

Lord of War Vol 4-1

Chapter 1: Bone invasion has begun

The Southern Continent was opened with a dimensional door on the plane of bones. This matter is no longer a secret in the strong class of the entire Miracle Continent. Even all the churches on the whole continent have their own gods who have descended oracles and started to take action one after another.

The Knights of the Church belonged to it, although it was strong and weak because of its divine power, and in the entire Miracle Continent, except for the Chenguang Church, which controls an empire, there is no second church with super powers. Even the Church of the God of War, which has always been fighting against the Saint-Joles Empire, does not have a super-powerful person. It was the Pope and the two saints who were in charge of the entire church to deter the Northern Commonwealth.

But it's a pity that these people have all been cleaned up by Sean.

So the current Church of God of War is actually in an extremely weak state. There is not even a strong man in the upper sanctuary in the church, let alone a legendary strong man. Especially the power of this God of War was intercepted by Sean and passed on to Emily. I am afraid that no legendary powerhouse will be born for a long time in the future.

But the benefits are not without it. Emily's realm of strength will rise extremely fast. At present, she has even begun to show signs of deification, which is ready to completely replace the position of God of War. Once Emily succeeds in replacing the position of God of War, and if Sean asks Neal and Hela to develop the Commonwealth Union plan for Emily, then the entire Church of God of War will usher in an explosive growth in strength. Not to mention the legendary powerhouses, I am afraid that even the super powerhouses may be born so one or two.

However, this process will take at least two to three years to see results.

If it weren't for Sean's backing at the moment, and Neal and Hela's plans were also very careful, I am afraid that the Church of the God of War and the Commonwealth of the Northern Principality would now be kicked by the furious Saint-Joles Empire. Judging from this result, the opening of the door of bones at this time, in a sense, was a great help to Sean.

But even so. The face-saving effort that the God of War Church should do is still to be done.

Emily directly transferred all the war corps directly under the original pope to participate in this skeletal plane invasion. But what was the purpose in private, Emily knew from the bottom of her heart, and Sean naturally knew very well, he even knew that it must have been done by Hela instructing Emily to do so.

The whole continent suddenly felt quite turbulent.

But Sean is the initiator of the core event. This will not have time to consider these and the not.

He and Cecilia, Angel and others. Under the leadership of Kozilek and Alexis, they are struggling to smash a * path from the tide of undead that has already moved, and then advance toward the Millennium Covenant Zone in the Wild Lands.

Currently, the opening of the door of the bones, only those truly strong in Miracle Continent know the truth. As for the others, whether it is the ordinary people or those golden powerhouses with a little bit of strength and scale, mercenaries, mercenary groups, etc., they only know that the death wave has erupted. Therefore, when many mercenaries and mercenaries received the military commission from the millennium covenant empire, they were joyously celebrating this time the imperial military's salary was much higher than before.

Sean's evaluation of this is: a group of simple-minded guys.

In fact. There are also many savvy people. After all, many people understand the truth that "something goes wrong, there must be a demon." Therefore, there are naturally a lot of stronger and larger mercenaries and mercenaries who did not blindly accept orders from the military, and are waiting for those eagerly entrusted to start arming the guys to test the waters. After all, for mercenary groups and mercenaries that have reached their size and level, the real trouble and difficulty of the death wave is the three months after the outbreak, so even if they lose the first opportunity, they will still be able to make a lot of money in the end. of.

Therefore, the mercenary groups and mercenary groups that Xiao En and others encountered when they went all the way south were all relatively small in scale or not strong enough. Only those who have extremely close ties with the military of the Millennium Covenant Empire and belong to power organizations on the same ship. Only then had to stand up and respond immediately.

After several days of non-stop driving, Sean and others finally arrived at the checkpoint where the millennium covenant empire controlled the import and export of the wild land.

Because Shaun and Alexis passed by abnormal means before. Naturally, I didn't pass this checkpoint, so I didn't understand the situation inside. On the contrary, Cecilia, Angel and others passed in disguise before, so they have some general understanding of the situation at this level.

But no matter how you understand it, the scene presented by the level at this time is completely different from what Cecilia and others saw when they passed.

This checkpoint is a large-scale strategic fortress built by the Thousand-Year Covenant Empire with huge sums of money. A Level 4 army with a scale of 50,000 is stationed throughout the year. The food reserves are enough to supply the entire city with a population of nearly 200,000. Three-year dietary requirements. But the only flaw is that the fortress has no self-sufficient water source. Although fifty large reservoirs and water towers have been built, it still needs to rely on the southern part of the empire to transport almost one million tons of water to the fortress every year.

However, in terms of defense systems, this fortress can still stand the test.

Especially a military base of the Millennium Covenant Empire about 100 kilometers away from the fortress, where there is a five-thousand-man cavalry regiment stationed there. Although the main purpose of the establishment of this military base is to protect the transportation route of the southern part of the Millennium Covenant Empire to the fortress, it also has a strategic mission of both reconnaissance and vanguard operations when the dead tide erupts, and if the border defense of the imperial fortress is urgent, they You can also arrive here within three days for reinforcements.

It can be said that this fortress guarding the import and export restrictions of the millennium covenant empire on the barren land is a truly solid military fortress.

But now--

The two huge iron gates of ten meters high in the fortress actually collapsed on one side!

The horse-retarding fences originally set up 500 meters away from the fortress were basically completely destroyed. You can see traces of scorched black everywhere on the ground, as well as a lot of blood stains. There are even a lot of them that have been extinguished. The black smoke still curling up. Moreover, the twenty-meter-high city wall of the fortress also showed many damages.

There are countless traces of obvious corrosion by liquids such as strong acids on the black wall. Of course, there are also potholes that seem to be caused by explosions. .

no doubt. This fortress has only experienced a tragic battle.

And the end of this war may not be long.

However, Sean and others are not people who have not experienced such cruel scenes. What really concerns them is that although the entire fortress looks like it has been baptized by a terrible war, there is not even a corpse left. .

This phenomenon is truly abnormal!

Everyone present knows it. There is only one reason for this. That is, the undead army has launched an attack on this fortress one step ahead of Sean and others. Judging from the current results, the fortress has undoubtedly been breached, but the current question is whether the fortress has been completely occupied by the undead army, or the undead army has only temporarily breached the fortress and was driven out. gone?

If it is the former, then Xiao En and others can basically give up the idea of crossing this fortress. Even such a strong fortress can be breached. Obviously, the undead army occupying here is definitely not just a cannon fodder sequence, at least it is a regular undead army led by elite sequence arms. Moreover, the skeletal plane invasion is different from the death wave under normal circumstances. The army of the undead is not brainlessly advancing and killing. Instead, a series of corresponding military installations such as outposts, bridgeheads, and frontline bases will be established.

If it's the latter, then you can take the risk and move on.

Because if it is repelled, it is undoubtedly very dangerous for Sean and others to stay here. After all, the undead army will never know that it is tired and will come back at any time. However, if it is said that the defenders of the fortress have withdrawn, then these undead army is likely to launch a pursuit, so the main battlefield will inevitably be expanded in the wild, which is not conducive to Sean's later plans. .

The eyes of everyone. I couldn't help but all looked at Sean.

Sean glanced at Alexis, but the latter shook his head: "Don't look at me. It's okay to let me rush to fight. I'm not good at judging the situation like this, the only thing I can sense, It's just that there is no strong person in it that can interest me. You might as well ask Kozilek, his judgment of the breath of life is much more acute than mine."

"Are the undead also counted as a breath of life?" Sean was a little puzzled.

"For Kozilek, as long as it has the origin of the soul, it is considered to be a thing of life." Alexis replied directly through the soul contract in a mental way, "It is just divided into edible and non-eatable. That's it... The fire of life contained in normal living objects is directly edible by Kozilek. Although the fire of soul is also a kind of fire of life, it only changes when it is applied to the body of the undead. Become poisonous."

Even though Sean doesn't know what's going on, from Alexis's words, Sean understands roughly.

When necessary, Kozilek can also use the soul fire of devouring undead creatures as a means of attack to solve opponents. It's just different from Kozilek's usual habit of devouring the fire of life. If the soul fire of undead creatures is swallowed, it will also have a certain negative impact on Kozilek. As for the pledged creatures that have been separated from the living body, like puppets, there are no symbols of life and soul in their bodies, so Kozilek can't solve them by devouring life.

"Kozilek, now in that fortress...is there anyone?"

"Yes." Kozilek's answer was as simple and simple as ever.

"Uh..." Sean suddenly felt a little difficult to understand, so after thinking about it, he added, "Is it a living person?"

"Yes." Kozilek nodded.

Hearing Kozilek's words, the faces of everyone could not help showing a bit of joy.

Angel even said directly: "Great, since this place has not been captured by the undead army, let's pass it quickly. I have already contacted my legion, and they will come to respond as soon as they enter the wild land. Our security will be greatly improved."

Chapter 2: Win the city

In contrast to Angel's excessive optimism, Sean's view is much more conservative.

"I don't think our security can be improved." Sean said in a deep voice, with a particularly gloomy expression on his face. "It's not that I trust the Frost Legion. As a lord, the Frost Legion's intelligence is very good. It is difficult to obtain, but I am familiar with the results of several brilliant victories. The reason why I feel that safety cannot be guaranteed is because once I pass this fortress, a wild land with a vast terrain like a plain river is the most suitable for the undead to take advantage of. Location."

Hearing Shaun's words, Angel, Cecilia, Rena and others were all lost in thought.

Compared to other people, whether it is Angel, Cecilia, and Rena, they all have very good battlefield commanding capabilities, and they are not just a force to charge. Therefore, naturally, I heard more information from Sean's words, and combined with the racial characteristics of the undead army, it instantly made them aware of how much the vast terrain has increased the combat power of the undead army. horrible.

The most powerful part of the undead army lies in the almost unlimited crowd tactics and the undead characteristics that make countless generals a headache or even unable to cope with it.

So the more you fight in the vast terrain, the more obvious the advantage of the undead army will be able to play.

Know that the value of judging a general, in addition to his tactics, strategy and other aspects of school examinations, is more important to assess the value of how large-scale battles they can command. For example, the reason why Hela was able to rank seventh among the ten generals in the previous life game is that once she is allowed to exert her "power" to the extreme, she can even form a terrible similar to commanding millions of troops in a battle. Strategic advantage.

As for William, a million-level war is his command limit.

Just as Rina wants to maximize the ability of Rina's outstanding generals, it is the cavalry regiment that only gives her a thousand people, every general has a command and command limit.

And once it exceeds this limit. Their command capabilities will be greatly compromised, and they may even have negative effects such as chaos in the command system.

This is also one of the fundamental reasons why those powerful kingdoms will never dislike their own country's generals.

Ten generals at the general level are all capable of commanding at least a million-level army on a battlefield.

But the army of the undead is different.

Different from the command method of the battlefield semaphore of intelligent creatures and other means of communication, the army of the undead is a soul command method that relies on the central node. So let alone a million, even if it is a scale of tens of millions. For the Legion of Undead, it is just a matter of waiting. And this tens of millions of levels. It still refers to the ranks 5 and 6 of the Legion that belongs to the regular army sequence of the Undead Legion, and the cannon fodder sequence of skeletons and bones is not considered at all.

So you can imagine how terrible it will be once you fight the undead army in a vast area.

Unless they have the power to forcefully crush, the undead army will directly annex any legion in the world with a steady stream of numbers. And after the war, they will also transform these dead soldiers into their kind. It will become bigger like a snowball.

"Are we going to take this fortress?" Cecilia deserves to be the person who understands Sean best. In an instant, he understood Sean's strategic intentions.

"If we stick to it as a stronghold, it will benefit us without any harm." Sean said in a deep voice.

His purpose is not just to solve the goal of the bones to drive Rek away, his real purpose is to hide the Utopia in the sacred land in the black earth, and the only way to go to the black earth is this fortress. Before that, Sean thought of a way to do all he could to strengthen the arms of the principality, even dragging all the wild tribes into the water, preparing to annex its forces to become the eighth empire of human forces in this world, and then forcefully take it down. The fortress of this millennium covenant empire in and out of the wild land.

But now. Obviously there is a better way.

Angel glanced at Sean, a little hesitant to speak. But in the end, he still didn't speak.

Because she knew very well that in this situation she said nothing, even for the strategic purpose of preventing the undead army from running around, this fortress must be controlled in the hands of humans. So Angel didn't worry that this fortress would fall into the hands of the undead before, because the Millennium Covenant Empire will inevitably send out an army to retake the fortress. After all, this is a key place for mankind to resist the undead army.

But, if Sean takes down this fortress.

It is conceivable that it will not be easy for the Millennium Covenant Empire to bring back this fortress. Especially after Angel saw that there were super powers under Sean's command, she knew better that the Millennium Covenant Empire, which had just experienced a civil strife and split, would never be able to get back this fortress through a battle of force—even if Angel didn't know. Shaun's plan for the Void Empire, but looking at the current close connection between the Wild Lands and the Void Principality, she also knew that the Void Principality could no longer be viewed according to the general principality level.

Under the order of Shaun, Alexis did not put away the gun of the market, but acted as a pioneer and entered the fortress first.

Followed by Sean and others, Kozilek is still in charge of the queen.

After entering the city, you can clearly see that the scene in the city is even more tragic.

For the horror of the undead army, Sean only has experience in the game, but the game is a game after all, and the cruelty of war cannot be fully reflected. And because of the limitation of digitization, some players who don't want to experience such a terrifying scene can also turn on the "harmony" mode, but even if the * mode is turned on, what you see in the game is far from what Shaun sees. The situation is comparable.

The blood stained almost all the buildings in Xiao En's vision.

But in the entire city, apart from such a strong * smell and such a bright blood red, not even a corpse was found.

Not even a corpse, even the equipment of the garrison in the city is also left behind. Only the chaos and horror that had erupted in the city were left, and the ruined walls and some furniture were destroyed, as well as the burnt traces and black smoke after something exploded.

Like a helpless person crying silently.

Shaun's gaze couldn't help but fall to Kozilek, who was behind the opponent.

Kozilek knew what Shaun meant, so he turned his head to the front right.

Although this fortress is a military fortress. It is mainly used to prevent the tribes of the wild land from entering the hinterland of the Millennium Covenant Empire through this pass, so the overall military action is still the main thing. However, as the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce's commercial wasteland reclamation of the wild land became more and more prosperous, the six gates guarding the import and export of the wild land quickly became an important supply transfer station, and gradually changed from pure The military base in China has transformed into a semi-military and semi-commercial defensive fortress.

However, most of the buildings in the fortress still use military building materials. And the layout is mainly for militarization purposes. Therefore, it is guaranteed in terms of defensive performance.

At this time, the location Kozilek was referring to was the tallest and largest building in the entire fortress.

If there are no accidents, this should be the command center of the entire fortress. After all, this fortress was originally a military fortress. Even if it was improved after being influenced by the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance, the main function of the fortress has not been cancelled. It has only been expanded and renovated within the fortress. Some of the original military settlements were given up to business travelers and civilians. And built a free trade market.

The blood-stained land seen by Xiao En and others should undoubtedly be the residential area of civilians, and the more well-preserved area should be the military area.

"Go." Sean said concisely.

So the team quickly walked towards the place where Kozilek was guiding.

Soon, everyone came to a huge camp area.

As expected, this military area has extremely obvious traces of fierce fighting, but compared to the fortress like a dead city, this military area can still see a lot of corpses. However, these corpses were not randomly abandoned around at this time, but were neatly stacked on the bonfire stand that had been built. Many people around are busy: they are either inspecting the corpse and collecting the nameplates and records used to prove the identity of the corpse, or they are busy carrying the corpses of other soldiers who died in battle and organizing their armaments.

at this time. With the appearance of Sean and others, more soldiers began to gush out from some surrounding buildings, and quickly deployed defensive formations, and even those soldiers who were busy arranging nameplates and armaments quickly took them. He picked up the weapons around him and joined the defensive formation. In the surrounding guard towers that had not been destroyed, some figures soon appeared, and they were aiming at Xiao En and others with arrows in their hands.

didn't initiate the attack at the first time, probably because the aura exuding from Kozilek and Alexis was so strong that they clearly realized that the power gap between the two sides was too great. Of course, the most important thing is that Xiao En and others did not express any hostility, so these talents did not launch an attack for the time being.

"Human...like?" A man who seemed to be considered a certain status by military rank stood out from the crowd.

"Human." Sean nodded.

"This is not a safe place, hurry up..." The officer immediately shouted after hearing Sean's admission, but soon he realized that the strength of the opponent is obviously not simple, because Kozilek and Ally No matter which one of these two people, Kesis brings extremely strong pressure to them, not to mention there are two other people in this team, and they also vaguely use Sean as the core.

"Are you...reinforcement?" The officer hesitated for a moment, and then chose the wording carefully.

Angel looked at Sean with a complicated expression.

"In terms of defending against the undead army, we are indeed reinforcements." Sean nodded, and then said, "In the face of such a huge threat, this is a responsibility that humans cannot shirk."

The officer's eyes flickered, and he had already heard the hidden subtext in Sean's words. However, compared to the officer who could hear the subtext in Sean's words, other ordinary soldiers did not understand at all. They only knew that Sean and others were here to support their reinforcements, so they made waves of cheers. . Looking back at the soldiers who had been facing the extreme fear of death, the officer gave a bitter smile helplessly.

He glanced at Xiao En and others again. After frowning, he finally gritted his teeth and said: "Can you please come to the conference room for a talk?"

Chapter 3: .treasure house

The military zone of the fortress is the most well-preserved area of the entire fortress.

Although the garrison of the fortress is fifty thousand defenders, the general military units in the Marvel Continent count regular troops, and do not include logistics, weight, and reserve services. Generally speaking, the garrison guards responsible for a fortress will not have heavy troops, but there will definitely be logistics and reserve services. Therefore, the total number of troops is definitely more than 50,000, at least about 100,000, and it is still a military-agricultural integration.

Judging from the size of the military area as seen by Xiao En and others, it is more than enough to accommodate 10,000 or 20,000 people. If there are more, this military area may not be able to accommodate it.

In this case, there must be more than one military district in the fortress. But Kozilek only said that only the military district in front of him still had alive people, so it is conceivable that the situation in other military districts might have been completely bloodbathed.

At this time, Xiao En and others were welcomed into a conference room by the officer.

"To be honest, my military rank is not high." After entering the conference room, the officer said with a wry smile, "Allow me to introduce myself first. My name is Pallas. The official rank is only a thousand chief and belongs to the wild. The captain of the fourth team of the third branch of the fortress legion....Before the outbreak of the war, I was on a patrol mission in the front city, but the rear was raided by the dead tide army of undead..."

Listening to the words of the commander of the commander, Pylas, Sean finally knew what was going on in this wild fortress.

The official garrison of the fortress is only 50,000, and their responsibility is to guard the fortress, which means that the most conventional fortress garrison, surveillance and patrol. A shift is required for each of the front and rear walls. The task time limit for each shift is eight hours. Each shift consists of five teams with a total of 5,000 people. In other words, each patrol of the front and rear walls of the wild fortress requires one sub-group of troops. The three-shift rotation requires a total of three sub-groups, and the remaining two sub-groups are used as reserve forces. In case of accidents.

The daily patrols and security maintenance in the city are handed over to the reserve forces.

When the undead army attacked the city, it happened to be attacking the wild fortress from behind. At that time, it happened to be the sixth to tenth team of the third division in charge of guarding. As soon as I saw the size of the undead army, the alarm bell sounded immediately. The first and second sub-groups, which served as reserve forces, rushed to the rear city immediately. At the same time, the fourth and fifth sub-groups also made corresponding preparations and carried out reinforcements.

A full 45,000 troops have been invested in the war in the rear city, and this force is already very powerful.

However, the result did not expect that under the offensive of the undead army like a sea, the Houcheng District was breached for less than an hour, and then it was extremely tragic to enter the city to kill. By this time, the entire fortress knew that the death wave offensive this time was absolutely unusual. One after another began to fight back. But at this time, it was obviously too late to react, and the entire fortress fell into a deadly battle.

Pallas was relatively lucky. He led the troops and several other commanders to withdraw from the front city immediately, and then under the leadership of a deputy army commander, he gathered the routs all the way, and gradually formed a large-scale force. And the influx into the city began to deal with. But the number of helpless enemies is too large, and the dead can be resurrected for the next offensive, which naturally increases the difficulty of defense.

Stalemate with the war. The forces in the fortress naturally began to decline sharply, and eventually retreated to this military area with relatively complete defense measures. The five commanders died, leaving Pallas and another more seriously injured, and even the deputy commander was also injured. After that was a four-day persistence. During this period, although the deputy commander organized several counterattacks, the results were very few, but it made the war much more difficult.

Especially in the last counterattack, with the death of the deputy legion commander and another commander, Pallas became the highest-ranking commander of the wild fortress. Naturally, the order he gave was to defend the last stronghold as hard as possible until the arrival of reinforcements. After all, they only had less than 6,000 troops left, and more than 4,000 of them were reserve recruits and logistics personnel. There are only a thousand real soldiers.

On the day before Xiao En and the others appeared, they had just resisted a wave of undead army. I just don't know why, after this wave of invasions returned without success, the undead army suddenly retreated and left completely, so the whole city became a dead city.

After listening to Pallas's description, Sean's brows wrinkled.

"I don't know whether to say luck or misfortune." Xiao En let out a heavy breath, and then said, "Do you know where these undead army left?"

Pallas shook his head: "I don't know.... At that time, I was not in the mood to understand the movements of the undead army."

Sean sighed helplessly: "It is very possible that the undead have entered the wild land."

Having said this, Sean glanced at Pallas again, and then said: "The reason why the undead army did not continue to attack you is because you don't think you are of much value anymore, and it's not worth it for them to continue. Wasting time here... They were evacuated yesterday. Unless they are moving very fast and their purpose is very clear, they should have entered the wild land now."

"Those undead army is collecting materials?" Cecilia exclaimed.

"Eight or nine are not far from ten." Xiao En nodded slightly, "Unfortunately, we don't have a necromancer on our side, so we don't know the transformation level of materials, but the undead army will forcefully attack this city, it should be to collect materials... I also looked at the defense facilities of this military area just now. If the undead army wants to attack, at least it will take one to two days to completely win, but to them, there is no value except you."

Pallas was taken aback.

Even though Sean's words were very awkward, they actually solved Pallas's long-held doubts.

He had seen the undead army gather the corpses of many soldiers and civilians away, and the undead army that had been attacking this military area beforehand, after capturing the bodies of the deputy commander and another commander, he was decisive. Choose to retreat. That would be Pallas didn't know what was going on, but now he fully understands it, because this military district has no reason for the undead to continue to invest and consume.

"Just tell the truth." Sean looked at Pylas, and then said, "I want to take over the rule of this fortress."

"What...this..." Pallas was taken aback. Obviously some reaction can't come, "this..."

"Of course I know that this fortress belongs to the Millennium Covenant Empire, but do you think you can still hold it here with your current strength?" Shaun said lightly, "You don't have to expect the Millennium Covenant Empire to be able to send reinforcements. This time the army of the undead is not an ordinary death wave, but an invasion of the plane of bones. So the situation is worse than you can imagine."

Sean said this in front of Angel. The intention is also very clear: he did not regard Angel as an outsider, after all, he had just experienced the Sigh Forest incident together, so he simply revealed his thoughts to Angel. However, this does not mean that Angel can control his thoughts. The subtext of Sean means that he hopes Angel can become a buffer between him and the conflict between the Millennium Covenant Empire.

"Speaking of it, I haven't introduced myself." Sean said, "I am the Grand Duke of the Void Duchy. Sean Connery. I have already contacted my subordinates. They quickly rushed over for reinforcements.... ...But my meaning is also very clear, I want to take over all command of this fortress. Of course, if you are not willing to cooperate, I will not embarrass you, this military area is still under your autonomy."

Pallas looked at Sean. He had already seen from Sean's attitude that the other party was not joking. And just by their words, it would never be possible to defend such a fortress. Even now it is difficult to defend this military area alone. But if he just surrendered the wild fortress, Pallas was also struggling very much inside. After all, he is a soldier of the Millennium Covenant Empire.

"Then if my request for help is useful, what if the Imperial Army has sent reinforcements?" Pallas said, "Will you... transfer the command of the fortress?"

"Heh." Sean smiled slightly, then stood up. This action indicated that the topic between him and Pallas had ended, "It depends on the situation."

Hearing what Shaun said, Pallas knew what Shaun meant. The Void Lord would definitely not let out the fortress that he could easily get. After all, as the closest place to the Wildlands, Pallas still knew a lot of rumors about the Grand Duke.

Soon, Xiao En and others left the military area, they did not stay in the military area, and Paras naturally did not stay.

But after leaving the military area, Sean said, "Alexis, I'm going to trouble you."

"I know." Alexis nodded slightly, and then walked towards the Wildlands. She knew that Sean meant to let him go to the Wildlands to investigate and see if the undead army actually entered. Arrived in the wilderness.

And Kozilek is responsible for staying to protect everyone.

As for William, Sean did not lie either. He had indeed notified Noro and asked him and William to immediately lead the army over—this was done when he entered the fortress.

It can be said that from the moment Sean decided to take down this fortress, he had already begun to take action. The reason why these things are said frankly, but only to avoid some unnecessary confusion and trouble. And these are all based on Angel's face, otherwise Sean would not say hello at all, and would directly let William lead the army to rush over.

"Relitha, I have a task for you." Sean said.

"What mission?" Rilitha asked.

The strength of a few of them is only in the golden realm. They have been a burden since sighing the forest. At this time, they heard that there was a task, and naturally they showed a very positive side.

There is no other reason, they must prove their value.

"Monitor the movement of the people in Pallas, and once they want to leave the military area, ask them to go back." Sean said, "I don't want them to come out and make trouble when I perform other tasks. ."

Rilista and others looked at each other, then nodded, indicating that they accepted the task.

"Miss Angel, next I need you to help me a little bit." Sean smiled and said, "I hope you can let your Frost Legion enter the fortress. Of course, all the military information about your empire left in this fortress. Information, you can all get it back, and I will not steal this content.... This is reward."

Angel looked at Xiao En, and nodded after a moment of silence, and said: "So...what do you want my legion to do?"

"Transportation."

"Transport?" Angel was a little unbelievable.

"Yes." Xiao En laughed, "The undead army wants corpse materials. This fortress has just been ransacked, so it has become a dead city. But before that..." At this point, Xiao En laughed. He smiled, and then continued: "The Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce has always controlled the economy and trade of this fortress. Because of the sudden attack of the undead army, there are definitely not many people who can escape. So now... this fortress is full of countless materials and treasures."

Angel's eyes opened wide.

"And in this world, no one except me would dare to swallow the goods of the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce."

Chapter 4: Attack

As Sean expected, the entire fortress still reserves a large amount of extremely valuable and rare materials.

Whether it is quantity or quality, it is far better than Shaun's previous gains from the black market. After all, this wild fortress is the closest to the wild land. In addition to capturing the tribes of the wild land as slaves, this wild land also has countless types of beasts, mineral veins, plants, etc., of which some are extremely rare. The rare materials of the genus, especially the Yalong genus, are more common in the savage land and outland on the Marvel Continent, and even if there are other places, they are only a few of them.

Although it's almost impossible to kill those tribesmen in the savage land anymore, the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce and adventurers and other major power organizations still set their sights on the various rare materials in the savage land.

Because of this, the six major entrances into and out of the wild land, except for the one occupied by Shaun's Void Duchy and completely closed, the other five entrances are more severely guarded and garrisoned by their respective controllers. Had it not been for the millennium covenant empire to be caught in civil strife, the garrison in this wild fortress would never have been 50,000, let alone be controlled by the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce without power.

It's just that no one thought that with the invasion of the Bone Plane, this wild fortress would fall into the hands of Sean. Moreover, the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance simply had no time to transport all the materials and materials stored in the fortress, so this huge treasure house turned into a supplement to help Shaun's strength.

If you want to fight a protracted war, the biggest consumption is various materials.

The reason why the tide of death has become a disaster that has turned countless people on the entire continent is that every time this disaster is launched, it consumes a large amount of strategic materials and troops. However, as the side of the undead, there will be no loss in this respect at all. Therefore, when the disaster happens, the place threatened by the death wave will be completely paralyzed.

The death wave is already so terrifying, not to mention the invasion of the bone plane, which is more terrifying than the death wave.

The harvest that Shaun gained in the Wild Fortress. In addition to a large number of rare materials, there are also a large number of ordnance reserves and food reserves.

Although these ordnance weapons are not as good as those configured by Sean for his own army, they are considered to be a conventional level four army, and the quality is fairly good. Even though the Thunder Lions and Steel Wings cannot be equipped, they can also be used to equip the Cecilia Guards and regiments such as the First Cavalry Regiment, the First Infantry Regiment, the Second Infantry Regiment, and the Mobile Infantry Regiment. .

In various senses. Take down the wild fortress. The increase in the strength of the Void Principality is not small.

Although Angel has always denied her royal identity, she has never forgotten her identity as a member of the Millennium Covenant Empire. After bargaining with Sean, in addition to returning all the military materials of the entire fortress to the Millennium Covenant Empire, the reserve of strategic materials should also be divided equally with the Frost Legion. As for those things of the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance, Angel and Frost Legion don't want anything.

Because in fact, only Sean, who had a complete fallout with the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance, dared to swallow these things so openly.

Even if the Millennium Covenant Empire swallows these things, once the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance causes trouble. At least half of the Millennium Covenant Empire must be returned. Even other concessions need to be made. There is no other reason. Today when the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance has completely formed a climate, its trade routes have completely spread across the entire Miracle Continent. Even if the Chamber of Commerce Alliance cannot impose economic sanctions and blockades on the seven empires, it will be enough to reduce the volume of trade transactions. Let the economy of a great empire fall into stagnation.

This is also one of the fundamental reasons why the seven empires have maintained friendly relations with the Chamber of Commerce Alliance so far: in terms of combat power, if the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance is all united, it can barely compete with one empire. But it is absolutely impossible to beat an empire, if it is really torn apart. In terms of combat power, it is the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance that ultimately suffers; and in turn, the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance also provides a steady stream of business opportunities for the seven empires, which naturally brings great economic systems to the seven empires. Interests, the seven empires have been unable to break away from the mature trading system of the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance.

This kind of deformed relationship has been maintained for thousands of years, and both parties have been in peace.

There is only Sean. His Void Principality is not too large, and the establishment of the country is not too long, and the pan-continental chamber of commerce alliance is not deeply involved, naturally, there is no need to rely too much on its mature trade routes and system. In addition, Sean's trading methods are all made by him personally, directly negotiating with the nobles, not through the chamber of commerce at all, and even the trade transactions of the Void Principality are personally responsible and screening routes by Neil, naturally, there is no need to go. Look at the face of the Pan-Continent Chamber of Commerce Alliance.

So, the Frost Legion soon received Angel's secret order and began to turn toward the wild fortress.

Similarly, Noro, who was responsible for protecting William, also informed William of his plan after receiving Sean's soul transmission.

At this time, William, who had returned to the wild capital to take charge, also immediately began to prepare Alfred and Clover for the attack. This time, William even used the two trump cards of the Silver Temple Legion composed of werewolves and the Conviction Wing Legion that had been hidden for a long time. In addition, the First Cavalry Regiment, the Mobile Infantry Regiment, and the Second Infantry Regiment will all serve as the second-sequence corps, rushing from the Void Principality to the Wild Capital, and accepting orders.

However, in order to prevent unnecessary troubles and problems in the wild capital, Hela naturally must rush over and sit down.

As for the first corps that is best at defensive, the commander of Stalin will continue to occupy the canyon fortress-this fortress lies across the fissure valley and is the only entrance and exit of the void duchy and the wild land. This fortress is the most important part of the Nether Empire's plan. Therefore, the investment and construction cost a lot. Whether it is William, Neil, or Hela, it is impossible not to leave a way out for themselves, so it is natural to hand over this fortress. Responsible for Stalin, who is best at positional defense.

Many tribal leaders in the wild capital, seeing William's so energetic and mobilizing troops to attack, naturally realized the seriousness of the problem. However, William did not intend to hide these people. After all, the Void Empire project has already reached the most important link at this time. Any mistakes at this time will cause the efforts of William and others in the past few years to be wiped out, so William is naturally Very simply told all the tribal leaders in the Wildlands of the invasion of the Bone Plane.

The leaders of these wild tribes may not be aware of the danger of bone invasion, but its seriousness naturally shocked everyone.

The most important point is that once the wild fortresses occupied by Sean cannot be defended, the unfortunate thing is that these tribes rely on them to survive in the wild. In fact, this is actually a very good opportunity. If used properly, the Void Principality can completely integrate these tribal leaders and directly upgrade the Void Principality to the level of an empire.

It's just that, in this respect, William is still inferior to the strategic level of Shanghai La and Neal, so Hela will be the capital of the wild. Even Neil moved from the Void City to the Canyon Fortress to work. After all, the territory of the Void Duchy is extremely weak today, and almost all available soldiers have been emptied.

With the transmission and unfolding of Shaun's orders and plans, the heart-pounding war machine of Void Principality finally operates at high speed and confidentiality again.

On the other hand, Alexis, who was dispatched by Sean to investigate, was also in action at this time.

Only along the way, she did not find any trace of the legionary actions. Don't even say it was a legion, there were no signs of a larger-scale human flow activity, let alone an undead aura.

You should know that even if the breath can be blocked by some means for a large-scale troop operation like the Undead Legion, the trace can never be hidden. Even if this is just an army of cannon fodder responsible for collecting materials, it is purely relying on human tactics to win the barren fortress of the Millennium Covenant Empire. Afterwards, the entire army is divided into two through the collected materials: one part continues to find new materials. , Part of the collected materials will be returned.

But at least it will definitely leave traces in the course of the action.

Alexis frowned slightly, her instinct told her that this was something wrong. But for a while, she couldn't think of anything unusual at all. If she could conduct a careful inspection in the fortress, she might find some clues. But she didn't have time to check the situation at all, and was sent by Sean to track down the undead army that was completely missing. As a result, her intelligence was also extremely limited.

Thinking of this, Alexis couldn't help but began to contact Sean, preparing to tell Sean this intuition that made her feel uneasy.

Before Alexis passed the information to Sean through the soul connection, a horrible whistling sound like howling ghosts and wolves suddenly struck Alexis.

The disgusting smell quickly diffused with the howling sound, which was extremely strong dead corpse poison.

Alexis immediately held his breath and swept his gun towards the place where the whistling sound came from.

Only a dull sound of gold and iron strikes suddenly exploded, and the strong counter-shock even made Alexis's face redden, and the whole person couldn't help but back up a few steps. Of course, the opponent who had such a head-to-head confrontation with Alexis was obviously also very uncomfortable. The opponent even took ten more steps back than Alexis before he finally managed to stabilize his figure.

However, on Alexis's face, there is no joy in gaining the upper hand at all.

Because she has seen the true face of the attacker.

Chapter 5: .Reaper Knight

Standing in front of Alexis was an armored warrior holding a huge broad-bladed sword.

The off-white chain armor heavy armor is a relatively outdated product, although this armor has very good defensive capabilities: it can effectively resist slashing and greatly weaken the power of long-range shooting from a hundred meters away. But its splitting is equally obvious: this type of armor is difficult to withstand slashing and bludgeoning damage, especially when it comes to facing crossbow shooting, it appears as weak as paper.

However, if this kind of heavy armor is worn on an undead, it's a different matter.

The undead is not afraid of any long-range damage from the crossbow, or in addition to the long-range damage of the energy type of magic, all physical methods of long-range strikes are difficult to cause damage to the undead. Of course, if you want to talk about the stones thrown by the catapult or the dragon-like arrows fired by the siege crossbow, it must not be here.

And compared to hacking and bludgeoning, the bones strengthened by death force can also resist to a large extent. On the contrary, slashing this type of attack will cause greater damage to the undead creatures. Therefore, this kind of heavy chain armor, worn on the body of the undead creature, can naturally play a better defense effect, thereby enhancing the fighting ability of the undead creature.

Not to mention, the chain armor heavy armor worn by this armor warrior is still a special equipment that has been enhanced by magic.

This armored warrior stood about twenty steps away, staring at Alexis coldly. Of course, his attention was more on the sword-blade gun in Alexis's right hand. Just now, he was shocked by the energy transmitted from this sword-blade gun—and It wasn't that it was shaken back by Alexis's power.

"Reaper Knight Lucas." Alexis coldly revealed the identity of the armored warrior in front of him.

As one of the thirteen kings on the plane of bones, each king has its own unique name.

Like bass, it is the sword emperor.

However, in some normal planes who don't know much about the undead king Beth, many people like to call him the "Undead Sword Emperor". At least at the very beginning of the Continent of Miracles, those aloof gods also liked to call him this way, until after the outbreak of the Twilight Battle of the Gods. After Beth personally beheaded several high-level gods, the two words "immortality", which were obviously strongly distinguished, were finally removed.

In front of him, this little Lucas' brother, Ann Lucas, was named on the plane of bones. It's the death knight.

He is known for his  fighting style and powerful brute force-purely in terms of strength. He has stronger power than bass, but if it is to compete with swordsmanship or combat skills, then he will never be the opponent of bass. Because the strength of a single value does not mean invincibility, only when the overall strength completely crushes the opponent can it be called truly invincible.

"We meet again, Alexis." Ann Lucas looked at Alexis. His voice is not as cold and hoarse as ordinary undead creatures. On the contrary, it is a kind of magnetism that is full of mature men. If you ignore An En's identity as an undead creature, this vicissitudes of life with silver-gray hair can easily attract the high attention of some ladies, "Last time my brother, Thank you for your care."

Alexis shrugged, her face completely indifferent: "Unfortunately, the care is not thoughtful enough."

Subtext, naturally, I regret not killing little Lucas last time.

This made Ann Lucas frown, and a strong killing intent appeared on his face. But I don't know why. Ann Lucas did not rashly attacked Alexis, but stood cautiously in place. But as a strong man who can reach the top plane of the traveler, Alexis naturally finds very clearly that the great Lucas in front of him is suppressing the strong desire to confront him in his heart.

If you're an ordinary person, Alexis doesn't mind fighting against each other. Anyway, what she likes to do is to fight against countless strong men, so as to experience the thrill of fighting and increase her strength quickly.

But it's a pity.

Reaper Knight, Ann Lucas is no ordinary person.

Fight against such a person whose fighting skill is basically relying on brute force, and the fighting power is almost reduced by half after losing the horse. It is really difficult for Alexis to mention any battle. She prefers to fight against elven sword dancers like Fannie, because this kind of fight may give her more chances of enlightenment, and of course, she can gain more experience in fighting against the enemy.

Thinking of this, Alexis's face changed slightly.

Ann Lucas' rank system is 【Knight】. But now, his horse hasn't appeared by his side. If you want to know that the knight system professional wants to truly exert all of their strength, then the mount is absolutely indispensable.

This discovery made Alexis couldn't help but clenched the gun of the ruins in his hand.

And Ann Lucas, after discovering this move by Alexis, he immediately held the huge wide-bladed sword in his hand at this moment, and took the lead in launching an attack by Alexis.

An En's attack method seems a bit monotonous and mechanical. Although a weapon weighing at least a few hundred kilograms is as light as a kapok stick in his hand, this is indeed a very remarkable thing, but if it can only be Sweeping, vertical splitting, and other actions are not threatening at all for Alexis. On the contrary, this kind of attack method that relies solely on strength, in the face of Alexis's attacking actions, not only fails to make contributions, but also almost gets the upper hand by Alexis several times. .

It's just that, after 30 tricks could not be made in the battle, Alexis's face showed an anxious anger.

Because she has discovered that although Ann Lucas' attacks seem fierce, but because of the lack of mounts, these attack methods seem to have lost a bit of fierceness. At first, she didn't care too much, and even wanted to take An En quickly based on this loophole, even if she couldn't kill him, she would have it completely severely damaged. At least Alexis had noticed that Anen Lucas's strength at this time was even barely reaching the threshold of the seventeenth order, completely inferior to himself holding the gun of the ruins.

But soon, Alexis discovered that all this was just a trap of Ann Lucas: He was only trying to delay himself here, so he deliberately showed the appearance of insufficient strength. And with the strength of Alexis, even if he wanted to kill the opponent, it would not take an instant. This naturally made her feel a little irritable.

The black sword-blade gun drew a black half arc and slammed into An En's wide-blade sword, but there was a sudden tremor in the space, and ripples like ripples slowly spread.

But in fact, there are ripples that oscillate around this circle. But it is full of extremely powerful laws.

is even a super power at the sixteenth level. In the face of this force, you must also deal with it carefully, otherwise, if you are a little careless, it will not be as simple as a serious injury, but will take your own life in. After all, this turbulent ripple already involves the original power of the Spear of the Ruins - any divine tool will have its own original power, and its existence is actually equivalent to a manifestation of the upper law.

Ann Lucas' armor. Soon there was a light-colored light.

This light is extremely weak. If you don't look carefully, you can't see it at all, but the actual effect and power it produces is not low at all.

All the rippling apertures will be completely opened when they come into contact with this layer of gray light, leaving only a very small amount of energy aura.

It's just that if there is any super strong at this moment, you can feel the frequency of collisions of the law in this small area at this moment is extremely frequent, almost reaching a rhythm of hundreds of times per second. And it's not just that the frequency is extremely fast. Even its power is extremely strong, any trace of energy dissipation may make a huge fortress city as big as a wild fortress directly turned into dust.

In an instant. Just the charge of energy has reached thousands of times.

But on both sides, at this moment, it is no one can do nothing.

The gun of the ruins is a divine weapon. Isn't that set of chain armor heavy armor worn on Ann Lucas?

Alexis drew the gun of the ruins with his backhand, and the sharp blade directly drew a huge opening several meters long and more than one meter wide in the air, and countless glass-like broken fragments accompanied this opening. The scratches of the child were suspended and annihilated in mid-air.

A crack that could clearly see the energy surge of the void storm, it stayed in mid-air abruptly.

With this blow, Alexis temporarily got rid of the fight of Ann Lucas. The latter seemed to be a little afraid of the destructive power that Alexis just broke out, and did not continue. Before grabbing the body, the two sides temporarily recovered to the previous state of balance and confrontation.

"Are you delaying time?" Alexis looked at Ann Lucas, and said in a deep voice.

Ann Lukas glanced at his right arm armor. Although he blocked the destruction of the Ruins Spear with the artifact armor on his body just now, there was actually a very shallow white scratch on the arm armor. Obviously Ai The blow that Lixis had just had no effect. However, this also made Ann Lucas discover that it was completely impossible to hold Alexis in a frontal battle with his current strength, so he quickly raised his own. Left hand.

A neigh suddenly sounded, and the ground soon exploded. A horse wearing a vest drilled directly from the ground, and countless splashes of sand were quickly decayed into black clay, scattered in the air. on the ground. And as soon as the black clay fell to the ground, it contaminated a large piece of black corrosive gas directly on the ground at a speed visible to the naked eye, and strands of death gas were rising from these contaminated ground.

Ann Lucas turned directly on his horse, and the epee in his hand was hung forward and inserted into the scabbard in front of the horse, and backhand drew out the long spear lying horizontally behind the saddle.

A fierce death breath erupted from his body.

Ann Lucas at this moment can be regarded as truly possessing the capital of the first battle of Alexis.

However, in this complete state, Ann Lucas has lost the ability to fight Alexis personally before. After all, the knight-level system itself is not suitable for close fighting. They are better at hard battles such as charging. So although they have the ability to fight Alexis, once Alexis If Si wanted to evacuate, Ann Lucas could not stop it at all.

Seeing that Ann Lucas could no longer engage in a close fight with himself, he directly showed his full strength. Obviously, he had to try his last possibility to drag himself here for an hour or two, Alexis Si's face immediately changed: "The undead army in the wild fortress has not been evacuated at all!?"

Ann Lucas did not answer, kicked with both legs, and directly urged the horse to attack Alexis.

At this time, Alexis only had time to send a message to Sean: "Be careful!"

Chapter 6: .trap

Shaun's face was very ugly at this time.

In front of him are more than fifty skeletal warriors.

Of course, this number is not terrible. With Sean's current strength, let alone fifty, even five hundred can't stop him from leaving. Moreover, there are Angel and Ser by Sean's side. Celia these two powerhouses both belong to the upper sanctuary.

It's just that fifty skeletal warriors appeared in a building at the same time. This situation seemed a bit embarrassing.

Cecilia can't use her skill.

Because since her bloodline has completely awakened and entered a higher stage, her magic has basically moved closer and closer to war-type magic, and several of them have even reached the scale of strategic-type magic. Simple and small magic is also very powerful, but to be honest, it is not small at all. If Cecilia let go of her hands and feet completely, she might be able to bury Sean and other members alive.

As for Angel, although she has the bloodline ability that is not inferior to Cecilia, the undead creatures are not afraid of the cold. Although it is possible to ignore these fifty bone warriors with only swordsmanship, she, like Sean, is a relatively large battlefield swordsmanship, facing so many bone warriors in a small space building. , Angel was also a little helpless, especially as there were many of her own people around her, which made her feel a little shackled.

This is a three-story warehouse.

Because it is a warehouse, there are four connecting channels on each floor, so that the owner of the warehouse can quickly ship when necessary. But in this way, it naturally gave these bone warriors more offensive options-if there is only one staircase, then only one position needs to be blocked to achieve the degree of defense of "one man is the one who is in the middle of the world."

But now, it is really possible to fight back. Only Sean and Angel are the two. If Cecilia makes a move, she will definitely set the warehouse on fire first.

As for the entire warehouse, there are only three people, Sean, Angel, and Cecilia at this time.

As for the others, they were all dispatched by Sean to look for more important supplies. After all, the whole city is now an empty city where everything is desired. The garrison in the original fortress was also shattered. So he wouldn't come out to grab supplies with Sean at all, even if he would, he would grab those reserves first.

It's just that Sean didn't expect that he would be attacked by the Legion of Undead when he dispersed all the personnel.

"Where did these * guys come from!" Sean let out a curse.

However, his hands were not idle. The black light drawn by the Black King pierced the skulls of several skeletal warriors who were trying to rush up the stairs very neatly. Ensure that the fire of the soul within it has been extinguished.

After all, this is not a place like sighing in the forest. It is also impossible for the destroyed bone warriors to resurrect indefinitely. However, as a Tier 5 intermediate undead creature, the bone hardness of the bone warrior is really not low. It is difficult for ordinary attacks to cause fatal damage to it. The soul fire in the skull must be broken to ensure that it is completely incapable of movement. Will not be resurrected without the knowledge of others.

The biggest problem with the army of the undead is that many times it seems that the enemy has been solved, but when you turn your head, the fallen undead climbed up again, dragging the negligent people down the abyss of death. However, as the number of confrontations with the undead increased. Even if the recruits don't know what they are dealing with, the veterans who have fought with the undead will also be in every death wave. Continue to popularize relevant knowledge for recruits.

Sean, as the person who most often comes into contact with undead creatures in the game, how could he not know this?

Therefore, his attack is definitely a kill.

The two Cecilia and Angel who were traveling together, one was a magician, and the other was a thousand-year-old imperial man who was often ravaged by the wave of undead death. Naturally, they were very clear about this undead creature. Perhaps Angel is not as good as Sean in terms of swordsmanship, but as a strong man in the upper sanctuary, Angel's strength is definitely not weak. It is naturally not a problem to smash the skulls of these skeletal warriors with a single sword.

"Can't stop it!" The fastest problem, as Sean expected, was Cecilia.

Although Cecilia can control Solomon's Seventy-two Heavy Flame to directly hit the skulls of these skeletal warriors, minimizing the explosion damage, but for Cecilia, this is also a magic that requires a lot of attention. If someone protects in front, then Cecilia can control the power wholeheartedly, even if it is now, she can block a staircase, but when there are other bone warriors from the fourth path, no one When the defensive stairway climbed to the second floor, Cecilia became the most vulnerable point.

It's not that Cecilia can't deal with these bone warriors, she can naturally throw a magic to solve these bone warriors, but the whole warehouse will be buried with her-she is not a problem, but Angel and Sean are two. Just can't stand it. That's why Cecilia had to precisely control Solomon's Seventy-two Heavy Flames, solving the enemies in front of them bit by bit.

"There are undead everywhere now. If we want to break out of the building, we will fall into a larger encirclement!" Angel kicked a skeletal warrior who had been solved by him down the stairs, knocking over the others behind. After having a skeletal warrior, she hurriedly took the time to look at the situation outside the warehouse through the window, and was immediately shocked by the environment outside the warehouse.

At this moment, it was originally a wild fortress in an empty and dead city, and the streets were actually filled with densely packed skeletons.

Although there is no skeleton unit higher than the skeleton warrior at present, the skeleton unit that fills almost all the streets of the fortress is already a horrible scene that can make countless people desperate. It should be no less than a rough estimate. At one hundred thousand. Even though Sean and the others have extremely strong personal strength, but if they fall into this kind of encirclement, it is very easy for them to lose their strength in battle and eventually die in this kind of encirclement.

Even legendary powerhouses will never let themselves fall into the death circle of the undead wave. The correct choice they will make is to make a  way to leave before they are exhausted. Only in the case of ensuring their own safety and being able to continuously recover their physical strength, the legendary powerhouse facing the wave of undead will choose to continue to fight with the undead army, otherwise their top priority will only be their own safety.

"Where did these undead come from?" Cecilia also exclaimed. But even in such a critical situation, her mental power control did not show the slightest deviation, and she still killed these bone warriors with precision.

Right now!

Shaun finally received the soul warning from Alexis: "Be careful!"

However, this warning came a little late after all.

In fact, Shaun arranges the work of everyone in the team. And after spreading them out. These undead creatures began to appear gradually.

It's just that Sean didn't pay attention to these undead creatures at first, he thought it was just a few guys who accidentally left behind when the undead army left, independent of the consciousness control system. So Sean simply solved them easily, and then he saw this warehouse marked with the Leiyun Chamber of Commerce. As Sean, who has a completely indivisible feud with the Leiyun Chamber of Commerce, he naturally did not hesitate to do so. Decided to empty the warehouse first.

And Angel and Cecilia naturally wanted to have more time to spend with Sean, so they entered the warehouse of the Thunder Cloud Chamber of Commerce with Sean.

The result was unexpected. On the contrary, it ended up right now.

but. This reminder from Alexis also became a thought for Sean to make up his mind: "It doesn't matter, let's break through and leave! ... It will not do us any good to stay here. This is obviously a trap for the undead army. No matter what the other party intends to do, the fewest command centers are definitely mixed into it."

While saying this, Sean also decided not to bother about occupying the warehouse and defending.

I saw a sudden stroke of the black sword shadow, and a strong grudge burst out from Xiao En's body. Raging out toward the skeletal warrior in front of him. This time, it was no longer as simple as smashing the skulls of the bone warriors at will. Under the bombardment of Sean's sword aura, almost all the bone warriors who stood in the front were completely dismembered and turned into pieces of bone or powder.

Of course, the wooden floors and walls of the warehouse are also not immune.

Seeing that Sean finally decided to completely let go of his hands and feet to fight, Cecilia and Angel were no longer polite.

The former directly blasted Solomon's 72 Heavy Flames into sight. In an instant, the entire floor of the warehouse was completely surrounded by the skyrocketing fire, and even the destructive power was even more destructive than the sword used by Sean to kill the skeletal warriors—— The walls of most of the warehouses were directly blasted into slag; and the latter's shots were equally crisp and neat, although in terms of power and light and shadow effects, they were not as good as Sean, but Angel's sword skills were full of a majestic and imposing manner. , Fundamentally, it should be the royal secret sword swordsmanship belonging to the Millennium Covenant Empire.

With the strength of the three people, they really did desperately launch the killer move. Naturally, it was impossible for these skeletal warriors to stop Xiao En and the others.

Only this shot also destroyed the entire Leiyun Chamber of Commerce warehouse at the same time, and the fire swallowed the entire warehouse in an instant.

"Go!" Xiao En said without hesitation.

However, as the saying goes, people die for money and birds die for food. When he left, Sean still swept away, and put all the boxes in the warehouse into the ring storage space as much as possible. However, because Sean has already installed some things in it before, there are not too many things that can actually be loaded, especially the cargo boxes on the first and third floors have not been picked up-the former is because On the first floor, it was too late to let Xiao En go down and pick; the latter was because Xiao En and others had not set foot yet.

The only thing that can be received in the storage space is only part of the cargo boxes on the second floor.

After succeeded, Sean also took advantage of the fire to completely swallow the entire warehouse, rushed out of the circle of flame, and rammed Angel and Cecilia into the tide of undead on the streets of the fortress. However, compared to the hands and feet in the warehouse, which is relatively empty on the street, the shots of Xiao En and others are naturally unscrupulous. Moreover, looking at the bursts of light that lit up from time to time in the distance, and the magic and other powers he felt from it, Sean knew that Kozilek, Rilitha, Dini and others had not waited for death, but also did not know where to take it. The undead creatures that came out launched a fierce battle.

Chapter 7: Each fight

Rena's expression looked very gloomy.

She didn't know where these bone soldiers came from. However, as a person who has deep combat experience in the forest of sighs, she can still recognize it at a glance. The level of these bone soldiers is not uniform. It includes skeleton soldiers such as skeleton archers, skeleton sword soldiers, and skeleton pikemen. There are also skeletal soldiers such as skeletal warriors and skeletal warriors. The only thing they don't have is the cavalry unit.

In this team of Sean right now, apart from Alexis and Kozilek, the next strongest member is Rina. Although the cooperation between her and Blackstone is not bad, she is not a real dragon knight after all, after all, she still lacks the taste of "oneness". However, if he fights with Black Rock, he can display the fighting power equivalent to two legendary powerhouses.

is also because of this, so she and Kozilek were arranged by Sean to guard the front and back gates of the wild fortress respectively.

But now, seeing the bone soldiers that were originally intended to guard suddenly appeared from behind him, and in the blink of an eye, almost the entire streets of the wild fortress were full of these bone soldiers, how could Rina's face look good.

Almost without even thinking about it, she directly activated Michael's ability-under normal circumstances, angel outfits are in a dormant state and cannot exert their corresponding strength. Only at the request of the host, the angel outfit will enter the formally activated state, which is the so-called normal posture, not the awakened posture. To activate the awakening posture, it needs to consume more power of the host, which will also increase the host's physical consumption to some extent.

The angel outfit under the normal posture can already give Rina the power of a legendary powerhouse. Although compared with a real legendary powerhouse, she still appears weaker due to a lack of understanding of the power of the law, but that is also the case. For the top legendary powerhouse. If it is an ordinary legendary powerhouse, Rena who has activated Michael's power also has the power of World War I. Not to mention that after making Michael enter the awakening state, Rena has the strength of the legendary pinnacle.

So when Rena jumped down from the sky and stepped on the ground, a shock wave spread out with her as the center.

The power of this shock wave is extremely fierce, and all the skeletons and bone soldiers swept by the shock wave. All are completely shattered. Although many of them were not truly destroyed, it was obviously impossible to reassemble them for a while.

Only this blow, Rena has destroyed hundreds of skeletons.

On the other hand, many buildings also collapsed directly under the shock wave at this moment. Even the walls with extremely solid foundations showed countless spider web cracks, and many rubble fell from under the walls. It was obvious that the foundations of the wild fortress walls were also damaged by impact to a certain extent.

A dragon roar. Accompanied by Rina's shot, it resounded across the sky.

Heishi's increasingly robust body also rushed out from a corner. As a Yalong Beast that has reached the eighth level of strength, Blackstone is now also in the early stages of a state of transformation. There are already two bulges with a diameter of about 30 centimeters on its back. Anyone who has studied and understood dragon creatures knows that this is a sign of the official awakening of the ancient dragon bloodline of the sub-dragon of the earth type. Once the transformation is successful. If so, then the fleshy wings in the two drum packs will break out of the cocoon, so that the Terrain-type Yalong will also have the ability to fly, and will officially grow in the direction of the ancient dragon.

certainly. The change in the growth of the flying Yalong towards the ancient dragon is that its size has become extraordinarily huge. At the same time, forelimbs are grown.

In any case, as long as the black stone transforms successfully, then it can become a real dragon-like monster, instead of a dragon.

On the Marvel Continent, apart from the real dragon in the Duchy of Satagastan, there are no longer any dragon-type monsters in this world. Of course, the black dragon that was almost solved by Beth is not known to people-so in the strict sense, there are two dragon-type monsters in the miracle continent. If the black stone transforms successfully, then it will become the miracle continent. The third true dragon type monster.

At this time, Black Stone rushed out from the corner of the alley and directly rammed into the group of skeleton soldiers.

This is no better than sighing the forest. These skeleton soldiers and bone soldiers have not been strengthened by death, so they are not outstanding in terms of damage ability. Perhaps those skeletal warriors can make Blackstone feel with a full blow, and the attacks of other arms will not even have a slight impact on Blackstone, which already possesses the strength of the mid-level sanctuary powerhouse.

Therefore, when Blackstone crashed into the group of skeleton soldiers, it was almost like a tank drove into the group of civilians during World War II.

Countless skeletons were directly hit by the black stone and knocked down. That huge tail was just a sweep, and dozens of skeletons flew directly into the air, many of which even broke into two pieces. Immediately afterwards, he saw Heishi's mouth fiercely, but it was not a bite, but a scorching and abundant energy formed in Heishi's mouth. As soon as the airflow in the lungs blows, a flame spit out from Heishi's mouth and melted. Made a fire snake.

High-level Yalong, more or less possess some special abilities.

For example, ghost pterosaurs have the ability to breathe poisonous mist; while hurricane pterosaurs, because their wings are larger, can fan out a strong air current comparable to wind blades. In addition, there are many high-level dragons such as Nine Hole Yalong, Magma Earth Dragon, Mosasaur, Black Wing Demon Dragon, Styx Lizard, etc., which also have different special abilities.

But Emperor Dragons themselves do not have any special attack methods. They are only known for their defensive ability and endurance. Although their attack power and resilience are slightly stronger than that of the Black Rock Earth Traveling Dragon, their strength is actually relatively limited. At this moment, Black Stone can breathe flames. This obviously comes from the awakening of bloodline changes. Of course, it is also related to its current strength to officially step into the sanctuary realm.

Undead creatures are most afraid of holy light and flames.

It can be said that Blackstone's flame spray this time happens to be the strongest way to deal with these undead creatures-I didn't do this in the Sighing Forest before, just worrying about causing more trouble. After all, in that kind of place, even Cecilia had to deal with it cautiously and cautiously, not to mention the Blackstone, which was simply impossible to match Cecilia in terms of flame manipulation ability.

A large number of skeletons turned into ashes in the pure flame jet of Blackstone.

Soon, a white encirclement made up of skeletons created a large blank space. However, the other undead skeletons continued to fill this huge skeleton without fear of death, seeming to realize that this approach was only a temporary solution, so after Black Stone continued to vomit twice, he stopped this useless effort— Even if some of the special blood abilities of the black dragon are awakened, this flame spray can not be used uncontrollably.

At this time, Rena on the other side has quickly rushed into the encirclement, and has completed the rendezvous with Blackstone.

Michael himself is a fire-attribute angel costume. At this time, it is used to deal with these undead creatures. Naturally, they complement each other. In addition, Rena is also a fire-attributed vindictiveness, so even if the awakening state is not required, these skeletons are also It's hard to stop Rina's attack. If the scale of these undead creatures were not too large right now, Rena or Kozilek alone would be enough to solve all the undead creatures in the entire wild fortress.

But this is obviously not an easy task if you want to get it done easily.

Riding on Blackstone, the long spear in Rina's hand is connected to the left and right sides. Every time it is pierced, a flame will explode in the air. Maybe the light effect is not strong, but every flame will count the surrounding tenths. The skull was blown to pieces on the spot. And the flames that spread out can at least burn several skeletons next to them-the flames that use Rena's understanding of the power of the law and her own vindictiveness as the power, but these low-level undead creatures can break and be immune to it.

As for the attack from the rear, Blackstone's tail is not a display.

At this moment, a beautiful figure suddenly jumped up in the air.

The strands of cold light spilt down along with the shadows jumping. These cold lights are all ice blades condensed in mid-air. Almost every path is nearly a meter long. The densely hovering ice blades have to be said to be less. Hundreds of times.

The next moment, all the ice blades shot out.

In an instant, only the roar of the house collapsed one after another. Then came the dust and smoke, and the faint chill that gradually passed from afar.

This blow is obviously Dini's fierce shot.

Rena frowned slightly.

Although Dini is a priest with a knife, she is now the chief priest with a knife of the Church of Ice and Winter. She is responsible for training the church's priests and priests in close combat, but it is not true in dealing with the undead. What this church is good at. However, in terms of the increase in magic arts, Dini does have a strong combat ability. If it is just an undead skeleton creature, it is impossible to force Dini to fight in the air.

As a low-level sanctuary strong, Dini may not be able to use the power of the law to fly in the air, but at least she still has a certain ability to stay in the air. This is also the reason why the Sanctuary powerhouses are not afraid to fall into the encirclement. As long as they are not too powerful, they can still use the ability to stay in the air and the short-term gliding ability to quickly get out of the encirclement if they can't be defeated.

But judging from Dini's shot just now, Rena knew that Dini was in a hard fight.

patted Black Stone, and Black Stone saw Rina stretch her finger in the direction of Dini, and immediately rushed towards Dini's direction.

But in the next second, Rena saw an extremely incredible scene!

Chapter 8: . Cruise's Touch

What made Rena stunned was a huge, extremely thick tentacle, which suddenly appeared in her field of vision.

This is a huge black tentacles with a height of more than 30 meters, and a horizontal surface of more than 10 meters. There are dozens of huge suction cups densely packed on it, which looks a bit like the tentacles of an octopus.

As soon as this hand appeared, a terrible dark power spread out.

Dark power is a very pure negative energy. Unlike the death air, only the bone plane and the undead can control and use this energy. Basically all creatures in the dark system can use this energy. These creatures of the dark system naturally include some void creatures, creatures on the three major planes of abyss, hell, and bones, as well as other creatures such as vampires, dark elves, gray elves, and some orcs, gray dwarves, and so on.

The body of this huge tentacle is obviously some kind of dark creature, and it is very likely to be summoned. But because Rina had never been in contact with such creatures before, she naturally couldn't recognize what kind of creature this tentacle monster was. The only thing she could feel was the tingling sensation from intuition-which showed this. Root tentacles are quite dangerous even for Rina.

You should know that Rina's actual combat power at this time is equivalent to the legendary powerhouse.

A tentacle can pose a threat to the legendary powerhouse, so for Dini, who is only a lower sanctuary, it is absolutely conceivable how dangerous it is.

At this time, I saw this huge tentacle tremble slightly, and suddenly a powerful and unmatched suction was generated from midair. If you observe carefully with both eyes, you can see that there are dozens of extremely subtle cyclones in the air. The number of these cyclones corresponds exactly to the number of suckers of this huge tentacle. However, it is precisely because of the existence of these cyclones that they are The space that the tentacles were facing seemed to be frozen, and Tini, who was suspended in mid-air, suddenly became motionless.

Feeling the powerful confinement ability of the space, Dini's face suddenly changed.

But that tentacle. But obviously they don't know what Lianxiangxiyu is.

It is obviously very proficient in attacking the enemy with this method, so when countless cyclones are generated and the entire space is confined, this tentacle suddenly rises, and the height directly exceeds forty meters in a moment! Then the next moment. The tentacle suddenly patted Dini fiercely. The air suddenly made a very loud crackling sound like thunder.

In an instant, the imprisoned space made a cracking sound, as if the entire space was completely shattered under the slap of this tentacle.

Before the tentacles touched Dini, the blood on Dini's face faded completely, and there was even a burst of tingling pain throughout her body. At this time, she didn't know that her exposed skin - including her face, neck, back of hands, etc., had already had extremely obvious cracks. Countless blood drops leak out through the pores. The whole person is as terrible as a blood man.

Seeing that the tentacles had already been swayed, Dini knew that she couldn't avoid it, so she tried her best to let out a very sharp scream, several rays of light flashed directly on her body, and there were even two of them that needed extra Life-saving magic that consumes divine power and soul power.

Almost the sparkle of the magical light has not yet ended, and a distance of tens of meters will flash through the wave of the tentacle, and the tip of this tentacle happened to hit Dini's body.

In mid-air, a circle of scarlet air bursts visible to the naked eye. Dini was pumped out directly at the speed of breaking through the sound barrier!

When Dini fell heavily to the face, a large amount of gray dust exploded directly on the ground. But all this is not over. Because soon there was a thick smoke and dust billowing from the ground, as if a thousand horses were galloping. But everyone who saw this dust knew that the ground couldn't stop the impact of Dini's being shot down, so she slid directly on the ground, ploughing a trace that was hundreds of meters long.

Rina's heart chuckled.

She had realized that if Dini had received such a heavy blow, it was difficult to say whether she was still alive, let alone whether she was able to fight.

When Rina turned her head to look at the huge tentacle again, she saw that the huge tentacle absorbed one piece and one piece, and those cyclones once again appeared in mid-air, but this time it was not a confinement space, but rather The blood mist sprayed by Dini when she was photographed flying just now turned into blood lines, and then pulled by the suction force generated by the cyclone, they were sucked in by the suction cups of the tentacles one after another.

Seeing the blood mist in the air being sucked up by this tentacle, Xiao En's face looked extremely ugly.

He turned his head and glanced at the end of the smoke, Sean knew that Dini was lying there. It's just that she doesn't know whether Dini is still alive. If she's dead, the best way to do this now is to concentrate all combat power against the tentacle; but if she's still alive, then Sean must go to the rescue. , Because judging from the fact that Dini was hit by this heavy blow, I am afraid she has no power to fight anymore, even a skeleton can easily solve this sanctuary powerhouse.

Take a deep breath, and Sean said to Angel: "Angel, can I trouble you to go over and take a look at Tini's situation?"

Angel was taken aback for a moment, but she nodded, and said, "I understand....I'll pass now, you...be careful."

Angel glanced at Cecilia, who seemed to have noticed Angel's gaze and couldn't help but glance back at the other person. However, the two did not say much. Although the battle in the sighing forest made the relationship between the two people a bit subtle, they were essentially competitors. At this moment, Angel was only a little envious of Cecilia being able to fight side by side with Sean, how much she wished this person could be herself.

Just Angel knows that her swordsmanship is not very top-notch, perhaps quite good in solo combat, but after all, swordsmen are not as good as magicians in dealing with large-scale enemies. What's more, she also knows that her bloodline power is an ice shark, which may be able to restrain Cecilia's Phoenix bloodline, but in the face of undead creatures, she is still inferior to Cecilia's Phoenix. Bloodline.

Without staying much, Angel quickly turned and left, rushing towards where Dini fell.

"We are in the game." After watching Angel leave, Xiao En finally said slowly, "Those undead are not responsible for transporting materials at all, but actually want to occupy this fortress as an important supply point and Outpost.... I hate that we were too careless before and stopped here without careful inspection."

Cecilia nodded and said in a deep voice: "Fortunately, the opponent can't hold back his breath. Now they attacked and let us know their hole cards. Otherwise, if we really wait until our army enters this fortress, then It is the real disaster."

"Indeed." Sean nodded slightly, "Fortunately, there is only one Cruise touch, and it seems that the situation has not been completely fed. We still have a chance now."

As Rina guessed, the huge black tentacle that was constantly waving was indeed summoned.

It's just different from general summoning magic. The Touch of Cruise is a summoning magic that requires a lot of flesh and soul as a medium for blood sacrifice.

This is a very pure dark magic, not included in the rating of the magic guild, but as a separate existence of super magic. In terms of power level, the lowest level of Touch of Cruise is the presence of battlefield level-this level of magic has been able to influence the situation of a battlefield.

However, the touch of Cruise in front of us is far from reaching the scale of battlefield level, because it has not yet "mature".

The flesh and soul of the tens of thousands of people in the entire fortress are all used for the blood sacrifice to summon the touch of Cruise, but it has not yet been fully matured and has complete capabilities. It is conceivable that this magic consumes. How big is it. But because of this, Sean and Cecilia said that the current situation is not the worst, at least Kozilek can still solve the tentacle.

If the undead are really allowed to occupy this fortress, and continue to feed the Touch of Cruise by means of sacrifices, and even summon a second or even more Touch of Cruise again-gram The Touch of Ruth is a magic that can be combined. Every three can be increased by one power level, up to four levels, which means that the Touch of Cruise can only summon twelve at most, and its power will reach Strategic scale.

Starting from the battlefield magic, and then up are war level, campaign level, strategic level, and world level.

If battlefield magic can control the situation of a battlefield, then war-level magic can control the situation of a war, and even destroy a city easily; and at the battle-level, it is the destructive power that can destroy two or three cities. , Thus directly determine the key to the victory or defeat of a battle; as for the strategic level, that is already the importance of the survival of a country.

If the twelve touches of Cruise in a complete state are cultivated, then once they are put into use, their power is absolutely far beyond anyone's imagination, and it is not impossible to even destroy an empire. At least, Sean clearly remembers that the Touch of Cruise in a complete state can almost be used as a super strong, and every three Touch of Cruise can form a resonance magnetic field with increased power, right? The general 16th-order powerhouse can stop it.

Apart from the seven empires, which country has so many superpowers?

But even in the seven empires, it is impossible to have twelve powers all in the seventeenth or eighteenth tier.

"Kozilek!" Seeing that the touch of Cruise had begun to move, Sean finally shouted angrily, making Kozilek immediately attack the tentacle that had not fully grown.

Chapter 9: Fierce battle

A sharp figure swept across the air.

The speed is not much slower than the speed at which Cruise's touch shot Phy Dini, and it can even be said to be even worse.

As if feeling the strong danger, the Touch of Cruise suddenly stood upright, and the height instantly exceeded forty meters, and the suckers that were sucking Dini's blood were suddenly all closed. In an instant, the blood mist that had lost the traction of the cyclone exploded directly, turning into a rain of blood and falling to the ground.

seems to be extremely dissatisfied with such a pure waste of blood. All the suction cups on Cruise's Touch suddenly expanded, and even the countless ring-shaped tines in the suction cups were constantly grinding and turning. Almost everyone can clearly feel the sense of anger emanating from the touch of Cruise-as a lower sanctuary powerhouse, the blood in her body naturally contains a powerful force. , So Cruise's Touch can also strengthen itself by sucking these blood. Now that the figure of this uninvited guest interrupts eating, it is naturally extremely dissatisfied.

This figure is naturally Kozilek.

After receiving the order from Sean, he rushed towards the touch of Cruise for the first time.

If the Touch of Cruise can still pose a threat to Rena, who has only activated Michael's state, then there is no threat to Kozilek, the real super powerhouse. It should even be said in reverse that Kozilek just rushed towards the Touch of Cruise so aggressively, it has already made this Touch of Cruise feel a touch of destruction.

All the suction cups began to open and close frantically.

The entire space seemed to be trembling strongly, and the powerful imprisonment directly blocked the space nearly forty meters in front of Cruise's Touch.

Space imprisonment!

This is the most commonly used ability of Touch of Cruise. It can be applied to the front space measured by the length of Touch of Cruise itself. If the height of the Touch of Cruise is more than forty meters and the width is more than ten meters, then the distance it can control is a huge space of forty meters long, ten meters wide, and forty meters high. . Through the strong suction generated by the densely packed suction cups on its tentacles, all the airflows in the entire space are directly fixed to create a powerful confinement ability.

The power of imprisonment generated by Cruise's Touch in a fully mature state will be accompanied by some abilities unique to the law of space. However, the touch of Cruz in front of him is not fully mature, so although it can borrow some of the power of the law of space. But relatively speaking, it is not complete. At least it can't completely confine Angel, Rena, and other professional fighters who are more powerful in their own power.

Even facing Cecilia, as long as Cecilia uses the power of blood, she can break free.

Tini, it can only be regarded as bad luck, her own strength is not strong enough, her strength is not strong enough, and her bloodline is not good enough. That's why I was restrained.

But if it's just space confinement. It wasn't too much trouble. The real scary was the attack that followed the space confinement, and that was what really made Rina feel the physical tingling.

At this time, the Touch of Cruise clearly knew the terrible Kozilek, so he tried his best to stop Kozilek. It didn't intend to completely imprison Kozilek, because the Touch of Cruise was very clear that it was absolutely impossible for him to do this step. All it wanted was to slow down Kozilek's speed. At least let yourself be able to capture Kozilek's movement trajectory, then it can have the ability to counterattack.

Unfortunately, Kozilek did not intend to give it this opportunity at all.

"The law is twisted!"

Kozilek in mid-air stretched out his left hand and grabbed it forward, and he heard a burst of breaking noise. The space confined by Cruise's touch was suddenly completely distorted, the force of imprisonment. Nature no longer exists. It's just that it's different from the law manipulation of the general strong, the imprisoning power of Cruise's Touch is not really controlled by it, so when Kozilek completely twisted the law and destroyed its imprisoning power, the crus's imprisonment When he touched, he was hurt by the force of the law counter-shock.

More than a dozen smaller suction cups were immediately exploded, and black blood was sprayed out of them, and when they fell on the ground, they corroded a huge hole, and the white acid mist filled out.

And this Cruise's touch also twisted crazily. Obviously, the damage caused by the distortion of the power of the law just now was too painful for it.

In an instant, Kozilek easily broke the space imprisonment that had also severely damaged Dini just now, and then flew to the touch of Cruise. Immediately afterwards, Kozilek swung the epee in his hand suddenly, and a huge silver-white light burst out of the air, turning into a huge sword light tens of meters long, sweeping along the trail of Kozilek's blade. Towards this Cruise's touch suddenly slashed.

In the face of Kozilek's powerful sword, the touch of Cruise, which is more than forty meters high, is extremely cunning. It suddenly shrank, and suddenly turned the height of more than forty meters into Twenty meters, easily evaded Kozilek's mighty sword.

Such a dexterous change made Kozilek couldn't help but raise his eyebrows.

There was a bit of sullen expression in his eyes.

The next moment, Kozilek immediately changed from sweep to slash, and his right hand raised the great sword with one arm, and then swung it towards Cruise's Touch.

Similarly, a silver-white pike fell suddenly, but this time the sword wind that broke through the air was like a waterfall pouring down. The supreme sword light turned into a shocking air wave of the same height of more than forty woods, and swept towards the Touch of Cruise with an unmatched terrifying force, smashing all the houses along the way into pieces of wood. With 齏粉.

However, from the fact that this tentacle evaded Kozilei's sweeping sword just now, it can be seen that the wisdom of this tentacle is obviously not low.

It knew that it was impossible to match the strength of Kozilek, so it didn't insist on Kozilek's sword at all, and went straight into the ground and hid. It's just its speed, but after all, it was still a bit slower. When it was swept by the sword wind of Kozilek's sword, the disgusting strong smell of fish suddenly spewed out from the row of holes in the ground into which it had penetrated. Really It's like an oil blowout.

It's just that these are not petroleum, but corrosive liquids with high strength.

All the ground sprayed by this liquid was quickly corroded into pits and pits of various sizes. A corrosive white mist with a sour smell also diffused immediately. And there was a wave of tremors on the ground, like an earthquake. Around the ground where this Cruise's touch penetrated, many houses were not destroyed by the power of Kozilek's sword, but because After the Touch of Cruise was twisting wildly underground and the foundation was destroyed. It began to collapse gradually.

Two consecutive moves failed to kill the enemy in one shot. Kozilek's face couldn't help but look even more ugly.

With his strength, facing this Touch of Cruise, he can do a one-shot kill, but it fails again and again. This is undoubtedly a huge humiliation for Kozilek, who is among the super powers.

"Huh!" Kozilek let out a cold snort, but apparently his cold snort used a special law force, because the space produced a tremor.

followed. This tremor quickly spread to the ground.

Although Sean and others could not see clearly. But the vibration on the ground seemed even stronger. Based on the situation that Sean had just seen the confrontation between Kozilek and the Touch of Cruise, Sean dared to conclude that the Touch of Cruise was more severely traumatized, otherwise it would not struggle. It may become so strong.

After a cold snort, Kozilek's eyes fixed on the ground, his eyes wandering throughout the wild fortress. However, as his gaze moved, the epicenter of the ground was also constantly changing. This situation is undoubtedly not good news for the wild fortress. At least Sean saw countless houses vibrating one after another. China collapsed one after another.

This scene. Sean felt extremely distressed.

You must know these houses, they may contain many precious materials!

"Solve it!" Sean thought angrily. But in the face of this cunning Cruise's touch, Sean was quite helpless, so he could only let Kozilek solve it.

Kozilek had no intention of letting go of this Cruise's touch. At this time, his eyes were constantly changing with the focus of the fortress, but he was actually capturing the position of this tentacle, preparing for the final fatal blow.

However, just when Kozilek had captured the location of the Touch of Cruise, and was about to launch the final blow, the Touch of Cruise suddenly drilled out of the ground again. The hard ground couldn't stop this tentacle from breaking through, so the ground was torn out a huge hole by it, allowing the tentacle to burst out of the ground.

It's just that compared with the previous situation, in just a few minutes, the appearance of this Touch of Cruise has changed a lot.

The sharp ends of the tentacles were split apart at this time, and the scars were up to three meters deep-this was obviously when it penetrated into the ground trying to avoid Kozilek's falling sword. In addition, dozens of densely packed suction cups also burst at least two-thirds. Countless black liquids poured out of the tentacles one after another, and then they continued to slide down along the tentacle's body, making the entire tentacle look like It looks even wetter.

However, judging from the black liquid that was spit out by the tentacles just now, no one would underestimate the power of these liquids.

At this time, only the remaining intact suction cups of this tentacle began to open frantically, and a powerful suction suddenly broke through the air. But this time, it was not in the confinement space, but sucked the soldiers from the only surviving military district in the wild fortress into the suckers one by one and swallowed them directly. Each of these suckers is like a grinding disc, with a ring of gear-like tines inside. When these soldiers are sucked in, they are directly ground into minced meat, which becomes the nourishment of the tentacle.

Occasionally there are one or two because the suction cup is grinding too fast, and the suction cup is too late to close after being sucked into the person, and there is also a puff of blood splashing out of the suction cup, turning into a little puddle of blood. Falling on those soldiers.

In a flash, the entire military area was caught in a panic.

In contrast, the injuries on this Cruise's Touch are beginning to be repaired at a speed visible to the naked eye, especially the suckers that burst, recovering one by one. In this way, the speed at which it absorbs and swallows the soldiers has become faster. Under this cycle, the recovery of the touch of Cruise's injuries also becomes faster and faster, but in the blink of an eye, the original It was seriously injured and it was almost recovering from half of its injuries.

Chapter 10: .solve

From a few, to a dozen, then to twenty, thirty, and finally dozens.

The soldiers in the military area are decreasing at an alarming rate.

Touch of Cruise every time a whale swallows the sea, dozens of soldiers can be seen screaming and being sucked up in the air, and then falling into the suckers one by one. Occasionally, blood spattered out, but more often, it was completely silent after a scream, only some kind of chewing sound rang.

Panic is spreading wildly.

Although these soldiers did not wait to die, but tried their best to fight back, but in the face of such a terrible summoned creature, all of their actions were destined to be futile.

Soon, the soldiers exposed in the open ground were almost swallowed up.

But Cruise's Touch is obviously not satisfied, because its injury is only a slight improvement, and there is still a long way to go before recovery. So it quickly focused its attention on other buildings in the military area. It only swept away a tall building similar to a command tower. A dozen soldiers hiding inside accompanied the collapsed spire. Flying into the air, one after another screamed.

But soon, these people found themselves no longer falling.

Instead, he was suspended in mid-air by a strange force.

But before they came back to their senses, this peculiar force became a completely irresistible suction force, and the faces of these soldiers changed drastically. Because they saw that they were being dragged into the sucker of the huge tentacle by this suction force, they smelled a fishy smell before they even got close to the tentacle, and after the sucker was opened, it was exposed. Inside the sucker, the ring-shaped serrations look like gears.

Space imprisonment!

Gravity traction!

The two special abilities most commonly used by Cruise's Touch.

The dozen or so soldiers quickly fell into the sucker of Cruise's Touch and turned into its nutritional supply.

Maybe it is dissatisfaction with the slow recovery method at the moment. Or maybe it was because he was able to feel a lot of life force, but he couldn't see it at all. The touch of Cruz quickly felt extreme dissatisfaction.

I saw the intact suckers of Cruise's Touch suddenly begin to open and close frantically, and countless cyclones began to circulate frantically, condensing one by one. It is even suspended in a state visible to the naked eye. And when enough cyclones condensed in the air. All the suction cups of Cruise's Touch were completely opened, and an invisible sound wave shook out from these suction cups, and then hit the cyclones in the air. All the cyclones began to explode one after another, transforming into an extreme Powerful sonic impact.

In an instant, all the buildings in half of the military area were destroyed.

This kind of destruction is not simply a blast or something else. Rather, it is a qualitative and direct erasure-these buildings. The state visible to the naked eye was all turned into dust, and even the soldiers hiding in it were all destroyed into a smog of blood. It's just that unlike those powders that were scattered without a trace as soon as the wind blows, these blood mists that were directly destroyed by the flesh began to condense in the air, and soon formed a large cloud of blood.

Same as the weird situation when Dini was knocked into the air before.

All of this happened within two minutes. For many people, it was just a moment.

A long howl suddenly rose.

The Touch of Cruise trembles suddenly. It's not excitement, but anger and fright.

Because Kozilek had already drawn a long silver-white mark in mid-air. It seems that even the air has been directly oscillated into a vacuum, with extremely bright and clear sweep marks.

In the face of such a turbulent Kozilek, Cruise's Touch did not dare to block it—not to mention that it was unmatched by the soldiers who had just sucked it, but it was also based on its own powerful strength. In the face of Kozilek, who is more powerful than it, Touch of Cruise is really helpless, because it can't stop Kozilek's offensive at all, not to mention that Kozilek is still angry at this time.

This time, Kozilek did not repeat the previous fighting method, but adopted a closer fighting method.

If he was fighting against an opponent whose strength level was similar to his own, and then let the opponent escape, Kozilek would not have any idea. However, in the face of the Touch of Cruise, who is far less powerful than his own, he escaped smoothly, and he still sucked so many people under his nose to recover his own injuries. How could Kozilek endure this?

Of course, if it wasn't for this Cruise's touch to be greedy and had to destroy those buildings, it could actually sneak into the ground again. Although it is hard to escape the attack of Kozilek's rage after all, at least he will not be completely exposed to Kozilek as it is now, being so close to Kozilek.

Kozilek's left hand leaned forward, his five fingers condensed slightly, and he made a gesture similar to a grip.

The space in front of suddenly produced a weird distortion visible to the naked eye, as if a bottomless hole suddenly appeared in the air, and then swallowed everything in the space. In an instant, the space controlled by Cruise's touch was directly and completely disintegrated, and the blood cloud suspended in mid-air and condensed by the blood of countless soldiers immediately exploded and fell to the ground one after another.

But the strange thing is that these blood rains have disappeared in mid-air before it reaches the ground.

It was as if there was a pool of water in mid-air. All the blood rain fell into this pool of water, and rippled one after another, just like the bright flowers blooming in the sea of flowers, it was really beautiful.

Looking at this scene that suddenly appeared in front of him, Cruise's Touch suddenly shook more intensely, and the ground even began to vibrate violently as a result.

If the earthquake produced when Cruise's Touch twisted underground was almost equivalent to a magnitude four or five earthquake, then the vibration at this time would at least be equivalent to a magnitude seven or eight earthquake source. Countless houses in the wild fortress began to collapse, and even the skeleton soldiers who were the "owners" were shattered one by one, and the ground was cracked with huge holes, which looked extremely hideous.

The Touch of Cruise is also angry.

It's just that the reason for its anger was that the blood cloud that it had worked so hard to clean up was cut off!

This cloud of blood is composed of the pure blood in the bodies of countless soldiers. Although they died because of this, the rich life essence in their bodies was also contained in this cloud of blood. Kozilek did not need the blood of these soldiers. But he also had a special habit of devouring life—he would obey Sean's orders and would not attack ordinary soldiers, but Kozilek would not be polite at all for the essence of life that belongs to the unowned.

Especially so many soldiers' life essences are all condensed together, and that weight is no longer much weaker than the average high-level golden peak strong.

After swallowing such a pure life essence. Kozilek also came to this touch of Cruz at the same time.

The heavy sword in his hand was swept away.

The healed tentacle ends are restored after hard work. Just like that, Kozilek was cut directly off.

A large amount of black liquid spewed out from the break of the tentacle, and even the epee in Kozilek's hand was stained a lot.

If it is a general weapon, I am afraid it will be corroded.

But Kozilek's weapon was obviously not an extraordinary item, so when Kozilek suddenly shook, the black liquid on the sword was directly dispersed. Kozilek did not stop there. Instead, he stabs his sword quickly. The seemingly one-sword attack turned out countless sword shadows. Although it might not be as good as the soul-suppressing taught by Beth to Sean, it was enough to deal with the end of the tentacles that had been chopped down.

I saw the end that was still twisting constantly in mid-air, directly exploding into countless pieces of meat.

Because we have already fought once before, this Cruise's touch obviously knows the terrible Kozilek. Although it was very painful to be cut off a small end, it didn't mean to continue fighting, but began to shrink quickly, trying to retreat to the ground. It's the same as the previous method of avoiding Kozilek's attack.

From this aspect, Cruise's Touch is obviously not a creature without intelligence.

only. Kozilek, who had already had combat experience, would never let go of this tentacle in front of him this time.

So he saw Kozilek holding the hilt with his backhand, the tip of the sword pointed directly down, and then he raised his right hand again.

In an instant, a silver light appeared from the body of the heavy sword.

"Town!"

Raising the epee in his hand, Kozilek, who turned the tip of the sword and pointed it down, let out a thunderous shout.

The next moment, he furiously threw the epee in his right hand at the shrinking Touch of Cruise below.

A thunder and anger!

The epee plunges directly into the ground at a speed faster than the touch of Cruise, and directly penetrates into the body of Touch of Cruise, and it can be clearly felt that the epee is still non-stop. Falling down to the end of this tentacle.

And Cruise's Touch, which had been shrinking and twisting, stopped twisting and contracting at the moment the epee was inserted into the body.

It looks as if time has suddenly stopped.

"break!"

Kozilek, soon roared again.

Then, the body of the Touch of Cruise suddenly produced countless twists and swells, as if someone was inflating the body of this tentacle. After a while, a part that swelled to the extreme exploded completely, and the black liquid sprayed out, and it fell on the ground and corroded a large area around it. After the first explosion, those other places that expanded to the extreme began to explode one after another.

In just a few seconds, dozens of holes have appeared in the entire Touch of Cruise.

And when Kozilek recalled the epee inserted into Cruise's body, this blow became the last straw that crushed the camel, and the entire touch of Cruise completely exploded, except for the ones that fell in the sky. Except for the strongly corrosive acidic liquid, there is no residual foam belonging to Cruise's Touch.