Lucky Collision (Evans and Martin Robinson) Chapter 18

Chapter 18 You Might Encounter Relationship Problems

Mackenzie Realty Group shares reached the limit-up price on the 22nd of May.

Evans saw the message before his eyes just as he was checking his share trading app. Initially, I was considering selling off their shares today. However, it's even included in today's message that their shares will remain at the limit-up price until the market closes.

Evans checked his share trading account and confirmed that he had more than 2.8 million. dollars.

If I were to use all the money I have now to buy their shares, I'd have at least 3.1 million dollars by the end of tomorrow. That meant I'd be able to accumulate a capital of 850 thousand dollars by then. I think it won't take long before I truly become a millionaire.

A short while later, Evans turned on the computer and printed out an application form.

After the second class for the day was over, Evans received a call from Chloe Watson, a lecturer that was in charge of the student's welfare. Chloe asked Evans to drop by her office as she had something to discuss with him.

Chloe was widely acknowledged by the staff and students as the prettiest teacher at Olkver University. The lady was only in her late twenties. Not only was she beautiful and tall, but Chloe also had a voluptuous figure. Her students had rarely skipped her classes.

Evans brought the filled-up application form along as he headed to Chloe's office.

At the same time, Chloe had a small frown on her forehead as she sat inside her office.

Upon hearing the knocking sound coming from the door, she called out, "Come in!"

"Hello, Ms. Watson."

Evans offered a greeting as he came in through the door.

Chloe had an apologetic look in her eyes as she directed her gaze at Evans. "Evans, have a seat."

"It's alright. I'm OK with just standing here. Can I know why you've asked to see me, Ms. Watson?"

Unlike her colleagues who were generally more focused on their work and research,

Chloe had shown a lot of concern for her students and their welfare. Evans was one of her students that came from a less privileged family. Previously, Chloe had offered him help and guidance when Evans was trying to apply for the university's scholarship for underprivileged students.

to you.”

“Mhm. Please go ahead, Ms. Watson,” Evans replied respectfully.

“The school has decided to withdraw your scholarship for this semester as there are several other students who need the help more than you do. I've tried to talk to the staff about this, but the decision has been finalized.”

“I hope you won't feel too saddened by the news. I'll help you apply for the scholarship again next semester.”

“As for this semester, I can personally offer you some allowance to help with your living expenses.”

“You don't have to do that, Ms. Watson.”

“I'm really grateful for your kind offer. However, I happen to have decided to apply for the cancellation of my scholarship anyway.”

“Here. I've already filled up the application form for that too.”

Chloe was thrown off balance by the unexpected answer from Evans. She had a slightly puzzled look as she took the piece of paper from him.

Chloe had mixed feelings as she scanned through Evans's application form for the scholarship cancellation. “Evans, can I know why you've applied for the cancellation?”

“Well, I happen to have found a way to sustain myself now. I have a secure way to earn the money I need for my living expenses currently. I think it's only right that the scholarship goes to someone who needs it more now.”

“Also, thank you so much for your help and advice. I can't thank you enough, Ms.

Watson.”

He’s such a kind and honest kid. You don’t see someone who’s willing to do something like this that often these days.

“Alright. You should head to your next class then.” Chloe smiled slightly and slowly nodded.

However, Evans just stood in the same spot, unmoving. Instead, he was staring at Chloe with an intense gaze.

“Is something the matter?”

Chloe blushed a little as she felt Evans’s gaze boring into her.

Evans said in a low voice, “Ms. Watson, you might encounter some issues in your relationship soon. I hope it’s something not too serious...”

I hope she doesn’t ask me why. I have no idea what’s going to happen. The message just popped up before my eyes a while ago...

Then, Evans quickly turned around and left Chloe’s office.

It took Chloe quite a while before she came back to her senses. “Huh? What was that about?!”

What nonsense was Evans going on about? Why would I suddenly encounter some sort of issues in my relationship?

Chloe’s husband was what most people would deem a very successful person. The man had managed to land an executive position in a real estate company at a relatively young age.

The couple was enjoying a happy and harmonious married life. However, they hadn’t gotten a child of their own even though they had been married for more than three years at that point.

Well, that can’t be helped since my husband is very busy with work. Sometimes, he has to be away for days. Hmm... So, why did Evans bring up a topic like that just now? I can’t keep up with how youngsters think these days...

Chloe merely shook her head and decided to not bother about the matter.

A few minutes later, Chloe received a message on her WhatsApp.

“Honey, I’m going on a business trip for the next few days. I won’t be home tonight.”

“Alright. Stay safe and take care of yourself.” Chloe sent a reply to her husband fairly quickly.

Then, she rose from her seat and got ready to leave for her next class.

As soon as Evans stepped into the lecture hall that day, he spotted Martin looking at him with a malevolent gaze.

I knew it almost instinctively. Martin must be behind the reason why they withdrew my scholarship. I know for a fact that he has a relative who holds a high position on the university's management board. It's a shame for him that I've actually decided to cancel my scholarship. It doesn't cause me much harm even if the school pulls back the money now. What matters more to me at the moment is if the Mackenzie Realty Group share prices are going to continue to rise for the next few days. How much benefit can I get if I continue to invest my money in them?

Evans sat down next to Larry. The latter leaned closer to him and asked aloud, "Evans, you've managed to break all of our expectations! Tell us! When and how did you get Zoe to agree to be your girlfriend?"

Evans flashed him an enigmatic smile. "She was the one who asked me to be her boyfriend."

The other students who were listening to their conversation rolled their eyes.

Martin shot a glare at Evans. "D*mn it! I'm going to make him pay someday!"

After Chloe had finished her last class and returned to her office, she noticed she had received a message from one of her closest friends, Jessie.

"Hey, pretty! They are having a high school gathering at the Lakeview International Resort tonight. I'll pick you up after work today. See you later!"

At five in the evening, Jessie arrived outside the school entrance in a Porsche Cayenne to meet with Chloe. Then, she drove the two of them to the resort.

Chloe said jokingly, "Aren't you dressed up too sexily today, Jessie?"

Jessie chuckled. "I want to make all those guys feel sorry for not trying to ask me out back then!"

When Jessie had found a spot in the resort's parking lot, she spotted something and asked, "Huh? Isn't that your husband's car, Chloe?"

Chloe turned her eyes to the familiar-looking BMW 740 parked just beside Jessie's car.

At the same time, the man who claimed to be on a business trip had his arm draped around a beautiful woman as they entered the hotel...
