

Love Slave 174

174 I Love You

His eyes were already on the wetness in between my legs and soon I felt the heat of his thick member lodging itself at my opening. I cried out his name at the same moment that Ace thrust the entire length of his cock into my wet hole. The sudden plunge of his cock burying itself all the way into my hole in one powerful thrust almost made me climax again.

"So rough...Ahhh! Ahhh!" I moaned before I cried out loudly.

"It's about to get rougher..." Ace groaned from above me.

He reared his hips back before thrusting forward hard and fast, ramming his cock all the way back into my wet cunt. His cock stirred up my wetness as he dove in and out of me. My hips began moving, thrusting up from the bed to match and meet his thrusts halfway. His cock slammed against my womb and soon it began to feel like he would tear me up inside.

"Ahhh! Ace...it's so good..." I moaned before I had to bite down hard on my lower lip to contain myself.

His cock beating fast and hard into my hot wetness drove me insane with lust. I lost all control over my body as it trembled and spasmed. Lewd wet sounds of his thick rod messing up my wet insides echoed around us along with my passionate cries. Ace groaned my name as he continued thrusting his love stick into me. Beads of sweat rolled down his face before falling down onto my naked breast. His face as he gave it to me fast and hard looked so sexy and erotic that I ended up getting even more turned on than before.

"I'm cumming...Ace..." I whimpered because I could no longer cry out.

"I'm going to cum so much inside you, Rina..." Ace growled loudly.

My climax consumed me again and this time it seemed even more intense than the last. Ace cried out my name when he finally came. His heat flooded into my body as his cock shot his seed deep inside of my love hole. He came so much inside of me, and my pussy eagerly took it all in. I hugged my arms around his back before I began stroking my fingers softly along his muscular back. Ace stilled on top of me before he started to relax under my touch.

.....

"I love you..." I whispered as I drowned in bliss.

To my surprise, Ace chuckled before he looked down and smiled at me. He looked so happy that for a moment I was confused by his reaction.

"I think that's the first time that you've told me that..." Ace said before he continued smiling.

I gasped in shock as my hand flew to cover my mouth. He was right. I was so lost in my pleasure that I confessed so bluntly that I loved him. Ace's reaction made me smile along with him and I didn't regret what I said at all. However, it did make me feel very shy that he pointed it out.

"I love you too, Rina..." Ace said in a voice so tender that my entire body almost melted at his love confession.

"I'm so happy..." I mumbled honestly.

Ace leaned in and kissed my lips. His kiss was soft and warm. It felt so much like love because it probably was. That was the first time that he told me that he loved me too. Even after going so far as to suggest that we get married, he never told me that he loved me up until that moment and I was such a fool in love that I didn't even minded.

...

When I opened my eyes again, I was alone, and Ace was no longer with me. I sat up with a start on an unfamiliar bed that was in an unfamiliar bedroom. My mind felt like it needed a couple more hours of sleep. My body, on the other hand, felt like it needed more than a day's rest. The soreness in between my legs was a great reminder of the almost savage sex that we had the day before.

Where is Ace?

What time is it now?

I tried to find my clothes, but my efforts were only half successful. After picking up my skirt, I realized that the rest of my outfit wasn't in this room because we had taken them off before he carried me here. That meant that I had nothing to wear besides my skirt. Why didn't I pack anything from my mother's place before I came here?

I felt so stupid.

The sound of someone moving outside the room told me that Ace was probably on the other side of the door. Honestly, I was too embarrassed to walk out naked. Maybe I can borrow one of his shirts or something from his closet to cover myself a little. After apologizing to Ace silently in my head, I opened one of his closets and pulled out a light blue T-shirt that was obviously too big for me. My thought was confirmed a moment later when I slipped it on. It hung all the way down my thighs and looked more like a mini dress than a shirt but that was fine.

After making sure that I didn't look like a total mess, I managed to summon up enough courage to leave his bedroom in nothing but his t-shirt on to go on my mission of finding Ace. My search wasn't a long one because when I opened the bedroom door, I was immediately attracted to the smell of food. My stomach growled embarrassingly loud. Thankfully, Ace wasn't around to hear it.

"You're up. Good morning, Rina," Ace greeted me with a smile that warmed me to my toes.

His gaze rested on me as a look of slight surprise graced his handsome features.

"Oh, this. I couldn't find my clothes, so I had to borrow yours. Hopefully, you don't mind..." I said as I gestured to the loose t-shirt that I had on.