

LOVE OF A BILLIONAIRE

Chapter 4 The Character is Sold

Arya took a deep breath. With Luna helping her, half of the business was already done.

“Actually, Caroline didn’t just want me to audition for her this time. She probably wants to rely on Daniels help to monopolize the company’s acting resources. Of course, this is not the first time, so we need to find evidence.”

Without waiting for Luna to reply, Arya continued, “Furthermore, she’s pregnant with Daniel’s baby.”

Luna said harshly, “They are really a shameless couple!”

Arya already completely understood that she wouldn’t suffer alone. So how she was treated by them, she would return favor with everything she had, even double that.

A few hours later, Arya, who had put on her makeup, a mask and a hat and arrived at the scheduled audition on time.

The moment she entered the lobby, Caroline's agent, Kayden, walked over. As he walked, he intentionally shouted, "Ohh, Caroline, why are you so sick? Hurry up and prepare with yourself. Don't let Director Brown wait too long!"

She didn't think that Caroline's acting skills would be so bad. Her manager's acting skills weren't bad at all.

These words were completely for someone else to hear. His purpose was to let everyone know that the woman he was greeting downstairs, wearing a mask and hat, was Caroline Bennett.

The good show was yet to come and Arya was in no hurry to expose him.

The moment the elevator door closed, Kayden glanced at Arya in annoyance and reprimanded her, “Look what time it is! You think you’re a celebrity, you take your time to come over?”

His arrogant tone was the same as Caroline’s, treating Arya as a slave to be ordered around.

If she hadn’t been blinded by Daniel’s hypocrisy, if she hadn’t been behind the scenes and had been active on the big screen, how could a small character like Kayden dare to shout at her like this?

Arya lowered her eyes. In their eyes, she was just a joke.

Arya suppressed the self-mockery and helplessness in her heart and her eyes became calm once more.

She lowered her head and pulled at her mask, then coughed and explained, “Many people in this film crew have seen Caroline before. I didn’t want to be recognized as soon as I entered, so I had to be prepared.”

Only after she said that did Kayden realized that the makeup Arya wore today was indeed very similar to Caroline’s usual makeup. The foundation of the power was very white, and her eyelids were very glued together. After wearing a mask, one would think that she was Caroline despite her unfamiliarity.

“Mr. Parker has arranged everything already, all you need to do is pretend to faint in front of Director Brown.”

Did they think they could win this role just like that?

“Is it that simple?” Arya looked at him doubtfully,
“When did Director Brown’s character become so easy to win?”

“What era do you think this is! Hurry up and go!”
Kayden looked as if he was determined to win, as if he had already predicted the outcome.

Arya frowned. Could it be already promised?

Although Caroline wanted to play the role of the female number three, the main thread of the play revolved around the tragic life of the female number three, Jane. In the play, Jane was forced to marry a man she did not love, and was driven mad. Even though this type of character didn’t earn a lot of money, if she performed well, she would definitely become raise her status in the show-biz industry.

“Caroline, this is your seat. You’re not feeling well, sit down and rest for a while.” Kayden shouted.

Arya lowered the brim of her hat and with a few steps, she quickly walked over.

At the same time, Allen Jones received the news that Arya Morrison disguised herself to help Caroline test her acting skills. He raised his eyebrows and this testing seemed to be more interesting than he had expected.

“Immediately prepare the car!”

It wasn’t much of a stage, but he suddenly wanted to see Arya act out the part.
