

Chapter 98 The mysterious leader.

---

98

AMALTHEA'S POV

"Amalthea? Are you going somewhere? At this hour? Didn't you say something like you will hit the bed as soon as you change out of your dress? What is this all about?" Harry said as he caught me sneaking out of the chambers.

"Yeah. Well, that was my original plan, but now I have to meet someone," I said, and he hummed before going ahead.

"What are you waiting for? Are you not going to come?" He asked me, and I raised my brows.

"And what gives you the impression that will take you with me?" I asked, and he sighed.

"Do you think I would let you go alone? Didn't you see the time before coming out of your room? It's freaking 1:30 am," He said, and I leaned on the gates before smirking.

"And why do you want to come with me? To protect me? Like how you did when Alpha Blake was humiliating me in my room because he thought I hurt Linda? Remember the last time I was here, and why I left in such a hurry? I don't forget things, Harry. Just because I have forgiven you doesn't mean I will blindly put my trust into the council for my protection once again. I am capable of taking care of myself," I said, and he bit his lips before sighing.

"I am sorry for that day, Amalthea. I am sorry for not being able to protect you that day. You know that's not like me. I would do anything to take your side and protect you from any harm. It was because -"

"Because you believed I had indeed hurt Linda. There is no other explanation for not protecting the person you are entitled to protect the most. You couldn't believe me at such a minor incident. Do you think I would take you with me to a place where something controversial is bound to happen? I am meeting someone who has been helping me in the woods for these three months, and I don't want anyone to mess it up. It can be an important rogue you guys are looking for or someone who might want me dead too. I don't know. I am sorry, but I don't put so much trust in people usually," I said, and he sighed.

"Can you at least tell me if you will be fine or in danger?" He asked me, and I sighed.

How can I answer that question when I myself don't know about it?

"That's none of your business. If I come unharmed before morning, then you can take that as me not being in danger. I am leaving now. And yeah, under no circumstances are you telling Augustus about it," I said before turning around, closing my eyes for a few seconds to take a deep breath.

That was a close call. Though I have gotten away with it by bringing up the past, which is very unlikely of me, I am glad Harry didn't suspect that much and called Uncle Chris over it.

'Amalthea, are you sure you'll be okay? I mean, I don't want to look like I am being too nosy or naggy, but this is the first time you'll be meeting him. No matter how many tasks he has completed for us, he is still someone who can't be trusted easily. Will going alone be okay?' Crystal asked, and I hummed before walking towards the garage.

One hour ago, when I was done with the ceremony, I went straight to my room because I was too tired to care about the meeting of the alphas. I was hoping to have a good sleep after all the drama and confusion caused by some baseless rumor. However, I hadn't expected a call from the person who helped me gather information about anything I wanted.

One hour ago~~~~~

"Has everything been sorted between you and King Augustus?" Harry asked me before plopping on my bed while I removed my earrings.

"Yes. Anyway, how did you find out Augustus has a liking towards me?" I asked, and he scoffed.

"How did I find out? Anyone with five senses can sense the tension between you two. Do you think Augustus is the kind of Lycan who would pull out a chair for a she-wolf and invite her to eat with him or his palace? Not to mention how his eyes are always watching your every move like a hawk. I had noticed this last time too, but at that time I had thought it was because he is merely intrigued by this rogue alpha female," He paused before smirking.

"However, this time, it was like he would eat you alive at any chance. There was aggression in his eyes, but more than that, there was love. Do you think I really missed how he looked at you when you entered the hall with me? It was as if you were the unloyal husband in the relationship, and he was the loyal wife who was pained with your actions. He might've looked angry, but he was trying to conceal his emotions," Harry said, and I hummed.

"Amalthea, what are your thoughts about the southern packs?" Harry said, and I hummed, uninterested.

"Get lost. I am tired and want to hit the bed as soon as I change," I said, and he looked at me before rolling his eyes.

"This is so like you, Amalthea. You only talk nicely as long as the topic is of your interest, no?" He said, standing and ruffling my hair before leaving the room, making me look at the phone that was vibrating with an incoming call from the leader.

Why is he calling me at this time? Is it because he found something about the Sirens again? I thought before locking the door and picking up the call.

"Hey, what is it? You don't call me like this. It's always me calling you. Have you found out something?" I asked, squinting my brows when he said nothing.

After waiting for a few seconds, I was about to speak again when he started.

"Yes. I have found out about the thing you asked me for. I have everything ready for the sirens and Azrael. However, this time I will not give you any information in return for money or any other asset. I want you to meet

Chapter 98 The mysterious leader.

+120 Points at most

me. I also know that you are in the council chambers. Finally, you made a slip-up and forgot to change your sim, no? It was easy to track you," He said, and I leaned on the window before humming.

"It wasn't a slip-up. It was intentional. I don't want to keep changing my numbers anymore. I will face everything and anyone who'll come for me directly," I said.

"Well, that's a good thing. We can talk about the rest of the things when you are here. I am pretty sure everyone is tired after the ceremony. Now is the best time to meet me with no one tailing you. I finally want to meet the so-called Amy I have been talking to. I won't take anything else. If you are up for it, I am staying in the city area at an hour's distance from council chambers, in hotel Delight," he said.

"Why are you pushing it so much today? I had already told you I'll meet you when I would be comfortable and ready to expose myself -"

I paused when I heard the beep sound of the call ending, making me sigh.

Looking at the clock, I pressed my lips into a thin line before looking up, not knowing what to do.

He is someone who has been helping me from the first week of becoming a rogue. There were times when I didn't have the money to pay for his services, and not once had he complained about it. He has placed a lot of trust in me, even after knowing how fishy my demands and background are.

He doesn't even know my complete name, let alone anything else about me. It's obvious he would grow impatient since I have been delaying our meeting for two months now.

Taking a deep breath, I went straight into the bathroom to change my dress and get ready for the night out. Huhh... It looks like I'll have to say goodbye to my beauty sleep tonight.

Present time~~~~~

After taking my bike from the garage, I closed the large gate before starting it and riding in the direction of the delight hotel.

Judging from how he ended the call without completely hearing me out,

64.1%

Special bonus over 40% >

09:55

Chapter 98 The mysterious leader.

+120 Points at most

I am sure he is serious this time about meeting me, and I can't risk it. What if he denies my future tasks if I don't meet him today? He is quite childish. Moreover, he is a man of great use to me. Even if it's risky, I will have to take this risk if I want to keep this relationship between us.

After riding the bike for 53 minutes, I was finally standing in front of the delight hotel, contemplating how to find out about him.

He just said that he was here. He mentioned nothing about the room number or table number in the restaurant or his appearance altogether. How am I supposed to find him? I thought before calling the leader, my eyes turning cold when I saw Blake coming out of the hotel, looking straight at me.

Wait. What is this guy doing here? Out of everyone, he was the last person I expected to see here. I thought, looking at him coldly.

"Amalthea, so you are finally here," Blake said, and I had a sudden urge to bring out my gun and shoot him at zero point, but I controlled my urges to see what he was all about this time.

What is he doing here? And what did he mean by me being here? Was he expecting me or something?

86.7%

Special bonus over 40% >

09:55