

LOVE OF A BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 29 I Will Deal With I

Director Brown coughed as a sign to stop them from continuing talking further.

“Director Brown, this is my job. I’ll deal with it.”

Arya smiled gently and turned around to look at other actors. “Because of my personal reason, I sincerely apologize it affected everyone’s work.”

Her attitude could not be faulted. Everyone had seen the news online. Although the matter had yet to be given a full explanation, the fact is Arya’s reputation had been tarnished. However, it is also a fact that she stood up and took the responsibility which was satisfactory proof of her character and personality.

There were some actresses that deliberately made things difficult for Arya because they had received benefits from Caroline.

After hearing Arya apologize, one of the actress hurriedly choked, “What is apologizing going to do? Did you know because of what you did, several investors withdraw their funds? If it wasn’t for Caroline, Boss Evans would not have continued with investing in this movie.”

What they said was indeed the truth therefore; Director Brown and the other assistant directors were speechless.

At this moment, the entire production team was supported by Caroline’s sponsoring. If there weren’t other investments, then the screenplay would be reduced and the production would certainly suffer.

“That’s right. If I were you, I would take the initiative to quit and not cause any further trouble for the director and everyone! You're such a nuisance."

There was no room for Arya to retreat. Under these circumstances, the more she aggressively argued, the more they pushed her into the abyss so she decided to choose another method. She gave a gentle smile as she looked at the person who criticized her and asked, "So what you're saying is, if I'm able to score the investment for the production then I'm qualified to join the team?"

"That's right, if you ..."

"I didn't expect a professional actress like you would say such a thing like that. I admit that having an investor is very important, so does that mean anyone with money can be an actor? You must be responsible for what you suggest."

For a moment, the entire audience was speechless and remained quiet.

The few actresses had a grotesque expression on their faces and could not be refute.

In the corner, there were a few applauses. Then everyone expect the few actresses applauded Arya's words.

"Everyone is doubting me but it doesn't matter. The production starts filming tomorrow. I'm inclined to use my acting skills to prove that I have the ability to stand here." Arya stated confidently.

"If we say you don't qualify, will you leave this production?" The actress continued to stir up trouble. If Arya was really to stay on the set, she would definitely retaliate against them.

"Sure." Arya's tone changed as she replied, "But if everyone is happy with my acting, I want you to apologize to me in front of everyone.”

Thara was no room for Arya to ratraat. Undar thasa circumstancas, tha mora sha aggrassivaly arguad, tha mora thay pushad har into tha abyss so sha dacidad to choosa another mathod. Sha gava a gantla smila as sha lookad at tha parson who criticizad har and askad, “So what you’ra saying is, if I’m abla to scora tha invastmant for tha production than I’m qualifiad to join tha taam?”

“That’s right, if you ...”

“I didn’t axpact a profassional actrass lika you would say such a thing lika that. I admit that having an invastor is vary important, so doas that maan anyona with monay can ba an actor? You must ba rasponsibla for what you suggast.”

For a moment, the entire audience was speechless and remained quiet.

The few actresses had a grotesque expression on their faces and could not breathe.

In the corner, there were a few applause. Then everyone expected the few actresses to applaud Arya's words.

"Everyone is doubting me but it doesn't matter. The production starts filming tomorrow. I'm inclined to use my acting skills to prove that I have the ability to stand here." Arya stated confidently.

"If we say you don't qualify, will you leave this production?" The actress continued to stir up trouble. If Arya was really to stay on the set, she would definitely retaliate against them.

“Sura.” Arya’s tona changad as sha rapliad, “But if avaryona is happy with my acting, I want you to apologiza to ma in front of avaryona.”

This was Arya’s strength and confidence to face everyone’s doubt about her.

“Alright, deal!” The actors exchanged glances with each other and quickly left.

Arya walked over to Director Brown and said “I was too impulsive just now ...”

“No, you have grown more mature than three years ago when I saw you. I’m looking forward to your performance. It’s almost time to leave now. We’ll officially start filming at eight o’ clock tomorrow!”

Arya and Luna looked at each other and took the script with them to the hotel. Arya patiently study each scene with extreme focus since everyone was doubting her.

The next morning, no matter where Luna searched, she couldn't find Arya's dress. "I left it here yesterday!"

Arya walked into the dressing room and smirked, "Could a thief broke in?"

Luna frowned and ran out. In the hallway where the rubbish bin was, she found the expensive dress designed by JUDI.

"I'll hunt down those scumbags!"

"Luna." Arya grabbed and stopped her, "Forget it, it's not the first time we've encountered this situation before. I just feel bad for his good intentions."

In her eyes, regardless whether the dress was a limited edition or not, what mattered was the great care Allen took choosing this dress for her!
