

Chapter 65

James and Helen both walked up to the entrance of Crowne Plaza at noon.

“Do you think Mr. Jones is reliable?” Helen said softly. “He said that he’ll handle the problem for us. Is that possible?”

Mr. Jones was the big shot that Liam introduced to them the night before.

James told Mr. Jones about the company’s frozen bank account last night and he agreed to help him handle it.

However, James was still worried. “Let’s just wait and see. Besides, we have nothing to lose. It’ll be great if he can help us solve the problem. If he can’t, at least Sasha will give up hope and ask Young Master Cooper for help!”

Helen nodded and said, “You’re right. Solving the company’s problem is not the key to the meeting. The most important thing is to make Sasha give up hope! In my opinion, Young Master Cooper is the best partner for Sasha. After all, he is worth several hundred millions and he is from a powerful family. If Sasha marries him, her business will be much smoother. When that happens, we would be able to be one of the wealthy families in Eastcliff that Eric Cunningham and the others wouldn’t be able to compare.”

There was a gleam of hope in James’s eyes. He felt extremely humiliated to be controlled by Eric Cunningham. Now that he had the chance to retaliate, he naturally wouldn’t want to miss it.

“The most important thing is to ask Matthew to divorce Sasha!” James said through gritted teeth. “If it weren’t for him dragging Sasha down, Sasha would’ve married into a wealthy family long ago!”

“You’re right!” Helen was angry too. “We’ll use the lunch meeting today as an excuse. If Matthew can’t solve the problem, we’ll force him to divorce Sasha!”

The two of them arrived at the VIP room that Matthew mentioned. After they pushed the door open and entered the room, they noticed that there were already five people sitting inside.

Matthew and Sasha had arrived long ago. The other three people were Old Mrs. Graham, Mr. Graham and Mr. Graham’s wife.

Mr. Graham’s wife was called Alice Buckner. At that moment, she was snuggling up to Mr. Graham like a newlywed.

As for Mr. Graham, he was full of vigor and looked energetic, completely different from his decadent past.

The revival of his manly power last night made him feel like he was reborn. This morning, he received a mini Rejuvenating pill from Mr. Harrison again. After swallowing it, not only did his injury fully recover, but he also felt extremely energetic.

Mr. Graham was almost 40 years old but at that instant, he felt so lively, he felt like he wasn’t even 30. All of these were all thanks to Matthew’s help, which was why Mr. Graham was extremely grateful toward him. Naturally, even Sasha didn’t know about Mr. Graham’s identity. When James and Helen saw these three people, they looked confused.

Matthew hurriedly got up to introduce them and Mr. Graham even stretched out his hand and said, “Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham, nice to meet you. I’m a friend of Matthew’s!”

James and Helen glanced at each other. A friend of Matthew’s? He’s probably on the same level as him.

They didn’t even reach out to shake Mr. Graham’s hand. Instead, they directly sat down and said, “Matthew, the lunch banquet today is to deal with official business. Do you think it’s suitable to choose this time to treat your friend?”

Mr. Graham looked embarrassed. Seeing this, Sasha hurriedly said, “Dad, Mom, Mr. Graham is here to join the meeting.”

“Join the meeting?” Helen sneered. “Do you know who we are meeting this noon? We’re meeting with Mr. Jenkins, a senior manager in charge of most of the bank’s business. Not everybody can join the meeting.”

Sasha also felt embarrassed. “Mom, don’t… Stop talking nonsense! Mr. Graham, I’m sorry. My mother is just joking around!”

Mr. Graham could tell Matthew’s position in the Cunningham family and felt curious, but he wasn’t really bothered by it. From the beginning to the end, James and Helen looked at Mr. Graham and his family in disgust. During their conversation, it was obvious that they were mocking them, but fortunately, Mr. Graham and his family were in a good mood today. Furthermore, for Matthew’s sake, they didn’t rebuke them.
