

Married by Accident (English) Chapter 18 - Angry

Chapter 18: Angry

Arabella was very surprised by Leonard's words which made her even more pathetic, making her forget that there was a sharp knife in her neck because she reflexively screamed with her eyes wide.

What! Aarrh...." Dewi grimaced in pain as she felt a stinging pain in her neck due to the movement she did, causing the knife to slightly tear her skin. Until blood came out of the area.

Leonard, who saw blood dripping from Arabella's neck, reflexively threw the knife in his hand in any direction. Until the clinking sound of sharp objects falling to the floor broke the silence of the very silent night.

"You stupid!" Leonard had been looking around for something, namely a cloth to cover the small cut in Arabella's neck. However, because he felt very panicked when he saw the figure of a woman who had squatted on the floor and winced in pain. Despite not making a sound at all, it still made Leonard feel worried.

Actually, his intention was just to play games to scare the woman who was already seen wincing in pain. However, due to the unintentional movement of the female figure who suddenly moved after she expressed her will, the result was very fatal.

Leonard immediately unbuttoned his shirt one by one and removed it from his body. Until his body, which has plaid abdominal muscles, is exposed for real. Then he squatted in front of Arabella and immediately covered the bloody neck with his shirt.

"Go! I'm fine and I can be alone! It's just a small wound." Arabella threw away Leonard's strong hand that was trying to close the wound on her neck.

Seeing the half-naked body of the man who was only inches away from her, of course made Arabella feel very uncomfortable. Although she actually felt a stinging pain in her neck right now, she didn't feel comfortable being in such an intimate position with Leonard.

Meanwhile, Leonard did not care about Arabella's rejection because he continued to carry out his activities. "Shut up! I really don't like women who are fussy and like to argue. I won't let you die until I'm done playing with you."

"You are an asshole!" Arabella sarcasm who immediately pushed the plain chest. However, her actions only made her even more angry.

Leonard, who was originally still busy covering Arabella's neck, was actually very surprised when his body was pushed back. Until his hands were behind Arabella's neck, holding on reflex and of course he had fallen on his back on the floor with Arabella's position on top of him.

Not only that, because Arabella rolled her eyes when she fell on Leonard's stout body with her lips pressed together with the thick lips of the man who was still holding the back of her neck.

Arabella immediately got up from the top of the half-naked body of the man she accidentally kissed. However, her efforts were in vain as Leonard's right hand gripped her neck more and more. Leonard's left hand was already holding her ribs.

Until she could not move because it was locked by hand with these strong books. Meanwhile, at this time, her heart was beating very fast, already exceeding normal limits.

Leonard was initially very angry because he thought Arabella was an ignorant and ungrateful woman. Suddenly his anger disappeared when he was in an intimate position with a woman who was legally his wife. The wild soul in his brain, has now taken control of his body. Even something that had been delayed came back to mind.

Without wasting time, he immediately scooped up the sensual lips that had been stuck to his lips. His passion that suddenly rose when he came into contact with a woman who did not want to open his mouth, further exploded his sexual desire, so that he intended to bite the lower lip of the woman above him again, so that he would open his mouth.

Arabella who could sense any sign of danger and might end up losing her chastity, suddenly an idea suddenly popped into her mind. She immediately opened her mouth and bit Leonard's lower lip so hard it bled.

Leonard immediately shouted as he felt a pain in his lips. Not only that because he had pushed Arabella's body to the side.

"Damn woman!" Leonard cursed with a glint of fire from his eyeballs as he stared at Arabella who fell on the cold floor next to him lying down.

Arabella who finally breathed a sigh of relief, pretended to wince in pain. Of course to be more convincing, she acted crying and her eyeballs were already filled with tears. Even though it only made her teary, while holding her neck behind the shirt that was coiled there.

Suddenly Leonard's lust was gone when he felt a pain in his lips that could be felt there was blood gushing out of it. "You really are, huh!"

Leonard's hand, which originally wanted to pull the long hair below the loose shoulders, did not do so because he saw Arabella crying and whimpering in pain.

"You were acting strong earlier and now you're moaning and crying. It seems like you were born from a fickle chameleon." Leonard got up from his originally supine position on the floor and walked away from the sobbing woman.

Arabella who again felt able to breathe a sigh of relief after seeing Leonard come out of the room, was still pretending to cry and whimpering in pain.

"Aarrh ... it hurts," Arabella whispered with tears in her eyes as she glanced towards the exit and didn't see Leonard again.

"Thank God he left here and I survived his lecherous lust. I don't know how long I can avoid him, the most important thing is that I will try my best to keep my chastity. That bastard has really gone mad. Does he want to be considered great by having two wives? . Gosh, what kind of madness is he going to do," Arabella whispered, still wondering about the words of the man who said she would never divorce her as long as she was alive.

"Do I have to kill him first, in order to be free from the shackles of that madman." Just as she closed her mouth, she saw Leonard walking into the room with a medicine box in his hand.

Arabella frowned and looked suspiciously at the figure of the man who spit out his sixpack body.

"Is that a medicine box?"

"No, it's a poison box that will instantly calm you down when you go to hell!" said Leonard who was still very annoyed with himself because he couldn't bear to see Arabella groaning in pain.

"Gosh, you really...." Arabella didn't continue when Leonard had crouched down in front of her and opened the shirt around her neck. She could even see that the white shirt had blood stains on it.

"Shut up! Or I'll make the neighbors come here!" Leonard had already opened the medicine box he had placed next to him and had begun to treat the knife wound on the white tiered neck.

"Why are women always so careless. Even when cooking it can be sliced. Now you are deliberately looking to die and playing with knives."

Arabella was actually really annoyed that Leonard had turned things around and lashed out at her by blaming her. However, because she didn't want to make the man who seemed focused on treating her wound angry, she grimaced in pain, diverting the conversation.

"Where did this medicine box come from? Is it in your car?"

"I don't really have much work to do, keep the medicine box in the car. Besides, I don't have a car," Leonard replied curtly.

"Then where is this from?" Arabella was getting more and more curious about Leonard's ambiguous words.

"From the next door neighbor. I just said that you threatened me with a knife when I wanted to make love to you for the fourth time and when I tried to snatch the knife from your hand, what happened was that your hand was hit by the sharpness of the knife." Leonard immediately looked at him with perfectly rounded eyes in front of him.

"What!" shouted Arabella who felt very annoyed and angry when she saw the annoying face in front of her and even laughed at her.

Continued...