

Chapter 128

Before long, Stanley’s driver reached Julian’s place; he picked both of them up and headed straight to Carlson Group.

When they reached Stanley’s office, they could hear Master Tiger’s grumblings from afar. “Stanley, have you found the two guys? Please act faster because after my legs are healed by the doctor, I want to kill them myself! Stanley, we’ve agreed before this that I will throw them into Lake Eastcliff!”

Matthew pushed the door open and asked in a loud and clear voice, “Who are you going to throw into Lake Eastcliff?”

Those inside the office immediately turned around to face Matthew. Joy was written all over Master Tiger’s face when he saw Matthew.

“Stanley, I’m impressed by your men’s efficiency! They managed to seize the two b*stards in such a short time! Great, Stanley, let’s break the legs of that scumbag first! I’ll then teach him a lesson myself after my legs get better!”

Looking triumphant, Jayde gloated, “Julian, I told you not to pester me anymore long before this but you refused to listen! Hmph, you want to tie me down by making use of our daughter, don’t you? I will make sure you give up any hope of that today! A guy like you will never get a woman like me! Stanley, you don’t have to be lenient to them for my sake.”

Meanwhile, Stanley’s face turned extremely dark because it had never occurred to him that Matthew was the one Master Tiger had offended.

“Stanley, what’re you waiting for? Do it! Get revenge for me!” Master Tiger urged.

Julian, whose body was trembling with fear, took a step forward and said, “President Carlson, Master Tiger, I am the one who caused the incident. Please let me offer my apology to the two of you…”

“That won’t be necessary!” Matthew grabbed Julian’s arm and flashed a faint smile at Stanley. “President Carlson, do you want me to offer my apology to you?”

It was only then did Stanley come back to his senses. He walked toward Matthew quickly and gave him a bow. “Mr. Larson, I’m very sorry about this. I had no idea that this hopeless b*stard offended you! I apologize to you on his behalf and I hope you can forgive him!”

Both Master Tiger and Julian were stunned. What was going on? Did Stanley Carlson, the man who enjoyed a distinguished status in the city, just apologize to Matthew? Stanley wouldn’t even adopt such an attitude in the presence of the masters of the Ten Greatest Families of Eastcliff.

“Stanley, h-have you gone mad? That scumbag injured me and humiliated you. Why did you apologize to him? What exactly are you doing?”

In a fit of raging fury, Stanley slapped Master Tiger and roared angrily, “Keep your mouth shut! Do you have any idea who he is? If Master Newman were here, even he would have to treat Mr. Larson politely! Who do you think you are? Who gave you the guts to speak so rudely to Mr. Larson?”

Master Tiger was so horrified after listening to what Stanley said that he nearly wet his pants. Billy Newman was the strongest support behind Stanley and he was the king who dominated Eastcliff. Since even Billy had to treat Matthew respectfully, no one else in the city would want to offend Matthew. No wonder Stanley respected Matthew so much!

Jayde too widened her eyes in shock as she was surprised to know that Julian actually had such a big shot as his friend. Looking apprehensive, Stanley glanced at Julian and asked in a low voice, “Mr. Larson, who is this gentleman?”

“He is my buddy who has gone through a lot with me. Did you notice his legs? One of them was broken because of me!”

Just one sentence was enough to let Stanley understand their friendship. Stanley then landed a slap on Tiger’s face and yelled, “What are you waiting for? Offer your apology to Mr. Larson now!”

Looking terror-stricken, Master Tiger pushed himself off the wheelchair and dropped to the ground. “Mr. Larson, I’ve realized my mistake. Please be the bigger man and f-forgive me… I won’t repeat my mistake ever again…”

