Chapter 1671 The Bloodline Library! II

Genevieve had a wild light flashing in her eyes as she ignored the nearby Sixth and Seventh Firmament attendants while flying towards another runic magic circle that would teleport them to another place entirely.

She was a Candidate Ruler that had already perused the Bloodline Library many times and seen all the Runic Escriptures of Modus Operandi within, and her mind buzzed with devilish thoughts as she wanted to see how Alexander would react to her straightforward way of doing things!

Would he slip up in the days to come as even now, the will of a genuine LEGEND was covering everything?

She held a TABOO concept among many other tools as no LEGEND could ever suspect her or turn their gaze towards her direction, and it had been this way since she was born as she had come across too many LEGENDS.

But what about this being who before he had shielded himself, she had seen he had an extremely young soul when they first met?

Would he continue to be exceptional and exceed if the attention of a LEGEND turned towards him? Or even...the attention of a terrifying Adjudicator that even Legends envied?

'Let's keep you busy just for a little bit.'

WAA!

Her wild thoughts surged as her will carried on.

'Let's fatten you up and give you the things that you want while you struggle to keep attention off of you...and the moment that I can unlock those two TABOO concepts...we shall see exactly where your main body lies as after that...!'

Deadly thoughts crossed her mind as she moved.

"The Bloodline Library? Why head there at this time?"

The puzzled voice of the drop dead gorgeous Katelyn rang out as Genevieve gave a light smile while pulling Beatrix and Noah onto another Runic Magic Circle that led towards the entrance of their next location as she replied lightly.

"We are just going to browse. Thank you for escorting us, Sis Katelyn!"

BZZZT!

Silver spatial light wrapped around them as essence from Genevieve activated another magic circle, their figures disappearing and leaving Katelyn behind with the many lines of bowing attendants and the enormous Reality Tree that spanned for many light years and held a great deal of crystalline castles and skyscrapers.

Katelyn's eyes shone with interest as a second later, her surroundings broke off into mirror like shards as with a flash, she also disappeared!

The Bloodline Library of the Pure-Blooded Cardinal Royal Humans!

An area that only those with a unique authority could enter, with the recent teleportation taking Noah and the two powerful women on top of a stellar golden bridge that stretched off into a rising illusory white door that held the inscription of a book.

All around the stellar golden bridge, fantastical glimmering space could be seen as this was one of the unique features of a false Grotto Sanctum. Passing through one teleportation could bring you onto a stellar pocket of space or into an area where you could view the vast endless skies and land of this paradisiacal domain!

The Bloodline Library in particular was actually the name of vast Forsaken Treasure Reality under the banner of Royal Humans, with it being accessed from any Peninsula so long as one had the proper authority.

"You wanted the Modus Operandi, yes? Let's be forward about it and get it done then."

With an expression of coldness, Genevieve went towards the White door as Noah gave a light smile while looking around him, thinking about how long this back and forth relationship with Genevieve would last!

She kept him close as he knew she was a Disaster Remnant who was more than likely plotting something against the Royal Humans, waiting for the perfect time when she unlocked more of her concepts to fully trace everything about him and take care of him as he was a loose end.

It's just that...Noah didn't think such a time would ever come. The chance for this Empress to kill him...he would never give it!

As for Noah himself, he could use these circumstances to obtain the things he wanted as under her authority as a future Ruler- seeing the Runic Ecriptions of Modus Operandi was easy enough.

'How different will it be? Will it come with a new Limit Breaking Extreme Physique or...'

His eyes released dazzling lights as their figures were sucked in by the white doorway and they disappeared yet again into a Forsaken Treasure Reality that was purely molded into a Bloodline Library!

SHAA!

The new area they arrived in was a straight hall that was lined up by countless long spanning shelves that stretched on for light years.

Built from the wood of Reality Trees, these shelves held thick books that held golden bindings that could only be opened by those with authority, with the space being so vast and filled with countless lines of shelves that one might get lost if they came here for the first time!

The aura of many Ninth and Eighth Firmament existences could be felt stretched out across this space that contained knowledge of countless eons, with Genevieve taking their party away from the countless shelves and towards a pulsating glowing white Orb of light placed on an elevated pedestal past nearby book shelves.

She reached into this Orb of light as she spoke calmly.

"Open up access to the Bloodline Ecriture Repository."

OOOM!

A thin light flashed that went on to cover Genevieve before...

Beautiful Runic words rose up before their eyes as to their right side, yet another white door of light formed.

Many barriers were required for one to go through, but Genevieve moved without care as wordlessly, she motioned for Noah and Beatrix to go in first while she followed behind last- their figures entering the Bloodline Ecriture Repository where Runic Ecritures of Modus Operandi could be found!

As they disappeared, a mirror-like reflection could barely be discerned not too far from them as veiled within the walls of the Mirror Dimension- an existence was watching the events playing out with an interested smile, her figure also disappearing soon after!

Chapter 1672 OPPENHEIMER! I

Many doorways were passed through as the white door they went through last led into the Bloodline Ecriture Repository!

A unique pocket of space that contained the Runic Ecritures of Modus Operandi that the Pure-Blooded Cardinal Royal Humans collected and made available to its royalty.

OOOM!

They appeared in a new space as they materialized to see 9 glimmering portals and stellar bridges leading towards them!

Their surroundings sparkled with glimmering hazy stellar bodies as this location was an extremely strict one that very few had free access to- only beings with extreme authority like Genevieve having access. Thus, there was currently nobody here now as Genevieve spoke freely.

"Nine portals, each one leading to a different Runic Ecriture of Modus Operandi. If you are able to actually discern and understand any of them, their knowledge shall be yours to take! Now, go and choose...and make it quick."

Astounding words echoed out as Noah's eyes released a marvelous light, surging waves of destiny coursing through them as only he knew just what big of a present was being handed to him!

He didn't think Genevieve knew herself what she was truly giving him access to as the collections of eons of years of history from a Bloodline like the Pure-Blooded Cardinal Royal Humans had born many things- these Runic Ecritures of Modus Operandi merely being one of the many reasons why they had such a deep foundation.

After being granted permission for such a thing, Noah didn't tarry as he took light steps to head towards the first glimmering portal on his right that shone with a green splendor.

SHAA!

With a flash of light, he disappeared and left behind the figures of Genevieve and Beatrix as the former scowled while speaking out coldly.

"Getting so happy just from the possibility of seeing a few Runic Ecritures of Modus Operandi...he doesn't know that most beings only ever choose to gaze at one or two even if they have access to all!"

...!

Yes!

The method of revolving one's Reality was unique as it couldn't have any mistakes, and if one observed different methods of revolution and mimicked the method of one Operandi with a different one or even trying to combine aspects of multiple Operands- they might just find their Reality shattering in failure as they never broke past their shackles.

And if Noah gazed at all nine Runic Ecritures of Modus Operandi?

"He might just destroy his own will and make it all the more easier for me to find him. And he might not even be capable of opening all of them..."

A light of sharpness flashed in Genevieve's eyes as off to the side, Beatrix had a thoughtful expression as she truly wondered about her Master's plans!

OOOOM!

Austere waves of green light emanated all around Noah as the first portal led him into a space filled with verdant green essence, a shining scroll floating at the center of this space that Noah floated towards with haste.

A verdant scroll that he was now familiar with the shape of- looking somewhat similar to other Runic Ecritures of Modus Operandi that he had come across!

"Let's see...."

With a luminous gaze, he floated forward and reached out to touch the shining green scroll leaking ancientness as the moment he came in contact with it...

BZZZT!

Arcs of essence fluttered out as Noah was actually rebuffed back.

"Oh?"

His gaze was questioning as he thought back to the eyes of Genevieve that carried a trace of sharpness, wondering what information this old existence had withheld as to read the Runic Ecritures of Modus Operandi in the Bloodline Ecriture Repository...one had to utilize specific means!

A thin barrier of light existed between Noah and the method of a wondrous Modus Operandi that he likely believed to be high tier, his destiny beginning to surge outwards to see what he had to do to solve it!

"It's actually very simple."

RUMBLE!

A sonorous feminine voice rang out from thin air as Noah's shining eyes didn't show any surging waves, and they instead looked around calmly before they came to lock onto a certain position in space.

A position that instantly broke into countless mirror like shards as the seamless figure of a dazzling Adjudicator came out, her glimmering white hair brightening up the verdant space as her glazed eyes carried immense weight and power!

At such a level of a being actually coming into the picture in such a situation, Noah didn't panic in any way as he pulled his gaze from her to lock back into the shining verdant scroll before him, his voice coming out calmly.

"Oh? Do you care to share this simple method?"

His words entirely caught Adjudicator Katelyn off guard as she had expected a much different reaction to this being who had been inappropriately allowed into a location that he should not be in by Genevieve!

Seeing his nonchalant demeanor, a light smile came to paint her lips as she nodded while floating forward.

"All of the Runic Ecritures of Modus Operandi in the Bloodline Ecriture Repository have two methods for one to be capable of discerning the knowledge within them. I can tell you both...if you honestly answer me why Little Gen allowed you in here."

WAA!

Her body palpated with a shocking power as everywhere she floated, space fractured into glimmering mirrors like shards as she came to float opposite to Noah and the shining verdant scroll.

"She and I made a deal, and she is just keeping up her end."

"Oh? You made a deal with one of the future Candidate Rulers of our Bloodline?"

A hint of surprise rose in her eyes as with the way he worded it, Katelyn knew that he would not share just what the details of this deal was!

She instead gazed at him up and down as she continued.

"You give off the aura of the Ninth Firmament of Ascendancy, so you should've broken your shackles long ago. Why the interest in the Runic Ecritures of Modus Operandi in this Repository? You cannot even share them with any others unless they come here physically themselves."

Her glazed eyes shone with bright curiosity as after exchanging words so freely, Noah raised his eyes to focus on this existence once more.

He had been calm and laid back this whole time because his destiny did not ring any danger bells.

Yet he also knew he was dancing a fine line as one wrong move or word could mean a great conflict, where this was a battle of words and will instead of power!

Chapter 1673 OPPENHEIMER! II

The figure of Adjudicator Katelyn was floating serenely as essence from the Mirror Dimension freely surged around her- entirely under her control as she stared closely at the figure of the laid back existence who actually didn't bat an eye, and seemed to hold even more importance on the ancient green scroll between them.

No side had begun this confrontation with hostility as they kept it that way, with it merely being a battle of words and will taking place at this moment as force or abilities had nothing in play!

So Noah chose a set of shocking and incredulous words to come out of his mouth that would stop any more discussions- words that nobody would even believe as they were impossible.

"I am merely planning to use them as a reference, with my aim actually being to forge my own Runic Ecriture of Modus Operandi."

...!

OOOOM!

A set of factual words...that nobody would believe!

This was especially so for an existence like Katelyn who knew more mysteries than even most Legends as at Noah's words...

"Hah..." She let out a light chuckle at them while shaking her head.

"The ridiculous thing is the fact that even your reflection in my Mirrors says the words you are saying are true- even when I know they shouldn't be! This is interesting...actually, one of the methods to read them actually comes down to knowing about the being who forged this Runic Ecriture of Modus Operandi or any of the myriad of Runic Ecritures floating out across the Pure-Blooded Cardinal Royal Bloodlines."

The existence who had forged the Runic Ecriture of Modus Operandi currently floating before them!

Noah's eyes twinkled as he pulled upon the many years of memories from the Primordials he had killed, each of them having their idolizing thoughts directed towards a single being that could match a description of the one who had mass produced many different variations of Runic Ecritures of Modus Operandi that the Primordial Bloodlines took hold of.

"The Last Emperor..."

WAA!

The Last Emperor. The Past Emperor. The True Emperor! There were multiple titles for this being, but his accomplishment were boundless as among a minuscule portion of them- there was his design of multiple Modus Operandi that Primordial Bloodlines treasured and forged their paths with!

"Yes. One of the methods is to simply utter his name, and the Runic Ecriture of Modus Operandi will become free for you to browse. His name...is one that requires thousands of Units of the Essence of Reality just to say it!"

Katelyn spoke out with ease as afterward, her glazed mirror like eyes moved from the verdant floating scroll and onto Noah as she spoke once more.

"If you do not know it, that is that. If you do...just know that I am not making a bid deal out of this because of Little Gen...and the fact that you hold a barely discernible trace of a Bloodline from the Mirror Dimension."

Her dazzling white hair shone brighter as she spoke, her fair hands coming to trace the magnificent green scroll before them as she continued.

"Seeing someone with even a trace of my home's Bloodline made me sentimental you see, and it is only after I confirmed with your mirror self that you didn't hold any malice towards the Royal Humans that I made my decision. I...am still a Primordial Adjudicator though, and will not hesitate to do my job if ever see any changes from you, and I have my eyes on you now."

WAA!

Extreme calm and seriousness were contained in her words as Noah looked at this unique being and nodded.

"Thank you...but, you never told me about the second method though." Freewebnovel.com.

"..."

Silence reigned as Adjudicator Katelyn blinked with slight wonder at the pace of this being, eventually shaking her head as the space around her began to break into mirror shards.

"Merely Infuse 100,000 Units of the Essence of Reality into the barrier around it if you do not know the name. It is akin to paying homage to that great man as the scroll collects the Essence and stores it within itself."

She began to sink into the shattered mirror space as she spoke, her innocent expression changing slightly as she left behind a few last words.

"Again, do not mistake my actions and kindness right now as naivety. The moment I sense something out of place, I will make a move!"

SHAAA!

The Adjudicator made her will clear as she disappeared in the next second, leaving Noah to stare at the dazzling green scroll as his will bolstered itself.

The name of the existence who countless years ago had done an irrevocable action that put everyone where they were today!

Everything about the Runic Ecritures of Modus Operandi were shielded in the memories of others as Noah could never access the memories of the Primordials he killed who had been through this Bloodline Ecriture Repository, but could access the memories of their idolization of a single being.

His name was there as with thousands of units of the Essence of Reality welling up in his mouth, Noah's voice boomed out.

"OPPENHEIMER!"

RUUMBLE!

Only when 10,000 Units of the Essence of Reality were swirling in his mouth could he utter this name! Otherwise, one's very soul would always feel a heavy sense of undeniable authority as they found that they could not voice out anything about the identity of this being if they didn't have the sufficient essence of reality around them!

Oppenheimer.

The existence to have surpassed all other Emperors in the last Age of Emperors as his name shook the history books.

The existence to have utterly changed the way of life before and the way of life after as for the Ages to come, his influence would always be there!

The uttering of his name acted akin to a key as the verdant scroll before Noah's buzzed, an impenetrable barrier around it fading away as Noah's hands were finally able to land on it.

BZZZT!

Arcs of wondrous light bloomed as domineering waves of information surged into him, bringing with them yet another Runic Ecriture of Modus Operandi for Noah to add to his roster!

<Burgeoning Emperor's Runic Ecriture of Modus Operandi>.

WAA!

Chapter 1674 OPPENHEIMER! III

Bountiful information bloomed in Noah's mind as a wondrous Modus Operandi made its way to him, along with something else as well!

HIGH :: A unique understanding of the revolution of Reality that focuses on the aspect of life and vitality. It came as a result of its creator waking up and seeing the blossoming of a Reality Tree unique to a certain domain, this epiphany allowing for the birth of a new Modus Operandi as it was left behind in this region since then. Aside from the method of revolution of one's origin, the complimentary Ultimate Skill of is included as breaking one's shackles after achieving this physique will guarantee a range of 10 to 30 Life Reality Passages depending on their foundation and fortune. The life force and vitality of all those who have gained access will be exponentially increased as the method of revolving one's Origin to bloom astounding life force includes...

Yet another High Tier Runic Ecriture of Modus Operandi similar to Azure Emperor, but the differences were still there!

Instead of Destiny Reality Passages, one could forge Life Reality Passages with this Modus Operandi as the possible ranges of formed Passages were larger.

Furthermore, it came with an extra addition of something else- a Limit Breaking Physique!

There was available to Noah as when he perused through its details, he found its gains similar to the Limit Breaking Extreme Mana Physique in terms of guaranteed Reality Passages, but as for the method of forging it...

"Refined under the Vestigial Flames Mountain for a million years? Well..."

Noah's brows tightened as he read the requirements for this Extreme Physique, many thoughts forming in his mind as he released the close contact with the green scroll before him- watching as it floated away as in seconds, another thin barrier formed around it!

The stellar space was entirely quiet apart from the buzzing of this ancient scroll, Noah floating back towards the same portal he had come through as he was finished here.

There were still 8 other Runic Ecritures of Modus Operandi for him to obtain as each of them would be an insurmountable reference for Noah to create his own Modus Operandi soon!

He enjoyed the fact that at the Seventh Firmament of Ascendancy, he could easily wipe the floor with Ninth Firmament existences. It was a unique feeling but...he still wanted to soon exceed the Seventh Firmament of Ascendancy and break his shackles so he could enjoy the feeling of Reality Passages!

Mountainous-like rivers of Reality constantly surging essence into his body and refining his very cellular structure.

It was something he wanted to get his hands on even more after he saw the details of the Destiny Reality Passages under Natalya!

For this, he continued forward as he was swept up in a spatial light to appear on the multicolored bridging pathways of the Bloodline Ecriture Repository where the figures of Genevieve and Beatrix looked at him in surprise.

"That quick?"

Genevieve's eyes shone sharply as Noah merely gave a light smile and nodded.

"I'm somewhat talented."

He replied calmly as he went towards the next portal, not mentioning anything about the Adjudicator that had helped him as when it came to his being...Noah actually found her more unfathomable than Genevieve!

He had come to greatly understand his own Destiny, especially with the advent of the Dictum Emperor becoming Quasi-TABOO and the millions of years he had spent dreaming with Dream Stones.

He could now easily discern any fortune he had with other beings, whether they would come to be enemies, or whether they were potential allies for the future.

Genevieve uniquely fell on the side of the enemy where as far as Noah understood his destiny, there was no future between him and her as one of them would be perishing to the other!

Even more uniquely, Beatrix was a potential ally- with Noah having only seen this possibility available after she kept her alive and he then obtained LETHE.

Under LETHE, Noah had the capability of Memory Alteration as from the authority of a TABOO Edict...Noah was beginning to use it ever so slowly not to target Genevieve herself, but the closest confidant she held around her!

'With that, we shall peel your secrets sooner or later...'

His thoughts were wild and bold as we then came to Adjudicator Katelyn and some of the others Noah had seen lately!

Destiny seemed to indicate that Adjudicator Nefertiti would be a great obstacle and enemy.

Adjudicator Ezekiel...was actually similar to Adjudicator Katelyn as the both of them were pointed with the potential light of being allies, with this possibility flashing ever so often as with a single word or action, these beings could also turn to enemies!

Noah didn't know where all of these weavings of destiny would lead as more often than not, all of them would meet in the Unexplored Grotto Sanctum that only the most excelling Primordials within the Pure-Blooded Cardinal Royal Bloodlines were allowed to enter.

If Noah could make his way in there with the aid of his enemy who wanted to keep his clone close until she found his main body...his destiny told him that within that location, he would be able to break his shackles to achieve the most astounding results and propel upwards in the Firmaments of Ascendancy!

'But I have to lay out the foundation first...'

OOOM!

His thoughts were steady as he kept himself focused. Everything that destiny told was only a possibility as he had to make the future happen himself!

These were his thoughts as he passed through another portal and appeared before a crimson ancient looking scroll surrounded by another impenetrable veil.

His eyes flashed as essence gathered around his mouth once more.

"OPPENHEIMER!"

HOOONG!

The name of the Last Emperor reverberated out as it was followed by an ancient scroll landing in Noah's hands!

Oppenheimer.

The existence whose action set forth a change that even after countless eons, it could not be reversed.

Noah didn't know if all the 9 Modus Operandi under the Pure-Blooded Cardinal Royal Humans were made by him, but he had to have been an astounding individual as merely waking up and seeing the blooming of a Reality Tree like the one he had seen in the Outer Peninsula had granted him an epiphany that bore fruit to a Modus Operandi!

The one to have obtained the seat of a True Emperor was unfathomable as even Noah now made it his goal to learn more about this being and the history of what happened all those years ago.

The memories of someone like Genevieve or Beatrix would be indispensable to learn more about history among other means that Noah would take, his thoughts coming to a stop here as he felt the flow of information of another Modus Operandi.

This was another High Tier Runic Ecriture of Modus Operandi as it was termed !

It didn't contain another Limit Breaking Extreme Physique, but it held a similar number of possible Reality Passages as the other High Tier Runic Ecritures of Modus Operandi- Noah seeing how it wouldn't matter to others how many of these methods to revolve one's Reality they looked at, where even one was enough for them.

But for Noah, the more he obtained, the better!

WAA!

The crimson scroll he felt pulled back again after he let go as he looked past the beautiful stellar rivers of essence and rushed back into the portal, intent on observing all 9 Modus Operandis before anything happened as his will forged forward!

Chapter 1675 Vestigial Flames Mountain! I

Empress Genevieve and Beatrix stood in the dazzling stellar bridges of the Bloodline Ecriture Repository as they watched a single being calmly go from portal to portal, reading over the methods that everyone only chose one of with excitement as if they each held great meaning to him!

"Did he know the name or is he just using 100,000 Units of the Essence of Reality each time..." Beatrix felt her head buzzing as she unconsciously voiced this out after Noah entered the fifth Portal.

If he didn't know the name of the Last Emperor and was spending 100,000 Units of the Essence of Reality this whole time, that would be a dreadful concept as Genevieve merely snorted while shaking her head.

"He must have known the name. Don't make him seem bigger than he is."

Her mood seemed to have turned bad as she didn't expect to see Noah not even struggling, turning her head towards Beatrix as she came close and grabbed onto her head.

BZZZT!

Arcs of billowing and pristine TABOO Essence bloomed out to wrap around Beatrix in a shocking fashion as she trembled, but continued to withstand it!

"I've imposed my own TABOO authority on you that should be there for the next few days. I have to go take care of the matters of rulership and check out just what changes we have to adapt to because of the ongoing war...so I need you to not let him out of your sight! This authority should not allow him to do anything against you as if he even tries, I will know."

Her eyes shone with sharpness as she began to float away towards the Runic Magic Circle that would lead one out of the Bloodline Ecriture Repository and back into the Bloodline Library, her stern voice continuing to ring out before she disappeared!

"Remember...he must not leave your sight! The moment he tries anything, just pull upon that TABOO authority and I'll be there an instant later!"

WAA!

She was the Candidate Ruler of an entire Pure-Blooded Cardinal Royal Bloodline. She had many things that had to be done for her to keep up appearances if she wanted to confirm the seat of Bloodline Ruler for herself- if she ever wanted to obtain the keys to attain her revenge against this Bloodline that had tried to kill her many eons ago!

So Beatrix was left behind to observe the Clone of a Candidate Kainos Emperor who had solidified his crown as she sighed deeply when she watched her Master disappear.

'Must we seek revenge? Must we include him as an enemy?'

She had grown careful after watching this being butcher Seventh, Eighth, and Ninth Firmament existences a few days back as she knew he had the power to wipe her out if he wished- where even the TABOO authority of her own master just granted her a little bit of comfort!

'Well, he won't make a move in here when the visage of a Genuine LEGEND is washing down. So watch I shall.'

She patted her golden attire as she stood tall, her hair flickering from a shade of crimson to gold as she seemed to be lost in thought.

SHAA!

Noah's figure returned from the fifth portal as he was making his way to the sixth when he stopped, seeing Genevieve not there anymore as he turned towards Beatrix with a devilish smile that instantly roused her into attention and care!

"She has many things to do and can't babysit you all the time, finish up so we can leave without any incidents!"

Her words only caused the devilish smile on the Unnamed Kainos Emperor to deepen as he nodded while moving onto the next portal.

Beatrix was extra careful around this being as she treated him with the level of danger she had seen before! All others that underestimated him had fallen under his heel.

Maybe it was because of her Master's pride and her position in the past, but Beatrix felt that even Empress Genevieve was still underestimating this being before her even after all they had seen!

She was also a LEGEND in the past who had achieved a great stage of power. But her soul wasn't as strong enough to withstand everything as she wasn't even an Emperor- her situation now only being due to chance that a servant like her was dragged through death with her Master. She needed many more years and resources to unlock her past glory as due to her own nature, she was very careful.

So she continued to watch the one she knew as Alexander King with utter care as he went into the Sixth, Seventh...until the Ninth Portals that each held a Runic Ecriture of Modus Operandi!

He came out of the last portal with an accomplished expression as before he could even speak, Beatrix's voice rang out.

"Let's head out now before anyone else coincidentally enters. I'll show you to where we'll be staying-"

"Before that..."

WAA!

Arcs of light emanated from Noah's eyes as he floated towards Beatrix, this Eighth Firmament existence reinforcing her body with power as she prepared to pull upon her Master's TABOO authority at any time!

"Before that, let's go to the Vestigial Flames Mountain."

The location that Pure-Blooded Cardinal Royal Humans went to strengthen their Physiques was mentioned as Beatrix looked towards Noah incredulously, recalling some of the Limit Breaking Extreme Physique Refinement Techniques that were contained in some of the Runic Ecritures of Modus Operandi as she quickly connected certain Refinement Techniques to the Vestigial Flames Mountain.

"You...you need to be refined under excruciating pain with the Vestigial Flames for over a million years for just a single Physique, we don't have the time for you to be-"

"Just to take a look and see this process for myself, don't worry. Let's go!"

Noah replied calmly while waving his hands, floating past her to initiate the Runic Magic Circle that led back to the Bloodline Library as Beatrix couldn't help but follow!

Others needed a million years to completely refine their bodies and obtain the Burgeoning Limit Breaking Extreme Physique. Did Noah really need to do the same?!

Chapter 1676 Vestigial Flames Mountain! II

Within a Primordial Temple in the domain of the Cardinal Royal Wolf Bloodline.

A Seventh Firmament Primordial with an aged look and sparkling white hair spoke into a Medallion as he was being circled by thin golden lines of destiny and karma.

"Sire, we've gotten traces of the one linked to the death of Princess Snow. How many forces shall we dispatch?"

Through the tying of destiny and fate, all the truly heinous criminals on the Primordial Blacklist could be traced down through the workings of Destiny. Primordial Seers were the prestigious beings tasked with such jobs as at this moment, such a Seer picked up on a trace of the one known as Osmont!

The communication Medallion this being held pulsed with light as he waited briefly before a strong message came out.

"Our forces are already spread thin to guard the borders against Primordial Beasts...I shall spare a single Legion. What is the location?"

"Understood, it is..."

The location of a certain clone of the Unnamed Kainos Emperor was set as the bait was ready, and the prey were already assembled and on their way as it was bound to be a fantastical affair!

Far from such events in the Boundary Between Realities- across the walls of Dimensions entirely.

Noah's 1,000th portion of soul had solidified into a body in the Dream Dimension as he waded through its shocking surroundings, everything changing around him constantly as at this moment, he had entered a region that seemed to be swirling with silver sand.

Distinct voices every now and then with no sources, but no structures, existences, or anything!

Just voices that seemed to carry tearing soul attacks as Noah still had no way of finding the unique material <Golden Sand> this whole time, even his astounding destiny pointing to different directions constantly.

That is until...

BZZZT!

A thick storm of dream essence began to coagulate in front of him as the silver sand danced even more chaotically, actually beginning to form into shapes as in the next instant...Noah saw a curved semilunar smile forming!

Then, the round shape of a head and two Jewel-like eyes made entirely of sand along with a nose that told the root of this creature also formed, a devilish and heavy pressure spreading out at this moment as Noah came to a stop.

OOOM!

Thin cerulean blue Runic lines began to emanate light from his body as Runic Ecritures reading <MANA> began to surround him, his eyes releasing a terrifying light as he felt a billowing soul attack come from all sides from the form of what seemed to be like the head of a cat!

An illusory interchangeable head of a cat with a devilish smile formed from the silver sand all around him, and it also came with a will as the curved smile opened to release a mesmerizing voice that could cause any weak Ninth Firmament existences to fall into an eternal slumber.

<A new thing foreign to the Land of Dreams...>

HOOONG!

The billowing waves of soul attack became even stronger as it spoke, Noah's soul beginning to pull from the authority of LETHE as thousands of Units of the Essence of Reality began to bubble, this formed body also blooming out with 20 dazzling Black Tier Ascendancy Halos that came with astounding authority to withstand the coming waves of attacks!

<You have been inflicted with the debuffs of Uncontrollable Slumber, Leaking Soul, Willess...>

<The effects of Uncontrollable Slumber, Leaking Soul, Willess...have been resisted.>

Prompts quantified the surrounding situation as waves of soul damage equivalent to thousands of True Reality Damage Values boomed all around him constantly, Resource Shield and Runic Ecritures of Defense beginning to fully swirl around him as even the Shield of Oblivion was called upon!

But everything that occurred actually caused the appeared devilish creature to smile more as its head twisted upside down, its voice continuing out.

<With such a strong soul and such age, you would do well in the land of dreams. Tell me, what dream do you seek here? What do you wish to accomplish?>

OOOM!

Noah's dazzling eyes faced the billowing attacks as the penetrative skills he had been casting this whole time finally returned with information about this phenomenon before him.

<Nightmare Sand Emperor>:: A nightmare dwelling in the dream dimension. Its nature is unique as it can appear as an existence in the first Firmament of Ascendancy, Ninth Firmament of Ascendancy, or even a Legend depending on the current accumulation of Dreams. It is immune to all physical attacks and can only be hurt by the authority of TABOO, making it a perilous existence to come across in the Dream Dimension. It is currently at the Ninth Firmament of Ascendancy as overcoming this existence stand a chance to grant boons...

A Nightmare Sand Emperor that might have even been a LEGEND if Noah had come across it at another time!

His eyes shone luminously as his will bellowed out in return.

"I came to search for Golden Sand...and for anything that the tides of destiny bring!"

WAA!

<For mere treasures? Disappointing.>

The smile on the Nightmare Sand faded and turned into a frown as the soul attacks became increasingly heavier, Noah's 20 Ascendancy Halos beginning to spin around him and giving off an obsidian glow!

<Dreams can make kings and Emperors. Dreams give reason for anything that others do across Realities and dimensions.>

..!

<Your dream is too small...merely some materials. Is this all your soul can achieve? Is this the extent of your Dream?>

BOOOOM!

Billowing silver rays of light shot out from the jewel like eyes of the Nightmare Sand Emperor as Noah felt his very will be tested!

"My Dream?!"

HOOONG!

Bountiful Essence swirled around him as whenever his authority was questioned, his soul unconsciously fought back with even more fervor as from LETHE, <Oblivion> was called upon as Noah felt his soul filling with shocking power, his 20 Black Ascendancy Halos swirling around him and becoming fused briefly as he released a wave of soul attack with his voice.

"My Dream is not something the likes of you can question!"

BZZZT...CRACK!

Like a billowing horn of Apocalypse, his voice shattered outwards and destroyed ant speckles of silver sand in its place!

Chapter 1677 Vestigial Flames Mountain! III

Like a horn that called for the end, Noah's voice bellowed out and destroyed everything- even the sand formed Nightmare Sand Emperor shaking as a smile formed on it again.

<Interesting.>

Its will was voiced out one last time before an instant later, its illusory form began to fade until only a smile was left- this smile forming into a golden light that instantly shot into Noah's body.

HOOONG!

<An Astounding Achievement! You have withstood against the will of the Nightmare Sand Emperor and obtained the ultimate ability- Sandman!>

WAA!

A new skill bloomed in Noah's mind as destiny danced wildly.

From his fingertips, silver sand began to gather as the swirling silver sand around him began to feel clear and distinct, Noah actually making headway into the Dream Dimension at this moment!

While this soul relished in this accomplishment in the Dream Dimension, Noah's Clone with the Character Selection of Alexander King went through multiple teleportation Runic circles that connected the vast Pure Blooded Domains of the Cardinal Royal Humans- eventually leaving the first White Outer Peninsula they had arrived in as he went deeper to appear in another false Grotto Sanctum that was known by a single name.

The Vestigial Flames Mountain.

"Again, what can you accomplish here? Master will be moving very soon as you will not be able to work on refining your Physique for even a single year at this time."

The voice of Beatrix continued to ring out as the two of them floated at the bottom of a truly vast mountain that was lit up with many different colored flames.

The mountain was so large that their figures were akin to small specks of sand, the entire structure seeming so large that one couldn't even see the top of it where a shocking level of heat was emanating out!

The auras of countless beings could be felt and seen near the bottom of the mountain as men and women in tight fitting attire or even with their bare bodies could be seen controlling the Flames around them and having them course over their skin, their bodies glinting with a golden light as they underwent refinement by flames.

SHAA!

Noah's eyes fluttered either a gold light as he identified the vast structure before him and compiled all of its information into a single prompt.

<Vestigial Flames Mountain>:: The core of a false Grotto Sanctum that was enacted by an Unknown Legend who had managed to harness the Core Flames of a genuine Grotto Sanctum. The Vestigial Flames atop this Mountain are unique as they have a positive effect on strengthening the body if one can withstand them, with the level of effect becoming more intense the higher up one travels on the Mountain as it also becomes unbearable for one to withstand. The top of the mountain contains the strongest Amalgamation of Vestigial Flames that even the body of a Ninth Firmament existence would disintegrate under its immense heat....

One could see yellow and orange flames swirling at the base of this mystical mountain, with the middle of the mountain surrounded by dazzling white flames as when one went higher, cold and deadly blue flames could be seen raging as even further above that, the sight of purple and gold flames roared out!

Most of the training Pure-Blooded Cardinal Royal Humans on this mountain were moving around at the very bottom Noah could see their auras ranging from the Third to the Seventh Firmament of Ascendancy- each of them trying to refine their Physiques before they had to break their shackles to guarantee a large number of Reality Passages.

But out of all of the beings moving within the Vestigial Flames Mountain, most could only complete a percentage of their Physique as even the strongest geniuses at the Seventh Firmament of Ascendancy could only withstand the White flames near the middle of the mountain- with this level of Flames only being capable of refining something like the Burgeoning Limit Breaking Extreme Physique by 50%!

Unless one was truly exceptional and managed to reach the stage of Blue Flames while they hadn't broken their shackles and were still in the Seventh Firmament, they would never be able to achieve a Physique.

The reason why it could also take a million years if not hundreds of millions of years was that the Vestigial Flames were truly too hot, with existences having to refine their bodies with them slowly and over long extended period of time.

Theoretically, if one could easily withstand these ferocious flames that came from the core of a genuine Grotto Sanctum, they could refine their Physiques much faster as this was actually what Eighth and Ninth Firmament existences did!

Even after they broke their shackles and couldn't add any more Reality Passages, they still came onto the Vestigial Flames Mountain to completely refine their Physiques as the strongest at the Ninth Firmament of Ascendancy could withstand the Blue Flames at the top with the even more exceptional Legend's Visage Tier beings managing to even touch the purple flames.

The shining gold flames that one could barely see towards the very peak....only Legends had been capable of stepping into them and coming out unscathed.

'This should definitely be interesting...'

Noah had such a thought as he reflected back to the 9 Runic Ecritures of Modus Operandi that he had obtained from the Bloodline Ecriture Repository.

From the 9 Modus Operandi, three of them had contained methods to refine one's Physique as there were different methods to refine all three- but if one was talented enough, they could actually utilize the Vestigial Flames Mountain for all three!

Of course, due to the singular Origin and body of beings, it was widely known that one's body could only handle a single Physique- with an astoundingly exceptional Royal Human being capable of completing two Physiques when they arrived at the Ninth Firmament of Ascendancy.

There were very few beings in history who had managed to forge all three Physiques under the Royal Humans as it was mainly the most powerful Legend's Visage or genuine Legends who came back to do this when they were strong enough.

The Burgeoning Limit Breaking Extreme Physique could be refined by any Flames on the Vestigial Flames Mountain, with higher flames increasing the pace and power of the physique!

The Second Limit Breaking Extreme Physique was known as the Chassis Extreme Physique from the <Chassis Emperor's Runic Ecriture of Modus Operandi>, with this refinement required one to eat and devour unique materials refined under flames...or the other method was to utilize the Blue Flames or higher leveled flames under the Vestigial Flames Mountain to achieve the same effect!

The third refinement technique was known to grant the Relegator's Limit Breaking Extreme Physique as it had its own first method of refinement that involved the Essence of Reality and bathing in medicinal baths with unique materials that only the Scions who would become Bloodline Masters or Leaders of squads of Primordial Adjudicators could manage to get their hands on...with its alternative refining method also being Blue Flames or higher on the Vestigial Flames Mountain.

Each Physique gave its own strengthening as they were the reason why the Pure-Blooded Cardinal Royal Humans were known for their pure physical force that could shatter Realities, will all Eighth and Ninth Firmament existences returning to the Vestigial Flames Mountain to complete as many Physiques as they could even if they wouldn't receive the benefits of the Reality Passages that these Physiques offered if they had attained them before they broke their shackles.

Now, there was Noah.

He had yet to break his shackles as he already had attained a Limit Breaking Extreme Physique from an Emperor's Bloodline, and his Origin and soul were elevated to the extremes as they were akin to a Ninth Firmament existence...even though he was still at the Seventh Firmament of Ascendancy!

So what heights would he be able to achieve under the Vestigial Flames Mountain?

Would he be able to forge all three Limit Breaking Extreme Physiques that only the most exceptional scions of the Pure-Blooded Cardinal Royal Humans or their Legends could forge as they could withstand the highest levels of Flames and had strong enough bodies to contain multiple Physiques?

"Mmm...this should definitely be fun."

OOOM!

Noah's voice boomed out as he began to float towards the Vestigial Flames Mountain, Beatrix watching his figure with an exasperated expression as she voiced out once more, catching the attention of nearby Pure-Blooded Cardinal Royal Humans and some of those that were already refining their bodies at the bottom of the Vestigial Flames Mountain.

"We really don't have years to be spending here, Alexander!"

WAA!

Her sharp voice finally brought attention to their figures as some quickly recognized the status of Beatrix.

But Noah was unhindered as he didn't even turn around, his voice coming out boisterously as his already sculpted body rushed up towards the Vestigial Flames Mountain, utterly ignoring the base of it with low level flames and shooting towards the glimmering cerulean flames.

"I will not need a million years. Merely a day should be enough...or just a few hours!"

HOOONG!

Explosive waves of majesty and destiny exploded out as his figure shot out like a glimmering star and began to accumulate even more eyes of the countless beings training on the Vestigial Flames Mountain!

Chapter 1678 What is He?! I

Off to one unseen corner of the Vestigial Flames Mountain, space folded in a mirror-like structure as a small crystalline creature with its body being round and entirely covered by large eyes was hiding quietly.

Its large eyes were covering everything in its line of sight as it relayed all that it saw towards another region within the Pure Blooded Domains.

In a Peninsula within the innermost region of the Pure Blooded Domains.

Atop an enormous Reality Tree, a crystalline castle the size of a Cosmos stood at the very peak as inside of this vast castle, the figure of Adjudicator Katelyn could be seen with size proportional to this dazzling building. She was currently standing in front of a large mirror that showed square segments of many seeds playing out- with a majority of them showing different areas in the Boundary Between Realities that showed parties of Adjudicator Legions or movements of Primordial Beasts.

Her glazed eyes watched everything as she sent commands frequently to different parties, but she took her eyes off the enormous mirror wall to gaze off to the side within a small round mirror that was relating a scene that a Mirror Beast was seeing of the Vestigial Flames Mountain.

She had attached a Mirror Beast to keep track of this small anomaly that Genevieve had brought back, her eyes occasionally glancing towards the scenes that the Mirror Beast relayed as at this moment, wondrous events were occurring on the Vestigial Flames Mountain!

HOONG!

Like a stellar light, an existent boisterously shot towards the region on the vast mountain where blue flames raged into stellar storms of utter wonder.

Their pure temperature alone could melt the toughest metals as only something as unique as the Vestigial Flames Mountain could actually have ground and vegetation that shone with crystalline light as they were all unaffected by the temperature!

For countless eons, the very ground and plants of this mountain had stood under the ravages of the different tiers of Flames as the ground near the peak of the Vestigial Flames Mountain was something that even weak LEGENDS would have trouble destroying.

"That is..."

The prominent Pure-Blooded Cardinal Royal Humans in their buff forms and sculpted muscles saw Noah's figure as they questioned who this being was and what he was doing!

"Esteemed Beatrix just called him Alexander..."

The voices of Sixth and Seventh Firmament Royal Humans echoed out as some perceptive ones had seen Noah while he still floated with Beatrix- where someone of her stature was given the title of Esteemed even though she was the attending of an Empress.

Someone of the Eighth Firmament of Ascendancy deserved respect as many would be cordially referred to as Esteemed ones, while respected Ninth Firmament existences were sometimes termed Tyrants!

"Alexander? What could he be trying to do by rushing up like this?"

A buzz of questions began to rise as more eyes were drawn over, Beatrix also floating closer to the burning heat of the Vestigial Flames Mountain as she was apprehensive of what was about to happen.

She had seen this being exceed expectations again and again as she learned his blunt words were more often than not actually something true!

When he told off the Visage of the White Dragon Emperor, he was not false in his claims.

When he faced the Will Bearers who had actually tracked down her and her Master, he was still unhindered!

So when he said he wouldn't need a million years to refine his physique and that it would at most take a day if not hours...Beatrix truly turned apprehensive as she could just dismiss these words.

SHAAA!

The billowing of Flames could be heard as the figure of Noah arrived in the vicinity of the raging blue flames, the clothes on his body slowly becoming disintegrated as his sculpted toned upper body was laid bare, with a hazy mist of essence coming to cover his lower blessed region as only his fair knees and below could be seen- akin to shimmering shorts of essence becoming adorned for his lower body!

The hair for this Character Selection was currently black as it twinkled with stellar light, his spotless fair hands reaching out as tendrils of blue Flames began to wrap around them and surge towards the rest of his body.

His eyes carried immense glory as he spoke out fearlessly.

The countless beings who had their eyes drawn over by his actions watched on with even closer gazes as they realized this existence that gave off an aura at the Ninth Firmament of Ascendancy was actually beginning to refine his body with a Physique that all of them were currently trying to forge.

The simplest Physique that was collected under the banner of Pure-Blooded Cardinal Royal Humans as one could refine it simply with the Flames of the Vestigial Flames Mountain!

It was rare to see a Ninth Firmament Royal Human who had yet to refine their bodies with this technique, but they all affirmed this when they saw a dazzling white lotus beginning to form on the forehead of the boisterous being.

A White Lotus.

This symbol signified the First Layer of the Burgeoning Limit Breaking Extreme Physique that focused on vitality and life, with a brighter shade of white signifying the Second and Third Layers!

For one to achieve the complete Physique, they had to have completed all 10 Layers of the Burgeoning Limit Breaking Extreme Physique as the fourth to Fifth Layers were signified by a Blue Lotus of varying intensity, and the Seventh to Ninth Layers were signified by a Purple Lotus of varying intensity also!

The last and tenth layer was signified by an illusory Golden Lotus shining brilliant on the forehead of the existence that had achieved 100% completion of the Burgeoning Limit Breaking Extreme Physique.

This was fine and all, but all those that had their attention drawn were wondering why this Ninth Firmament existence was showing off refining they had all undergone- even if he could handle the more intense blue Tier flame! This was a given for his stage of power as even though they were curious now and showed slight respect because of his Realm, they would all move on to their own matters after a few hours as nobody would simply watch another being refine their bodies for the next hundreds of thousands of years!

This was why most of what could be seen on the Vestigial Flames Mountain was calmness and raging flames as no major waves were made here- the only times anything major occurred being when truly exceptional existences who stood out even at the stage of A Legend's Visage appeared...or genuine Legends themselves coming through to bathe in the highest golden flames at the peak of the Vestigial Flames Mountain.

"His power is to be respected, but the act of refining is something we can all d-...!"

Some truly prideful Royal Humans had begun to raise their buff Chests while speaking out, but they came to a stop an instant later as their focus was drawn on the White Lotus in front of the head of the one known as Alexander.

This White Lotus that signified the First to Third Layers of the Burgeoning Limit Breaking Extreme Physique...wasn't it brightening up much too quickly?!

Chapter 1679 What is He?! II

Those who were about to look away were drawn in even more as even more eyes and wills focused over, many beings noticing the sculpted body of the one known as Alexander actually still rising up higher towards the peak of the mountain as cerulean blue flames rushed into his body!

At the same time, the White Lotus in front of his forehead represented the layers of the Burgeoning Limit Breaking Extreme Physique was becoming increasingly brighter at a pace that all of those who had refined knew...should be something that occurs after years of refinement.

Just to go from the First Layer to the Second, the average time of refinement was 100 years.

From the Second Layer to the Third...the average time was a thousand years! This continued on as the average to complete all layers was about 1 million years, where one would be extremely familiar with the Vestigial Flames Mountain after they spent this much time bathing in its flames.

Yet...why did it seem like this ascending being was changing the brightness of the White Lotus so quickly?!

Noah was currently absorbed in a very unique sensation as the sparkling blue flames of the Vestigial Flames Mountain surged into his Body.

The basis behind the refinement was for one to withstand the heat of the Flames as they carried out their unique quality to strengthen the very cells of one's body, with one slowly protecting themselves and absorbing the effects of these flames as overtime...all parts of their bodies would be refined!

Noah had taken in the flames with his clone as they circled over his body like tendrils of snakes and began to sink into it, directly beginning to refine both body and origin as these flames were instantaneously transferred to the main body that was slumbering in a throne in the Cosmic Holy Land.

The Clone essentially acted like a passageway between the Vestigial Flames Mountain and Noah's main body, raging flames being absorbed greedily and without any fear from Noah as a unique phenomenon occurred soon after he began!

The dazzling cerulean blue Runic Kainos Mana Lines of Ascendancy all over his main body in the Cosmic Holy Land began to light up as the completed Limit Breaking Extreme Mana Physique came to life.

This completed Physique had already refined Noah's body and built a unique structure of Runic Lines all over him, and the Vestigial Flames coming in shockingly began to be sucked into the pulsing Runic Kainos Mana Lines of Ascendancy at extreme speeds as their rate of refinement was being propelled to the extreme!

HOOONG!

They cried out for more of the Vestigial Flames as back on the pristine mountain, Noah's True Sanguine Clones began to hungrily devour in more and more flames as wherever his body flew past, he acted like a black hole that absorbed all the Flames there.

While others would slowly allow the tendrils of Flames to sink into their skin, he was hungrily taking in all the blue flames for miles as his figure continued to fly up the mountain!

But this wasn't all.

What would be the true reality-breaking concept here today was the fact that all the Flames were being absorbed by a clone that instantly transferred them into the main slumbering body that was the one to be refined...and this main body was within the Cosmic Holy Land that after the constant advancements of the Infinite Reality, the time ratio had long since exceeded 10,000:1.

This time discrepancy meant that Noah's main body would have finished using all the Vestigial Flames brought forth within a microsecond while barely 10,000th of a microsecond passed in the outside Cosmos!

This time discrepancy had to be accounted for as seeing the Flames being used up faster than they were coming in, the slumbering will of Noah's main body moved.

"More."

HOOOOONG!

His will surged out maddeningly as the True Sanguine Clone in the Vestigial Flames Mountain put its hands out while calling even more flames towards it, its absorption surface area continuing to increase while its body flew ever so higher as it caused a shocking phenomenon to bloom out!

As if he was in the eye of the storm, all the surrounding blue flames of the Vestigial Flames Mountain were being called onto and surging into him relentlessly.

To match the time discrepancy, the Clone could take it over 10,000 more times the normal number of Vestigial Flames that all went towards refining the main body, the White Lotus that had appeared on his forehead brightening up rapidly due to this as over 10,000 microseconds of refinement could be done in the Cosmic Holy Land while only a single microsecond passed outside!

So his slumbering will still felt the coming flames were insufficient as it called out once again.

"MORE!"

OOOM!

Surging soul waves connected with the Clone ascending the Vestigial Flames Mountain as it warped space to instantly appear on the border between blue and white flames, its body still ferociously calling everything in the vicinity as even the raging purple flames that only the Ninth Firmament existences could withstand didn't bother him!

The stellar purple flames stemming from the very core of a Grotto Sanctum simply sank into his body endlessly as if their temperature was utterly nothing to him, his main body taking all of them in as they followed the path already laid down by Runic Mana Lines of Ascendancy to rapidly achieve the result of refinement.

All of these factors...were what made possible what happened next.

As the Pure-Blooded Cardinal Royal Humans on the Vestigial Flames Mountain watched on in horror at this being insanely absorbing boundless rivers of raging flames, they saw the White Lotus on his forehead go from dull white to shining white...and then into sparkling radiant white within a matter of seconds.

From the First and into the Second and Third Layers of the Burgeoning Limit Breaking Extreme Physique...in mere seconds!

OOOOOOOH!

The bellow of this being reverberated out as he continued to Ascend, entirely leaving the Boundary of the blue Tier flames and surging head first into the purple Tier flames that even Ninth Firmament existences had to be careful of, with the higher up he went meaning even more burning temperatures as if anyone even came close to the golden flames at the peak...they would normally be burnt away if they weren't LEGENDS or extremely powerful Legend's Visage Tier existences.

The Vestigial Flames Mountain was extremely vast that it was multiple times larger than many Realities, with Noah's single figure on the seas of purple flames being something as small as a raindrop.

Yet his small figure had begun causing visible changes on the infinitesimally small area within the sea of purple flames as a rotating force of a storm of Flames could be seen surging towards his figure if one looked from afar, the dazzling White Lotus on his forehead actually releasing pulses of light as it went from White...and into the glorious color of blue just 10 seconds after Noah began his refinement!

"..."

From the First to the Fourth Layer of the Burgeoning Limit Breaking Extreme Physique...it only took 10 seconds as his rate of absorption and advancement only increased!!!

Chapter 1680 What is He?! III

'Fuck.'

This was the singular word that Beatrix could use to express what she was seeing past the midpoint of the Vestigial Flames Mountain at this time!

'He's doing it again...' Her eyes held a hint of helplessness as she witnessed this being very easily surpass established norms as even though he wasn't massacring Eight or Ninth Firmament existences while he was at the Seventh Firmament of Ascendancy, he was now surviving Flames that could burn normal Ninth Firmament existences while he crazily absorbed them for countless expanding trillions of miles.

When the White Lotus insignia on his forehead flashed from white to blue as he entered the Fourth Layer of the Burgeoning Limit Breaking Extreme Physique, Beatrix could do nothing but sigh at the ridiculousness as she sent forth a communication.

'Master, he is...doing something again.'

A message went towards Empress Genevieve who was dealing with other matters as countless Pure-Blooded Cardinal Royal Humans began to turn their eyes and wills towards the image of a single being who was absorbing dazzling and ferocious purple flames for a distance that had begun to enter into light years!

As if the Flames could not bother his body! As if the heat was meaningless to him!

Of course, all the Flames merely passed from the Clone and onto a slumbering body with a shocking will, everything being withstood by the Limit Breaking Extreme Mana Physique as the gorgeous purple flames crossed through the paths of countless Runic Kainos Mana Lines of Ascendancy and refined Noah's very cells.

His main body was being strengthened rapidly in a Domain of Time as the True Sanguine Clone reflected the changes occurring in a short period of time.

When the Blue Lotus bloomed, Noah's main body buzzed as from him, the Runic Ecriture that read began to bloom in an illusory fashion as it pulsed with intense vitality.

HOOOONG!

The same scene repeated around his True Sanguine Clone that had its sculpted chest laid bare, those seeing the Runic Ecriture finally affirming their shock along with the brightening Purple Lotus that this being had truly gone multiple layers in a matter of seconds!

"What is this..."

"This should not be possible..."

Prideful and powerful Seventh Firmament Pure-Blooded Cardinal Royal Humans and below they were refining their bodies on the Vestigial Flames Mountain had their minds shaken as they watched this scene, and thousands of other auras began to bloom soon after in the periphery of this mountain as other Royal Humans that were in other locations received word and teleported over.

The only question in their mind was who this Tyrant was as they had not heard of him until now!

The name Alexander was slowly making the rounds after Beatrix had called it out, with this information riding the waves of man's and entering the ears of others as they watched the small figure of the True Sanguine Clone moving like a stellar light, situated in the eye of the storm as ridiculously...it rose even higher towards the peak of the mountain where the Flames only became hotter.

If he continued going upwards...

"No way..."

A newly appearing Eighth Firmament Pure-Blooded Cardinal Royal Human voiced out in shock as even she would have been burnt to cinders by now.

"Impossible!" At the same time in another area of space, a group of Ninth Firmament Royal Humans appeared as they vocalize the same thought!

Yet the being ascending the Vestigial Flames Mountain did not heed their thoughts as he just continued to get higher.

The Purple Lotus on his forehead was brightening up at a rapid pace as from the Fourth Layer, it very quickly blinked a brighter shade of purple as it entered the Fifth Layer!

And Noah's incandescent figure truly wasn't stopping as he was even warping across space, moving light years to head closer and closer towards the peak of the Vestigial Flames Mountain where one could see terrifying golden liquid flames.

Golden flames that normally...only Legends utilized to refine their bodies safely- along with a select few powerhouses on the stage of a Legend's Visage who had unique constitutions.

An example of this was...

CRACK!

The fair woman that had stopped watching from the eyes of a Mirror Beast as a mirror portal opened and shattered to reveal her dazzling white hair as her eyes watched Noah's figure curiously.

A select few exceptional beings.

Many if not all were well known as the question that was now posed as they watched this being go towards the glimmer of golden flames was...

"What is he?!"

WAP!

Space warped and folded as many light years were crossed, the figure ascending the mountain having its rapidly rotating vortex of absorption actually landed on the region of golden flames as they began to surge towards him.

All those watching held their breath.

The moment these flames touched this being, he would either be burnt to ashes...or they would have seen the appearance of an exceptional being who had talent similar to those in groups of Adjudicators and Will Bearers!

The allure of raging gold flames roared out as they were defiantly pulled towards the bellowing figure, surging forth to attack and drown out his body as they very quickly turned into draconic snakes that surged and sunk into his very skin!

"...."

Silence reigned as the figure everyone was looking at didn't falter.

SHAA!

His body trembled briefly as at this time, the Clone had to stop and enact Runic Ecriptions of Defense and Resource Shields before passing the terrifying golden flames to the main body.

So he stopped in place briefly as he readjusted, but the moment that the golden flames reached the main body and began to follow the path of Noah's very own Runic Kainos Mana Lines of Ascendancy...he began to move again as droves of obscene and terrifying stellar golden flames began to wash over him in full, the Blue Lotus in front of his forehead instantly changing into a dazzling blue light that within another second- it broke apart and turned into a Resplendent purple color!

"....!"

A few seconds after achieving the Third Layer of the Burgeoning Limit Breaking Extreme Physique, the Sixth Layer was reached as glorious green Runic Ecriptions reading began to bloom around Noah in full force!
