Lucky Collision (Evans and Martin Robinson) Chapter 22

Chapter 22 You're Making Money For Me

Evans did not plan to stay in the rented apartment. He would be returning to the dormitory at night to avoid arousing suspicion.

The suspicion was mainly due to many couples renting apartments outside the campus.

Evans left the neighborhood, and he happened to encounter Georgie and Juliette.

Georgie and Juliette were also surprised to encounter Evans.

Evans said hello, but Juliette appeared in a bad mood as she walked away.

"What happened to her?"

Georgie rolled his eyes at Evans, "Isn't it because you made her unhappy?"

"Juliette, wait for me!"

Georgie quickly chased after Juliette, leaving the clueless Evans, "What did I do?"

Evans was tasked with cleaning the cafeteria that day. He could earn 20 dollars for each cleaning session.

Evans had to clean the cafeteria three times a week.

After finishing the cleaning, Evans could also get a free meal. For a financially challenged student like him, the remuneration was generous.

Usually, cleaning tasks were done after the students finished their meals, but Evans encountered a little trouble this time.

When Evans was about to start cleaning, a group of students gathered around him.

"Hey, isn't he the poor student pursuing Zoe?"

"Yeah... How can a poor student like him be so shameless?"

"It's an insult to Zoe."

"Hey, loser, stay away from Zoc."

Evans ignored the arrogant students. He sighed sarcastically that having a net worth of million dollars was indeed poor.

Evans felt disdainful of associating with students like them, and he continued his cleaning duties.

Two young ladies watched with indifference in a corner of the cafeteria.

“Something is unique about Evans. He can tolerate insults like that.”

Amelia commented as she could not figure out Evans.

“Evans is not as simple as you think.”

Angelina smirked, feeling a sense of satisfaction over her successful interference in the affairs between Evans and Zoe in her hotel.

Angelina investigated Evans’s background, and she found out that Evans was a typical university student from the countryside.

Evans had no influential family background, which baffled Angelina as to why Zoe chose to be with Evans.

Angelina also learned that Zoe had high popularity among the students.

Zoe’s family wealth must have exceeded 100 million dollars, and her father was a successful businessman.

The antique business alone brought in tens of millions in income yearly, allowing Zoe to have a laid-back life.

Despite that, Zoe turned down suitors like Martin, who came from a wealthy family.

Instead, she chose to be with Evans.

However, Angelina did not think highly of Martin’s family’s wealth.

Soon after, Evans moved on with his cleaning tasks to the area nearby Amelia and Angelina, “Are you done eating?”

“Yes.”

Angelina stared at Evans intently, “Evans, do you think you can win over Zoe despite your cleaning job here?”

“I’m puzzled with what’s in Zoe’s mind.”

Evans smiled, “That has nothing to do with you.”

“Zoe is a much better person. You didn’t even apologize after hitting someone when driving.”

Angelina’s face stiffened, “Fine, I admit it was my fault, I apologize. Is that enough?”

“You have ill intentions in the first place.”

Evans refused to speak to Angelina. That’s not the truth. I don’t have any ill intentions. You’re self- centered, thinking everyone wants to be acquainted with you.

Seeing that Evans ignored her, Angelina was annoyed, “Hear me out and stop doing this cleaning job. Work at my hotel under my name.”

“You’re only required to work on weekends. Your monthly payment will be two thousand dollars.”

It was considered generous pay, considering Evans only had to work eight days per month.

The average salary for a staff member was slightly more than three thousand dollars, so Angelina’s offer could be regarded as a favor to Evans.

Evans stopped doing his work, “Are you trying to compensate me?”

“Forget about it.”

“I’m not doing this job for the money. I simply enjoy the act of labor.”

“I’m not interested in money.”

Amelia nearly choked on her food.

A financially challenged student relying on a bursary to survive actually says he is not interested in money.

Looking at Angelina, who was popular with guys, Amelia thought to herself sarcastically. Ya, Evans, you’re right. I’m not interested in men, either!

It was 1.00 pm. Evans stopped chatting with the ladies so that it wouldn’t hinder him from earning money.

Evans quickly finished up his tasks before hurrying back to his rented apartment.

Seeing the Mackenzie Realty Group stock following his predictions, Evans felt confident and reassured.

However, Evans wanted to make adjustments when the stock increased by 46.99%.

Due to the leverage Evans had applied, he was afraid of the significant decline in the stock.

On the other hand, Wallace gave instructions in the chairman’s office of the Mackenzie Group.

“Once the stock went up by 50%, we must make readjustments to stop the small investors from profiting from us.”

Wallace intended to prevent any disruption caused by small investors since they tended to exit the stock market quickly once they made some profits.

Wallace wanted to eliminate the small investors, who were not confident with holding the stocks, before raising the stock price again.

The goal was to increase the base entry price for the investors in buying the stocks.

Doing so would lower the costs.

It appeared that Wallace was well-versed in the stock market in reaping profits.

Unfortunately, Wallace had to face up against Evans.

Evans paid close attention to the Mackenzie Realty Group stock for the following days.

Evans had already sold off the stocks before Mackenzie Realty Group played tricks on their stocks.

Since Evans possessed a small stock volume, it would hardly attract any attention.

However, Evans pulled off a smart move that would annoy Wallace.

When the stock price of the Mackenzie Realty Group rose by 40%, Evans started selling off his stocks gradually.

After the stock price of the Mackenzie Realty Group increased by 46.99%, Evans had already sold off all his stocks.

Then, it would be Evan's victory move.

Evans shorted all of his available funds.

Evans knew what the Mackenzie Group planned to do. Wallace instructed the traders to make a 26.88% pullback within three days.

The short position with this amount of capital would not significantly impact Mackenzie Realty Group stock. Evans's goal wasn't to crumble it, and he only wanted to make money.

Seven days later, Evans had accumulated his fund to 33.99 million dollars.

Evans kept a close watch on the trend of the Mackenzie Realty Group stock.

After the Mackenzie Realty Group stopped its actions to manipulate the stock price, it was time for the Mackenzie Realty Group to take off.

In the following two weeks, the stock price of the Mackenzie Realty Group stock doubled.

Evans spent two days purchasing the Mackenzie Realty Group stock in small batches.

Seeing that he had converted all his funds to the Mackenzie Realty Group stock, Evans smiled at the computer display.

I bet Angelina didn't know his family is making money for me.

Evans's ability had evolved. He no longer needed information prompts. As long as he opened any stock, he could see its future trends for some time.

With the unique ability in his eyes, Evans was confident that he would not lose in the stock market.

After completing the tasks, Evans stretched a little. Then, he decided to treat himself by celebrating with his roommate.
