

Chapter 749 The Carter Family's Forbidden Topic

Disappointment flashed across Celia's eyes.

Although she had predicted that Nora might not come today, she was still disappointed when Nora really didn't come.

Despite knowing Nora for a short period of time, she had treasured every minute of their relationship.

Celia was grateful for Nora's support before and wanted to repay her. That was why Celia offered to help when she knew Nora liked Nolan.

If she had known things would turn out this way, she would have explained the situation to Nora earlier.

However, it was too late for regrets.

As Celia wallowed in her sadness, Wayne suddenly hollered, "Brea, Cece, Alita, come and have some barbecue."

Celia quickly perked herself up and ushered the girls over to prevent the others from worrying about her.

Tyson put all the food he had grilled in front of Celia and said gently, "These are all your favorites. Eat up."

Wayne approached them and teased, "Cece, did you know? I wanted to eat one of those shrimps, but Tyson wouldn't let me. He said that he only cooks for his wife. I envy you sometimes."

Celia blushed at Wayne's comment. Seeing this, Brea sulked. "You don't have to envy Célia. You can be Tyson's wife. That way, he will cook for you."

Just then, it was Wayne who blushed. He hurried to Brea and said, while pointing at the meat he grilled, "Brea, what are you talking about? I'm straight! Hurry up and eat. I grilled all these for you!"

Tyson ignored their banter and carefully slid the food from the skewers onto Celia's plate. He was so sweet and considerate.

Brea looked admiringly at Tyson and mused, "Look at Mr. Reyes. He's so thoughtful."

Wayne hastily followed Tyson's footsteps and exclaimed as he placed some barbeque onto Brea's plate, "You don't have to envy others. I can do it for you too!"

While the others had their partners around to keep them company, Alita was all alone. Ronald couldn't come because of a shoot.

Fortunately, Celia and Brea did not leave Alita out and gave her their food.

"No, thanks. I don't want Mr. Shaw and Mr. Evans to be jealous," Alita said half-jokingly.

"He wouldn't dare!" Celia and Brea cried in unison.

The two men smiled at each other and shrugged. "We wouldn't dare. You can eat as much as you want. We won't let you starve."

They carried on the party happily.

When it was time to bid farewell, they hugged and said their goodbyes reluctantly.

Brea was the most emotional. She cried so hard that her makeup was ruined. "Cece, please tell us when you are leaving. No matter how busy we are, we will see you off at the airport," she sobbed.

Celia nodded. She wanted to cry but held back her tears and said, "I will."

She and Tyson took turns bidding their friends goodbye.

After everyone left, Tyson held Celia and asked, "Are you reluctant to part with them?"

Celia nodded, "Of course. We have been friends for such a long time. I'm not a heartless person. But whenever I think of how my mother died, I feel the urge to seek justice for her. If I don't, there will always be a stone weighing on my heart."

She then glanced at Tyson and asked, "Do you know the Carter family in Captern well?"

Tyson hesitated and said, "Not much, only the common knowledge. The Carter family is one of the four most influential families in Captern. The last generation consists of a man and a lady. The lady is said to have died more than 20 years ago. This is a forbidden topic in the Carter family."

Celia's mind wandered off when she heard the information.

It was weird. She always thought something did not add up.

The lady of the Carter family died more than 20 years ago, approximately when Jenifer came to Hosworth.

The way Aubrey looked at her and the fact that Alicia was investigating her gave her a bad feeling.

She always thought her mother might have some special connection with the Carter family in Captern.

Regardless, she would soon find out the answer.

She was determined to go to Captern with Tyson to uncover the truth!

Chapter 750 Farewell To Hobson

When Alicia got the result of the investigation, she reported to Aubrey, "Celia is from the Kane family, according to my research. But the Kane family is not big in Hosworth, though it was honorable for a time in the past. The family has declined since Celia's mother died, and it is now just poor. Adrien, Celia's father, failed them. Even the company was sold, and he owes a lot of money. He also sold his younger daughter from his second marriage."

Aubrey felt less worried after hearing this.

She had previously thought Celia was dangerous, but now she realized she was wrong.

Seeing her weird expression, Alicia quickly coaxed her, "Aubrey, don't overthink it. The Kane family has already gone bankrupt. They're all worthless garbage. You don't have to worry about them at all. Even though Celia is now married to Tyson, she won't be able to play any tricks on you."

Aubrey sighed and nodded.

In her opinion, Alicia was right. She previously overthought it. Celia seemed to come from an impoverished family. She couldn't do anything. Even if Celia caused problems, Aubrey could solve them with ease.

Then she told Alicia, "Choose a day, and we'll return to Captern as soon as possible. I don't want to be here for another minute."

Aubrey just came to Hosworth for work. She didn't want any mistakes for the project she took over, so she came to keep an eye on things.

She didn't have to continue staying here now that the event was over.

Celia and Tyson had nearly finished packing everything in the next two days. They even went to pick up Hobson from the hospital. They wanted to use this opportunity to say goodbye to Hobson.

Despite Tyson's knowledge that he had no blood tie with Hobson, the old guy brought him up. Hobson had long been his grandfather in his heart, and their bond didn't need to be measured by blood.

Hobson knew Tyson's need for vengeance and that he was the founder of Semshy Group. When he found out that he and Celia had decided to leave, he did not persuade them to stay and stated, "You've grown up. It's fine for you to have your own opinions. Just do what you want to do."

"Don't worry. No matter what happens in the future, you will always be my grandfather, and our relationship will never change." Tyson expressed his gratitude.

Happy, Hobson nodded. Next, he looked at Celia with tenderness and said, "I'm very sorry, Cece. Our Shaw family has put you through so many dangers and almost got you killed several times, but you are still so kind to me. I don't know what to say."

Celia didn't blame him, but instead gave him a warm smile and said, "Hobson, you are also very kind to me. Love is mutual. What the others have done to me has nothing to do with you. Thank you very much for treating me as your own granddaughter. Please take care of yourself. After Tyson and I finish dealing with the problems, we will come back to visit you and spend time with you."

"It sounds fantastic!" Hobson replied, tears welling up in his eyes. He took Tyson's and Celia's hands in his and said, "I hope you two will always be together. No matter what happens in the future, you must remember that you love each other. Don't forget that, okay?"

When Celia and Tyson locked gazes, they saw intense affection in one other's eyes. Celia's cheeks flushed as she nodded. Then Tyson said, "Don't worry, Grandpa. I will treat Cece well. I will protect and love her forever."
