

Lord of War Vol 4-151

Chapter 151: .Lion's big mouth

Just as the civil war in the underground world became more and more fierce, the situation on the surface also became treacherous due to the expeditionary force of the Void Empire.

Expeditionary warfare has not never happened, but it was mostly an indirect war.

For example, the Chenas Empire, known as the overlord in the eastern part of the Marvel Continent, once launched an expedition against the Fascist Kingdom located in the southern part of the continent, but that was only because the territories of the two countries were too close; another was located in the northern part of the continent. There is quite a disagreement between the Commonwealth of the Northern Duchy and the Empire of St. Joels located in the southern part of the continent; and the Emilia Empire, also located in the northern part of the continent, and the Millennium Covenant Empire located in the western part of the continent, are hostile to each other.

Regardless of the contradictions and small-scale conflicts between these big countries and empires, it is because these countries are too close to each other, so there will be inevitable conflicts and frictions in the development and growth of the country as a whole.

And like the Void Empire, the declaration of war directly against the Duchy of Lumber is definitely the first time in tens of thousands of years since the end of the chaotic era.

You must know that the Void Empire is located at the southern end of the mainland, while the Duchy of Lumbel is located at the northern end of the mainland. This north-south separation spans the entire wonderland. Not to mention the terrible supply line, just the marching speed, this would take at least two years-an expeditionary war is no better than casual travel. Back then, it took Sean and others nearly a year to cross from the Kingdom of Portoroa to the Principality of Lane. In time, the marching of the army must take into account the situation of the entire army, so the marching speed will naturally be slower.

As for the use of the teleportation array, not to mention that no country can afford the expensive cost of transmitting an army over a long distance. Even if it can afford it, no country will agree to the transmission of a third-party army. After all, the teleportation array is built in the city. If an army is allowed to enter the kingdom city through the teleportation array, if the army is malicious in mind, then it is really shooting itself in the foot. .

Especially, the army that the Void Empire dispatched this time was not an ordinary army, but an ace army with a prestigious reputation.

In the past ten years, the changes in the situation in the South Continent can be described as unpredictable.

First, the national war between the Principality of Ryan and the Kingdom of Darbion broke out suddenly: what was originally just a controversial abandoned territory and the conflict between several little nobles in the south of the Kingdom of Darbion, it turned out to cause a war between the two countries. Fuse. But what people did not expect was that in this war, the Kingdom of Darbion was defeated, and it was defeated so thoroughly that this country with a history of more than a thousand years became history.

It was also in this war that an unfamiliar name broke into the field of vision of many countries in the Southern Continent: Sean Connery.

The lord with a mysterious background became the best-interest winner second only to the Kingdom of Lane in this battle: After the Principality of Lane was upgraded to restore the kingdom's honor, the territory he won in the war was recognized by the Kingdom of Lane as an independent dominion. , And allow it to establish a void duchy.

And after the end of this national war, just when everyone turned their eyes on the Kingdom of Lane, this mysterious black-haired lord did what countless countries, even the Pan-Continental Chamber of Commerce, could not do. Thing: He ruled the entire wilderness. By the time others discovered this, all the tribes in the Wildlands had bowed their heads to the Void Duchy, and completely got rid of the Wildlands and became slaves in the back gardens of other surrounding countries.

Of course, it is not that no country has protested against this.

But it turned out that the Void Principality chopped off all the claws that tried to reach out to grab the meat, and this also led to two battles that broke out later: the blood flag revenge and the war against the fascist kingdom. It even triggered a major event that changed the situation of the entire Miracle Continent: the destruction of the Peace Council.

And all this is the origin of the creation of the void empire.

When historians delve into the history of the establishment of the void empire, although there are several different factions about the creation of the void empire, no matter how these factions refute others, they all have one consensus: to rule the savage land is the void. The road of the empire from the principality to the empire laid an unbreakable solid foundation. If the savage tribes did not bow to the Void Principality at that time, or the Void Principality did not rule the entire wilderness, then the Void Principality would never become a void empire.

It is worth mentioning that those historians who have studied the history of the creation of the void empire are currently divided into three schools of doctrines, namely the spiritual leader doctrine that emphasizes the importance of the imperial emperor in the establishment of the empire, and emphasizes the role of commanders in key battles. The foundation-laying war theory, the economic and political theory that emphasizes the important influence of Neil's policies on the development of the empire.

Among them, the war doctrine has two tribes, William Tactical Doctrine and Hela Strategy Doctrine, and the spiritual leader doctrine also has Sean Connery spiritual leader theory and Cecilia Rembel Connery spiritual leader theory. These two tribes-strictly speaking, historians on the history of the creation of the void empire are divided into five schools.

At present, Sean Connery's spiritual leader theory in the spiritual leader theory has a strong upper hand.

After all, when the Emperor Sean Connery disappeared for a long time, the void empire has not yet fallen apart and Cecilia has not officially ascended the throne, and other important heroes have not tried to seize the throne. This has to be said about Sean Kang. Nali's important position in the minds of this group of people.

Of course, this is not the point.

The real point is that in the past ten years, the Lion of Thunder, Cecilia Guards, Iron Wings, Crimson Knights, Conviction Wings, and many other legions that belonged to the Void Empire have established their prestigious names.

Just looking at the performance of these legions in the past ten years is enough to scare countless weak countries into their pants, not to mention the Silver Temple Legion, the Wild Hunter Legion, the Thunder Guard, the Broken Wind Sword Dancer, the Snow Wind Guard, etc. Many savage lands were powerful armies that many countries were unwilling to fight against when they were back gardens—now that all of these armies accompanied the savage tribes to become a member of the Void Empire, and they were all integrated into the Void Empire's army. In the system.

Even those big kingdoms with strong national power are unwilling to fight inexplicably with the army of the mad dog empire.

Yes, the Void Empire is now dubbed "Mad Dog" in many countries in the Marvel Continent. All this naturally stems from the fact that Sean completed many kingdoms in ten years and could not do it for hundreds of thousands of years. The feat, and the action that is completely reckless. At least, countless countless second- and third-rate kingdoms and those weaker principalities do not have the slightest affection for the Void Empire, because the destruction of the Peace Council is simply an unimaginable disaster for these countries.

In the past six months alone, as many as seventeen principalities and no less than seven weak kingdoms have completely become history.

Their land was occupied, their people were enslaved, and the royal family and aristocrats were killed or bullied. The casualties directly or indirectly caused by this were as high as tens of millions, not to mention the continuous. The government has been completely overwhelmed by frequent wars. Of course, all things have disadvantages and advantages. With the collapse of the Peace Council, those powerful kingdoms that have lost their restrictions and threats can also develop and grow at a faster rate: such as aggression and plunder.

The first to bear the brunt is the trade capital known as the heart of the mainland.

Located in a camp three kilometers away from the southeast border of the trading capital, a heavily armed force is escorting five carriages into it.

Although these three black carriages do not have any badges, the carriages of the carriages are made of black dragon wood.

This kind of wood is extremely hard and can almost be used as ironware, but it is not heavy by itself, and what is even more commendable is that this kind of wood has a certain degree of cold resistance and fire resistance, even if no special alchemy is required. This wood is also difficult to be ignited by flames or frozen into ice. Compared with the red dragon wood preferred by the nobles, the black dragon wood is more widely used in military affairs, and the price is also higher.

The cost of the carriage of these five carriages alone is as high as millions of gold coins, not to mention the low-key but extremely expensive and luxurious axles, wheels, guardrails, pedals and other accessories of the carriage carriage.

On the Marvel Continent, there are not many families that can afford black dragon wood as carriages—compared to the power structure of many empires and kingdoms, but they can take out five carriages made of black dragon wood at one go. Many, even the imperial family of the Seven Empires, it is very likely that there are only two or three cars. It's not that these wealthy imperial royals cannot afford the price, but the mining of black dragon wood is extremely difficult. It often takes several years to cut down a black dragon tree, and it usually takes three to five to make a carriage for a carriage. A black dragon tree log.

Of course, what makes the black dragon wood more precious is that the black dragon wood carriage is produced in only one place in the entire Miracle Continent, and that is the trading capital.

Because of this, the Void Empire still does not have carriages made of black dragon wood. In addition to the disharmony with the trading capital itself, there are more reasons for the fact that the foundation of the Void Empire is still insufficient: According to Neil's budget, the Void Empire's monthly financial balance is less than 100,000 gold coins, after all, every month. The expenditure on military expenditure is a figure that is enough to make anyone feel stunned.

Of course, a large part of this situation is due to the fact that the current financial sources of the Void Empire are too few.

But in the final analysis, it is still the same sentence.

The foundation of the void empire is still too shallow.

At present, Hela started an expeditionary war with a disagreement, which is another great burden for Neal.

After all, the previous wars did not have that much pressure on the Void Empire. It was purely because Hela and William both took the predatory method of war-raising war, which was able to satisfy the expenses of the Void Empire's armies to a large extent. But now, with the establishment of the Void Empire and the establishment of various borders, these garrison expenditures have increased a lot, and expeditionary battles are not like ordinary wars that can be supplied by plundering wars.

If it weren't for William and the Undead Army's battlefield supplies that were provided by the Millennium Covenant Empire, the Void Empire would have been afraid to break out wars at will, let alone support Hela's expedition plan to the Duchy of Lumber.

At this moment, under the instructions of the camp guards, the five carriages quickly stopped in front of a larger camp.

The doors of four of the carriages opened. Several passengers of different heights but wearing hooded cloaks quickly got out of the carriage and walked towards the camp. Following the actions of these passengers, the head of the guard immediately turned over and got off his horse, followed by a dozen guards.

Just before these people entered the camp, they were intercepted by two werewolf guards.

"What do you mean?" a passenger asked.

"This is the commander's camp. Guards are not allowed to follow in." A werewolf grinned, and then spoke a very fluent mainland common language, "So you can enter, but they can't."

"What did you say!" The guard leader immediately showed anger, "We have a responsibility to protect the safety of our employers."

"If the main account is not safe, there is no safe place in this world." The werewolf replied without humbleness, "You just wait outside here."

"What if we refuse?" The guard leader said in a deep voice.

Ignoring the provocation of the guard, the werewolf guard suddenly raised a bit, and dozens of werewolf guards standing guard surrounded the gang. At the same time, there was a commotion in the camp, and it was obvious that there were signs of large-scale troop movement.

A tense atmosphere suddenly rose.

It seems that after hearing the commotion, a young woman with a dignified appearance walked out of the camp.

This person is one of the four giants of the Void Empire today, the Minister of Foreign Affairs Diana.

Seeing the Lord appearing, a high-pitched passenger asked: "Dianna, is this the way your Void Empire treats guests?"

At exactly this time, the werewolf guard had already reported to Diana about the situation at the moment, so when she heard the words that were obviously questioning, Diana's face was also a little solemn, and she said in a deep voice: "For my friend , Our Void Empire has never been stingy with friendship, but for those who try to make trouble, we will not accommodate each other's temper....I think my guard has made it very clear that your entourage is forbidden to enter here."

"I don't believe your void empire. If we can't let our entourage enter together, then we will leave now." The passenger with a shrill voice looked a little angry.

"Guard, take them away." Dianna sneered, then gave the report to the werewolf next to her, and then turned and walked towards the camp.

It seemed that Diana's attitude would not have been expected to be so tough, and the people around him were obviously stunned.

"Please wait, Miss Diana." Another passenger with a slightly hoarse voice said suddenly, "We came with sincerity."

"If you come with sincerity, then we will be very welcome." Diana stopped, then turned and said, "However, so far, I have not seen your sincerity."

The hoarse passenger sighed softly, and then said to the guards: "Just wait outside here."

"But..." The guard leader seemed to want to say something, but was stopped by a hand extended by the passenger, "I see."

"Welcome." Diana smiled slightly, and then just in front, led the seven mysterious visitors who were still unwilling to take off their cloaks into the camp.

Unlike everyone's imagination, this space was enough to fill a camp with more than thirty people, but at this moment there were only two people.

In addition to Diana who led the crowd in the front, the other person was Hela Garcia, the head of the strategy department who was one of the Big Four with Diana.

However, in the current recognized situation, William and Hella's status is significantly higher than Neal, and the other three giants, including Neal, are higher than Diana. After all, the first three have always followed William's side, but Diana joined the camp of the Void Empire after Blood Banner's revenge, so there is still a little bit of disparity.

"It's a great honor to meet you, Honorable Garcia." The hoarse passenger lifted his hood, revealing the old face under the hood, "I am the president of the Magic Tower Chamber of Commerce. Katong, an incompetent magician....These are the president of Harvest Clarion Chamber of Commerce, the President of the Legendary Firehammer Chamber of Commerce, the President of the Immortal Hammer Chamber of Commerce, the President of the Ceddings Chamber of Commerce, and Lebina. President of the Chamber of Commerce, President of the Somas Chamber of Commerce."

Following the introduction of Katong, the president of the Magic Tower Chamber of Commerce, the other six mysterious visitors also lifted their hoods one by one, revealing their faces under their hoods.

Harvest Clarion Chamber of Commerce, and Magic Tower Chamber of Commerce are one of the top ten chambers of trade, but unlike the Magic Tower Chamber of Commerce, which focuses on selling all kinds of magic items, the business content of Harvest Clarion Chamber of Commerce is a variety of crops and seeds, and of course there are indispensable A large amount of grains and grains. The president of the chamber of commerce is also a dark middle-aged man who looks very honest and honest, but as the president of the chamber of commerce who can occupy a place in the top ten chambers of commerce for a long time, absolutely no one will believe that this is really an honest friend. people.

The legendary Firehammer Chamber of Commerce and the President of the Immortal Hammer Chamber of Commerce are both dwarves. Their long beard is tied to their waist, which seems to make them fatter. Although these two chambers of commerce are also one of the top ten chambers of commerce in the trading capital, the projects operated by the two chambers of commerce are not the same. For example, the legendary Firehammer Chamber of Commerce mainly sells various weapons and equipment, the Hammer of Immortality The Chamber of Commerce sells various craft products.

The cutting and production technology of the black dragon wood is the housekeeping skill of the Immortal Hammer Chamber of Commerce.

The president of the Seddings Chamber of Commerce is a burly middle-aged man with a fierce spirit on his body. This mercenary-born slave hunter has grown the Seddings Chamber of Commerce to a large scale in just thirty years. Becoming one of the top ten chambers of commerce is not only attributable to the slave business that specializes in population trading by the Ceddings Chamber of Commerce, but also closely related to the strength, cunning, and cruelty of the chamber's president.

As for the Lebina Chamber of Commerce and the Somas Chamber of Commerce, although both are also one of the top ten chambers of commerce, the family business is not comparable to the previous five peers. For example, the Somas Chamber of Commerce relied on the strategy of small profits but quick turnover to become one of the top ten chambers of commerce. After all, the business of alchemy medicine is not so unique; the situation of the Rebina Chamber of Commerce is slightly better than that of the Somas Chamber of Commerce. Some, after all, in addition to selling war horses and monster cores, they also do some similar intelligence transactions.

Ten Chambers of Commerce, here are seven.

"Well, haven't the Tintin Chamber of Commerce, the Thunder Cloud Chamber of Commerce, and the Brothers Chamber of Commerce come?" Hela said thoughtfully.

"The Brotherhood Chamber of Commerce has left the trading capital." It was Lebina Chamber of Commerce President, Leibina, a red-haired young woman with a hair color that symbolizes enthusiasm, "Your Excellency Hela, you should know, The particularity of the Brotherhood of Commerce, so they don't need to stay in the trading capital."

The Brothers Chamber of Commerce is rumored to be composed of three brothers. The projects run by their Chamber of Commerce are mercenaries, and of course there are various assassinations. It is said that more than 60% of the defense work in the trade is handled by the Brothers Chamber of Commerce. They buy weapons from the legendary Firehammer Chamber of Commerce, purchase food from the Harvest Horn Chamber of Commerce, buy soldiers from the Seddings Chamber of Commerce, and then surrender the war. Resell the prisoners of war to the Ceddings Chamber of Commerce, and then resell the spying and collected intelligence to the Lebina Chamber of Commerce, and also sell some of the seized loot to other chambers of commerce in the City of Trade.

It can be said that if there is no fraternity chamber of commerce, the blood circulation of the trading capital will be drastically reduced by half.

"So it seems that the Tintin Chamber of Commerce and the Thunder Cloud Chamber of Commerce should have similar results." Hela smiled, and then said, "Then according to the rules of your trade capital, if you leave the border of the trade capital, you will no longer be affected by trade. The shelter of the capital?"

"Master Hela, what do you plan to do?" Katong asked cautiously.

"Leiyun Chamber of Commerce and our Void Empire are old acquaintances, I just want to invite them to be guests." Hela said with a smile, but the words were full of murderous intent.

As we all know, when the Void Empire was just a small baron, it was already at odds with the Leiyun Chamber of Commerce, and the Leiyun Chamber of Commerce even thought of using economic sanctions to compress the space of the void. It can be said that the contradiction between the Void Empire and the Thunder Cloud Chamber of Commerce has a long history, but the Thunder Cloud Chamber of Commerce has always been hiding in the trading capital, especially after the establishment of the Void Empire, it will be located in the Kingdom of Lane and the Kingdom of Hales. All the properties of the United Nations of the Karosha tribe and the Robin Knight Nation have been withdrawn, so the Void Empire has never had any good way to retaliate.

Now that the trade capital is almost falling apart, how can the Void Empire not take advantage of the fire.

Yes, the trading capital is now in an unprecedented crisis situation.

As a big piece of fat like the Trade Capital, it's absolutely impossible to say that no one is staring at it. It's just that the Trade Capital's military strength has not been too weak for a long time, and there is also the "Mainland Peace Council". "The Bureau of Checks and Balances" stood up, and it would be impossible to gain entry into the trading capital simply by pushing it horizontally with military power, because no country or coalition could afford such terrible war damage.

And the big country that can withstand this kind of war damage is too far away from the trade capital. In addition, if the war breaks out, it will be able to eat the trade capital smoothly. If the domestic chamber of commerce is completely withdrawn, the consequences will undoubtedly be very terrible.

However, with the collapse of the Peace Council, the institution that checks and balances the balance of the entire miraculous mainland situation no longer exists. In this way, as long as the interests are well distributed, it is naturally not impossible to conquer the trade capital. Especially after the major mercenaries and mercenary groups that were originally stationed in the trade capital and survived on defense work have withdrawn from the trade capital, the Brothers of Commerce alone can no longer defend the entire trade capital. .

It is precisely because of this that the Brotherhood Chamber of Commerce naturally chose to withdraw from the trading capital after receiving the news that multinational coalition forces are coming towards the trading capital. After all, the business nature of the Brothers Chamber of Commerce allows them to live very well no matter where they are.

Seeing that Hella has begun to order people to "invite" the Leiyun Chamber of Commerce, the president of the Somas Chamber of Commerce on the side could not help but say: "Leiyun Chamber of Commerce... is leaving with the Brother Chamber of Commerce, they The assets of the entire trading capital have been transferred.... The Tintin Chamber of Commerce, because it has a grievance with the Leiyun Chamber of Commerce and the Brother Chamber of Commerce, it has been wiped out a few days ago."

"Oh." Hella raised her eyebrows and glanced at the Somas Chamber of Commerce President who was talking, an old man who was over half a hundred years old as the President of the Magic Tower Chamber of Commerce, and then turned her head to that person. The werewolf guard said, "...If this is the case, let's change the plan. Let Vannie lead the peace team to cooperate with the Scarlet Knights, the Thunder Lion, and the Cecilia Guards. Tell Alfred, if the brothers If the Chamber of Commerce abandons the Thunder Cloud Chamber of Commerce, avoid conflicts with the Brother Chamber of Commerce. Otherwise, invite the Brother Chamber of Commerce over."

Hella deliberately emphasized the word "please".

"Yes." The werewolf guard nodded, with excitement and cruel expression in his eyes, and soon left the camp to give combat instructions.

This time, in order to avoid increasing Clover's influence within the Void Empire, Hella not only transferred Alfred's Thunder Lion and Dwight's Scarlet Knights into the Expeditionary Army, but even the Silver Temple Legion, The Breaking Wind Sword Dancer troops and the Snow Wind Guards were also transferred to the expeditionary army, and at the same time, there were 100,000 mixed troops from the Void Empire and the Wildlands.

As for the strong, in addition to the super strong Alexis and Kozilek, the legendary strong Hela also mobilized ten people to join the expeditionary army. Among them are the Absolute Swordsmen who have just joined the Void Empire. Fannie and the three legendary powerhouses who have turned to the Void Empire from the Peace Council, two legendary powerhouses who have come to rely on the powerful reputation of the Void Empire, and who belonged to The two legendary powerhouses of the Brofeng Tribe and the Xuefeng Tribe: Sword Dancer Winia, Marksman Marton, the current commander of the Silver Temple Legion, Wolf King Olianna, and the demon descendant who has been responsible for protecting Hela's safety. Son. Harding et al.

Hearing that Hella did not hesitate to send such a powerful lineup to chase the Thunder Cloud Chamber of Commerce and the Brothers Chamber of Commerce, even if they knew that they were getting off the ground, Katong still felt shocked. And when he saw the tangled look on his companion's face, he knew that their preparation for the negotiation this time was useless: after all, their mentality was already at a disadvantage before the formal negotiation began. Then the outcome of this negotiation can be imagined.

Thinking of this, Katong felt bitter.

But no matter how bitter he was, he had to speak, after all, his Magic Tower Chamber of Commerce has always been the first of the top ten chambers of commerce.

"Before we officially talk about our intentions, I have a small gift to give to Master Shaun." Jiadong took a deep breath, and then said, "The fifth black dragon wooden carriage that is parked outside the camp. We just finished it a few days ago. This is our gift to celebrate the establishment of the void empire. I hope Lord Shaun will not blame us for this belated gift."

"You can rest assured that Sean is not such a stingy person." Hela smiled, "Look at me, I forgot to ask you to sit down....Come on, please sit down, I This will let people add tea for you."

At Diana's sign, a logistics staff soon delivered some tea and pastries to the camp.

These teas and pastries are just ordinary things, and generally only appear on the tables of ordinary people. As Hela and Diana are naturally able to eat better tea. It's just that the Void Empire's finances are tight now. If it weren't for hosting these top ten chambers of commerce presidents from the trading capital, Hella and Diana would not even let people prepare tea and cakes. A bag of clean water.

The presidents of the chamber of commerce simply ate a few bites, and after a little thought, they stopped eating, but started to look at Diana and Hela.

It's just that Diana and Hela are people who have seen big winds and waves after all. At this time, naturally they will not speak first, but continue to enjoy their rare rest time as if they don't know anything.

So, the one who broke the silence in the end was still the president of the Magic Tower Chamber of Commerce: "We are here this time in the hope that Your Excellency Hela can protect our trading capital."

"Chairman Katong, you are joking, I also understand the fair and free customs of the trade capital." Hela smiled and shook her head, with an expression of "Don't tease me", "The trade capital has always been With the title of Freedom City, you will never let any country's army into it."

"Master Hella, we don't know what to say in secret." Knowing that the negotiation has been defeated from the beginning, and their Chamber of Commerce alliance has almost no advantage, Kadong is also straightforward. "The current situation of the trade capital is already It's very bad. With only our seven families, it's no problem to resist the invasion of nations like the Kingdom of Lane, but if it is the invasion of three kingdoms like the Kingdom of Lane, we have to take care of one another, let alone prepare to invade the trade capital this time. The coalition forces are as many as ten countries."

"Our supply line is not that long. If you insert the war between your trading capital and the multinational coalition forces, the cost we need to bear will increase." Hela shook his head, "This is not what we want to see. ."

"In terms of logistical supplies, our Harvest Horn can promise you that we will provide you with one year's food supplies for free." The honest dark man, after hearing Canada's outspoken words about the situation in the trading capital, He knew that they had no hope of negotiating, so he also utterly stated the result that had been negotiated in advance, "Moreover, we can help you maintain the operation of the supply line."

"Not enough." Hela shook her head, "You know, this time your enemies are as many as ten countries."

"In terms of equipment maintenance, our legendary fire hammer can also help." The dwarf from the legendary fire hammer also said, "Moreover, war materials are not just food, but munitions also consume us. I can add it for you free of charge."

"The problem of too long supply lines, our Immortal Hammer can also help to find a solution." The president of the Immortal Hammer Chamber of Commerce followed closely, and it can be seen that he and the president of the Legendary Firehammer Chamber of Commerce should obviously be relatives. "Our Immortal Hammer is not just selling handicrafts, but also has certain achievements in the area of heavy vehicles. The load-bearing truck produced by our Immortal Hammer has five times the carrying capacity of ordinary trucks, which can greatly reduce the transportation of supply lines. Difficulty and overhead."

"It's still not enough." Hela still shook her head. She didn't say where the lack is, but the two words are enough to show everything. Even the presidents of these seven chambers of commerce know that the void empire is talking about the lion, but They still have no choice.

"For the supplement of the source of troops, we, the Saiddings Chamber of Commerce, can make a promise to you and guarantee satisfaction."

"Our Leibina Chamber of Commerce has some original maps. I believe we can provide you with a better choice for your marching route."

"In terms of medical treatment, although our Somas Chamber of Commerce does not have any good solutions, hemostatic drugs and the like can still be provided."

Hearing that his companions have already offered the price, Katong can only sigh helplessly: "Although our Magic Tower Chamber of Commerce cannot meet all the armament replacements of your expeditionary army, we also have some savings. It should be available in To a large extent make up for the lack of magical combat power of the Void Empire."

"I am personally satisfied with the conditions you have put forward. I believe Master Hela will not be dissatisfied." Before Hela could speak, Diana had already accepted the words with a smile, "It's just that we are this time. The action was an expedition to the Principality of Lembel. If Lord Neal and Lord Cecilia know that we have made an asylum promise to your trading capital, I am afraid they will be very upset."

No one answered the call, and the presidents of the seven chambers of commerce remained silent at this time.

However, apart from this silence, their hearts were slightly relieved, because Diana was willing to take the conversation, which meant that there was still something to talk about. As far as businessmen are concerned, as long as they can communicate, there is bound to be a turning point, which also means a success rate. Of course, this also comes at a price.

"However, if the capital of trade can join the void empire, then I believe neither Lord Neal nor Lord Cecilia will object."

Sure enough, Diana quickly put forward the price they needed to pay.

It's just something they didn't think of, but the price is so high!

"This..."

"Don't rush to refuse." Diana said with a smile, "The City of Trade can still maintain your free style and your original laws. Our Void Empire will not interfere, just let you become our Void Empire. The economy is only a province. In other words, you are likely to have to pay a considerable amount of tax, but I believe that with the amount of gold swallowed by your trading capital, you must not care about this tax."

This condition does not sound difficult to accept.

But Katong clearly heard the overtones: "If our trading capital joins the Void Empire, does it mean that we have become legal citizens of the Void Empire?"

"This is natural." Diana smiled and nodded.

"Then we have become legal citizens, which means that we also have the obligations and responsibilities that we need to do to the Void Empire?"

Dianna smiled like a flower: "Yes."

"Then I can ask, about this obligation and responsibility?"

"You will be solely responsible for the supply line of the Expeditionary Army." Diana smiled and said the answer, "And as an obligation of the empire, we will also protect the trade capital to ensure that you stay away from all war hazards. You are still the same. You can retain the size of your current * force, and ensure that it does not interfere with the autonomous rights and laws and regulations of your trading capital without conflict with the laws of the Empire....Of course, the Seddings Chamber of Commerce may need to be transformed here. On the one hand, our Void Empire promises to satisfy you.... You see, to become the second armed forces chamber of commerce like a fraternal chamber of commerce, I don't know what President Ceddings wants?"

"Do I have the right to refuse?" With a wry smile, the president of the Ceddings Chamber of Commerce is quite open. "It's just that after our Ceddings Chamber of Commerce became the Chamber of Armed Forces of Commerce, I am afraid that there is not much freedom.* ?"

No country will allow such a powerful uncontrolled armed force in its own country.

"I believe this, we can slowly negotiate and discuss afterwards." Diana replied, avoiding the importance, "Of course, in return, all chambers of commerce registered in the Trade Capital will have the opportunity to carry out import and export trade within the territory of the Void Empire. 30% of the commercial tax exemption rights. Major strategic materials and commodities, except for the prohibited items, have the 10% commercial tax exemption rights. In addition, all military supplies will also be traded. Capital to purchase."

Listening to Diana's list of these contents clearly, the president of the seven chambers of commerce would never know that the void empire was already here.

I am afraid that even without the invasion of the Allied Forces of the Ten Nations, the Void Empire will never let go of such a piece of fat as the Trade Capital, especially the Thunder Cloud Chamber of Commerce, which has old grudges with the Void Empire. Just making an excuse at will is enough for the Void Empire to launch a war of aggression against the Trade Capital—or, now that the Peace Council is destroyed, the excuse for war is no longer even needed.

Of course, invading and plundering the trading capital is certainly not the more valuable of not annexing and digesting the trading capital.

In the case that the outcome has long been doomed, the so-called negotiation is nothing more than striving for the maximization of one's own interests.

And this kind of thing is naturally not something Hela is good at, so she let Dianna talk big and bargain with the Chamber of Commerce Alliance. After all, the annexation of the Trade Capital and becoming an economic province of the Void Empire is definitely able to greatly alleviate the financial crisis of the Void Empire, but as a price, the economic center of the Void Empire may be surrendered, and the same is also true. A lot of expenses have to be paid for the army stationed in such an enclave.

Hella is thinking about how to reduce the expenditure of the garrison in the trade capital.

But after thinking about it, she had only one answer in her mind: Let Ulama come to garrison.

The negotiation process did not last long, and even within an hour before and after, Diana had become consistent with the presidents of the seven chambers of commerce. However, looking at the constipation-like expression on the president of the seven major chambers of commerce, even if Hela, who did not listen carefully to the content of the negotiations just now, can know that Diana has won a vast province and city for the Void Empire without any blood. Alleviated the financial pressure on the void empire.

"Congratulations, a wonderful victory." After Hella sent the leaders of the seven chambers of commerce out of the camp, and then ordered people to return the black dragon wooden carriage back to Oasis City, he turned back and said with a smile to Diana. "I have always believed in Sean's vision. Now you have not only proven your well-deserved diplomatic ability to everyone in the Void Empire, but also proved to everyone that Sean has never seen anyone wrong."

Diana chuckled: "Compared to Lord Hela and Lord William, you have worked so hard for the rise of the Void Empire, and Lord Neal has made such a contribution to the stability of the Void Empire. I can only In this way, I repay the Void Empire's trust in me."

"You don't have to be humble." Hela shook her head, and then said, "You are the minister of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, one of the four giants of our Void Empire. Although this plan to annex the trading capital is proposed by me, In my style, I can only play a match with the Trade Capital. This is of no benefit to us. The looting can only relieve the expeditionary force's cut-off supply line, which is far worse than you were at the negotiating table just now. The gains I have won.... So, here I want to thank you, thank you for letting me avoid giving orders for soldiers to sacrifice."

Dianna smiled, smiling sincerely and cheerfully: "Then next, how do we respond to the envoy from the coalition forces invading the trading capital?"

"Let them retract the hand reaching to the trading capital for me." Hela said with a sneer, "Otherwise, I will chop off this hand myself."

Chapter 152: Serena and Kane

The war in the Forest of Deep Knowledge has lasted for more than two months.

The blood race, werewolves, and spider monsters have gradually changed from caring for the war here to paying attention, and then changing to the indifference of today. It's not that they really don't want to care and pay attention, but because they really don't have the energy to continue to care about other battlefields.

The blood race fought a beautiful counterattack siege a week ago, which made the situation that had been gradually declining not only completely stabilized, but even the situation began to become more delicate. Victory Tianping had begun to lean towards the blood race. Of course, it will evolve into such a situation of accumulation of victory, although it is inseparable from the blood clan who hired a large number of Nerubian legions to join the battlefield from the beginning, but more of it was a week ago, the Giovanni clan That desperately strong raid.

The name of this tyrant is not just spread among the blood.

According to rumors, the tyrant seemed to have been busy negotiating with the Luxemba clan and therefore did not enter the battlefield. At this moment, as the tyrant officially led his guards to join the main battlefield in the southeast, the defeat of the werewolf tribe's coalition forces further demonstrated that the future king of the Giovanni clan is not as rumored. There is cruelty.

Aside from the chaotic three-way battlefield, the actual situation of the Forest of Deep Knowledge is not really no one cares about.

For example, the demon descendant.

At the end of the twilight period, the weak group, who was driven from the surface to the bottom of the earth, is now paying attention to the battle in the forest of deep knowledge.

Unlike the arachnid army, which can be active on various battlefields, the demonites are destined to struggle to fight any frontal war because of their own racial nature. Not to mention the low fertility rate, they can only be active in the dark environment. Enough to prevent more than 90% of the demons from appearing in any frontal battlefield. After all, there is no race in the underground world that does not have night vision capabilities. Therefore, unlike the surface world, launching a night war can often achieve a lot. In the underground world Launching the night attack was purely because the commander's forehead was clamped to pieces by the door panel.

But even so, the demons still have a large employment market in the underground world.

There is no other reason.

Assassination skills reach the pinnacle.

Any lone demon descendant who can leave the inherent territory of the demon descendant clan must be a master above the viscount rank, and there are even first-rate powerhouses at the count rank. These demons may be unsatisfactory in their ability to fight alone, but if they are allowed to use their own unique skills in a favorable space, then even the powerhouses of the earls and even the marquis will have to be careless. Died with hatred.

Of course, the innate ability of the demon descendant is not only in assassination skills.

Tracking enemy trails, spying on intelligence, etc., are also one of the abilities that demons are quite good at. And this is the fundamental reason why the blood elves, the Evernight Party, and the Vengeance Party are willing to spend a lot of money on hiring demons: the coalition forces of the Forest of Knowledge have been lost in the Forest of Knowledge for more than a month, and this kind of thing has spread. It's just a joke.

Have you ever seen someone who gets lost in your own home?

Also, it's fine to get lost in your own home, and you can't even find your own room. This is not as simple as a joke.

The Revenge Party and the Evernight Party of the Forest of Deep Knowledge hired demonic assassins. In addition to asking for the dark elves of the Reform Party to be killed, they also shoulder the important task of finding their own legions and high-level leaders. Because the dark elves of the Vengeance Party and the Evernight Party are convinced that this time, from attacking the young patriarch of the Cassedon tribe, to looting the life nucleus of the blood elves, to luring their coalition forces to attack, everything is aimed at them. trap.

Otherwise, there is no way to explain why their coalition forces immediately lost contact with all of them after the attack, and the Revolutionary Party actually took advantage of this time to carry out an extremely crazy counterattack. In this short period of two months, more than thirty tribes of the dark elves of the Avenge Party and the Evernight Party have been destroyed, and the tribes that have been breached have hardly left prisoners of war-the reason is almost because Except for women and children, all young dark elves who are unwilling to surrender are killed on the spot, leaving nothing to survive.

In desperation, whether it is the Eternal Night Party or the Vengeance Party, they can only adopt the tortoise tactics used by the Reform Party in the past-to gather all the people of all tribes together, and to gather all the troops. Resistance to the continued cannibalization of the Revolutionary Party forces.

It's just a pity. Whether it's the Eternal Night Party or the Vengeance Party, they never thought that they would one day be forced into this situation, so they simply don't have a large base that can accommodate so many people. Needless to say, the Eternal Night Party and the Vengeance Party are not like the Reform Party, which folds all the top in a costly war, so even if the two dark elf forces try to follow the Reform Party's tortoise tactics, However, differences in opinions also make it difficult for them to form a unified voice.

Internal chaos has led to large-scale public security problems, coupled with other disputes and conflicts, almost tossing the top parliamentary leaders of the Evernight Party and the Vengeance Party into a misty and chaotic state.

This makes the Yongye Party and the Vengeance Party, who are accustomed to the overlord's character, quite tired and distressed.

However, it is not just the Yongye Party and the Vengeance Party who are also in a state of distress.

Blood elves and demons are also troubled.

The blood elves dispatched this time are extremely large, and they are almost all elite divisions. Although they are nominally under the banner of revenge, they actually have the intention of annexing the Vengeance Party and then conquering the Evernight Party. For this reason, they even gave up the strategic plan to invade the blood clan territory, and instead drew back all the military forces deployed on the border between the blood clan and the blood elves. After all, the current blood clan situation is also very dangerous.

But who would have thought that in these two months, the dangers and troubles of the blood clan were temporarily subdued, and their blood elves were in a dilemma-if the army that was sent into the forest of deep knowledge was lost If it is too big, then this would be a great disaster for the blood elves. After all, their fertility is lower than that of the demons. There is no time for thousands of years to restore their vitality.

As for the demons, their troubles are even simpler.

At this moment, the well-versed forest is like a bottomless black hole, swallowing all the demons sent into the well-versed forest-all the demons who enter the well-versed forest have lost contact with the people, no matter what it is All such contact methods are useless.

It's no wonder that Demonite is so nervous and distressed.

In fact, the entire forest of profound knowledge has been completely covered by Imoku's "plane interference" ability.

Before the end of the War in the Forest of Deep Knowledge, unless it is a top powerhouse who can keep pace with Imoku, no matter what kind of person enters the Forest of Deep Knowledge, it is impossible to get any contact with the outside world. Even being drawn by Imoku's unique rules, he will eventually appear in front of Imoku. As for whether the person who appears in front of Imoku is alive or dead, it depends on Imoku's mood or Xiao Well that means.

But as of now, there have been hundreds of demonic assassins who have died in the hands of Imoku, almost reaching an average of two digits a day.

Selena looked at the panel map of the Forest of Deep Knowledge. The blue color on it, which represents the sphere of influence of the Reform Party, has occupied nearly one-fifth of the entire map. You know, two months ago, the sphere of influence of the Revolutionary Party was about one percent - only a point was marked on the map to prove that the Revolutionary Party still exists.

But now, the blood elves' reinforcements cannot be reached-the blood elves have already gained an advantage in the war with the werewolves, and the blood elves have previously drew out the troops placed on the blood borders, and now they are worried that the blood will repel the werewolves. Will not attack them altogether. After all, compared to werewolves, blood elves are undoubtedly soft persimmons-at least, at the moment when the elite army of blood elves is completely trapped in the forest of deep knowledge, they are indeed soft persimmons.

So the war of the Forest of Deep Knowledge can only rely on the forces of the Eternal Night Party and the Vengeance Party.

The current result is that the Eternal Night Party and the Vengeance Party are unable to protect themselves, and the communication scouts are sent out one to lose contact, and they have no way of knowing the specific situation of their own army. The only thing that can make them feel a little relieved is that as they integrate all the scattered tribes, the dark elves of the Revolutionary Party forces dare not blatantly attack them.

The inferiority in numbers has always been the fundamental irreversibility of the Reform Party.

At this moment, Serena is thinking about how to disintegrate the alliance between the Avengers and the Evernight Party as soon as possible.

But what is helpless is that even Serena, there is no good way at all.

Although Serena has sworn allegiance to Sean, she has killed a lot of dark elves after all, and Serena's "Scarlet Queen" name is not for nothing. For her, war has always been a game of numbers. In the Reform Party, which is severely lacking in soldiers and population, Rorty Kabas dare not give up command to Serena. Therefore, she can only do work similar to staff.

In layman's terms, it is to use her despicable and shameless character to make suggestions.

Of course, compared to the shameless aspect, Sean and she are not much more convincing, after all, both of them are of the type that does not pay much attention to the rules. As long as the opportunity is right and there are enough benefits, the two of them don't mind insulting others. It's just that Sean is more disciplined than Serena, at least he will not shame allies, but Serena can even give her allies a bite when she turns around as long as she gives enough benefits.

So, Sean will take into account the interests of Rorty Kabas, and give up some measures that may harm the interests of the Reform Party. And Serena will not have such a burden. After all, she and Rorty Kabas have no friendship at all. Relatively speaking, Rorty Kabas is even very hostile to Serena.

It is precisely because of this that Serena is undoubtedly more appropriate to serve as the staff and strategist of the Reform Party's counter-offensive plan. As for Sean and Rorty Kabas, the two are responsible for the work of the vanguard: Serena gives combat orders, while Rorty Kabas and Sean are responsible for the execution. Anyway, Serena wants only results. As for She did not ask how to solve the process.

Although Rorty Kabas prefers that Sean is responsible for this kind of combat command affairs. After all, he has seen Sean's commanding ability, but Sean insists on going to the front line in person. This is not good for Rorty Kabas. What to continue to persuade.

"Did you think of a solution?" Kane asked Serena, who was frowning.

"No." Serena replied very simply.

She knew the significance of Sean keeping Kane by her side, but Serena didn't care. She signed the soul contract anyway, what else does she need to care about?

"Oh." Kane responded, and then there was no more text.

On the contrary, Serena, as if she suddenly found some new pleasure, suddenly turned her head to look at Kane, and smiled: "Why, take advantage of the current rest time, let's talk about you."

"Do we have a break here?" Kane was taken aback for a moment, "Why don't I know?"

"Oh, I just made it." Serena said of course, "Then back to the topic, why does Sean trust you so much?"

"Because I will never betray him." Kane said without hesitation.

"Really?" Serena smiled, "Even if you become the new king of the Giovanni clan, mastering the supreme power, and experiencing the power that can determine the life and death of a clan in a word, you will not Betray him?"

"I will not forget who gave me today." Kane glanced at Serena, his tone still calm.

"I don't believe that Sean is so kind, you don't know him at all." Serena said angrily, but soon she realized her gaffe, she couldn't help but glance at Kane, "Sooner or later, he You will also be required to sign a soul contract with him. Don't forget, he is from the surface world, and you are not."

"Then I don't care." Kane shrugged.

He really didn't care whether he wanted to sign a soul contract with Sean, because from the beginning, he was at the bottom of the whole blood society, and almost any normal blood could bully him. However, after only staying with Sean for less than half a year, he has transformed into a strong man of the count rank, not far from the marquis, and according to Sean's plan, his future achievements will never be Stop at the Duke.

So, let alone signing the soul contract, even if the soul was given to Sean, Kane would not frown.

After all, he is different from Serena, unlike Serena who has shown amazing talents since she was a child, and possesses many things that other blood races are likely to be unable to possess for a lifetime.

"Whether you really don't care or if you don't care, time will tell everything." Serena obviously doesn't like Kane's attitude, "Let's wait and see."

"At least I am not required to sign a soul contract to be allowed to move freely." Kane is not the only Kane that year, at least for these eight months, his mentality has been very good to keep up with him. The strength of the change.

Serena was exasperated by Kane's obvious stimulating remarks, she did not have the awe-inspiring temperament of the Scarlet Queen in the past: "It turns out that I am more valuable than you! So now it's me who is sitting here giving orders. Not you."

"Then I am not required to sign a soul contract either." Kane changed his words, but the meaning remained the same.

"With your strength, I can fight a hundred by myself." Serena sneered, "When you catch up with me, I don't know when it will be. I will become the new king of the Giovanni clan. Sean is telling a joke at all!"

"But I don't need to sign a soul contract."

"So it turns out that you are nothing but a waste!"

"Well, but I just don't need to sign a soul contract."

"...Ah, I'm so angry!" In terms of face and shame, even though Serena can be as shameless as Sean, and hide a knife in a smile, after all, being in a high position has developed a habit of being high, how can it be? On the same level as Kane, who was born at the bottom and can be said to be the habit of being humiliated and rascal, "What else would you say besides this one?"

"I want to think about it." Kane was really thinking about Serena's question very seriously, but he found that his help to Sean was indeed very limited. "You believe that I will betray Lord Sean, but I was taken by me. Master Xiao En was captured alive....Is this considered a feat?"

"..." Serena's face was almost as poisonous, changing very quickly, turning red and white, and even biting her lips, the bright beautiful eyes exuded. If the killing intent can become the substance, I am afraid that Kane has died more than 10,000 times. "You should return to the soul contract."

"Oh." Kane nodded, "So I don't need to sign a soul contract at all."

Serena looked slumped, and her heart was even full of a sense of powerlessness: I was actually planted in the hands of such an idiot!

But no matter how strong the dissatisfaction is in her heart, Serena is a real strong after all. She still disdains to vent her anger to the weak. Especially now that Kane is in the same faction relationship with her no matter what, especially if Kane can really become the king of the Giovanni clan in the future, then the two of them will belong to a natural-level ally. .

And no matter what Serena is doing now, she knows very well that if Sean is determined and really intends to help Kane become the king of the Giovanni clan, coupled with her own help, the success rate will definitely not be less than 100%. Of eighty.

Only from this point, Serena will not be unhappy with her future allies.

It seems that the atmosphere is a bit unpleasant. Kane thought for a while, and finally remembered what Sean had said to him and asked him to learn more from Serena. After all, he will be the king of an entire clan in the future, so I still asked, "Master Serena, I don't understand Master Sean's plan."

"What's your plan?" Serena said grimly.

"We obviously can kill all those people in one go, but why does Lord Sean have to play the cat and mouse game like now?" Kane asked with a puzzled look, "and also let you find a way to dismantle Yong Ye. The alliance of the Party and the Vengeance Party.... If Imoku-sama is allowed to act directly, wouldn't it be possible to solve it faster?"

Serena glanced at Kane, and then returned her gaze to the map: "That's because Sean wants to push Rorty Kabas to the throne of the dark elves. According to the current situation of the Reform Party, even Rorty Kabas unified the entire forest of knowledge and became the king of the dark elves, so he would also fall into a situation where there were no soldiers available. If you want to wait for the dark elves to fully recover, there will be no more than a thousand years of time. impossible."

"It's only a thousand years..."

"Yes, it's only a thousand years." Serena nodded, "but this time is not a problem for us, but for Sean, it is a big problem.... He doesn't have so much time. You can wait here slowly, so I said, you don't know Sean at all, and you don't know the meaning of the name 'Sean Connery' in the surface world."

"Can you...can you talk to me?"

Serena glanced at Kane, perhaps out of consideration for not being too ignorant of her future allies, so even if she was so angry just now, she finally sighed slightly, and then said: "The surface world I think you know something about the history of the sharp ears and the stories brought by the refugees, right?"

Pointy ears, naturally referring to dark elves and blood elves.

The refugees refer to the demons.

The arrival of these three ethnic groups not only reshuffled the power pattern of the entire underground world, but also brought about the history of the surface: from the dawn to the dusk, and from the dusk to the ashes. And it is precisely because of the influx of information and intelligence that the two wars of the underground world invading the surface world in the chaotic era were created. It is a pity that the underground and the surface, the two-sided world like a coin, have completely different properties. This led to the terrible failure of the Underground Expeditionary Force.

Of course, the inhabitants of the underground world did not know that it was precisely because of the failure and consumption of these two expeditions that the surface world ended the chaotic era and stabilized the power pattern of the entire surface world.

After this, the underground world and the surface world finally have an interoperable connection, so the underground world is no longer in a state of ignorance of some developments and changes in the surface world.

From dawn to dusk to ashes, this is the era of disillusionment.

And then, there is the chaotic era of the new era and the subsequent era of order.

These five eras illustrate the hundreds of thousands of years of plane history of the entire Marvel Continent.

However, compared with the surface world, only those historical scholars will study these things. The underground world is a group of long-lived guys, so they set a rule for future generations: they must be familiar with the development of the surface and the underground world. history.

Seeing Kane nodded and said that she knew what her question was asking, Serena took a deep breath, and then said softly: "The name Sean Connery represents the meaning of the surface world. It is equated with the new era. Because he has created a new era, an era that belongs only to the strong.... Now he has come to the underground world, although I don't want to admit it, but now I have to say, we're afraid I am fortunate enough to be able to participate in the whole process of the birth of the new era of the underground world."

Chapter 153: Half plane

At the beginning, there was no such place as the forest of deep knowledge in the underground world.

The underground world at that time was more like an undeveloped barren land, full of desolation and despair. Although in this world, there are wind and water, and there are days like sunshine, but any race here is extremely difficult to live.

Except for kinship.

At the end of the Twilight Era, before the arrival of other races, the overlord of the underground world that occupies an absolute dominant position is the blood race.

The status of the blood in the underground world is the same as the status of the gods in the surface world before the twilight age.

Until later, when the gods erupted at dusk, war broke out between the gods and the people, the gods fell, and the gods flee, so there is now a whole body pattern with different scenery, different beasts, and all races coexisting. Of course, it also brought great changes, including the blood clan no longer possessing the hegemony of the underground world.

The Forest of Deep Knowledge is a forest cultivated by the dark elves that took tens of thousands of years.

In this forest, even if the blood and werewolves, who are still known as the most powerful races, come, they cannot kill the dark elves.

Because the entire forest of deep knowledge is like the home field of the dark elves—that is, the domain equivalent to the sanctuary powerhouse, they have an absolute dominant position. At least in the case of the strength of the same rank, it is absolutely impossible for the blood race and the werewolf to win the dark elves in the forest of deep knowledge. And this is the fundamental reason why the dark elves are able to occupy the position of one of the six top races in the underground world.

But now, for the dark elves, this forest world, which they are so familiar with, has become extremely strange.

Their proud sense of direction has completely lost its effect, and not only the sense of direction, but also the concept of time, distance, etc., have become distorted and abnormal. Obviously people who are acting together, but after a period of time, these people have come up with a thousand different answers: like distance, some people say one kilometer, some people say one hundred meters, and some others say yes. Three hundred meters, four hundred meters; and the time, some people feel that one hour, ten minutes, thirty minutes, three hours, etc.; even the direction is extremely biased.

All those who have entered the forest of deep knowledge are already in a state of absolute chaos.

This is a situation unique to chaotic regions.

And that can cause such an impact in the land of order, only Imoku can do it in the entire world.

Plane interference.

This is the legendary ability unique to Imoku.

Under the premise of not affecting the plane of miracle, the range that Imoku can interfere is actually the two-thirds area of the forest of deep knowledge, rather than covering the entire forest of profound knowledge. Of course, if the coverage area is calculated from the radius, then it is actually no different as covering the entire well-versed forest. After all, all dark elves live in the inner circle of the well-versed forest, and they cannot be. Live on the edge of the well-known forest.

The only party that can not be affected by the interference of the plane is the power of the Reform Party.

Unlike Rorty Kabas leading a group of subordinates in charge of tackling tough battles, Sean acts more alone. Although Rorty Kabas also assigned him an operation force, he was only behind when he found an enemy gathering village. , Shaun will let the accompanying troops dispatch together when one person cannot take the entire stronghold.

On the whole, Sean's freedom of action is still very large.

Although almost everyone doesn't know why Sean did this—almost because Imoku happened to be the one who knew why Sean had to act alone: Sean wanted to collect more material!

Xiao En looked at the five golden flames floating in his hands, his expression was very calm.

He found that his ability to hunt souls is only effective for legendary powerhouses. Others like the sanctuary powerhouses can only extract a few fragments at most, but these fragments are basically worthless existences, so after trying it a bit Sean doesn't do this kind of useless work anymore.

As for the extracted souls of the strong, it can be clearly divided into three types at present.

means magic, warrior and faith, which respectively represent the three types of occupations in "Miracle". If distinguished by quality, it can be divided into four levels: S, A, B, and C: A-level quality souls will inevitably reach the legendary pinnacle level, and even hope to impact the super strong; B-level is a little less, However, there is a certain chance of being able to step into the pinnacle level of the legend; as for the C-level, it is the worst quality, and stepping into the legend is the limit.

Like the five flames of strong souls that Sean is holding at this moment, except for the two dark elves that were hunted at the beginning, they are A-level and B-level, the remaining three are all C-level categories. Before, Sean had collected another B-level soul, and it was still a power type, but he tried to absorb it. As a result, his power attribute increased by five points, and his control of power became more accurate. This is a real instant improvement, and it does not require a period of training to master the power.

For this reason, let Xiao En be sure that these powerful souls are really a shortcut for him to quickly reach a higher realm.

In this way, he can also understand why after he became a legendary powerhouse, the system did not provide any new panels for attribute enhancement, as if he was still in the state of the sanctuary before. Now Xiao En finally knows that it is not that there is no change, but that the set of data templates of the system can no longer fully digitize all his abilities as before.

For no reason, Sean thought of a sentence.

"The next road is up to you."

Because of this consideration, Xiao En had to do everything possible to collect "materials", because there is nothing more convenient for him to collect the souls of the strong than the situation where the entire forest of deep knowledge is involved in interference. In other words, in the entire underground world, only the well-versed forest has such a unique and special environment. After all, the blood elves are not large in scale and are not worth the waste of energy by Imoku; and the werewolves, blood races, and spider monsters are too big. , Too scattered and concentrated-all tribes live scattered, and once fighting breaks out, the army will appear in formation.

So there is only a well-versed forest, which is like a natural hunting ground tailored for Sean.

But in the past two months, Sean has only gained four more souls from the strong, one B-level and three C-levels. The B-level power type has been used by Sean. Among the remaining three C-levels, except for the soul of a druid who believes in the goddess of the moon, Asia, the other two souls are skills. Type, so Sean did not use it to bless himself.

These three C-level strong souls, Sean has other plans of his own.

"Imoku, what's the situation on your side?" Through the spiritual connection, Sean asked.

"It's okay. These little mice are not very quiet recently, but after being beaten by me a few times, they have been honestly motionless again. I guess they are almost polished." Imoku's voice was relaxed and he didn't feel that he was affected. What's wrong with Sean's arrangement to guard these legions, of course Sean also knows what the little mouse means, "But recently there have been more cockroaches, and it's a little troublesome to deal with, so I just let them kill each other."

Cockroaches, of course, do not refer to the elven coalition, but the demons.

According to Imoku's interpretation of his own abilities, plane interference is not just as simple as affecting the perception of space and time. This ability can even interfere with many factors and changes. However, looking at the entire chaotic world and the dark side, as of now, only Imoku has this kind of power. Of course, there are not no people who can crack his kind of ability, but there are too few.

It's not about talent, but about strength.

The easiest and simplest way to crack Imoku's abilities is to hit him directly on the ground.

It just so happened that Sean knew that Alexis and Jibril had done this before. The latter killed Imoku once and expelled him directly from this plane.

In addition, if Imoku cannot be suppressed in strength, then it really needs to rely on talent to be able to withstand the influence of this ability.

"I have a few questions to ask." After a moment of silence, Xiao En finally spoke.

After hearing these words, Imoku also condensed the relaxed color of laughter, and replaced it with a solemn face. That kind of solemnity, or the aura that was so heavy that even the air was frozen and solidified, even Sean, who was not facing Imoku, could fully feel it.

"As long as I know, I will tell the truth."

"Underground world, have you been here?" Sean thought for a while, and asked the first question he most wanted to know.

"I have come." Imoku's answer gave Sean a hint of excitement, but this excitement was quickly extinguished, "But the most direct and safest way to get out of here is Through the path of the abyss...I can tear open the plane barrier, but I can't guarantee that you will be safely brought back to the surface world. If it is myself, I can do it."

"Then... wait!" Sean, who originally wanted to ask about the information on the path of the abyss, keenly captured the most critical information, "you mean... this underground world is not in the miracle continent? but... ...Another world plane?"

"How do you say?" It seemed to be organizing language skills. Imoku thought for a while before speaking, "This world is still in the miracle continent, but it can be regarded as another world plane."

"What's the meaning?"

"This is a demiplane that has lost its master." Imoku replied, "His master was a  who fell in the Twilight War of the Gods. But when he was dying, he opened a channel to let those who didn't I hope that the gods and people who participated in the war have a retreat to leave. This retreat, which is now the so-called path of the abyss, is actually a plane channel, but those people do not know it."

"It is precisely because of the conclusion of this passage that this demiplane did not leave the main plane after losing its master, but was absorbed by the main plane and became another companion to the main plane of Miracle Continent. Demiplane...I was here once in the Age of Ashes. At that time, this demiplane was only an incomplete plane, far less...beautiful than it is now."

The underground world of the Ash Age is just a wilderness.

After listening to Imoku's words, Sean finally understood why this place called the Underground World was obviously only the underground of the Miracle Continent, but he was completely unable to get in touch with Alexis and others: "So... because of this. It is a demiplane that is associated with the main plane. Even if this plane has the corresponding perfection laws of the main plane, it is not completely perfect, and this led to the semi-plane called the 'underground world'. There are no so-called four seasons in the plane, and there is no real day and night. Therefore, there will be... a plane barrier that blocks the two worlds."

"Yes." Imoku nodded, "Ulamo can indeed open the Chaos Portal, but it is more of the instantaneous movement of the same plane. If you want to break the plane wall for teleportation, it is not impossible. It's just that it's more dangerous."

Chaos teleportation is not comparable to the portals unique to the order world. This type of portal does not have any security guarantees. To pass through it completely, you must have strong power.

"I'm a little worried about the surface." Xiao En sighed softly, "Although I have been away for a long time before, but the situation is not different from this time. This time my departure is not only very sudden, but also in the Void Principality. At a time of change, especially since I am completely unable to get in touch with other people now..."

"Are you worried they will change?"

"I believe in Cecilia and William. I am worried about the lower-level people." Sean said softly. "They are not like Cecilia, who have experienced downtime with me. They are not like Alfred. De and William and the others have experienced the most difficult time with me.... Many people just took refuge in me, and they haven't even had time to fight with me."

"Are you worried that they will...rebel?"

"Perhaps it is worse than rebellion." Sean frowned. "Do you know what the most terrifying thing about a team is? It's internal chaos. The Principality, which has finally gained a foothold, should have internal friction at this time. If you do, then everything I have done over the past ten years will become meaningless."

"I don't think I have to worry about it. If you have Sir Alexis with them..."

"No." Sean shook his head, "It is precisely because Alexis is there that I worry more. Because no one can stop her except me."

"Well, I know what you're worried about. It really resembles the style of Sir Alexis." Imoku said helplessly, "I can go to the surface, but I can only go by myself. ...And, if I go, then I will not be able to maintain this realm of interfering planes..."

"When the affairs of the forest of deep knowledge are over, you will go to the surface once and report to me that I am safe."

"As you wish."

Chapter 154: The attacker

The chat with Imoku was over, and Sean leaned out quietly from the bushes.

Yesterday, the team led by Sean discovered this stronghold which I do not know if it is the Eternal Night Party or the Vengeance Party, but as expected, all the people in the stronghold have already evacuated, leaving only this empty stronghold. However, based on the situation in the stronghold, it can probably be seen that their evacuation was not disorderly, because there were hardly any useful materials found here.

According to the dark elf who was assigned by Rorty Kabas to assist Shaun, the people in the stronghold should be evacuated for more than five days.

In this time period, obviously even if Xiao En and others want to pursue the pursuit, they can't start.

Because the clue must have been cleaned up.

Although Imoku is able to interfere with almost the entire forest of deep knowledge in space and time, this ability is only a perceptual influence in the final analysis. If the opponent is prepared from the beginning, even if it is a group operation, then the interference effect of this ability will actually be reduced a lot, especially Imoku will concentrate most of his energy on the remaining coalition forces. Therefore, the influence on other parts of the outside world will be much weaker.

Through the performance of ability, Sean also has some more understanding of the situation of the three Eldrazi brothers.

Kozilek is responsible for the frontal hard fight, while Imoku is restraining and interfering from the side. Ulamog is the last straw to crush the enemy-from this point of view, we can understand why the system will give When these three brothers gathered together, the evaluation of the improvement of combat ability was made. It's no wonder why a pervert like Alexis couldn't win when facing these three brothers at the beginning, and finally relied on the strategy of forced breakthrough to defeat them with difficulty.

Looking back at the slightly quiet inside of the stronghold, Sean jumped from the top of the tree, and then began to look around the surrounding environment, preparing to choose a direction to move on.

The Forest of Deep Knowledge is the home and home of the dark elves. If it weren't for the interference of Imoku, Sean would never fight the dark elves in such a place. As for the subordinates dispatched to him by Rorty Kabas, Sean has nothing to explain. Without the influence of Imoku, they can follow up no matter where Sean moves. This I have to say that it is their unique racial talent.

It didn't take much time, and Sean chose a direction casually and started to move forward.

The big strongholds of the Eternal Night Party and the Vengeance Party have been discovered. Rorty Kabas and Serena set up a circle around these two strongholds in order to intercept these dark elves who are going to the two strongholds, thereby weakening The power of the Eternal Night Party and the Vengeance Party.

However, the Reform Party suffers from a serious shortage of manpower, so there will still be a lot of missing fish arriving at these two strongholds.

But unlike the work of Rorty Kabas and Serena, Sean collects as many souls of the strong as possible before the final battle begins. Of course, if these evacuees can be found and stopped, then it is naturally the best.

But it is a pity that Sean and others have not stopped many tribes after so long.

As Sean was walking through quickly, a roar of breaking through the air suddenly sounded.

Xiao En's forward posture stopped abruptly, and then his head was slightly tilted back a few minutes, and a feather arrow shot in front of him, and then plunged into a tree next to him.

The arrow is halfway through!

Only leave the tail feathers to tremble!

And this arrow seemed to sound like a battle horn.

In the dark dense forest on the left side of Xiao En, suddenly ten thousand arrows shot dozens of feather arrows towards Xiao En.

Each arrow is full of strength.

Densely bursting through the air screaming sounded one after another, and there was a stance of nailing Shaun to the spot.

"Dad!" The Black King's voice suddenly sounded.

Sean, who originally wanted to dance the sword to block, heard the voice of the black king, and his heart trembled slightly, and he immediately gave up this very pretending approach. Arrow coming. Because Xiao En knew that the current Black King was no longer as stubborn as before. It was like a child who had grown up overnight, becoming mature and stable, and he seldom spoke unless he had to.

However, whenever the Black King speaks to remind him, then it must be dangerous!

So Sean did not hesitate at all, and immediately chose to avoid instead of picking up this wave of arrows.

As Sean expected, while he was evading quickly, a second wave of arrows was shot out in the dense forest, but the strength of the arrows was more obvious than the first ambush that seemed to be premeditated. Not as good.

Obviously, he did not expect that under such intensive shooting, Sean's reaction was not to parry and block, but to choose to avoid the risk of being shot, which made their subsequent attacks biased.

And Sean, when he saw this second wave of shooting, an idea suddenly popped into his mind: it's not a dark elf!

According to Sean's understanding of the elves family, the elven archers can maintain the strongest attack power in a rapid shot within ten minutes, which is the so-called full-string bow, which can only last three to five at most compared to humans. Minutes are undoubtedly going to be a lot stronger. And you must know that this kind of full-string shooting is still on the premise of rapid shooting, not the kind of slow aiming lock and then pulling the string to shoot, so the difficulty is much higher.

So in such a situation, no matter what actions Sean makes, the level of the second wave of attacks can definitely remain at the level of the first wave of attacks.

This time, in the face of the second wave of attacks, the Black King did not warn again, so while Sean calmly retreated and dodged, he also swung his sword away from the arrow attacks that might hurt him.

However, under the collision of the tip of the sword and these arrows, Sean has a deeper feeling that the enemy is not a dark elf.

Because the dark elves like to take local materials very much, the shafts of their arrows are all wooden.

Of course, in addition to the easy access to materials and simple production process, the light weight, low resistance, and easy portability of the arrows are also one of the reasons why they like wooden shafts. At least, with arrows made of wood shafts, their attack judgment accuracy is undoubtedly much higher.

But right now, the arrows that were picked off by Sean with the tip of the sword are all heavy iron products.

An arrow shaft made of iron ingots, in addition to the complicated production process, only has the advantage of amazing destructive power. However, compared to the advantages, this kind of pure iron arrow has many more disadvantages. Basically, except for some special occasions or when special cooperation is required, basically no one will use this kind of arrow. NS.

In the underground world, although dark elves prefer wooden arrows, their close relatives, blood elves, do not reject such iron products. In addition, werewolf tribes, spider demons, and demons also have records of using such iron products.

For a while, before seeing the real body of the attacker, Sean could not determine the identity of the attackers. After all, the situation in the forest of deep knowledge is quite complicated.

But at this moment, the first batch of arrows shot had already been scattered around because of the loss of Shaun's goal. But as soon as these arrows hit an obstacle, they immediately exploded in a series of explosions. The dozens of arrows in this densely packed series were all blasting arrows!

Seeing the thick smoke covering the field of sight, Xiao En couldn't help but feel terrified.

Obviously, the enemy is definitely here!

As his legendary powerhouse, under such a dense blasting arrow attack, although he will not be killed because of this, he is absolutely uncomfortable. Injury is an inevitable end. And being able to put up such a big siege, how could he end up with a wounded end? There must be a series of killer moves and ambush, even if he can get out of this dangerous place, then he will probably need to rest for a while. time.

This is by no means a good result for Sean.

And just as the dense smoke was covering up, another gust of wind howled suddenly sounded.

This strong whistling sound was much more violent than the arrow that Sean had avoided before. Almost only when he heard this sound, Sean realized that he would never be able to parry in haste. So without hesitation, he immediately chose to avoid it, and quickly avoided the violent wind that was whistling toward his side.

The air flow rolled up by the fierce attack tore apart the narrow space covered by the dense smoke, but at the same time it also messed up the entire battlefield environment, allowing the dense smoke produced by the explosion to spread to a larger area.

Under this hasty evasion, Xiao En saw only a huge battle axe that tore the place where he stood just now.

The tomahawk's attack was from bottom left to top right, but it clearly didn't touch the ground. The strong air currents and wind pressure still tore the ground apart. Countless sands and rocks flew towards Sean like tiny cannonballs. Sean also had to swing his sword to shoot down-you know, under such strong wind pressure, the power of these stones is not weaker than an arrow shot from a full string.

Then the next moment, a huge group of black shadows suddenly fell towards Xiao En with the momentum of Mount Tai.

Obviously, the enemy used the interference caused by the attack at that moment to blind Sean's sight, and then issued a second attack that followed by jumping and cutting, trying to take Sean completely in one fell swoop. .

However, this enemy also underestimated Sean's strength.

At the moment when he felt the shadows fall, Sean had activated his unique ability: the law of time and space, thus changing the speed of each other in a small range. But it was only a moment of effort, but Sean felt a burst of brain pain. At this moment, he realized that this attacker must also be a legendary powerhouse, because only a legendary powerhouse can make Shaun's legendary The consumption of power has increased dramatically.

If it is a general sanctuary powerhouse or even a lower gold powerhouse, even if Sean uses the legendary ability of "temporal manipulation", it will hardly have much impact on him.

But thanks to this unique legendary ability of Sean.

When he avoided the legendary powerhouse's sneak attack on the top of Mount Tai, the strong impact finally completely dissipated the surrounding smoke, revealing the true identity of the attacker.

This is a spider monster!

Rather than the demon descendants or blood elves that Shaun had previously guessed!

This spider demon does not have a body similar to humans as Sean heard from Rorty Kabas, but reveals his own real body: about three meters tall and extremely strong. On the upper body, both hands hold a huge double-edged battle axe with a height of no less than three meters. The lower part of the human body is the head and abdomen of the spider, which looks like a double amputation. The legs of humans and spiders stick together the same.

This spider demon is wearing an extremely heavy armor, and the hardness of the armor is as good as Shaun's teeth.

Elite and heavy infantry on the surface can't wear this kind of thing with a thickness of close to five centimeters. It is not like armor, but can be said to be a mobile fortress. It is estimated that only this kind of spider demon with its body shape can carry this exaggerated heavy armor. According to Sean's eyesight, the weight of the armor worn by only the upper body of the spider demon has to be calculated by ton at least. Without the spider demon's lower body, the spider part is also covered with thick iron sheets.

Legendary powerhouse, coupled with the armor like a fortress, and the Nerubian race known for strength and endurance, how terrible is the combat power exerted by this superposition?

Just look at the momentum of this spider demon just now that the topping of Mount Tai has shaken out a deep pit on the ground that seems to have been hit by a meteorite.

Eight legs touched the ground easily, and the whole body bounced like a spring. The spider demon stared at Xiao En with a heavy axe in his hand, showing a kind of caution that was completely different from that in Shaun's impression.

At this time, dozens of Nerubian soldiers also walked out of the dense forest.

It's just that compared with this legendary spider monster, these soldiers seem to be much more normal: their general height is only about two meters, and they are only wearing a set of armor that should be considered heavy compared to humans. He was holding an iron spear in his right hand, and their bow and quiver on the spider's abdomen's back. Obviously, the dense arrow attack just came from the attack of this group of spider monsters.

"Sean?" The legendary Nebbot spoke.

"Are you unaffected?" Hearing the Nerubian speak, Sean knew that they were not disturbed by Imoku, which made Sean very curious.

"You really know the changes in the forest." The legendary spider demon suddenly laughed. "What affected me just now was also the ability of time?... Well, these methods of yours deal with other people. Not bad, but it won't work against me, because my legendary ability also happens to be related to time."

Chapter 155: .Legendary Nerub

Time and space, these are the two main elements that make up a world.

So no matter which world, plane, or faction you are in, these two elements exist as the highest-level laws.

The difficulty of understanding the law of time is slightly easier than the law of space. Basically, as long as it involves a law that has a certain connection with time, it is possible to deduce the law of time: for example, slow-deceleration-time-time, debilitating-aging-aging-time-time, or curse-weakness-debility -Exhaustion-time-time, etc., it is possible to directly deduct the law of time, but no matter what kind of deduction and perception route you take, you will eventually feel the law of time, which is deduced as the most superior law: the law of time Inevitable premise.

If you want to get in touch with the laws of space, except for some talented guys who can directly comprehend the laws of space with a very small probability, most of them derive information about the laws of space from the laws of time. But being able to deduce relevant information does not mean that you can really perceive, comprehend and control the laws of space. The concept of hierarchy is completely different.

Like Sean, he directly controls the laws of time and space, and smoothly deduced the core laws that can constitute the world benchmark: the laws of time and space, which is even rarer. At least as far as Sean knows, at present, in the entire world of Marvel Continent, he is the only one who controls the laws of time and space—before Jibril left this plane, there were two people. Perhaps this is a special aspect of the children of the plane. Welfare?

Of course, Sean has no idea whether it is really the welfare of the children of the plane.

But what he knew was that the words of the legendary Nebbo before him were not joking.

Moreover, he has already been exposed to the application of some spatial laws through the laws of time. Otherwise, it is impossible to establish a perfect sense of space under Imoku's plane interference ability, thus calculating his own path. Position to make an ambush.

If it weren't the previous reminder from the Black King, Sean had already been recruited at the moment.

This legendary spider monster is the first enemy that Sean encounters after coming to the underground world that really makes him feel tricky. Because at the same level, Sean's law abilities have almost no substantial effect on this spider monster. Of course, the opponent's legendary abilities can't be applied to Sean, so the two sides can only compete for the best. Basic physical fitness.

But letting a human and a spider monster compete for physical fitness is simply a difficult thing for others.

To give a simplest example of data, the physical fitness of a normal adult, all abilities are all ten. But the five data of Nerubian physical fitness, strength, endurance, agility, wisdom, and will are twenty, twenty, six, eight, and fifteen respectively. And this is still a general level of individuality, if it is the kind of unusual talent, the strength and endurance attributes may even exceed 30 points.

Whether the legendary spider demon is talented or not, Xiao En does not know, but what he can know is the spider demon who can become a legendary powerhouse. Without exception, it is definitely a real genius level.

Breathing out gently, Sean's eyes quickly brightened.

Fear?

How could this emotion appear in Sean's thoughts. He included the entire forest of profound knowledge into the scope of plane interference, isn't it just to complete his hunting plan here?

Although the enemy is not a dark elf, but a powerful legendary spider monster, what is the difference for Sean? It was just another prey, and it happened to be the power prey he liked very much.

So, the brightness of Sean's eyes is a kind of light called "excitement" shining.

It seems that he didn't see the look of fear he wanted in Sean's eyes, and the face of this legendary spider monster looked a little annoyed: "Humph! In the fear of death, I regret that you shouldn't have met me!" "

Like a declaration of war, this legendary spider demon roared out these words like catharsis, and immediately moved eight feet together, and suddenly rushed towards Xiao En like a siege chariot.

Contrary to Sean's expectation, he didn't expect that a huge spider monster could have such a fast speed-in fact, this was the first time that Sean had contact with the spider monster, even when it was in the game. , Sean also has no record of fighting with Nerub, so he doesn't know the actual fighting situation of Nerub. In the smoky environment just now, Sean's combat response was just a natural movement of conditioned reflex, which was far less shocking than the impact formed by the speed of the spider monster at this moment.

However, in just two or three seconds, this legendary spider demon has already rushed in front of Sean. His hands have already waved his battle axe during the high-speed charge movement, and when he was approaching within the attack range. , He suddenly swung his battle axe and fell heavily.

hasn't been parried yet, just the airflow that was entrained when the battle axe was swung, has already caused Shawn's bare skin to sting.

You don't need to try it yourself. Just looking at the momentum of this blow, Sean knows very well that he will never be able to withstand this blow.

So without the slightest hesitation, at this moment, Sean suddenly activated two abilities that he had not used for a long time: adrenal stimulation and light body surgery, and even reversed the use of the law of time and space on himself.

At this moment, Sean only felt light all over, as if all the shackles had been lifted from him.

A light leap, the whole person has already flew back and withdrew a distance of tens of meters.

At this moment, dozens of arrows once again staggered and shot towards Shaun, covering almost all the space within three meters of Shaun's previous standing position.

This time, it was the Nerubian mercenaries who made the move.

It is obviously not the first time that they and their legion commander cooperated. This can be seen from the fact that the other party is still standing hundreds of meters away and raising a volley of bows. Moreover, this kind of staggered shooting happened to completely cover the surrounding space of Sean, forcing the opponent with a strong means to be unable to dodge at all, and could only engage in a head-to-head confrontation with the legendary spider monster-with a force. And the proud Nerubian heads up head-on? Let alone Sean, any normal inhabitant of the underground world would not be so stupid.

And it is obvious that these Nebbos once again incorrectly estimated Sean's speed.

So these volleys of arrows intended to block Sean's activity space did not have any effect on Sean at all. Long before the blockade of complete space was formed, Sean had already escaped from this blockade, and even completely out of the attack range of these Nerubian mercenaries.

"Boom!"

There was a loud noise.

The battle axe fell heavily into the ground.

Originally, the ground rumbling caused by the rapid sprint of this legendary spider monster was caused by the slashing of the battle axe, which seemed to cause a violent earthquake.

The earth roared, and the place where the battle axe smashed was even more collapsed. Numerous cracks quickly spread in all directions, and as the cracks spread and spread, the sand and stones also rolled into the cracks, even the surrounding area. The dense bushes also seemed to be swallowed by cracks. In a blink of an eye, the place where the battle axe smashed into it was a dot. The ground within a hundred meters of a radius was like a broken puzzle, countless bottomless. The cracks crisscross, it is truly a doomsday scene like a landslide.

Shaun's expression slightly changed. This kind of power burst is definitely not the level that a normal legendary powerhouse can reach!

Even if the scope of this affected area is limited to hundreds of meters, it may even be stronger than the average sanctuary powerhouse, but from the perspective of power performance, this explosive destruction has definitely reached the pinnacle of legend, even The level of super power!

This kind of earth was shattered and destroyed, but it did not seem to have much influence on this legendary spider monster.

The toe part of his eight legs is no different from a normal spider. It can even be said to be sharper. At this time, it plunged into the surrounding ground, as if eight nails were nailed to the ground, completely fixing his huge body, quite a kind of Taishan posture that the wind does not move.

Xiao En's gaze fixed on the Nebbo, trying to find something suspicious from him. He didn't believe that it was emitted from this spider monster, but the strength of the twelfth tier close to the thirteenth level can burst out such a powerful force. This must be a special secret technique, and this kind of secret technique is absolutely impossible. There are no side effects, because after all, this is not like adrenal stimulation and light weight surgery, but a powerful secret technique that can really change the situation.

Soon, the solemn expression of Sean gradually relaxed, and replaced by a chuckle: "Your body... can't move."

"Huh! Just kidding!" The legendary spider demon held the battle axe in one hand, then shook his shoulder, and made a chest-expanding action. "If you really think I can't move anymore, why don't you try it yourself? Try it."

While saying this, she also danced with the tomahawk, holding the end of the tomahawk with his left hand again, revealing a gatekeeper-like posture.

I have to say that, given the three-meter-high size of this legendary spider demon, his move really seemed extremely oppressive and imposing.

At least, it is enough to scare the average person.

But is Sean an ordinary person?

Without any hesitation or disguise, Sean simply stepped forward towards the legendary spider monster, and then Xiao En keenly caught the tension and solemnity in the eyes of this spider monster.

Everything was just as Sean had guessed. The blow just now was not too burdensome for this legendary Nerub. Otherwise, it would be impossible for those Nerubian mercenaries to use arrows to try to block Sean's space and persecute him. He confronted the legendary spider monster head-on. It was only because they didn't understand Sean's strength that there was such a big omission that their most confident three-axes attacks all fell into the empty space.

From the shooting of burst arrows, to the killer moves in the thick smoke, to the final slashing, such a skillful attack combo, Xiao En believed that many people must be hated by their three axes. Not to mention the first two axes, but the terrifying power of the last legendary spider demon. If any legendary powerhouse is replaced without paying attention, he will definitely be severely injured on the spot, or even killed directly. It's all possible.

It's just that Sean has always had an extremely keen intuition for danger. Moreover, his coping style has always been different from that of people in this world. Even now he is more and more accustomed to the status of lord and grandduke, but his thinking is still biased towards the traditional player thinking when fighting, and even many behavior methods are also used. It is handled by the player's method, and will not be restricted by the restrictions of this world.

For this reason, auxiliary techniques such as light body surgery and adrenal stimulation are normally used to win surprises, but Sean is used as a regular combat method.

Of course, the most important thing is that the player's thinking also prevents Sean from paying special attention to honor like those strong in this world. He would rather die head-on than choose some next-hand methods. In this case, the so-called traditional knights are the most, and these people are not even willing to use weapons such as crossbow arrows.

It is precisely because of this that an existence like Serena is the only one that Sean has seen in the past ten years since he came to this world. Other people, even strategists like Hela, are more accustomed to suppressing their opponents with uprightness, instead of using some boring and despicable little tricks-it can even be said that in the past 15 years of Sean All opponents encountered, even if it is a so-called conspiracy, will show a kind of grandeur that is unique to this world.

Because the superiors cannot afford to lose that person.

Unlike Serena and Sean, it can be said that there is no discipline at all.

"The consumption you had just now was very large." Sean walked forward slowly, and then talked eloquently, "This is also the reason why you exposed your body to fight. Because you need to rely on the spider body and eight legs to support you. The stability of the... And in order to cover up this problem, you even let your subordinates reveal themselves to fight like you, so as to better cover up the flaws in your battle plan."

"You can try."

"Don't bluff to me, it's meaningless." Xiao En smiled, "Moreover, although you can't move, your physical strength has not degraded. If I confront you, wouldn't it be what you meant?... ...Do you think I am that stupid?"

The face of the legendary spider monster changes slightly.

"So, I decided..." Shaun stood at a distance of about 100 meters from the legendary spider monster. The smile on his face seemed very sincere, but the more so, the more it made the legendary spider monster. Chilling, "After killing all of your subordinates, let's settle the account slowly....Because their arrows are covered, it's really annoying to me."

After Xiao En said, he turned into a stream of light and rushed straight into the group of Nerubian mercenaries behind the legendary Nebane.

"No! Damn it!"

The legendary spider demon let out an angry roar, but he could only watch Sean, who turned into a streamer, fall into his mercenary regiment. En didn't confront him at all, a roundabout sidewind completely made him powerless. Because the facts were exactly as Sean had expected, he was absolutely unable to move at the moment, and the only thing that could keep moving was the upper body of the human body.

The blow just now almost exhausted all his strength, and even left him in an extreme state of stiffness.

In the game, this situation is generally collectively referred to as "magnification", and it is still an absolute "life and death" move: after all, if you can't kill the opponent, it is enough for the opponent to kill yourself in such a long straight time. Ten times, especially in the master clash.

And Sean.

happens to belong to this kind of real master: in any sense.

So after discovering the biggest flaw in this legendary spider monster, Sean naturally didn't have any plans to be merciful.

And he knows very well that if he wants to attack while the spider demon is unable to move at this time, then he will definitely be dragged by the spider demon. After all, he is also a real legendary powerhouse, holding a person in close confrontation. It can still be done very easily to prevent it from leaving the scope of the battle. Once caught in this passive rhythm, coupled with the harassment of the Nerubian mercenaries, the eventually victorious Libra will still lean towards the legendary Nerubian.

Therefore, it is impossible for Sean to do such a brainless thing.

The correct strategy is to cut off these Nerubian mercenaries first, and then slowly cook and cook this legendary Nebane.

Chapter 156: .S-Class Soul

How strong is Shaun, this legendary spider monster has an extremely obvious experience.

Whether it is combat awareness or combat experience, it is obviously completely beyond the level of normal people.

This normal level naturally refers to the consciousness of the inhabitants of the underground world, which surprised this legendary spider monster. Because he knew that Sean came from the surface world, but Sean's terrifying combat power made this legendary spider demon take it for granted that the power of the surface world is so powerful. Ended with the fiasco of the underground world.

But what this legendary spider demon doesn't know is that even if Sean is in the surface world, he is different from normal people.

Not to mention his unreasonable playing cards and no rules of the bottom line, in terms of personal combat effectiveness, Sean also has an absolutely advanced combat awareness, this awareness is his experience of fighting with countless players in the game that year. But in this real world, apart from the invincible powerhouses who are truly standing at the top, no one dares to say that their combat experience can be compared to Sean, let alone surpassed.

After all, in the game, the player can be resurrected after death, even if it is limited by talent, but the rich experience accumulated infinitely is enough to make any person who is not brain-disabled can be more powerful than the natives of the real world. Fighting awareness and experience.

This is an incomparable absolute advantage.

So, when Sean bypassed the legendary Nebbo and dealt with his Nebbo mercenary subordinates, even though the legendary Nebbo was so angry that his teeth were broken, he was still helpless. Because at this time, he couldn't move at all. If he hadn't been supported by a strong chassis, he might not even be able to stand now.

Shaun gently waved the Black King in his hand, and then dropped the black blood stains on it, and then began to slowly walk towards the legendary spider demon: "Next, we are the only one left."

"I will tear you into strips of dried meat!" The legendary spider demon uttered an extremely angry roar, loud and loud like thunder.

"I hope you have this opportunity." Xiao En chuckled lightly, and then suddenly accelerated forward when he was about tens of meters away from the legendary spider monster.

Xiao En didn't know how long the bombardment of this legendary spider demon had lasted, but he knew very well that he was not good at head-to-head hand-to-hand combat, so the only thing he could rely on was far beyond normal. Human speed. Especially after the few fierce confrontations just now, although Sean had no experience in fighting with the spider monsters, he had more or less figured out some of the spider monsters' weaknesses.

First of all, the most critical point is that the weight-bearing capacity of the legendary Nebbo in front of him is completely beyond the standard.

This kind of exceeding the standard has completely exceeded the extent that the legendary powerhouse can afford, and Sean even suspects that the super powerhouse may not be able to carry out such a terrifying load operation. If it wasn't for the spider's unique abdomen that was carried by the spider demon, I'm afraid that the opponent is already unable to move even at the moment.

So Sean's fighting intentions are also very simple.

Chop the foot!

suddenly flashed like a stream of light, and Xiao En was stunned by a distance of tens of meters.

Although this legendary spider demon vaguely captured Sean's movement trajectory, his movements were too late to effectively intercept. He could only hold the end of the battle axe tightly with his right hand, and the legendary spider demon rushed towards Shaun directly. A large-scale sweep was carried out in the direction of.

The strong wind even shattered the ground once again, and countless fine stones burst and splashed, just like a divergent cannon, spraying out in all directions.

But how can this kind of attack stop Sean?

As long as it is not smashed head-on by the battle axe of this legendary spider demon, any other attacks against Sean are basically in a state of ignorance. So countless pebbles like cannonballs splashed out, but Sean swung his sword lightly without even thinking about it. He just picked up a few of the pebbles, and the pebbles that collided with each other changed the trajectory of the flight, as if there was an invisible layer. The airflow barrier blocked in front of Xiao En, and bounced all these stones away.

Afterwards.

Sean used the law of time and space to reduce his speed abruptly. The legendary spider demon watched his battle axe pass in front of Sean. Can't have any effect on Sean-this kind of attack is still very effective against the golden strong, but it is difficult to effectively kill when facing the sanctuary strong, let alone Sean is still a good one. A legendary powerhouse.

After the initial confrontation, Sean realized that his abilities would not have any effect on the legendary spider monster, so he didn't waste this energy.

So Sean directly applied this legendary ability to himself. Of course, the power of the law of time and space is simply incomprehensible to anyone who has not personally experienced and manipulated it. The impact it produces is not just an individual, it can even directly affect an area, and the impact it produces is not just as simple as acceleration and deceleration. Basically, any ability related to time and space is in Within the scope of the influence of the law of time and space.

The existence that resembles an airflow barrier is not an illusion of the legendary spider monster, but is created by Sean using the laws of time and space.

Although it looks very mysterious, it is actually worthless to put it bluntly. It is nothing more than acceleration, deceleration, plus a space displacement. Although everything seems normal from the outside world, in the small area affected by Sean, the flow of time is completely disconnected from the material world and becomes a unique time controlled by Sean. Velocity area.

In the adjustment between extremely fast and extremely slow, Sean's control level has also been fully grasped.

So after abruptly decelerating and avoiding the battle-axe sweep of the legendary spider monster, when Sean's footsteps slightly lifted, the flow of time has changed from deceleration to acceleration.

No one can see Sean's movements clearly at this moment, and even the Black King, who is tightly gripped by Sean, just feels the momentary transformation of the scene, and some kind of slashing from the sword. The feeling of hard objects.

When everything was still, Sean was already dozens of meters away from the other side of the legendary Nerub.

The violent beating of his heart made Xiao En realize that at that moment, it also had a certain impact on his body load. However, this load is not particularly serious. After Xiao En estimated it himself, he found that he could still bear it about four times.

Four times...

Shaun's gaze fell on the right half of the legendary spider monster, and the corners of his mouth raised slightly: enough.

Seeing the corner of Xiao En's mouth, the legendary spider demon's heart suddenly jumped, and an inexplicable sense of danger began to surround him, and this feeling made him very uncomfortable. However, even though he is uncomfortable, he will not ignore this feeling because of this, because he can become a legendary powerhouse, but it is not a fluke, but step by step relying on his own strength to fight. , So he is no stranger to this uncomfortable feeling.

In other words, because of Sean's murderous lock-in, it aroused greater anger in the heart.

"A worm is just a little bit!"

"Worm?" Sean laughed, "Are you talking about you?"

When just opened his mouth, Sean was still several tens of meters away, and then walked slowly towards the legendary spider monster. But in a blink of an eye, there was another flash of light, which was incredibly fast. This time even the legendary spider monster could not clearly capture the traces of Sean. After watching the brilliance shine, Sean has already seen it again. Standing tens of meters away, the position was not much different from where he was when he first attacked.

The streamer flashes twice in a row, and they only wiped it from my side, but did not cause any impact on me. A slightly more normal person knows that things will definitely not be so simple, let alone the sense of danger from beginning to end. Stop the legendary spider monster that has been entangled.

He knew that Sean's behavior was definitely targeted.

The next moment, the face of the legendary spider monster suddenly changed. He looked down at his right leg, although it seemed that there was no problem, and because he was still in a state of complete fatigue from over-squeezing his lower body, he could barely perceive it. everything. However, as a legendary powerhouse, it is impossible for him to have no power of observation. It can even be said that any legendary powerhouse has almost reached a level of subtle control over his own situation. Therefore, after a little careful examination at this time, the legendary powerhouse The Nerubian face changed drastically.

"Found it?" Sean chuckled slightly and moved his body slightly. The two high-speed flashing impacts also put a lot of load on him. Moreover, the load on the body is heavier than once, far from being able to perform five times as previously judged.

Judging from the cost of the second acceleration sprint, Sean revised his judgment: he can only use it twice more at most.

In other words, if Sean uses this ability, he can only use it four times at most.

But four times, it is enough for Sean to solve the legendary spider monster.

Nothing else, just because no matter how powerful this legendary spider monster is, his essence is similar to the form of a spider, so it only has four legs on one side. What Sean has to do is simple. Just cut off his four feet on one side and it will be enough to make this legendary spider monster crippled, and the next thing he needs to do is to make the other party unable to withstand that set of things. The weight of the armor made him crush himself to death.

Of course, if the opponent abandons this armor and turns into a human form, Sean will also be fearless.

In other words, this situation is what Sean prefers to hear.

Fighting is doomed from the moment when the opponent is unable to move and bluffs and fails.

seemed to be aware of the seriousness of the situation. The legendary spider demon watched Xiao En slowly walking towards him again. He had already raised 120,000 points of attention, and he didn't dare to look down on it at all.

But when Sean turned into a streamer to sprint again, even if the legendary spider demon suddenly held up his battle axe, he began to smash the earth desperately, and even broke his own center of gravity to involve all the surrounding ground into the shock wave. Within the scope of destruction.

But the final result is still unable to get Sean!

The destruction caused by the shock wave had torn the ground again, and even destroyed his balance of gravity: the two stabbing legs that were severed by Sean had already broken with the body, and the legendary spider monster even fell to one side— -If it hadn't been for the battle axe in his hand to stick to the ground and keep his figure, now I am afraid that he has fallen to one side and is completely unable to move.

Although right now, it is no different from being unable to move.

Xiao En still kept a smile on his face, and then looked at this legendary spider monster who had almost completely lost his ability to resist: "I'll do it again, you probably really can't do it.... Now you are standing around. The place is almost gone, guess how long can you hold on?"

"It's impossible!" This legendary spider monster has no power to deal with, because if he pulls out the battle axe, then he will definitely fall to the ground, but if he doesn't pull the battle axe out, then he doesn't have any weapons. Able to withstand Sean's attack.

At this moment, Sean doesn't even need to chop off his foot anymore. He just needs to go around behind him, and he doesn't have the ability to resist.

"Your speed... it's impossible!" The face of the legendary spider monster is extremely abnormal. He is also the master of the law of time, so he is naturally not unfamiliar with the role of the law of time.

Obviously, Sean's speed is not as fast as the law of time can do.

"Nothing is impossible." Xiao En said with a smile, "The so-called impossible is just that the degree of your control is not enough."

"Dad..." The Black King said worriedly, "Your body..."

"Well, it's a bit more load than I thought. I finally know why Beth and they all require me to achieve the golden body." Sean responded to the concerns of the Black King in his soul, "This double law of time and space The acceleration effect is indeed not something that the current silver body can withstand.... But this injury is much smaller than I imagined. Although it can be done again, it should be unnecessary."

Shawn's internal organs showed slight damage and rupture. Although it is not very serious, if he performs the fourth "temporal acceleration", then it is likely to cause greater injuries. Although it will not completely lose combat effectiveness, it takes some time to rest but it is an inevitable result. However, as the strongest and most difficult one among the legendary powers that Sean has seen so far, Sean feels that this injury has been paid. It's still worth it.

only.

Looking at the appearance of this legendary spider monster who had lost the desire to fight, Xiao En knew that he probably didn't need to use the fourth time acceleration.

"Can I ask... what kind of ability is that?"

Sean looked at the legendary spider monster who had lost the will to fight in front of him. Although he didn't know exactly what kind of mental changes he had experienced at that moment, he really had no chance of a comeback. Even if Sean doesn't kill him, he will soon be crushed to death by his own weight-the heavy armor that is so heavy as to be measured by tons is certainly a kind of all-round protection for him. But it was also a double-edged sword that could kill him.

It's just that no one can beat him in this way in the past.

"Time and space accelerate." After thinking about it, Sean still said something.

"Time and Space...Time and Space..." The legendary Nebbo's face showed a sudden look, "You have mastered the laws of time and space?... No wonder."

While saying this, he also stretched out his hand to lift off his heavy breastplate, then looked at Xiao En, and said in a deep voice, "I am the Warlord of the Spider Demon, so it is impossible for me to surrender. This is not only for myself. Glory is also the trust in my employer. There are no cowards in the Nerubian clan!...Of course, I don't want to leave scars behind... These are my two heart parts, to be precise!"

This legendary spider demon drew two red crosses on his chest, marking the position of his heart.

This is the first time Sean has dealt with the spider monster. Although Sean does not agree with the attitude of the spider monster, he will not deny the existence of the other party. Every strong man has his own pride and dignity, so if this kind of deadly battle that never surrenders is the attitude of the Nerubian clan, then Sean will of course choose to admit it.

So, Xiao En walked directly in front of the legendary spider monster, and the two sharp swords ended each other.

The strong after the sanctuary, once the source of power such as the heart is destroyed, there is no possibility of saving.

Originally, the Black King was worried that this legendary spider demon planned to use Sean to approach and then implement the Jedi counter-kill strategy, but he did not expect that until Shaun directly pierced his two hearts, this legendary spider demon actually did. No hands on it.

When the Black King expressed his incomprehension, Sean's answer was also very simple: "The real strong man will have his own pride. If one day, I will be forced to such an end, then When I make the promise of death, I will never regret it again, because it is meaningless.... This legendary spider monster, the initial three-axe is really amazing, but it is a pity... If you change one As far as the goal is concerned, maybe he has succeeded."

While explained this way, Sean warned himself more: The underground world is much more dangerous than the surface world.

Although he has no feelings or favors for this legendary spider monster, Sean will never forget the most important trophy after killing the opponent.

The soul of the strong.

This is what Sean really needs most.

At the moment when this legendary spider demon was extracted by Sean to extract the soul of the strong, Sean was also very surprised: even though he already knew that this legendary spider demon was very strong, the soul could not be weak. Go, but when he really saw the strong soul's mark as S-level, he still felt sincerely happy.

Chapter 157: . Sean's pedigree

【Strong Soul: Warrior Type (Special Type), Tier 12, Tier S. 】

【Item description: This is the soul of a Nerubian strong man who possessed extremely powerful strength and endurance during his lifetime. This is a very precious resource, suitable for many aspects, even if it is used directly, it can greatly improve its strength and endurance attributes. 】

This is the explanation displayed by the strong soul of this spider monster.

Although the above did not clearly state the specific data increase, according to Sean's guess, it should never be less than five points, and it is likely to be an increase in dual attributes. After all, the item description also writes to increase the strength and endurance attributes. . But from the point of view of the explanation, Sean can probably guess that if the souls of such an S-level powerhouse directly use the law to digest to strengthen themselves, it should be a wasteful move, and the real value should be used in other areas. .

For example, the enhancement of equipment, etc., only in this way can it exert its effect even more.

After a little hesitation, Sean still chose to use it directly.

Because of the current situation, that is, if he wants to use the power of the laws of time and space, he needs a strong body. The most important thing to determine whether a person's physical fitness is strong enough is the endurance attribute. Strength, agility, wisdom, and will are just other aspects.

Similarly, in the choice of weapons, because of the existence of the black king, Sean does not need to consider other things at all.

After Xiao En made the decision, the soul flame exuding golden luster instantly exploded into countless star points, floating in the air, and being sucked into the body by Xiao En in one breath.

A very strong stimulating tingling sensation was transmitted in Xiao En's body in an instant.

This kind of feeling is not too unfamiliar to Sean, because every time he improves his realm of strength, he will have this feeling, but it is far from being as strong as this time. That kind of bone remodeling, blood boiling, organ strengthening, and many other feelings all came together and burst out, making Sean impossible to withstand no matter how firm the will is, but it was just a moment of effort, Sean's skin. A strange red color appeared as if it had been cooked.

"Master Shaun!" A dozen elves suddenly appeared beside Shaun at this time.

Obviously, they were attracted by the sound produced when Shaun and the Nerubian mercenaries broke out just now. It was just that when they arrived, the battle here had already ended, so they only saw Sean kneeling on the ground with a painful expression on his face.

However, judging from the large amount of mist emanating from Sean's body and the apparently distorted surroundings by the high temperature, it is definitely not a good thing to be close to Sean now.

So these dark elves can only be anxious around.

Of course, in addition to being anxious, the surrounding scenes of battle like apocalypse also caused these dark elves to swallow secretly.

They never thought that a battle could be fought like this.

After all, these days, they have also participated in many battles behind Sean. It is not once or twice that Sean and those legendary powerhouses fight. But every battle situation, although it is very dangerous and has a great impact on the surrounding damage, but in the end it did not directly destroy the surrounding hundreds of meters of terrain like the current situation, which makes it difficult for them to believe that they are really just legendary powerhouses. battle.

In other words, these days, Sean's battle has not exhausted all his strength at all.

But no matter what these dark elves think, they are obviously more worried about Sean's safety. Because from Rorty Kabas's attitude towards Sean, they guessed that the identity of this human being is by no means simple—after all, these dark elves all know Rorty's experience of going to the surface world back then, so they know how much in the surface world. People with high positions are not surprising.

It's just that the high-ranking people known in the surface world can be so respected by Rorty Kabas in the underground world, which is worthy of fun.

"It's okay!" Sean gritted his teeth and responded.

He knows Rorty Kabas' intention to match himself with these dark elves. If anything happens to him here, given the rigor of the underground world and the discipline of dark elves, these dark elves will probably not end up. Where does it go. Of course, Sean knew that the most important thing was that if something happened to him, then Imoku would definitely go violently. This was the biggest catastrophic problem.

Of course, at the moment, he does not have any major problems. It is nothing more than some pain in the body when undergoing further transformation.

But very quickly, after this painful stimulation, a strong impact of the power of the whole body exploded immediately afterwards. This shock is dozens of times stronger than the previous pain. Sean can even feel the blood cells flowing in the blood vessels in the body. He can even see that his second heart is growing rapidly. Flowing out a kind of golden blood.

Descent!

A sudden conscious noun broke into Sean's mind.

Golden blood, in the age when the gods had not fallen, was called "God Blood". But after the eruption of the gods at dusk, the people of the gods disappeared, and the peoples were hidden. These powerful blood powers continued to become thinner. Nowadays, the golden blood can only be seen in the gods of higher divine power. And in this mortal material world, no matter how powerful the bloodline owners are, they can no longer produce golden blood.

Bloodline and pedigree are only one word difference, but the result is completely different.

Take Cecilia as an example.

The Lembels have had the blood of the Phoenix since ancient times, but the power of this bloodline is hidden, and it has been hidden in the body of the Lembels. As long as the Lembels do not awaken this blood, then they and ordinary people There is no difference, perhaps it is just showing some unique talents and affinity in the magical ability of the fire element.

Only the Lumber race who has truly awakened the Phoenix blood can be regarded as the power that truly controls the "Phoenix".

Furthermore, as the Rumbel race awakens fewer and fewer members of the Phoenix bloodline, and one generation is inferior to one generation, eventually this force will completely disappear in the Rumbel race. Of course, it is not really disappearing, but if you want to wake up, it will become very difficult, and there is probably only a one-percent chance.

Today's historians in the Miracle Continent, the common view is to divide the era of the peoples after the people into four levels, namely, the people of gold, people of silver, bronze, and people of black iron. The criterion used to distinguish these four levels is the possibility of blood awakening in the body: like the golden people, there are about seven to eighty percent, that is, there will be at least that in each generation. Three or four bloodline powers that can awaken one's own family.

The silver people are second, but there is also a 50% probability, which means that there will be at least one or two awakened bloodline powers in each generation; the bronze people after that are about 30%, if luck is good enough Perhaps there can be an awakened bloodline; the black iron people only have 10%. If you want to awaken the power of the bloodline in the body, it really depends on luck.

You must know that it took hundreds of thousands of years from the end of the Ashes to the era of strong men started by Sean.

Strictly speaking, the people of today's era are basically in the age of the end of bronze, which is considered to be in line with the era of the black iron people—some of them perished earlier, or families that had some big accidents, even more. Entered the age of the black iron people ahead of time. Like Cecilia's Rembel clan, there has been no blood awakening in thousands of years. Cecilia is the only heir of the Rembel clan who has awakened blood power again in the past thousand years.

And it is precisely because the entire era is generally in a state of degradation that has led to the fact that there are not so many super powers in the Marvel Continent as they did in the previous chaotic era. This also makes it even more obvious that the Void Empire suddenly has three inexplicable. What a terrible thing it is for a super strong to sit in town.

As for blood lineage, this is the existence completely above blood line.

It is not without reason why the people after the people are called Zhumin.

The people of the gods and all the people belong to the people born by them who are 100% able to inherit and awaken the power of the bleeding, but the blood of the gods is stronger, and it is easier for them to become gods. Therefore, historians will regard the people as the third standard of the era of bloodline changes, and have formulated four class changes, because by the time of the people, the theory of descent no longer exists, and only the theory of blood is left.

Sean is able to produce golden blood, which means that his body has produced his own blood. And any direct descendants born from him can certainly awaken the power of his bloodline. If it is said that Xiao En's descendants belong to the definition of Wanmin.

And what is Sean's bloodline?

He doesn't know, but he can be sure that it will not be the hunter, because this is the unique bloodline given to him by the will of the world, and it belongs to the bloodline of killing the gods possessed by his nominal "sister" Jibril. It is impossible for anyone to copy a unique model-to put it simply, if you don't get the approval of the will of the world, then it is absolutely impossible to have this kind of blood.

But what Shaun is certain is that the bloodline that his offspring can inherit must be related to the two aspects of strength and agility.

Because of Sean himself, relying on these two attributes, he has mixed up until now.

When the golden blood began to flow in the body and gradually replaced his own red blood, the high temperature emitted by Xiao En's body finally subsided.

At this time, those dark elves dared to surround themselves.

"I... it's okay, let's leave here and go back to the stronghold." Xiao En stood up, only to find that he could not stand, so he could only let the dark elves support him, and then said quickly.

Soon, under the protection of these dark elves, Sean returned to the former abandoned stronghold.

Because such a fierce battle broke out outside the stronghold, all the dark elves knew that if the battle broke out inside the stronghold, then they might not survive at all, so all the dark elves didn't even need to explain from Shaun, they It also consciously extended the alert range to the edge of several kilometers, almost bringing the battlefields of Sean and the legendary Nerubian into the surveillance range.

For this, Sean did not stop anything.

In fact, he was also a little curious, who would send the Nebbo to trouble him? You know, although his current identity is not considered secret, there are definitely not many people who know it. Even the dark elves who follow Sean only know Sean's name and his origin from the surface world. Others I don't know anything about it.

But when fighting against the legendary spider monster before, the opponent revealed a lot of information.

All these information made Xiao En feel deeply that the other party has already conducted more obvious investigations on him, and he probably has a lot of information. And it is precisely based on this that makes Sean extra curious, after all, he really can't figure out which opponent will know the information.

And more importantly, this place is not suitable for the Nerubian mercenaries to play. After all, there are almost all trees and bushes. With the huge body and size of the Nerubian, if you fight here in the Nebulous Forest , It will only be constrained everywhere, and will not be able to give full play to the advantages of the legionary combat.

It's just very helpless. After thinking hard for a long time, Sean still doesn't have any good answers.

However, this answer did not trouble Sean for too long.

After Shaun and the legendary Neanderthal battle and returned to the stronghold wounded, the dark elves passed the news to Rorty Kabas. Rorty Kabas, who was in charge of besieging a stronghold, also had to temporarily stop the attack, which gave the tribe that was about to die a great opportunity to breathe. It's just that after Rorty Kabas thinks for a long time, the result is not as long as Sean thinks-this is no way. After all, Rorty Kabas did not personally participate in the battle, so there is no way to know Sean and the legendary spider. Magical dialogue and exchange.

So, Rorty Kabas can only pass the information to Serena, who is further behind.

Unexpectedly, when Serena heard the news, she was taken aback, then her face changed, and she immediately asked to see Sean.

When the news came back to Sean, it was already the afternoon of the second day after the battle between Sean and the legendary Nerubian ended.

His first reaction was to realize that Serena probably knew something, and then his second reaction was to immediately order everyone to return.

Chapter 158: .intelligence

Because of the sudden attack on Sean, the plan of action for the two dark elf factions of the Forest of Deep Knowledge had to be postponed.

Imoku originally wanted to rush back, but Sean stopped him.

He has a direct soul connection with Sean, so he has a better understanding of Sean's situation than outsiders. After feeling that Sean really did not have any injuries, but instead said that his strength had improved, he did not rush back.

In fact, Sean's body did not have any problems. Rather, after absorbing the soul of the legendary spider monster, Sean's strength and endurance have been greatly improved, and these two attributes have been improved by ten points each.

As far as the current data is concerned, Sean can also be regarded as the top group among the legendary powerhouses.

Strength: 213; Endurance: 189; Agility: 251; Intelligence: 154; Will: 186.

The data ability of these five attributes is almost not much better than that of the legendary pinnacle. Even in terms of agility, Sean has reached a level close to the super strong.

According to the system's classification of data, when the data exceeds one hundred and fifty points, the improvement in effect is no longer a few points or a dozen points increase, but a dozen points increase is required to reach 100 points. One part of the effect. Once the data exceeds two hundred points, the next time a qualitative change will occur, it will need to reach the level of two hundred and fifty points.

In the current data of Sean, his agility has exceeded this level, which is why Sean is now less and less using adrenal stimulation and light body surgery. Because his battle plan has basically been separated from the dependence on these two abilities, after all, the agility of 500 points, this data is even more terrible than the average super power, even if it is Sean, it will also have some inability to the body. Estimated damage.

is as strong as Alexis, and all the attributes of the surroundings are more than three hundred and fifty points. Among them, the two items of strength and endurance reach a terrifying height of four hundred points.

The Eldrazi brothers' five-circle attributes are slightly inferior to Alexis, just over three hundred points. In this regard, the three are surprisingly consistent. The only difference is Kozilek's power, , Ulama's intelligence, and Imoku's agility both exceeded 350 points.

However, it is also the guard who was called out. Noro's measurement data is not as abnormal as these four. His measurement data is slightly normal, and it is basically maintained at around 180 points: this It is a relatively high level compared to the legendary powerhouse of the twelfth tier. It can be considered to be able to reach the level of the thirteenth tier, and the fourteenth-tier legendary powerhouse is also considered powerful, but compared to the fifteenth-tier legendary powerhouse Legendary pinnacle is obviously inferior.

From the legendary realm, attribute data is no longer the standard to measure everything.

After all, the power of 150 points and the power of 179 points do not have any qualitative difference, at least it takes more than 180 points to reach a new level of change. And after one hundred and eighty points, it will take more than two hundred points to change to a new height. After that, there will be changes like two hundred and fifty, three hundred, three hundred and fifty, four hundred, and five hundred.

Shaun turned on the light body technique and adrenal stimulation, coupled with the speed bonus given by the law of time and space, his agility attribute can indeed break through to 500 points, reaching an astonishing level. However, if Shaun's agility is limited, his endurance attribute cannot keep up with the physical pressure and consumption caused by high-speed combat. Therefore, if he wants to rely on 500 agility to fight, then Shaun The end result is that you play yourself to death.

This is why Shaun now starts to focus on improving endurance.

Because Sean could not use this ultra-high-speed combat strategy before his endurance could keep up, which in itself was a double-edged sword for him. As for the training of skills, Sean has too much combat awareness and level ahead of the world, and there is no need to worry about skills; and the diligence in martial arts can also be greater because of the "demonstration" ability possessed by the black king. Enhancement of the range.

is equivalent to saying that Sean's talent in combat is absolutely superior to others.

is able to suppress Xiao En's strength, and there are only powerhouses who are higher than him.

This time, if this legendary spider demon didn't know little about Sean's intelligence, then the final result is really a very difficult thing to say. Therefore, when Sean learned that Serena had a clue, he immediately stopped planning without hesitation and rushed back to meet Serena.

Even Rorty Kabas made a special return trip.

Now the entire Dark Elf Reform Party is basically determined by Rorty Kabas, so when Rorty Kabas rushed back, Sean, Serena, Kane, and Rorty Kabas were in the meeting. Meet and discuss in the room.

"You mean, this legendary spider monster was sent by Don Giovanni?" Sean frowned.

Dorn Giovanni.

The name may be relatively unfamiliar to people from the thirteen clans of the non-blood clan, but once he talks about his nickname, it is definitely not unfamiliar.

Tyrant.

The tyrant of the Giovanni clan.

He is the next patriarch appointed by the Giovanni clan. He is famous in the entire underground world for his strength, tyranny, and moodiness. He is the leader of the previous generation of the blood clan. It is rumored that he had won the honor of the Grand Duke a hundred years ago, but because his personal strength was too strong, he was appointed as the next patriarch of the Giovanni clan, leading the Giovanni clan to a new level. The high-status lord of ZTE is therefore called the Duke, rather than the Grand Duke.

After accepting Serena's surrender, Sean's understanding of this tyrant is naturally not unfamiliar.

After all, Sean intends to let Kane take over the tyrant to lead the entire Giovanni clan, so with Sean's emphasis on intelligence, how could he not investigate and understand this tyrant in depth. You know, the person who knows a person best must be the enemy of that person, and Serena is absolutely not so friendly to this tyrant—not to mention that the Luxemba clan is preparing to push Serena into the pit of fire. To say that Don's humiliation to Serena several times before is enough to make Serena impressed with this person.

It is said that as early as when Serena had just revealed a little talent, Don had already said to marry Serena. It's just that Serena's powerful talents and abilities at that time made the Luxemba clan reluctant to give up, so the relationship with the Giovanni clan was quite stale. After Serena's mission failed and was seriously injured, Dorn caught the opportunity and offered another proposal, which made the Resenba clan have to bow their heads.

Selena also knows that once she is really allowed to marry Donne, then she might not survive for three years.

This is one of the reasons why Serena finally had to accept Sean's proposal.

"How could he know me?" Xiao En immediately felt puzzled. "It stands to reason that there are definitely not many people who know my existence. Even today's Avengers and Evernight Party don't even know my existence."

"I have mentioned it accidentally." Serena said with a calm face.

"No intention?" Sean raised his eyebrows.

"No intention." Serena looked back at Sean, her gaze unconcerned.

"It seems that this tyrant is really obsessed with you. You mentioned it accidentally, and he remembered it." Sean didn't continue to entangle on this point, and turned the topic directly, "But this is the case. Come, it makes sense for many things.... He knows my existence and some of my feasts with you, but he doesn't know my specific strength. But he knows very well that you entered the Forest of Profound Knowledge to come. Trouble with me, but now I can't see you, so I thought about killing me."

"Not all to kill you." Serena's face was calm, but what she said was not very simple, "I killed his four guards. The training of his dead guards is extremely difficult, and it is said to guarantee him. When you encounter trouble outside, you won't get into danger. The Giovanni clan specially trained them. There are only eight people in more than a hundred years. I killed four of his guards at once. I am afraid he would also want to kill. And me."

Blood guards are the secret training methods possessed by the thirteen blood clan. They are much stronger than the average blood clan powerhouse, and the essence and blood in the body will be more abundant. When necessary, they are even a piece of food, a consumable that can allow important people of the blood race to reverse the situation and danger. However, the training of dead men like this is naturally not easy. The Giovanni clan can spend a hundred years to raise eight dead men for Dorn, which is enough to appreciate the importance of the Giovanni clan to Dorn.

But now, Serena directly killed four of Dorne's dead men, and their flesh and blood were completely eaten. With the tyrant's level of rage, it is a strange thing to not think of revenge.

"Now that the forest of deep knowledge is disconnected from the outside world, he guessed that there must be some trouble in it, but he is not sure whether you are alive or dead, so he hired and dispatched such an elite army of Nerubia to come in... ...I guess that killing me might only be incidental, and searching for you is the business. I just didn't expect to find me so coincidental, and a fierce battle erupted with me."

Sean began to infer the general idea of the tyrant.

"The current battle between the blood race and the werewolf, the blood race has the upper hand, right?" Xiao En asked.

"Yes." Roty Kabas didn't know the meaning of Sean's question, but he still answered.

"Then it seems that he will personally come to the Forest of Speaking Well soon." Sean let out a sneer of disdain, "It seems that our progress in conquering the Evernight Party and the Reform Party must be accelerated. ... Otherwise. It is also troublesome to let the spider monster and the blood race run into the forest of deep knowledge."

"Then what are you going to do?"

"Take strong medicine."

Chapter 159: .visit

The Maggie Empire, one of the five ancient empires, is called the Magic Empire and possesses the magic power ahead of the entire wonderland.

According to rumors, the founder of the Maggie Empire was also one of the founders of the Observation Minaret, and it is said that this is one of the main reasons why the headquarters of the Maggie Guild was originally established in the capital of the Maggie Empire. However, regardless of the authenticity of this rumors, it is an indisputable fact that the Magi Guild is now controlled by the royal family of the Maggie Empire-of course, only a very small number of people know the truth.

In the Maggie Empire, being able to become a wizard is a very glorious thing, even if it is just an apprentice to a wizard, its status is unparalleled.

Different from the mainstream of the nobility in other countries, any citizen of the Magi Empire can automatically be promoted to the noble class of the Magi Empire when he obtains the status of a mage. Apprentices like mage, basically have the status of an honorary lord, and can enjoy one-third of the standard allowance of the lord of the empire every month, and if they can become an official magician, they can become a lord for life. Receive the standard allowance of the Lord of the Empire.

These allowances can be coins, equivalent magic materials, or even other equivalent materials.

If you can become a stronger magician, then his noble status, empire status, and monthly allowance will also increase.

This is exactly what other empires cannot give, and it also happens to be the fundamental reason why the Maggie Empire has been able to attract countless magicians to join since its founding.

However, for the magicians in the Maggie Empire, it is not these allowances that are really important, but the Mage Tower.

The most coveted magician of any inheritance school is to be able to own a tower of the magician that belongs to him.

In this mage tower, the strength of the magician can be improved by several times, even ten times, and dozens of times. It can be said that there are two types of magicians who have a mage tower and those who do not have a mage tower. Of course, the existence of the mage tower can make the magician's strength extremely terrifying, but the same, it also limits the magician's mobility, because they are only in the mage tower or within the radiation range of the mage tower. Can get such a powerful force.

In addition, the establishment of the mage tower is not just a matter of putting some bricks on it, it requires a very special construction technology and a special geographical environment.

The royal family of the Maggie Empire happened to have this technology.

This is also the fundamental reason why the Maggie Empire can order all magicians to join the empire.

Saint Maggie, is the capital of Maggie Empire.

The architectural history of this royal capital is exceptionally long, even dating back to the end of the Ash Age.

After undergoing continuous transformation, improvement, expansion, and addition from generation to generation, Saint Maggie has now become a perfect city that no one can imagine. The entire city can accommodate more than half a million people. The center of the city is an artificial lake that occupies a quarter of the city's area. The center of the artificial lake is the residence of the royal members of the Magi Empire-Maggie Palace.

The guards of Maggie's Palace are extremely strict, and its safety is in the charge of Maggie's First Knight Order: Maggie's Disaster. This 10,000-strong knight group is the top ten knights in the Northern Continent-of course, this is because the four knights of the St. Joel's Empire did not enter this list, but anyway, Maggie's Scourge Knights It is also an indisputable fact that the regiment possesses extremely powerful combat effectiveness.

In addition to having such a powerful knight order to guard, Maggie Palace also has two super-standard ten-story mage towers-the people of the Maggie Empire call them the Twin Star Tower. These two mage towers happened to cover the entire Saint Maggie, not to mention the whole Saint Maggie and the other eight mage towers built around the city wall. It can be said that they want to capture Saint Maggie. Not an easy task.

It is precisely because Saint Maggie has such a strong guard force, so in addition to the regular guard force responsible for maintaining law and order, the entire city can be said to be almost undefended.

Of course, it just seems so on the surface.

Everyone knows that Maggie's mage tower is such a terrifying product.

It's just that today, St. Maggie has changed from normal.

The whole city was filled with an unusually tense atmosphere. Not only did the Maggie Scourge Knights, who had never intervened in Saint Maggie's daily patrol work, also patrolled the streets, even the Elements Legion and the Sword Legion. The powerful legion of the Maggie Empire, one of the four legions under the Holy Puppet Legion, also participated in the defense of the entire Saint Maggie.

And all this is because Saint Maggie welcomed an extraordinary guest today.

Twenty-four soldiers of the Demon Sword Legion guarded around the three carriages, and fifty knights of the Maggie Disaster Knights on black horses also participated in the protection of these three carriages.

Following the passage cleared by the city soldiers early in the morning, the three carriages and their guards soon came to the center of St. Maggie.

Here, it is the magical teleportation formation that has emerged because of the magic technology-just because there will be special guests arriving today, so at this moment, the guarding work of the teleportation magical array is also transferred to the soldiers of the elemental army, and even for This also set up a vacuum belt within a radius of 50 meters with the magic teleportation array as a circle, prohibiting all people and unrelated people from approaching.

There are two people sitting in the first carriage.

A gray-haired old man, and a beautiful young woman.

The appearance of the woman is very young, and she exudes an aura of youth and vitality unique to young people. She should be no more than twenty-four years old. But ordinary people can't look at this young woman at all, because she has an extremely dazzling brilliance-this kind of brilliance is not substantial, but it seems to exist in nature, and any strength is not as good as this woman. People can only see the incandescent light on her body, or feel the unfathomable wave of magic power emanating from her.

This young woman is the legendary princess of the Maggie Empire and the fourth prince, Thea Maggie.

It is not hard to guess who can sit side by side with the legendary princess.

The dean of Maggie Empire Mage Academy, one of the members of the Mage Guild headquarters, one of the masters of the Twin Star Sky Tower, the powerhouse of the Maggie Empire, the Dragon Slayer Master: Saibal Rota.

"Ms. Saibal, do we need to mobilize people like this?" Thea's face showed some confusion, "The other party did not submit the visit in a formal diplomatic way, but came in a personal capacity, so I think we did this. It's really a fuss, and it's easy to make people misunderstand that we are afraid of each other."

"Thea, my student, what was the first lesson I taught you?" Saibal retracted his gaze to look at the teleportation magic circle, turned to look at Thea, and then asked.

"Keep enough respect for powerful forces." Thea spoke without hesitation. It was obvious that she was impressed by her first class.

"So what about Lesson 5?"

"Using all available resources, including but not limited to geographical advantages, people and time, to complete the attack on the enemy."

"Lesson Seven."

"Keep close to your friends and keep your enemies suspicious."

"Very good." Saibal nodded, with a satisfied smile on his face, "I am very relieved that you have deeply remembered everything I told you. Then, combining these contents, you still can't understand. Is it your Majesty's intention?"

"Teacher Saibal... You mean... Father intends to form an alliance with the other party?"

"I'm not satisfied with this answer." Saibal shook his head slightly, but then sighed slightly, "Thea, my student, your talent in the field of magic is among the people I have seen for hundreds of years. Can be ranked in the top three. But your political sense of smell may be enough as a magician, but as a royal noble, it is absolutely unqualified."

"Sorry, teacher." Thea lowered her head in shame.

"Oh." Saibal stretched out his hand and rubbed Thea's head lightly, his face was full of affection, "Don't blame you, Thea, I am too demanding. You are already at the top of the line of genius. Now, in the field of magic, I don't know the future, but there are not many people who can surpass you in this new era."

"But there are still people who can surpass me." Thea whispered, "Your Majesty the Queen..."

"She's an exception." Saibal patted Thea lightly on the head. "She had attended one of my public classes back then, and I also paid attention to her. But it is not her talent, but Her identity...Even if it was me, I have to admit it, and I missed it. I didn't expect that the little girl would be able to do what she is now. You must know that the college's evaluation of her was just excellent. ."

Maggie Empire Mage Academy is a famous academy for cultivating magicians. According to the apprentices' evaluations, there are different training courses and methods, so it's not difficult to study at Maggie Empire Mage Academy. The real difficulty is to get the internal evaluation of the academy, because Maggie's Imperial Mage Academy's evaluation is better than any other. A magic learning institution is more strict.

"Teacher, do you have a moment of misunderstanding." As if caught the little tail of the legendary big figure Saibal, Thea showed a little girl-like playfulness.

"The world is complicated. No one dares to say that he will never look away."

"But the teacher, the elder brother in name of the empress, the spiritual leader of the void empire, Sean Connery, isn't he called the "Pupil of God" by the world?" Thea said, "In the legend he has never been No matter what he admires or what he decides, it will always be correct. It is precisely because of his ability that he has created the current void empire, right?"

"Well, Thea, you slapped me in the face again." Saibal smiled bitterly, appearing rather helpless, "The people from the Void Empire... are all monsters. Albares... do you have any impressions? ?"

"Hmm, no." Thea shook her head.

"The gentleman who tried to invite you to dance at the dinner party the other day."

"Teacher, there are more than a dozen gentlemen who tried to invite dancing at the dinner party the other day." Thea's little face showed a bitter look, because he really couldn't remember who Saibal was talking about Albares. .

"Well, it doesn't matter if you don't know who he is." Saibal doesn't seem to intend to continue to struggle with this issue. With regard to accounting issues, the Empire is already preparing to canonize him as an earl. But before coming to the Empire, such a talent was actually just the accounting officer of the Void Empire, who could only manage the financial balance of a city. Can you imagine? "

"Um...can't." Thea shook her head, "Actually, teacher, even if you say that, I don't know how amazing he is."

"Well, I'll change it." Saibal looked at his student speechlessly, and then said, "If I tell you, he is a man who can reduce the mana consumption of fireball to one section... ..."

"It's impossible!" Before Sebal finished speaking, Thea had already retorted. "The current minimum mana consumption of fireball is five knots. In theory, it can be reduced to three knots, and this is the limit. Reduced. It is impossible to get to a section, because it involves the overall structure of fireball. If it can be reduced to one section, then this must be changed from the fundamental structure. Then the power of fireball is definitely It will also be reduced, so it's not a fireball technique!"

"Of course I know this is impossible. I just explained it in a way that you can understand." Saibal rubbed his forehead lightly. He found that his student was good at everything, but in the field of magic, it was a bit lethargic. People can't bear it, "You just assume that this possibility exists. A person who can reduce the mana consumption of fireball to one section, and will not reduce the power of fireball... Do you think such a person is powerful?"

"It's not just amazing!" Thea can be said to be shining in her eyes, "This is simply a genius! No... more than a genius, it should be said to be a genius among geniuses!"

"Alvarez's financial ability is such a genius. Because of his participation and the report he submitted, the empire's annual fiscal expenditure can save nearly 300 million gold coins while maintaining the current level. Saibal said in a deep voice, with a rare solemn expression on his face, "300 million gold coins, this is enough for the empire to start a new policy study.... And it is such a talent, he submitted. The proposal for the Ministry of Finance of the Void Empire was rejected, on the grounds that someone in the Void Empire devised a better financial revenue and expenditure plan than him."

"Sure enough, they are all monsters." Thea let out a low cry.

"Yes, such an empire, fortunately, is in the south." Saibal said softly, "The headache is also the war * of Zenus and the veteran of the Millennium Covenant."

"Here," Thea said suddenly.

In the huge magic circle in the center of St. Maggie, a burst of bright white light suddenly burst out.

All the soldiers guarding the surroundings immediately increased their attention, and there were waves of commotion from the onlookers farther away.

The door of the first carriage was pushed open by Saibal while the white light was shining.

The fifty knights of Maggie's disaster also turned over and fell off their horses, quickly assembled, and guarded Saibal and Thea who were walking out of the carriage. Although the soldiers of the Demon Sword Legion did not have any extra moves, looking at their cold and indifferent expressions, everyone believed that if something happened, they would definitely be able to rush forward in an instant.

The white light from the magic circle does not last for a long time. This is a unique phenomenon when the magic circle is activated.

Only this time, for Saibal, the continuous brilliance seemed a bit long-even if he knew it was just an illusion.

But when the light gradually dissipated, Saibal's pupils suddenly shrank: five figures appeared in the magic circle.

It's just that when the appearance of the figure in the magic circle has not been clearly seen, a tyrannical aura has been transmitted from the magic circle. Soldiers who were a little closer to the magic circle felt a terrifying breath sweeping by, which made their bodies tremble uncontrollably, even the trained warhorses began to squeak their noses uncomfortably, even Send out a restless struggle.

This tyrannical breath is no stranger to Saibal.

Because this is the breath of a super strong!

And more than one!

Without extra words, Saibal stepped forward, and the aura on his body began to radiate, but unlike the tyrannical aura that came from the magic circle, Saibal's aura seemed to be calmer and calmer, it dilutes the aura from The terrifying aura transmitted from the magic circle gradually calmed down the surrounding soldiers and horses.

At this time, the light of the magic circle just completely faded.

The five people who walked out of the magic circle were finally completely exposed to the eyes of the public.

Wait for the people around him to recover from the shock, Saibal has already greeted him and said with a smile: "Welcome to Saint Maggie, Queen of Phoenix."

Step out of the magic circle, it is the Queen of Phoenix of the Void Empire, Cecilia Rembel Connelly!

At this moment, Cecilia greeted Saibal with a quick trot, and smiled: "You are too polite, Dean Saibal. This time, I am here as a private person, so please be sure. Forget my identity in the Void Empire.... In St. Maggie, I am just one of the students in your academy."

"Haha, okay, okay." Cecilia's attitude on this trip was tentatively detected from one line of address. The smile on Saibal's face was obviously more sincere, "Welcome back, my student... But , Even if I want to forget your identity in the void empire, it is actually impossible to do it. After all, at this level of status now, I think you should know it too."

"It seems that I really can't be too headstrong." Cecilia chuckled, not too entangled in the temptation in Saibal's words, "Please allow me to introduce you to the companion who came with me this time, the dean. "

"Of course, welcome." Saibal smiled back, but his eyes fell on the old man next to Cecilia and another child who looked like a young child-he certainly knew this. The identity of the two people, but he didn't expect Cecilia to bring these two together this time.

Because according to the intelligence department of the empire, the super-powerful child-like figure should be following the army of Hela Garcia at this moment. But Cecilia's visit started from the royal capital of the Void Empire. From this point, Saibal already had a speculation, but because of the lack of actual evidence, he did not dare to jump to a conclusion.

"This is Mr. Ulamog, and this is Kozilek." Cecilia chuckled and introduced Kozilek and Ulamog to Saibal. "As you said, because of my current identity problem, Even if I want to travel alone, I always feel a little worried."

"I'm sorry just now." Ulamog chuckled and shook Saibal.

Saibal knew what Ulamog was talking about, but as Ulamog said, he could also understand. In fact, people at his level of strength generally do not use teleportation magic circle to teleport. After all, their aura is too strong. If teleportation magic circle is used for teleportation, it will easily squeeze the entire space. It does not harm the people in the same industry, so it needs to use some small means.

This kind of small means, of course, will have some small problems of one kind or another, for example, after the teleportation arrives at the destination, it will emit a very strong and dangerous aura and so on.

"I can understand." Saibal smiled back, and then his eyes fell on Cecilia again, "Then, please allow me to introduce you to you. This one is Thea Maggie..."

"I know." Cecilia said with a smile, "Miss Thea was in the same year as me in the college, but I am not as good as Miss Thea."

"Hello, I'm Thea Maggie." Although Thea's sense of smell is not politically sensitive—although Saibal's statement is very euphemistic, in fact, the legendary princess has always been evaluated by the royal family and nobles. She is a "political idiot", but even if she is an idiot in politics, she still has perfect etiquette as a royal princess, and her self-introduction at this time is still impeccable.

"Miss Cecilia, you will be accompanied by Princess Thea during your stay in the Maggie Empire." Saibal said with a smile, "The Empire has already prepared a banquet for you in the palace, so let's go to the palace first, I believe that our conversation in the palace will be easier than standing here."

"Of course." Cecilia nodded with a smile.

Chapter 160: . Cecilia's Plan

The heritage of any ancient empire is absolutely incalculable.

The Maggie Empire, as a powerful ancient empire whose historical roots can be traced back to the end of the Ash Age, this empire is known for its powerful magical powers. In magic-related fields, the Maggie Empire has an absolute leading position far beyond the world. If it were not for Sean's spoiler, the appearance of the teleportation magic circle should have been a product of the Maggie Empire, even including the fact that it has now been with the sea. Pulling the expedition and gradually revealed the magnificent magic cannon and so on.

Maggie's Palace is an island city in the lake of St. Maggie. Although it's called a palace, it's actually a city within a city. Its specifications and layout are basically the same as those of the current capital of the Void Empire, but It's just a matter of scale. However, unlike the Void Empire, where there are different residences in the city-in-city layout, Maggie Palace is a fortress-type fortress. Except for a few courtyards, the overall spatial structure is basically set up for war purposes.

Cecilia, under Thea's leadership, soon moved into a suite in the palace.

The specifications of this suite are obviously very high. In addition to having a reception room, it also has six independent suites, each of which is equipped with a bathroom and toilet. From the perspective of the layout of the suite, it can also be seen that the layout of this suite has obviously been carefully arranged. Basically all the decoration styles are very biased towards the overall decoration style of the southern continent. Cecilia, who has lived for ten years, is easy to feel intimacy.

And more than that, maybe it's out of consideration of Cecilia's identity. This suite also has some decoration styles unique to the Duchy of Rembel, and even part of the decoration atmosphere of the Maggie Empire Mage Academy. But what is really commendable is that these various styles of decoration and collocation did not destroy the overall atmosphere of the entire suite, on the contrary, it made everything blend together perfectly, showing more naturalness and kindness.

"This warm card, played well."

After looking around the layout of the room, a man who came with Cecilia curled his lips. If he didn't know his personality, he would even think that his words were ironic.

"But it's really effective." Cecilia picked up a stone sculpture the size of a thumb and played with it. "It's really hard for the Dean of Saibal. He could find all the magic chess in my dormitory back then. I thought that when my whereabouts were unknown, the college had already lost everything I left in the dormitory."

"I'm definitely lost, but it's definitely not what you think it is. I guess it's thrown in the grocery room." The man glanced at the stone sculpture in Cecilia's hand, and then continued. "Isn't this knowing that you're coming, so I went back to the grocery room and looked through it. It just came in handy."

"Can't you let me be moved?" Cecilia gave the other side a white look. In terms of Cecilia's completely opened face, this move was unintentionally extremely lethal, but it was a pity that the other party. However, he was obviously unmoved and ignored Cecilia at all.

"There is not so much time to waste." The man replied softly, "The other party playing emotional cards is just an attitude test, but I think the other party's move is simply unnecessary."

"After all, this is the cognitive difference established by the asymmetry of intelligence." When Cecilia talked about official affairs, she has become more and more demeanor and imposing as a person in power. "The other party does not know about our trip. So I don't know our bottom line. For this reason, it's necessary to do more temptations.... If the other party's Princess Thea suddenly brought someone to visit me in the Void Principality, I'm afraid you will do it too much. ."

"Then I must do more than that." The man curled his lips in disdain.

Cecilia smiled knowingly, but didn't say anything.

The man touched his cheek, then frowned slightly: "Avery's craftsmanship is good, I almost can't recognize myself.... Forget it, let's get things done here soon, the Millennium Covenant. The side battle still needs me to go back to preside over it."

Today, there is only one person serving in the Void Empire and also presiding over the battle against the Undead Army in the Millennium Covenant Empire.

William Yale!

This person dressed as one of Cecilia's two followers is actually William, one of the four giants of the Void Empire who led an army to fight against the Undead Legion! This point, I am afraid that even the people of the Maggie Empire had not expected it at all.

"It's probably only these two days." Cecilia said, "Anyway, we didn't plan to have too troublesome negotiations, and this matter will not do any harm to the Maggie Empire. It's better to say it's all. Good, so I believe the Maggie Empire will definitely not refuse."

"But if they knew the other purpose of our trip, they wouldn't be so happy." William chuckled lightly, and the look on his face seemed very relaxed.

"This Albares, are you sure you can trust it?" Cecilia asked.

"Rupee." William turned his head and looked at the other entourage who had not spoken.

Rupiah, one of the three little giants of the Void Realm now, commands the Void Dark Blade, a sharp blade hidden in the shadow of the Void Empire. He and William are now officially known by the countries of the Marvel Continent. Basically, many people have heard of the name Blade of Nothingness. Rupiah, but not many have actually seen him in person, even if not. Someone has seen the true face of Rupiah, but he will still disguise every time he acts.

As if now, Rupee also made Avery Kate disguise his identity.

"Yes, Albares is one of the dead men cultivated in our Void Realm. There is absolutely no doubt about his loyalty." Ruby replied in a low voice, "Moreover, his background is also very clean. There will never be any. The doubt, even in the realm of the void, apart from me and Hebrew, no third person knows his true identity and background. Moreover, I have always been responsible for single-line contact."

"Alvarez's departure this time was instructed by Neal and I. The economic plan he handed over to the Maggie Empire was only a draft arrangement for the economic part of the Void Empire plan." William added. In one sentence, although he did not know the specific course of action of Alvarez, he was also involved in this plan. After all, he arranged it, so he is undoubtedly clearer than the rupee in some specific situations.

"Back then, Sean and I worked out an intelligence network plan after suffering from the loss of intelligence. Therefore, we adopted a large number of orphans that year. After these ten years of training, they basically have Very impressive skills.... Nowadays, many people have been placed in different countries through various channels, and Albares is just a  in this plan."

"It's just that those chess pieces have only been put out soon, so they are still in a developing state. It is really unique that it has reached the top in one step like Albares."

After listening to William's words, Cecilia's brows frowned: "If this is the case, then once Albares is used, won't it...abandon it? After all, he has just joined the Maggie Empire not long ago. And we came to visit, and this happened during our visit..."

"Albarez is ready to sacrifice for the empire." Ruby replied softly, his face looked very firm, just like the words he said to Rina to rescue Sean in the Kingdom of Lane. Rupiah's beliefs have not changed from beginning to end.

——Please don't pity us, because it is an insult to us.

——For the Void Empire, we are willing to give everything, even our own lives.

——Please respect our profession.

"With Albares' current position in the Maggie Empire, his value is far greater than for our plan this time." Cecilia closed her eyes and said softly, "From a long-term perspective. "

"But in order to rescue Sean, we have no choice." William's voice also appeared very low. He knew better than Cecilia. In terms of the status that Albares has now unexpectedly obtained, the value of his life is absolutely It is greater than the sacrifice for this plan.

"Yes, we have no choice." Cecilia sighed lightly, "And in the future, we may not even be able to place any chess pieces in the Maggie Empire."

The atmosphere of the room suddenly became stagnant.

"Forget it, don't think so much, let's find a way to get the structure of the magic nuclear source energy. This thing is the key component to start the new magic power machine." Cecilia's eyes suddenly opened. "To transport our people to the underground world through that abyssal path, the third-generation magic power machine is the key. So in any case, we must get the magic core energy components of the Maggie Empire."

"I will get in touch with Albares as soon as possible." Ruby said respectfully, "Guaranteed to complete the task smoothly."

"Try to complete the task without the sacrifice of Albares." William said, "If Albares is exposed, probably in the future Maggie Empire will never hire anyone from the Void Empire. Moreover, it will arouse the attention and vigilance of people in other countries, and I am afraid it will probably expose the chess pieces we have placed in other countries."

"I understand, I will be careful." Ruby nodded earnestly, "But... if it is cautious, I hope I can stay in the Maggie Empire for a while. Because of Hebery and Avery. Kate will arrive in St. Maggie in two days. If they cooperate with me to perform the task, I think there will be a greater success rate to obtain the structure of the magic nuclear source energy without exposing Albares. "

"I understand, I will buy you more time." Cecilia nodded and said.
