

Chapter 451 Barbecue

Alick and Kiley were having a crazy sex at the hotel while Celia and Tyson were on their way home. The Terry Hotel was far away from their home, so they could not reach home until after midnight.

Fortunately for them, the winds were not too strong, and the gentle breeze made them feel incomparably comfortable.

However, Tyson was worried about Celia since she would have to go to work the next morning and it was already past midnight.

He was even contemplating asking Brea to give Celia a day off, because she had been working really hard lately and he feared that she might be too exhausted.

Celia was very excited, and was not feeling sleepy at all.

She had never enjoyed the pleasant and cool night breeze while sitting in the sports car before.

"Honey." Staring at the passing trees along the road, Celia suddenly got an idea. She glanced at Tyson and asked, "Should we go on a drive somewhere else? We rarely get a chance to go out, and it is such a beautiful night!"

Tyson was a little hesitant, but then he smiled and said, "Didn't you just say that you wanted to go home early?"

Celia remembered that she indeed wanted to go home as soon as possible just to share a passionate kiss with him. Blushing coquettishly, she replied, "That was before, and now, I want to go for a drive. Okay?"

Tyson obviously could not say no to her.

He took a look at the time on his phone and saw that it was already very late, so he decided to take Celia for a drive. That way, he could find an excuse to make her skip work tomorrow and let her rest.

Although she did not know it at all, he was her boss.

He smiled at her and said in a charming voice, "Sure, honey!"

He then drove slowly along a peaceful river nearby, letting her enjoy the breeze and the view.

There were only a few passers-by along the river, and they were all strangers.

Seeing that, Celia laughed.

Tyson pushed a button and opened the sun-roof in his car to let her stretch out her arms in the cool breeze.

At that moment, it seemed as though all the troubles they had during the day had vanished.

What could possibly be more beautiful than spending time with the one they loved?

Seeing Celia happy brought joy to Tyson's heart.

With all his worries gone, he only wanted to make her happy now.

They drove past an open-air barbecue place on their way, and the delicious aroma of charcoal grilled meat lured Celia.

She turned to Tyson, her eyes twinkling like the stars in the sky. "Honey, I am craving some grilled meat."

Tyson glanced at the barbecue place and stopped the car before he teased, "Why? Didn't you enjoy your dinner? Why are you suddenly craving barbecue?"

Shaking her head, Celia flashed a sweet smile. "The food in the hotel was obviously delicious, but you were not there at the party, so I did not have an appetite. Now that we're together, I am hungry again. I think that it is very romantic too."

"Since you asked, how can I possibly say no?" Tyson rubbed her nose dotingly.

After parking the car by the road, he grabbed her hand and they walked to the barbecue restaurant.

There were not many people there, and most of the tables were empty, so they found a spot by the window with a breathtaking view and sat down.

Tyson handed the menu to Celia and said, "Order whatever you want. It's my treat."

Celia smiled and ordered foods that they both enjoyed.

After they waited for a while, the waiter brought the grill.

With excitement and expectation in her heart, Celia began to grill the meat.

Putting a piece of the grilled beef on Tyson's plate, she said, "Try it. It's delicious!"

She also took a piece and was about to put it in her mouth when she heard a sound from behind.

Staring at each other for a moment, they turned their heads and to their surprise, Mack and Doreen walked in, holding hands.

What the hell! How could they come to a place like that?
