

Chapter 404 Punishment For Adrien

Not only did Celia want to keep out of the mess that was the Kane Group, but she lacked the ability to do anything even if she had wanted to.

Adrien had asked her to ask the Shaw family for help, but she didn't think she would be successful. The only one of them who liked her was Hobson, and she wasn't willing to trouble him on behalf of a scumbag like Adrien. Furthermore, if she involved them, then she and Tyson would owe the Shaw family a favor.

Therefore, Celia wanted to stay out of this matter entirely.

To maintain her resolve, she reminded herself to not be softhearted. She found it a bit easier when she reminded herself what kind of a person Adrien had been to her in the past.

Not long after her mother had died, Adrien had poured salt into her wounds. He had brought his mistress and illegitimate daughter back with him. He had turned a blind eye to their cruel treatment of her, and he allowed them to bully and hurt her.

He had even stood aside and allowed his mistress and their daughter to force her to move out of her home!

In the following years, when she struggled to make ends meet and earn enough to afford food and her tuition fee, Adrien had again turned a blind eye to her struggles. In fact, he had even forced her to marry into the Shaw family in place of his illegitimate daughter, Cerissa.

To care about Adrien again would make her a stupid, softhearted fool.

Celia sighed, then she picked up her handbag and walked out of the office.

But on the way out, as she ruminated over what Adrien had just said, she felt mixed emotions.

She no longer had any feelings for the man, but she felt sorry for her mother that, as a result of all of this, the owner of the Kane Group would change. The Kane Group was the fruit of her mother's painstaking efforts, and the fact that she had been unable to protect it made her feel incredibly guilty.

Even so, she knew that Adrien's poor management of the company was to blame for this outcome, so she shouldn't feel guilty for how things had turned out.

She knew that if his mother was still alive, she would certainly be disappointed in the way Adrien had destroyed the Kane Group through his incompetence.

His management was so awful that he was about to lose the position of CEO as punishment for his actions.

When she thought about all of this, Celia felt relieved.

She told herself that all she had to do was to continue to remind herself of Adrien's bad side. She should try her best to stop thinking about any of the few good things that he had done for her.

He was truly a bad guy. He had taken over the Kane Group after her mother had passed away, and then he had used the assets she had left to give his mistress and their daughter a good life! After everything he had done to her, he deserved whatever terrible outcome he faced today.

As a cherry on top, once the owner of the Kane Group changed, his mistress, Mabel, and their daughter Cerissa would no longer be able to live the luxurious life that they had unfairly enjoyed for years.

Those three had done so many terrible things. It was time for them to learn a lesson.

Celia took a deep breath. Suddenly, her phone rang again with a call from Adrien.

She guessed why he was calling. She sighed and rejected the call as she continued to walk.

Moments later, Adrien called again. She rejected the call a second time.

Adrien continued to ring her phone over and over, but Celia denied each call.

Eventually, her phone stopped ringing. Perhaps Adrien finally realized that there was no chance Celia would answer the phone or be willing to help him.

Celia squeezed her eyes shut and rubbed the spot between her eyebrows.

The ownership of the Kane Group was about to change, and Adrien had no money to buy the ring back. Was there any way she could take it back herself?

It would be impossible for her to get so much money herself in such a short amount of time. She wondered if she should ask Tyson for help with this matter.

But what could Tyson do? He didn't have the money either, so he would need to turn to Hobson for help.

But if the other members of the Shaw family knew about this, it would be a huge embarrassment for Tyson. There was a good chance Mack and Doreen would mock them.

No, she couldn't ask Tyson for help with this. Even if she had no other way to take back the ring, she couldn't drag Tyson into this mess.

Celia sighed as she walked to the company gate. As she walked closer, she saw Tyson's car parked on the roadside.

When he saw her coming, Tyson rolled down his window and waved at her with a smile on his face.
