AMALTHEA'S POV

'What is happening, Crystal? You are not deliberately putting me in the spotlight for not following your orders earlier, right?' I asked.

'I am not holding any kind of grudge, Amalthea. Someone was trying to get this dress piece back using your powers. I had to use my powers momentarily to stop them. If they had been successful, then you know Augustus had gotten even more suspicious of us and our powers,' Crystal explained, and I grit my teeth.

Whoever these ladies are, they can link to me with their powers. It looks like this time the situation is more severe than I had thought. I am not fighting people from my species anymore, and they have a major benefit to me. I don't know anything about them, the powers they hold, which species they belong to, or even their names, while they know everything about me.

'And? Is everything under control now? Did you block them completely?'

'It seems so for now. We have to be careful, Amalthea. I am not getting a good vibe regarding your powers. You are growing stronger with these hymns, or should I say these hymns are going stronger inside you. Let's not try anything reckless from now on, okay?' Crystal said, and I looked back at Augustus.

'Well, will you believe me if I say my eyes turned yellow because my wolf is the wolf of the world? A unique wolf that is the rarest of all, and she sensed something wrong with this dress material?' I asked him, and he nodded.

'It's about time you come clean with me, no?'' He asked me, and I raised

"What do you mean by this statement? By any chance, you knew?" I asked, and he smiled back before combing my hair with his fingers.

"I knew. However, your words revealing this give me another kind of happiness. I am glad you could trust me with that," Augustus said.

"Do you even know who is the wolf of the world?" I asked, annoyed that he had figured something like this earlier, and he chuckled.

So all this time, when I tried my best to hide my wolf from everyone, he already knew who my wolf was? What the hell? Mourning the times when I had to risk my life because I didn't want to change in front of him, I gritted my teeth. Looking at him as if he was some kind of culprit, I huffed loudly. Judging from his expression, I think he knows what I am thinking, and I couldn't help but give him the stink eyes, making him sigh.

"I know who she is. And if you are worried about the fact that she is not like other wolves and is growing in size every time you turn, then don't be. You won't turn into a giant monster," He said in a consoling manner, and I immediately sat shocked.

"How did you know? How do you know so many things about my wolf?" I asked, amazed, and he chuckled.

"Well, didn't I say? I did my research on it after I found out you have this unique wolf. How big is she?" He asked with a pampering look on his face, and I pouted.

"She has already grown taller than you. Earlier when she was growing in size, I thought it was normal because all wolves grow as they age, but after I turned twenty, which should've been the peak of her growth, I realized my wolf was growing unusually. It kept on growing with each turn I took. I asked her if she was growing normally or if it was only at the time of my turning. She said she was growing usually earlier, but now she'll grow with each turn," I said, and he nodded his head.

"And that's the reason you don't turn into your wolf, even if you are in so much danger. Because you are afraid that more people will find out about your wolf, and your problems will increase by tenfold," Augustus said, and I nodded at him.

"But I noticed you don't change into your wolf even when you are training or alone. Is it because you don't like that she is growing bigger? If yes, then I don't see the problem with that. You will be stronger and the most powerful, even more than the lycans, which I must mention you already are," He said, and I sighed.

"Well, that's because the more I let her lose, the naughtier she becomes. You don't know how she can be. There were times when she took over my body when I was sleeping, and if I didn't control her, then she repeated those things. Thus, I restrict her from changing so that she doesn't get dominant over me. I didn't want you to see my wolf, either. You were already suspicious of me from the beginning, and I didn't want to risk her. There are other reasons too, but that's not important right now," I said, and he nodded.

"It's refreshing. Getting to know more about you, I mean. You are always so mysterious and everything that I feel like I know so less about you," Augustus said, and I smiled.

"Don't worry. I am sure you'll get to know more about me as time passes. After All, I am the love of your wolf, right?" I winked, and he chuckled before placing his hand on my cheeks and pecking my lips.

"I have asked the maid to bring your food here itself. I figured you wouldn't want to deal with the commotion," He said, and soon the maid entered the room with all kinds of good food, making me swoon.

"I wonder when you'll look at me the same way you look at food," Augustus mumbled under his breath, but I still heard it and couldn't help but smile as I looked at his grumpy face.

Once the maid left, I placed my head on his chest before hugging him.

"Don't worry. I have a better gaze for you," I said, and he raised his brows.

"Like?"

"Like looking at you with disgust, irritation, frustration, anger, and whatnot," I said with a cheeky smile, and he rolled his eyes at me before pushing me away, making me chuckle.

"You are such a meany," he said, and I couldn't help but pull his cheeks at

"You didn't do what I think you did just now," He looked at me with raised brows, and I looked at him seriously.

"I did exactly what you think I did," I said before pulling his cheeks again, and he looked at me with a smirk, making me look at him suspiciously, and I finally understood why he was looking at me like that because the next thing I know, he started tickling me, making me howl with laughter as I kicked the air helplessly.

"Stop. I won't do that,"

"Please, I am ticklish there," I said between my laughter.

"Hey! Stop!" I shouted, which came out more like a growl, and hearing the thunderous growl echoing in the palace that shook the walls drastically, I looked at Augustus in shock, who looked back at me with the same expression.

Looking at each other for a few seconds, we both couldn't help each other as we burst out laughing.

"It looks like I'll have to build another double soundproof room which will only have a bed when we will mate," He said between his laughs, and I paused in between, looking at him shocked.

As if realizing what he said just now, he looked away awkwardly before coughing, making me force him to look at me.

"What do you say just now?" I asked, and he bit his lips.

"Well, I can explain. Please don't misunderstand," He said, and seeing his unnerving expression, I couldn't help but burst out laughing again.

"Dude, just look at your face. You look like you saw a ghost," I said, and he looked at me irritated before gripping my hands and pinning them above my head.

"You look like you're having too much fun being naughty with me, don't you? Should I teach you how to be naughty with me?" He asked with his eyes boring into mine, his lips only inches away from mine, with his body pressed to mine, and I couldn't help but gulp as I looked at his lustful

"I-I-" I started, feeling complicated as I was feeling nervous and naughty both. What am I supposed to do now? All I want to do is pull him and make out with him to its full extent, but I don't want to let Blake and others know I am kissing someone else. This is something between him and me, and I want it to stay like that until we both are sure about our feelings, excluding our wolves.

As I was thinking all this, Augustus smiled before pecking my cheeks and sitting straight.

"Don't think too much, moonshine. Let time take its course," I heard Kyle's voice, and I smiled at him as he helped me up.

He is such a gentleman. I feel really blessed to have him around me. It looks like the moon goddess wasn't totally cruel while forming my life map. She did me a favor by adding the Lycan King to it.
