

Chapter 52 To complete the promise

52

Amalthea's POV

Sapien, you said that she-wolves come to you because they are hungry for your power and want to mate with you?

My mom wanted to help you that day because all she saw was a Lycan stuck between the rogue army all alone. It was obviously her fault because she thought about the welfare of a species that always thinks they are high and mighty. All she wanted to do was help you, but you betrayed her and left her alone so that she could distract them and fight to save her life while you ran away like a pu*sy coward.

You indirectly called my mom a wh*re when you said females like her only look for materialistic benefits.

I'll show you what it feels like to be assaulted, humiliated, and murdered.

I can't bring a rogue army to have fun with you, but I am more than enough for you. I'll have you experience everything you deserve.

Let's see how you'll be able to take the wrath of LJ.

I thought before taking my two guns and ten daggers. Placing the daggers in my jacket and guns in the back pocket of my jeans, I took a deep breath before wearing the mask and taking off all the accessories I was wearing that might shine in the dark.

Looking at the jade bracelet, I took a deep breath before hiding it inside my sleeve.

Going to the balcony, I went over the railing before going down with the help of the beam pillars.

I looked at the guards before looking at my watch. There are only two minutes left before they'll change their positions again. I thought as I hid in the bush, taking a few deep breaths to calm my nerves. After two minutes, I peeked over the bush and saw the guards changing their posts again.

Smiling at the opportunity, I crawled towards the garden before jumping over the wall.

Gulping a bit as I looked down, the cliff looking even more dangerous, I couldn't help but sigh.

Augustus said they filled the lake down this cliff with alligators and flesh-eating fishes? Well, I'll surely test that theory after I'll cut this minister to pieces and feed it to them.

I thought before going towards the front of the palace with my heart beating at a high pace because of the risk.

After fourteen minutes, I finally reached the destination where Throb was waiting for me with the car, and I rolled my eyes as I looked at him.

I opened the map on the bonnet before signaling him to get out of the car.

"I have found out where they'll be going next. I've made this temporary map from the net. This Sapien guy lives here in this small mansion-like house. I don't know how many guards will be there, and I don't want to risk my life by going there either. It's a one-and-a-half-hour journey from here to his house. All the ministers will leave together, and they'll separate their ways at this junction. After that, we will have around 50 minutes to take him down," I said.

"We will have to be careful. We can't let Sapien know that we are following him. If he gets alert, he'll call the other ministers and their guards, and that's the last thing we want to happen. Did you bring the bow and arrow I asked you for?" I asked him, and he nodded.

"Good, this will come in handy," I said before looking at him.

"What?" He asked me, and I rolled my eyes.

"Do you have anything to add?" I asked, and he shook his head.

"Then what are you waiting for? Start the car. We will have to hide at the junction of the route to make sure he is going at the same route I am thinking about. Let's go," I said before folding the map and sitting inside the car.

"Amy, I will try my best to make this plan work, but can you at least tell me what is your feud with him?" He asked, and I smiled sadly.

"Do you really need to know? It's a mission, that's enough for you," I said, and he sighed.

"I know this is just a mission for me, but I know this is something personal to you, or you won't be making plans to this extent to kill this guy. You never make plans like this, Amy. Maybe if you'll tell me about your feud, then I'll try to make this mission successful with my life," Throb said, and I sighed.

"The same feud a child has from the Murderer of her mother," I said, and he raised his brows, making me glare at him.

"Are you going to start the car, or should I kick you out of the car?" I asked, and he shook his head before starting the engine.

"I'll get started right away. I am sorry," He said, and I nodded before looking out the window.

From what Charles has told me, the Ministers will leave in five minutes or so.

This is the best chance I can use to get my revenge, or it will be really hard in the future.

I just hope everything goes as I am planning.

I'll have to keep everything under control, or not only will I be exposed, but I might also get imprisoned in the dungeons of the ministers. Even Augustus might not be able to help me and take me out from there, which will hinder the rest of my plans, and that's the last thing I want to happen.

'Amalthea, I know you think today is the best time to take your revenge because of everything, but you are not strong enough. Think about it once again. Your body is healing from the wounds, and you are internally weak.

There is no way you'll be able to run if they start chasing you. If you keep a good relationship with the Lycan King, then you'll get a lot of chances in the future too. Why are you so adamant about doing it today?' Crystal said, and I scoffed.

'Have you really forgotten? That's because even the moon goddess wants me to take this revenge. Tomorrow is my mom's death anniversary, and I want to present the photo of his dead body to the graveyard of my mother. I had promised her dead body that I'll avenge her death. Today I'll kill him and give her the proof of his death when I'll go there and meet her graveyard,' I said with tears brimming my eyes, and this time Crystal stopped before nodding her head.

'You know what? I am with you. Let's see what happens. Don't worry. I'll kill anyone who will think of getting in our path. Let me take over whenever you feel tired,' Crystal said, and I hummed.

"Thank you," I said before closing my eyes and leaning on the window sill.

"Hey, are you okay?" Throb asked me, and I smiled.

"I'll be better once I kill this man," I said, and he looked at me for a second before looking back at the road.

"Sometimes, you scare me more than anything in the world. Not the rogue army, alphas, or the lycan king, but I feel like I should be wary of you the most," he said, and I hummed.

"Don't worry. You are not alone. Even I scare myself sometimes," I said before looking out of the car.

Author's Note- Keep Supporting.

