army of Darbion and the Second Cavalry of Darbion!

Even in terms of the size of the force, far more than the Grimbear Corps arrived on the battlefield. From the battlefield situation, I am afraid that all the 30,000 private soldiers owned by the Dubai family have arrived on this battlefield!

Chapter 369: .The Shock of the Kingdom of Darbion

In the bright royal conference hall, Moro VII's face looked extremely yin and heavy.

The participants this time are no longer just the fourteen high-ranking noble circles, but all the real power figures in the entire kingdom. These include two other powerful dukes besides the southern aristocratic faction, as well as commanders and generals from the Ministry of Military Affairs, and even some domestically recognized marquis and earls with strength prefixes, as well as the commanders of various regiments of the kingdom with a certain degree of autonomy. All participated in this meeting.

This is the second meeting of this scale since King Moro VII took the throne.

The first time, naturally, was the almost total war triggered by Asuna's invasion of the Kingdom of Darbion.

In the royal conference hall at this time, the atmosphere was extremely depressing, and everyone's faces looked very ugly. After many people looked at each other, they all saw a touch of shock and surprise in each other's eyes. Of course, what more people see is a kind of anger, a kind of extreme anger after being humiliated.

"What do you think about this matter?" After all, Moro VII took the lead in breaking the half-hour depression and silence in the royal conference hall. His voice seemed a little tired, but which of the nobles present was not a human being. , They all heard a trace of the anger that Moro VII was trying to suppress from this exhaustion.

For Moro VII, these nobles are not unfamiliar.

In the eyes of the nobles, he was a madman who was very happy with his achievements, and he was far from the previous six Moro kings that could be called a great moat. But unfortunately, this VII has a very obvious lack of knowledge of himself. He always feels that he is a good ruler of the country, and often fantasizes that Darbion can become one of the seven empires in his hands. But in fact, under the rule of Moro VII, Darbion continued to open up, and even defended Chengdu seemed a little lacking.

In recent years, apart from a big defeat in Asuna's hands, several conflicts with the Kingdom of France also ended in failure.

The Kingdom of France, located to the northwest of the Kingdom of Darbion, borders the Kingdom of Darbion with a larger area. The outbreak of several conflicts was mainly concentrated on the northern front, but the nobles on this front were all members of the northwest aristocratic circle. In the last war with Asuna, the northwest aristocratic circle of the kingdom also had this problem against the southern aristocracy. While carrying out a small amount of reinforcements, the facts have proved that this is a loss of money, which is also one of the important reasons for the tightness of the northern front.

Logically speaking, now that the northern front is tight, King Moro VII should provide a certain degree of reinforcement here.

But now the King of Darbion has devoted almost all his attention to the southern front. The neglect of the northern front has largely caused dissatisfaction among many aristocrats in the northwest aristocratic circle.

But no matter how dissatisfied, all the nobles in the northwest aristocratic circle present today are very clear about the importance of this matter at the moment. Although there are people who gloat for misfortune, there is absolutely no one who is stupid enough to put on their faces at this time, and they are more thinking about what kind of role they will play in the next kingdom action and how to get more. Interests.

This is the nobility.

"Your Majesty, I think we should launch a counterattack immediately!" A middle-aged man in the uniform of the Military Ministry took the lead. "If we don't act immediately, this will not only damage our country's reputation, but even trigger other events. Series of crises."

As for the crisis, the real-powered nobleman did not say clearly, but all the nobles present were very clear about it.

All countries on the Marvel Continent have zero tolerance for treason.

In fact, unless it is the surrendering nobility of the defeated country, any noble rebellion to another country will cause a strong backlash from that country. In the face of this kind of behavior, the normal course is to gather the entire country's forces to launch an offensive against this traitor's territory. In terms of the scale and extent of the war, this is a large-scale war second only to the national war—of course. In many cases, this kind of thing will evolve into a two-state war.

Because, as a country that accepts the surrender of the nobleman, it is naturally impossible to watch the surrender die in such a crusade, and they will inevitably increase troops in the aristocratic territory. Because if the crusade is successful, it will naturally be a matter of extreme damage to the reputation of the country that accepts the mutineer, so even if you don't care about the surrender at all, it is still necessary to behave in support. of.

Of course, in most cases and situations, private negotiations are also a means of solving problems.

This is also one of the main reasons why Viscount Day's surrender and rebellion did not cause a strong backlash. After all, Day's collar was completely captured by Sean, and the Southern Noble faction of Dabion also responded fiercely in this matter. Measures, so through the domestic news blockade, except for Moro VII, the Boulder family and several other southern aristocratic factions, no one knew that a Viscount named Rudd Mitchlin had already turned to Sean.

It's just that this time for the Kingdom of Darbion, things are not so easy to solve.

Because of the rebellion, the Duke of Tequila, one of the five dukes of the Kingdom of Darbion, and the Marquis of Romea, one of the ten powerful marquises.

The status of these two people in the Kingdom of Darbion is definitely not low, so their rebellion will naturally cause shock to the entire Kingdom of Darbion-not just the shock of the noble circle, everyone who knows this will I was extremely shocked, and of course more incomprehensible. How can a duke and marquis of a kingdom rebel and seek refuge in a duchy?

This is simply an incredible thing!

But no matter how incredible this thing is, it really happened.

Therefore, in order to ensure the reputation of the Kingdom of Darbion or to ensure their noble privileges, they must respond immediately. Even if the Northwest aristocratic circle has any dissatisfaction with Moro VII or even the southern aristocratic circle, they must actively participate in this matter at this sensitive time, and this matter is not completely without any benefits. After all, tequila The richness of the collar is also evident in the entire Kingdom of Darbion.

"Then what do you think, how should we fight back?" Moro VII asked again.

This time, even the powerful nobleman in the military department was a little surprised.

How to fight back?

This is indeed a problem.

The history of the Duke of Tequila guarding the entire agave collar is as long as the history of the founding of the Kingdom of Darbion. But the entire Boulder family still has nearly 100,000 troops. And it's more obvious that the Boulder family has been prepared to rebel from the beginning. They gave up all the outer areas of the entire territory and concentrated all their forces in the core hinterland of the agave collar, which means If they want to attack the tequila collar and even make the Boulder family history, then they must be psychologically prepared to pay a heavy price.

At this point, it has to be said that the Boulder family deserves to be an old family standing among the top five dukes of the Kingdom of Darbion.

Because the closer the agave collar is to the Boulder family's core area, the smaller its resources and value, but the more difficult it is to attack. This completely disproportionate ratio naturally makes it easy for many nobles to not die. Go desperately. After all, the nobles are greedy for profit, and their crusade against the agave collar is more just to maintain the stability of the domestic environment of the Kingdom of Darbion, in order to maintain their noble privileges and occupy as many interests as possible.

That's it.

As for the Dubai family of Romea, this family that has been in alliance with the Boulder family for a long time is also very jingming. All members of the entire family have now lived in the Boulder family's manor, so if the Darbion Kingdom wants to take the Dubai family first, then they also need to face the land and people that have been firmly occupied. The Boulder family. As for the 30,000 troops belonging to the Dubai family, they have already been brought to the frontline by Bourne Dubai himself. This also means that if the former powerful Marquis of the Kingdom of Darbion is to be eliminated, they must face it. From Pandan collar and Tonis collar, two humanoid demons.

Yes, the lord of Pandaren, Sean Connery, has been equated with Asuna G. Evans in the eyes of many nobles in the Darbion Kingdom.

The demon from Lane.

However, unlike the problem that the expensive Darbys worry about, the real headache for Moro VII and the entire military department is another problem: Darby Ang has lost two Jing Rui troops with designations and banners.

The Tequila Army from the Boulder family and the Grimbear Corps from the Dubai family.

The Kingdom of Darbion has a total of ten Jing Rui troops that have received the designation flag, and the entire Darbion Southern Noble faction accounts for four, namely the Boulder family's Tequila Army, the Dubai family's Grim Bear Corps, and Howard The family's Mountain Lion Army and Prince Hochdi's Scarlet Knights; among the other six, five belonged to the royal family of the Kingdom of Darbion, namely the Royal Guards, the Third Guards, and the Fourth Army. And the Red Cross Cavalry Regiment and the Second Cavalry Regiment; and the last one is the Hepson Guard, which is controlled by one of the five dukes of Dabion and belongs to the Hepson family of the northwest aristocratic circle.

But now, the Mountain Lion Legion is destroyed, and the Tequila Army and the Grim Bear Legion have joined the Principality of Lane. The Scarlet Knights may be able to exert a strong combat power under the scale of a thousand people, but their role in large-scale battles is almost zero. What's even more infuriating is that the frontline battle report that came a few days ago stated that the 2nd Cavalry Regiment, which had been besieging and occupying the enemy army of Tin Chiyin, was hit hard by the near-destruction due to the Dubai family's raid. Ten thousand soldiers of the Fourth Legion were also joined, which is equivalent to saying that there are only four and a half of the ten Jingrui troops in the Kingdom of Darbion!

In other words, in terms of military power, the Kingdom of Darbion has almost no advantage. If two of the sanctuary powerhouses with high-end combat power were severely damaged, it can already be said that the national power of the Kingdom of Darbion has been weakened to an incomparably weakened level.

"Your Majesty, the most important question now is how to deal with the traitors." Facing the silence in the royal conference hall, someone finally broke the silence. "We should concentrate our forces to attack the traitors of the Boulder family and the Dubai family first. As for the others, we can put them aside for now."

"Let it go? How to let it go?" Someone immediately retorted, "On the northern front, people in the Kingdom of France are always moving stupidly. If we concentrate our forces at this time, we will definitely take the opportunity to fish in troubled waters. It is very likely to face a two-front battle."

"We can temporarily negotiate with people from the Kingdom of France. It's okay to give up something a bit. The top priority is indeed to deal with the traitor first." Once the topic of discussion began, people began to join the discussion. "Moreover, The Principality of Ryan is not necessarily united. The strength of the Boulder family is obvious to us, and not all Ryan aristocrats will welcome them to join. The most important thing is the Millennium Covenant of the Sovereign State of Ryan. Bian will certainly not allow such a powerful family to join the Principality of Lane."

"Even if the Millennium Covenant is not happy, what can it be? Now in the passage between the Millennium Covenant and the Principality of Lane, there is a powerful demon entrenched there. No one knows what happened there. Many religious knights go. After that, there is no return. Now it has attracted the attention of almost all the religions of the entire continent. Even if the Millennium Covenant Empire is dissatisfied with the Principality of Ryan, it will not have time to pay attention to them in a short time. If the Principality of Ryan does not take the opportunity to develop If they do, then they are fools."

"Maybe you really are a fool?"

"is it possible?"

The discussion quickly turned into a fierce quarrel, and then gradually turned into a mockery of dissidents, and the royal conference hall quickly became as noisy as a vegetable market. However, although the quarrels and ridicules are very serious, in general, two camps can be clearly distinguished: one is that the whole country should immediately send troops to take the tequila collar like a thunder offensive, and supporters of this camp. Basically, they are members of the hawks, reformers, Communists, and Southeast Aristocratic factions of the Royal Party and the Ministry of Military Affairs; the other camp's proposal is to stabilize the northern front and then gradually use the existing forces to gradually improve the agave collar. At the same time, the southern part of Dabiang temporarily stopped the war with Lord Panda, and instead concentrated the forces to solve the internal worries of the agave collar first. The supporters of this political opinion were basically the stability of the Northwest aristocratic faction and the Ministry of Military Affairs. Send members.

As for the neutrals who occupy the most number in the aristocratic class, they became completely confused after losing the leader of the Boulder family. They did not concentrate on unified political views, but stood in teams in both camps.

It's just that in these two camps, compared with the second camp, there are two different differences between those who support the political view of launching a nationwide attack on the Tequila Collar. Factions such as the Loyalists, Hawks, and Southeast Aristocrats advocated that while attacking the tequila collar, they also launched a declaration of war on the Principality of Ryan; while the Communists and the reformists always believed that they should try to fight against Born in the Principality of Ryan. The hostile nobles of the German family made contact and broke their unity from within.

Two political opinions and three methods, the royal conference hall gradually became a little uncomfortable, which made Moro VII's face gradually become more and more ugly, and his brows became more and more tight.

"Quiet!" Finally, Moro VII, who could not bear it, let out an angry roar.

Feeling the anger of King Moro VII, everyone in the royal conference hall finally began to gradually quiet down, and the noisy voices began to gradually disappear, until finally it turned into silence. The vast majority of people looked at each other with a little uneasiness. This kind of people basically belonged to the clique of the wall, because after losing the leadership of the Boulder family, these people didn't know what to say at all, so as not to be rebelled. The Boulder family is involved, and they can only choose to stand in line at this time.

Only a very small number of people still have a calm face at the moment, and these people are naturally staunch supporters of dissident political views and practices.

Moro VII's gaze swept across the faces of these people one by one, and then finally fell on the face of a relatively young nobleman.

He still remembers that the young noble in front of him is now a powerful noble with a high rank, especially his training ability is said to be one of the best in the entire Kingdom of Darbion. Of course, Moro VII will remember this person because the Boulder family once recommended him to him, hoping to make him the commander of the 4th Cavalry Regiment, and he will be in charge of and command the entire 4th Cavalry. The regiment, because he is likely to bring the eleventh to the Kingdom of Darbion to receive the honor of duli designation.

However, because of the failure of the battle with Lord Panda, the leader of Chiraf was lost, and Moro VII did not trust the strength of this young nobleman. Later, although Boulder mentioned it several times to let him take over. Regarding the Fourth Cavalry Regiment, he still did not agree.

Moro VII vaguely remembered that this young nobleman seemed to be Ronnis.

Lonnis Hold, a marquis of strength.

"Lonnis." Moro VII spoke suddenly.

"Yes." Ronnis was taken aback for a moment. He didn't understand what Moro VII meant by calling him at this time, but he still spoke immediately.

"If I give you the 4th Cavalry Regiment now, how long will it take you to train this army into a Jing Rui army?"

Hearing this, Ronnis was a little dazed, not only Ronnis, the other nobles present were also a little dazed, and some of them couldn't figure out what Moro VII was thinking at this time. But soon, Ronnis came back to his senses, but his brows were frowned: "Your Majesty, even if the Fourth Cavalry Regiment is handed over to me now, it doesn't make much sense."

"Why?"

"Because under my guidance, it will take at least one year for the Fourth Cavalry Regiment to become an army that meets the standard definition of 'Jing Rui'. If it is to become a real Jing Rui army, , An army that is not inferior to the Second Cavalry Regiment, or even comparable to the Red Cross Cavalry Regiment, then this will take at least three years." Ronnis did not feel embarrassed at all, but said with a calm face. "Therefore, it is meaningless whether the commander of the Fourth Cavalry Regiment is not me at this time."

Moro VII nodded his head, and said nothing. Although he looked calm and peaceful, Ronnis and several other thoughtful people still caught the passing moment in Moro VII's eyes. A touch of disappointment and regret, and of course a trace of helpless self-blame. It's just that others don't know the reason for this helpless self-blame, but Lonnis knows very well. He knows that the king has regretted not following the advice of the old Duke Hatch and let him be the commander of the 4th Cavalry Regiment. , Otherwise, at least Dabion will now have an extra Jing Rui army available, so that he won't fall into the dilemma that he is not dominant in military power.

At this moment, the iron door of the Royal Conference Hall was suddenly opened.

A messenger broke in.

All the nobles turned their heads to look at the herald, and many of them showed some sympathy on their faces. Because once this royal conference hall is opened, any interruption is prohibited until the end of the meeting, unless it is an emergency special situation, but the rules are so, but usually the emergency is not urgent, the special is not special, and it is not that Moro VII has the final say. At this moment, Moro VII was obviously in a very bad mood. This herald rushed in, and his fate was already conceivable.

"What's up!"

Sure enough, Moro VII's face immediately became especially yin sinking.

The messenger's heart trembled. He had realized that something was wrong. He finally knew why the other messengers were reluctant to come in at this time, but instead delegated this task to him. It's just that since they have already broken in, obviously he has no retreat. On the contrary, it is better to submit this urgent report from the front openly, maybe it will save his life.

"Your Majesty, urgent report!" The herald immediately handed the so-called urgent report to Moro VII.

In the Kingdom of Darbion, all emergency newspapers are marked with red se letterhead, so it is naturally difficult to know what is on the unopened letterhead. The Second Cavalry Regiment was hit hard before, and the rebellion of the Boulder family and the Dubai family was also passed back on red letter paper. Therefore, whether the so-called "emergency special situation" is naturally to be determined, and only this trusted one. The herald would break into this royal conference hall without knowing anything.

Moro VII took the letterhead with a cold snort, then took out the letterhead and glanced at it hurriedly.

At first glance, Moro VII did not pay special attention. He was still thinking about how to confuse his inner anger.

But when he scanned a few words on this military intelligence, Moro VII's expression became serious.

At the second glance, he was already serious about starting from the beginning.

But soon, the serious expression on his face changed and was shocked, and then he began to check the contents of the letter paper repeatedly.

On this military intelligence, only a few brief words were written, but Moro VII looked at it several times over and over again, always feeling that he was dazzled.

After such a few minutes, he finally had to believe that it was not his dazzling, but the content written on this piece of paper.

Chapter 370: .The national war broke out

Looking at Moro VII's expression, many nobles' faces gradually showed doubts and curiosity. Only a few people still had a calm look on their faces.

These people, in addition to the commander of the Red Cross Cavalry Regiment, the commander of the Royal Guards regiment, two dukes and a powerful Marquis who is not under the five dukes, there is also Ronnis Holder. The first two commanders can be understood as they are Darbion's sharp blades. They kill wherever Molo VII refers to them, so they don't need to care too much; while the latter three are because of their strengths. It is possible to play a game of temperament that can adapt to changes, but Ronnis, who is at the bottom of the ten marquis of Darbion, can be so calm and calm, it is somewhat doubtful.

It's just that, perhaps Ronnis had been impeccable when facing Moro VII's question before, so everyone could only blame him on his confidence.

But in fact, is this really the case?

Lonnis watched everything coldly. As Sean's secret ally, he had already known what was written on the piece of paper that Moro VII was holding at the moment. But for the rebellion of the Boulder family and the Dubai family, this made him somewhat unexpected. But if he thinks about it carefully, he feels that in the first few conspiracy conversations with Sean, Sean seemed to have guessed that the Boulder family would betray.

As for the confidence to cope with the changes at this moment, Ronnis did have it, but it was not like those people thought.

His confidence, three points from his family background, three points from his hole cards, and the other four points, even if he has to admit, it is the Shaw who is now called "the male demon from Lane" by Dabian. Grace given.

As for the female devil, she naturally refers to Asuna G. Evans.

Judging from the aristocrat's swearing words, it is obvious that Sean and Asuna are a pair of dog men and women.

It's just that, whether this is a compliment or derogation is really bad.

At least Ronnis knew. Sean must be very happy that others call him a demon, because he thinks it is compliment.

After being so silent for ten minutes, King Moro VII finally passed the paper in his hand to the right.

So, this classified military information began to be passed on among the nobles in the Royal Conference Hall. And almost everyone who has seen this information has a variety of expressions on their faces. Most of them are incredibly and astonished as Moro VII, but there are also a small number of people with a face. Excitement and excitement. However, the head of the Red Cross Cavalry Regiment and the head of the Royal Guards were still indifferent, while the powerful Marquis of the other two dukes frowned slightly.

Soon, this information was passed to Ronnis.

Just like the exact news that Ronnis got during a secret conversation with Sean: The army of the Principality of Lane raided the northwestern region of the Kingdom of Darbion three days ago.

This also means that the Principality of Lane has preemptively declared war on the Kingdom of Darbion, and it is the most shameful sneak attack. But the Kingdom of Darbion knew nothing about it. They are even arguing about whether to launch a national war against the Principality of Lane.

This is simply a big joke.

Or shame.

Ronnis felt sad for the Kingdom of Darbion.

also rejoiced, fortunately, I had listened to Sean's words and made the right choice, otherwise, I am uncertain about what it is like to worry about it now. Of course, more importantly, because he has already taken refuge in the Principality of Lane, in the future, when the national war that has now completely erupted ends. His position in the Principality of Lane-or the Kingdom of Lane in the future will be very stable.

This piece of information paper stayed in Ronnis's hand for a while, and he waited until he recovered before handing it to the next person. And Ronnis's expression of loss, in the eyes of others, naturally there will be other guesses, but no one will doubt Ronnis' loyalty at this moment, even if it's because of Ronnis and the Boulder family before. Going closer.

"Now, what do you think we should do?" After everyone had read this information, Moro VII finally spoke again.

This time. No one said any objection or other controversial words, and the resolution to officially launch a war against the Principality of Lane was quickly passed unanimously. And this time the war will no longer be the same as the previous war with Asuna. It will only be confined to the southern part of the Kingdom of Darbion. This is a real nationwide war. The missions of the Kingdom of France will It was finalized at this meeting. After all, if there were two wars at the same time, it would be insufficient for the kingdom of Darbion today.

However, just in case, the Hepson Guard of the Hepson family will not be dispatched for the time being.

This Jing Rui army with only 5,000 people can rank fourth among the ten Jing Rui army in the entire Kingdom of Darbion. It is a truly powerful army second only to the Tequila Army. With the same strength, the Hepsen Guard is far more powerful than the 2nd Cavalry Regiment and the 4th Regiment that have long been famous for Darbion. Therefore, this force sitting on the southern front, supplemented by private troops involving several nobles on the southern front, is enough to deter the stupid French aristocrats, and this also allows other aristocrats of the Southeast Aristocratic faction to invest in the already This officially broke out in the national war against the Principality of Lane.

After the meeting, which lasted for several hours, everyone who had a mission immediately got up and left, especially those from the Northwest aristocratic faction.

Although there is also a duke in the Northwest aristocratic circle, among the five dukes, this duke ranks last in terms of strength, and even in a strict sense, he is not as good as Tans, who is now known as the head of the ten powerful marquis of the kingdom. Marquis of grace. The northwestern part of Darbion has always been the richest place in the kingdom of Darbion, and the nobles in this land have long been accustomed to all kinds of comfortable and corrupt luxury life, and their extensive contact with the Chamber of Commerce has also allowed them Gradually neglected the construction of military power in the territory, and instead relied more on mercenaries and mercenaries.

Such all kinds of things naturally resulted in the fact that when the Principality of Lane launched a raid to the northwest three days ago, the entire northwest aristocratic territory was lost one after another. In just three days, their losses have far exceeded that of the past year. How can they not worry about the losses in the southern region of Darbion? What makes them even more troubled is that the Boulder family's agave army is also eyeing on their territory. They may have some sense of superiority when facing the army of the Principality of Ryan, but they know the bottom of the agave. Army, they really don't have much confidence anymore.

"Marquis Ronnies, please stay." Just when everyone started to leave the large conference hall, Molo VII suddenly spoke.

This change made Ronnis a little surprised, but he didn't say anything, and after nodding, he sat back in the chair again.

...

On the other side, in the meeting room of the Void City City Lord's Mansion, Xiao En was also receiving two distinguished guests, both of whom were extremely high in status and status.

"You don't need to worry about your companions. I have asked Byrne to lead the Grim Bear Corps to the rescue. If there is no accident, they should now return to Mitch Forest City smoothly."

The person who spoke was one of the two distinguished guests that Sean met at this time, the former Duke of Dabion Tequila, Hatch Boulder.

His appearance was somewhat shocking to Sean. Because according to the historical trajectory of the previous life, the Boulder family's surrender to the Principality of Ryan should have been after the complete defeat of the Kingdom of Darbion. After the entire army was annihilated, the old duke, who was so sophisticated about humans, began to think about the future status of his family.

But now, the war between the Principality of Ryan and the Kingdom of Darbion has just begun-this is also today that Sean finally knows, it turns out that Asuna had gone to the palace to request troops. Of course, he also knew very well why many nobles in the Principality of Lane agreed to declare war so quickly this time. Most of the reason for this was naturally because they were jealous of him, the emerging nobleman who was about to step into the upper aristocratic circle of the "Kingdom of Lane".

But regardless of this, in any case, the Boulder family's refuge is still nearly a year ahead of the history that Sean knows.

"Since I have a ticket for the Duke of Tequila, of course I am very relieved." Sean smiled slightly, and then he turned his head to another distinguished guest, Asuna from Fort Tony, "Master Asuna, then This time you come here in person, there must be any plans for me to cooperate?"

"Yes." For Sean, Asuna knew that this mysterious Zenas was by no means as simple as it seemed, and the relationship between them was an ally from the beginning, not like the Principality of Lane and Darby. What Ang Kingdom guessed was generally a affiliation. "About this nationwide war, I must tell you that I am not the commander-in-chief."

Hearing this, Xiao En's brows couldn't help but frowned.

This is another result of a complete violation of the history known in the previous life.

It's just that Sean now has a strong psychological quality, so he didn't comment on this result. In any case, his current turf is completely stable anyway, so whether Asuna is the commander-in-chief has no influence on Sean's small calculation.

"This time the war has divided the entire Darbion into three battlefields, namely the Northwest battlefield, the Southeast battlefield and the Southern battlefield. I am currently the commander of the Southeast battlefield." Asuna saw Sean only slightly frowned. Head, did not say anything, so he continued to speak, "As for the commander of the southern battlefield, I have recommended you to the royal family."

"Me?" Sean's face se, instantly became abnormally jingle.