

LOVE YOU FOR THE REST OF MY LIFE

Chapter 6 Sit Here!

Di Mingjue didn't say a word, swiftly lifted his wrist, removed the watch on it, tossed it aside, and then started to loosen his tie...

Gu Qibao retreated into the corner, her teeth chattering, "Don't, don't mess around, speak properly!"

He wouldn't really want to take advantage of her, would he?

Ahhh! No! Even the way he takes off his watch is so handsome!

Damn it, how could she think Di Mingjue is handsome?

"Really, don't mess around, speak properly!" Gu Qibao finally found her voice. Her delicate little body curled up; she looked like an extremely frightened little deer.

Di Mingjue finally paused his actions, his slender fingers slipping from his buttons, then slowly turned his face, expressionless on his cool, beautiful face.

The man's features are really impeccable. The deep, cold eyes carry a hint of brilliance, noble expressions flood his gaze, just like his overall demeanor. His perfect nose brings out the best lines on his face, his thin lips sexy, skin perfect.

His entire body exudes an aura of arrogant, expensive opulence. Gu Qibao can't help but admire - the Di family's genes are really explosive!

"Do you remember what I said?" Di Mingjue suddenly spoke, startling Gu Qibao. His cold tone made her instantly sit up straight.

Just the next second she stupidly asked, "What did you say?"

Di Mingjue's eyes turned cold, like a drawn sword, "I said if you dare to curse me again..."

"I'll take advantage of you." Gu Qibao immediately continued, nodding her head like a pecking chicken, "I know, I will never curse you again."

Forgive her for easily admitting her defeat, because Di Mingjue's aura is really powerful. She feared that if he lost control, he would do something to her, so admitting defeat now is only a gain, not a loss!

"Too late." Di Mingjue coldly threw out two words, piercing Gu Qibao's heart in an instant.

Gu Qibao turned pale. She really didn't want to do "that" with Di Mingjue in the car, no! She didn't want to do "that" with him, no matter where!

Looking at his slender fingers reaching again towards her shirt buttons, Gu Qibao quickly raised her hand and said, "Hold on!"

"Hm?" Di Mingjue's voice turned cold again, and Gu Qibao buckled under pressure.

"Duke, I was wrong, I was really wrong!" Gu Qibao almost threw herself at him. Her attitude was very correct, her face clearly carried a few pleasing tones, sincerely criticizing herself, "I shouldn't have spoken to you like that. Those were childish words, you shouldn't take it to heart. You are wise and brave, strong and robust, lightly injured and still in the frontlines, seriously injured and still in the battlefield..."

As he listened to this little lady's increasingly ludicrous words, three black lines crossed Di Mingjue's forehead.

Despite the flattering words, Di Mingjue's face grew colder. Gu Qibao wailed in her heart and continued to butter him up, "You are incredibly powerful, don't bother about me. Let me go home and I will explain to my sisters immediately.

I must let them know exactly how powerful you are! You are certainly not a man, but a god!" Gu Qibao's words became more and more righteous.

However, the more Di Mingjue listened, the more uncomfortable he felt. He coldly interrupted her, "Come here."

Gu Qibao suddenly stopped talking, her misty eyes looking towards him. Her little face was filled with fright, as if she was really afraid of him.

"I told you to come here." Di Mingjue suddenly softened his voice for some reason. Even though it was still cold, it was at least not threatening anymore.

"Um." Gu Qibao nodded, obediently coming over to sit.

A hint of softness appeared on Di Mingjue's icy face, quickly disappeared, and then impatiently said, "Sit here!"

Gu Qibao hesitated, looking at the direction of his finger. Damn it, that was his thigh!