

Chapter 101 The President is A Big Devil

After changing his clothes, Richard immediately went out.

Three Rolls Royce Phantoms were parked at the entrance of the Hints Group building, waiting for Richard to arrive.

John had already arrived and was respectfully standing by the car, with bodyguards behind him.

Richard got into the car; his face was cold and expressionless.

From the car mirror, Richard saw a figure running past in a hurry; He immediately turned back to look out the window.

The silhouette flashed by and was gone.

That person looked so much like Caroline, Richard thought.

"Mr. Preston...Mr. Preston..." John called Richard twice in front of him.

Richard turned his head and said, "Yes?"

"Leo almost finished filming; Louis called and asked if Leo could come back?"

"Hasn't he been working lately?" Richard asked.

"Leo's agent has a few scripts in his hand, and he wants to ask you which one should Leo choose."

"Tell Leo to come back and rest for a while," said Richard.

Richard raised his head and said, "Go to NovelBee and NovelDom and talk about the film and TV drama rights of The President is A Big Devil."

John was stunned.

The President Is A Big Devil?

Although the Hints Group sometimes invested in films and television dramas. The investment was usually a big project.

The President Is A Big Devil sounded like a bubble soap opera!

Why did Richard want to invest in this drama?

"Yes," said John.

Richard's decision was always unquestionable, so John didn't say anything more.

After saying that, Richard closed his eyes.

That person who looked like Caroline was still lingering in his mind, but it was unlikely to be Caroline; Caroline should be in S city with her mother right now.

His car drove to the Moon Island restaurant.

The top floor has been chartered, but this time it was not Richard but Katherine.

Richard got on the elevator and went to the top floor. At the entrance, Richard saw Housekeeper Clark and understood that Katherine should have arrived.

After stepping into the penthouse area, he heard Katherine and Alice talking and laughing.

"How beautiful it is here!" Alice exclaimed.

"Yes, people at your age nowadays are good at enjoying. This is such a good place for a meal, but this is the first time I've come here," said Katherine.

"Is this your first time? Hasn't Richard come here with you?"

"He is busy. This is a place more popular with young people and I am just an old lady."

"Madam, you look very young. People here might think we are sisters," Alice said.

"You are pleasing me," Katherine smiled.

The two laughed. Looking at this harmonious scene, Richard was uncomfortable in his heart.

Katherine turned her head and saw Richard, "Come and sit down!"

Alice's makeup was exquisite, her clothes were from luxury brands, and her necklace was worth a lot of money.

Alice was a typical rich girl, gentle, generous, noble, and elegant.

It was like a young version of Katherine.

Alice stood up and nodded at Richard, who gave her a look and walked over.

"Mother," He sat down next to Katherine.

"Richard, we just talked about you. Alice kept praising you," Katherine patted Richard's arm.

"For what?" asked Richard.

Alice's shy face was plated with a layer of redness, "Madam, I'd like not to talk about this."

"Good. Since everyone has arrived, let the waiter serve the food."

Katherine turned her head and signaled Clark who was not far away. Clark immediately got what Katherine meant and asked the waiter to start serving the food.

As the dishes were being served, Katherine's cell phone rang.

"Hello, Mrs. Merry. Oh, I'm so sorry that I forgot about our appointment. I'll be right there."

Hanging up the phone, Katherine apologized, "Richard, Alice, take your time. I have a date with my friends so I have to leave now."

"Madam, you can eat some before you go."

"They were asking me to go there as soon as possible so I have to leave now," said Katherine.

Katherine stood up and patted Richard's shoulder, "Have a good time with Alice."

"Mom, then drive safe," said Richard.

"Yes, you guys don't need to send me," Katherine said and left immediately.

Richard didn't have any intention of seeing his mother off because, from the beginning, he knew that Katherine would leave halfway to create an opportunity for him and Alice.

Hints Group Building

Caroline rushed into the building; most of the people in the building were wearing uniforms; the people at the service desk knew at first glance that Caroline was not working there.

"This lady, may I ask who you are looking for?" The receptionist stopped Caroline.

Caroline decided to ask the receptionist about Richard's whereabouts.

"I'm looking for Richard Preston. Where is he?" she asked.

"Mr. Richard? May I ask if you have an appointment?" the receptionist asked.

"You go tell him that my last name is Fowler."

The receptionist rolled his eyes and said, "I'm sorry, miss. Not everyone can go visit Mr. Preston. I will ask for you if you have an appointment."

Caroline immediately rolled her eyes animatedly, "I have an appointment!"

Another receptionist laughed, "Miss, don't be ridiculous. Mr. Richard just left the company, and how could he have an appointment with you?"

"Where did he go?" Caroline asked.

"An Island Restaurant. If you are looking for Mr. Preston, you might find him there," The receptionists rolled their eyes.

They had seen many women saying they were looking for Richard, but in fact, they were looking for a chance to get in touch with Richard!

"Moon Island?" Caroline immediately left the building and took a cab straight to that restaurant.

It took more than twenty minutes to arrive at Moon Island.

Caroline had been here once, and she was familiar with the route. If it was true that Richard came here for dinner, then he would definitely go to the top floor.

So, Caroline took the elevator directly to the top floor.

When she reached, she was stopped by the bodyguard.

"I'm looking for Richard," Caroline said.

"Who are you? You are not qualified to see Mr. Preston."

"You're new here, right? Don't you know me?" Caroline looked at the bodyguard.

"It's not your business. Hurry up and leave. Mr. Preston is having dinner with his future wife!"

"What? What do you mean?" Caroline asked in surprise.

"Miss Wilson from the Wilson Group will be Mr. Preston's wife!" the bodyguard said clearly.

Chapter 102 He is Dating Someone Else

When the bodyguard said this, his voice was high-pitched and his face was full of pride.

He seemed to be saying to Caroline, "A woman like you is not worthy of Richard!"

Caroline looked at the top-floor restaurant; through the glass, she could see Richard sitting face to face with a woman.

Although she could not see his expression, she knew they were chatting, and Richard even sent the woman across the table a dish in a gentlemanly manner.

At that moment, Caroline seemed to hear the sound of a broken heart.

The woman must be the lady from the Wilson Group.

Caroline realized and turned away.

If what Kevin said was true that Richard's company went through difficulties, then he must be at the company dealing with work. How would he leisurely come here and chat with a woman?

It seemed that what Kevin said was right. Richard used her to get the right of S City port cargo, and the trouble of the Hints Group was solved.

That could explain why Richard now was going on on a blind date with another woman.

Caroline lost her soul and walked out of the Moon Island Restaurant.

She did not like this place. When she went here for the first time, Coco miscarried; the second time, she saw Richard and another women dating.

On the Top floor

John went to the bathroom and walked back to the restaurant.

"Did you see that ordinary woman? How could she know Mr. Preston?"

"She seems so self-indulgent!"

"These days, women want to marry into a rich family, but they have no chance at all."

The two bodyguards were chatting.

"What are you talking about?!" John said with a cold face.

The two bodyguards stood up straight and said, "Nothing. A woman came to find Mr. Preston, but we stopped her."

"Did she disturb Mr. Preston's date?" John asked.

"No," the bodyguard replied.

"That's good," said John.

Alice and Richard were chatting with each other. Richard kept his noble posture and had his meal, while Alice silently put down her chopsticks.

"Miss Wilson, are you full?" Richard asked.

"Yes, I have a small stomach actually."

"Are you sure you are full?" Richard asked seriously.

"Yes, but you can take your..." Before Alice finished her words, Richard put down his chopsticks.

"Mr. Preston, would you like to..." Alice wanted to invite Richard to do something else.

"Miss Wilson, I still have things to do about work tonight. Shall we leave now?"

Alice's smile froze on her face; she originally wanted to invite him to go watch a movie.

"Yes, your work come first," said Alice who tried to pretend to be a considerate person.

"I'll send someone to drive you home," Richard said.

"I can go home by myself; the scenery here is nice, so I'll stay for a while."

"Then goodbye," After saying that, Richard nodded his head and left away.

Alice looked at Richard's back as he left. She felt the coldness from him.

Richard treated her during the meal like a gentleman, and would talk to her about music and some international matters. It seemed that everything was going well.

But she felt he did not want to stay with her.

Is this how men from rich families have a date? Alice couldn't figure it out.

In the apartment

Caroline had no place to go, so she went back to Leo's apartment.

Moreover, it was not suitable for her to skulk in the street. In case she was recognized, Caroline decided to stay in the apartment.

Caroline sat in front of the computer, looking through her novel in deep thought.

How can I be so miserable? Caroline said to herself.

Her ex-boyfriend slept with her sister and she fell in love with another man, only to find out that it was a scam of interest.

Her mother Olivia was right; women need to be independent.

Caroline immediately sat up straight and began to type.

Caroline was in a low mood, so the words were miserable. Her plot was developed according to her own emotional development.

Until one o'clock in the evening, Caroline went to bed.

She was awakened by the phone in the morning.

She bought a new phone after she returned to the city. Caroline didn't get much money from her mother, so she could only buy a cheap one.

"Yes," Caroline picked up the phone and answered it in a daze.

"Queen Caroline! My Queen!" Editor Shaw's high-pitched voice came out of the phone.

Caroline shivered in fear, "Is anything wrong, Shaw?"

"Do you know how popular your novel is? Someone just called me and said he wants to buy the film and television rights of your novel for three million dollars!"

"Oh, I see. Bye."

"Hey! Don't hang up! According to the contract, you can get at least one million dollars!"

Caroline still hung up the phone, turned over, and went back to sleep.

After sleeping until eleven o'clock am, Caroline finally woke up from her sleep.

She recalled Editor Shaw called her and said something about film and television rights, but she forgot the details.

Caroline went to the bathroom and looked at herself in the mirror.

She thought that since Richard was with another woman, she should talk to him about divorce.

They were now still married legally!

Caroline was going to come to Richard today to talk about the divorce with him.

As she was thinking she suddenly heard a sound at the door.

Caroline straightened her body while brushing her teeth, held her breath and listened carefully.

It seemed that someone was coming in.

Would it be a thief? Caroline was anxious.

Caroline immediately spit out the foam in her mouth, looked around and saw a leather plunger in the bathroom. She picked it up.

That was made of wood, barely enough to be a weapon.

Caroline quietly walked out of the bathroom and went toward the door.

Caroline heard that the sound of the footsteps were closer.

She hid in the bedroom doorway, holding the leather plunger tightly.

The sound of footsteps was getting closer and closer.

The person was coming to the bathroom!

Caroline held her breath and held the plunger tightly. Her heart was about to jump out.

The door was slowly opened.

"Thief! Go to hell!" With Caroline's angry roar, the plunger fell on the head of the visitor.

"Go to hell! Go to hell! How dare you come here? You are looking for death!" Caroline was in great fear but she had to protect herself!

The visitor seemed to be stunned, hastily holding his head.

Caroline suddenly found this fight meaningless, so she picked up the plunger put it on that man's face! The plunger was sucked on his face at once.

"Caroline, are you crazy!"

Hearing this voice, Caroline pulled the plunger off with force, and then took a look!

The man was Leo!

She saw a big round red mark on Leo's face!

"Leo, why are you here?!" Caroline was surprised.

Chapter 103 Talk About Divorce

"Are you asking me why I am here? Because this is my house!" Leo roared while covering half of his face.

Caroline hurriedly put down the plunger she was holding.

"You didn't tell me you would come back today, so I thought it would be a thief!" she explained.

Leo sucked in cool air, "You never answer my call and how can I tell you?"

Caroline then remembered that her former phone was broken so she changed to a new number and just informed her new number to some friends yesterday.

Leo had been busy filming, so he probably didn't see her message.

"Caroline! I am the movie star and my face is almost ruined by your hands!" Leo shouted.

"Don't worry! You will be alright! I'll go get you some medicine!" Caroline ran to the drawer to look for a first aid kit.

There was the drug for traumatic injuries, and Caroline started applying it to Leo's forehead, neck, and other places she had hit.

Though injured, Leo quite enjoyed Caroline's service and he was delighted inside.

"Apply some in this place! Here! And here!" Leo was pointing at his wounds for Caroline.

"Yes! I will do it!" Caroline listened to whatever Leo said and did not complain at all.

After applying medicine to all his wounds, Caroline saw Leo's funny face and let out a laugh.

A big red circle was on his face! Leo had a well-acknowledged handsome face, and that plunger was about the same size as his face!

"What are you laughing at?" Leo rolled his eyes at her and said, "It's all because of you."

"Leo, you look pretty good like this!" Caroline laughed.

"Do you think I will believe what you say?" Leo asked.

"I am serious! Even with such a big red circle, your face still looks so great. Only your face can do this! You are the most good-looking guy in our country," said Caroline.

After hearing what Caroline said, Leo was rather delighted. It was rare for Caroline to praise him.

"Caroline, what did you use to hit me? I don't remember there are weapons here," Leo asked.

"No...nothing," Caroline got out of bed slowly, ready to hide the plunger before Leo noticed it.

Unfortunately, Leo found it anyway!

"Caroline Fowler! You actually used a plunger to hit my face!" Leo burst into a fit of gagging and immediately ran to the restroom.

Caroline heard the sound of vomiting immediately afterward.

"I am sorry! I said you didn't have to know about this, but you still find out!" Caroline shrugged her shoulders.

This was the longest bath Leo had ever taken in his life.

Hearing anything related to the toilet, Leo would feel that he stank.

While Leo was working on filming, he was not allowed to bring his phone with him. It was only when he finished the work that he knew about the news on the internet.

Caroline told Leo everything that had happened in the recent period of time, however, she hid the fact that she was in love with Richard.

The fact that she fell in love and then was cheated was humiliating for her.

Then Leo understood what had happened.

"So the reason why Uncle Richard didn't get divorced from you was because he wanted the rights to ship his company's goods?"

Leo had doubts about what Caroline said because he clearly felt Richard was in love with Caroline! He knew his uncle. Richard had never been so concerned about a woman before he met Caroline.

"Yes, he is a businessman and he only cares about his business! He can give up on me to get what he wants! I hate all men!" Caroline said in anger.

Caroline's finger was almost poking Leo's nose.

"It has nothing to do with me! I'm not a businessman! I'm a movie star!" Leo confessed.

Caroline glanced at him. That was right. Leo didn't do anything horrible to her.

"What are you going to do now?" Leo asked.

"There is nothing I can do. I am now like a street rat, and everyone can shout at me and step on me. Those negative news really makes my life a mess," Caroline lowered her head and said.

Caroline let out a long sigh and lay down on the floor.

"Hey," Leo patted Caroline's thigh, "Do you want me to help you out?"

"How can you help me?" Caroline asked.

"I'm a movie star. Coco means nobody to me. If I were with you, I could help you beat her easily."

"I don't want you to make things worse! Coco told the media that I was your uncle's mistress. If you get involved now, what others would think of me? It would make me difficult to explain!"

Leo scratched his head and thought what Caroline said was true.

Caroline sat up and said, "You can do me a favor now!"

"What can I do? Just tell me! As your buddy, I am willing to go up the mountain and down the sea for you as long as you need me to do!" Leo patted his chest and said firmly!

"Take me to Richard's place, and I want to talk to your uncle about the divorce!" said Caroline.

Leo had a bitter face and was confused.

"Is it hard for you to do so? You said you are my buddy!" Caroline said.

Leo had no choice but to drive Caroline to Richard's place.

It was already evening. Leo called John to make sure that Richard was at home today.

Arriving at the entrance, Leo parked the car and said, "Caroline, go in by yourself."

Caroline sat on the co-pilot and said, "Are you kidding me? Is this what a buddy does?"

After saying that, Caroline unbuckled her belt and got out of the car.

Leo was timid, but when he looked into Caroline's eyes, he clenched his teeth, stomped his foot, and got out of the car too.

"Caroline, wait for me! Don't be angry with me!" Leo said.

"You are a coward and you are not my buddy!" she shouted while striding forward.

"It is my fault! I will come with you!" Leo quickly took two steps to catch up with Caroline.

Servants in Richard's place recognized Caroline, and they respectfully greeted her.

Most of them were confused about why Caroline was Leo!

The two arrived in the living room while bickering. John was surprised to see Caroline and John come together.

Richard was sitting on the sofa with his eyes closed. After a long day of work, he finally had some time to rest.

"Richard!" Caroline shouted as soon as she entered.

Richard opened his eyes and looked at Caroline.

Caroline wore an angry face and was followed by Leo.

"How did she come back? Isn't she with her mother?" Richard was confused.

Caroline walked to the sofa with big strides and sat down next to him, "Let's talk about divorce."

"Divorce?" Richard asked.

What's wrong with her? Why did she mention divorce? Richard thought.

Richard subconsciously looked at Leo next to her. Leo hurriedly shifted his eyes.

"Leo, when did you come back?" Richard immediately changed the topic.

"I came back at noon today," Leo replied.

"Have you gone to visit your grandmother?" Richard asked him.

"Not...yet," Leo immediately understood what Richard meant, and he looked at Caroline with eyes that seemed to say, "This is all I can do for you."

Chapter 104 He Agrees to Divorce

"I'll go to visit Grandma now," Leo pulled himself up.

"Sit down!" Caroline pulled him back with a tug on his arm.

"You don't need to ask Leo to leave. This matter was caused by the three of us together, and Leo is also involved. Therefore, he should be present when we talk about the divorce."

When Caroline said this, her look was fixed on Richard, as if she was showing her determination to Richard that she must get a divorce.

Richard did not know what was going on and looked at Caroline and then at Leo.

Leo looked a bit nervous. He hung his head and gritted his teeth.

"Uncle Richard, this matter is indeed all my fault. If I hadn't got the wrong documents in the first place, there wouldn't have been today's incident. I am the one to blame."

Leo raised his head and made himself to continue, "Caroline is innocent and please let her go."

Richard looked at Leo with a pair of dark eyes as if he wanted to see through Leo.

"If you hadn't taken the wrong document in the first place, it would be you who married Caroline. Are you guys prepared to get married after Caroline divorces me?" Richard asked Leo.

The fact that Leo was with Caroline to talk about the divorce made Richard think more.

"Well... this..."

Leo did want to marry Caroline at first, but he didn't dare to get married to her now.

"That's it!" As Leo wanted to explain, he suddenly heard Caroline beside him shout.

Leo looked at Caroline in shock.

Her gaze was certain and she tilted her chin like a proud swan. She said, "That's what I thought. If it wasn't because of you, I would have gotten married to him already!"

Leo was so scared that his jaw almost dropped to the ground. He was confused as to why Caroline said this to Richard.

Hearing this, Richard's eyes narrowed slightly, his pupils radiating a sharp light.

He thought that he had guessed it. Caroline wanted to marry Leo.
"Do you think you can marry Leo after divorcing me?" Richard's voice showed his displeasure.

"I can do whatever I want. I'm going to marry Leo and you can do nothing about this!" she said.

"I know you want to marry him, but you should be clear that without my consent, Leo will never marry you," said Richard.

This was the truth.

Ever since Leo's mother passed away, it was Richard who was in charge of all of Leo's matters.

Which school he went to, what he majored in, which company he worked at after graduation, what kind of work he took on, and what endorsements he took on all had to be approved by Richard. It was also true of Leo's marriage.

"I can't believe you!" Caroline could do nothing to Richard. He was a big devil who was as well dominant and bossy!

Both sides stalemated. Caroline didn't speak, and neither did Leo. Richard was in deep thought.

There was a smell of gunpowder in the air as if a great battle was about to break out.

No one refused to give in, and no one would take a step back.

The room was silent for a long time.

"I agree to divorce," Richard was silent for a moment and suddenly spoke.

Caroline and Leo looked at each other without saying anything.

They had gone through half a day's effort to get Richard's permission, and then when they stopped talking, Richard actually agreed!

Isn't this plot changing too fast?

The moment she heard Richard agree to divorce, Caroline didn't rejoice. Being shocked, she was also a little disappointed.

He finally agreed to divorce.

In the end, he agreed to get a divorce.

Her heart was aching. Caroline now believed that Richard didn't love her. That could explain why he agreed to divorce after getting the freight rights.

"You can't regret it! Then let's go get a divorce!" Caroline's voice obviously weakened but she told herself to be strong.

Richard snapped his fingers and John immediately came to him.

"Go get the lawyer and draw up a divorce settlement immediately," ordered Richard.

"Yes, Mr. Preston," said John.

Soon, the lawyer was brought in and read the divorce settlement in front of Richard and Caroline.

The agreement indicated that both parties were not involved in any property division and after signing the divorce agreement, both parties could not pester each other for any reason.

In short, this marriage was as short as an ant's life.

"If both parties have no objections, please sign this agreement," said the lawyer.

The lawyer looked at Caroline, then at Richard. He handed the divorce paper to Richard with a pen.

"You sign first!" Caroline yelled towards Richard.

Caroline thought it would take time to persuade Richard to get a divorce, but the result was that Richard didn't say anything and directly signed the paper.

The paper was pushed into Caroline's hand by him with the pen.

Looking at the above Divorce Settlement on the paper, Caroline was lost for a period.

If it was when she met Richard at the beginning, Caroline would have signed it without hesitation.

However, she didn't even have the courage to pick up the pen.

Knowing Caroline was hesitant, Richard smiled.

"What are you waiting for? Do you regret it? Didn't you just tell me that you want a divorce and then to marry Leo right away? It turns out that you don't dare do it," said Richard.

"I will never regret it!" Caroline immediately picked up a pen and asked, "After I sign it, then the two of us won't have any relationship anymore?"

The lawyer replied, "Technically, yes. As you sign this, there will be no marital relationship between you and Mr. Preston. This agreement can be taken to the notary public to be stamped and signed, and then you can go to the Civil Affairs Bureau to get a divorce certificate."

"So complicated!" Caroline frowned. She wanted to get everything done quickly.

"If you don't want to do it in person, I'll ask someone to send the divorce certificate to you," Richard said.

"Then thank you!" Caroline yelled towards Richard again and looked down at the paper.

Why did she just not want to sign it?

She always had a 'fake tongue'. Though she asked for a divorce and all that, deep in her heart, she didn't want to get a divorce.

Her head was in a mess. Those things that happened during this period of time reappeared in her mind.

Next to her, Leo looked at Caroline and was anxious for her.

"Caroline, are you alright?" Leo asked.

Caroline was sweating, and her forehead was covered with her sweat.

"In every second of staying here, I feel uncomfortable!" Caroline was still trying to be strong.

"Then sign it quickly. We can leave then," Leo reminded her in a low voice.

Looking at these two people whispering, Richard felt very uncomfortable in his heart.

It had only been two days since she stayed in S City, and then she developed a close relationship with Leo! Did she care about him at all? Richard roared in his heart.

This woman!

Caroline nodded to Leo, raised her arm, wiped the sweat on her forehead, and picked up the pen. Gritting her teeth, she was ready to sign.

Since he was so cold-blooded, why should she keep to stay with him?

I will sign and forget the memory with him!

Caroline picked up the pen and the tip of the pen touched the paper!

Chapter 105 Hesitate to Divorce

The moment the tip of the pen touched the agreement, a large hand suddenly pressed on the paper!

Caroline was startled. She was already high-strung, and the slapping sound scared her a lot.

"What are you doing, Richard? I am going to sign!" Caroline said in displeasure.

"I advise you to take the paper back and take a good look at it. Make sure you agree to all the terms in this settlement. I am not playing any tricks with you," said Richard.

"What do you mean?" Caroline was a bit puzzled.

"I'm saying that you should take the paper back before you sign it. Think about it before you sign it. If you think there is something wrong with the paper, we can talk about it again. Anyway, I've already signed it. So the end of our marriage is up to you," said Richard.

His hand was still pressed on that paper.

Caroline looked at Richard's indifferent face, and couldn't see through him.

She didn't know what kind of tricks was Richard playing.

However, it was true that she did not want to sign the divorce paper right now.

"Alright! I will take it back before I sign it. What if there is something fishy about this paper? I'll find another lawyer to take a closer look at this settlement," Caroline finally listened to Richard.

"You can do whatever you want. Contact me after you sign this paper. John, see off the guests," said Richard.

Caroline clutched that paper in her hand and looked at Richard's cold face. He looked familiar but at the same time, so strange to her.

See off the guest? Even before she signed the paper, he had already called her a guest.

It was so true that rich people have cold hearts.

"No need. I'll go myself!" Caroline stole a glance at Richard and walked straight towards the door.

Leo wanted to follow her, but when he saw Richard's gaze, Leo immediately stopped in his tracks.

"I brought her here, so I should send her back and be right back," Leo said.

Richard then didn't say anything and Leo took it as acquiescence.

Leo quickened his steps to catch up with Caroline.

Richard pinched his brow.

He was clear in the first place that his marriage with Caroline, sooner or later, would end.

The moment he fell in love with her, Richard knew he would divorce her one day.

His status and position determined that he couldn't choose his woman as he wanted.

What's more, Caroline's identity made it impossible for her to become his wife, the future hostess of the Preston family.

John slowly came forward and said, "Mr. Preston, Leo drove away with Caroline."

Richard kept his eyes closed and gently pinched his brows.

"Send someone to keep an eye on her and keep me informed of her whereabouts," said Richard.

"Yes," said John.

"In addition," Richard finally opened his eyes, "Get Leo's documents and bring them to me. Don't let him work for the time being and tell him to rest for a while."

"Yes, Mr. Preston," said John.

Richard was still worried that Caroline and Leo might secretly went to get married. If Leo hadn't drunk too much and taken the wrong documents, the two were already a legal couple!

Richard was very busy lately and Caroline and Leo made his life messier!

In Leo's apartment

Leo drove Caroline back to his place because she had nowhere to go.

As soon as she arrived at his apartment, Caroline went straight to the sofa and collapsed.

"Carol, I have to leave now and I can't stay with you," Leo sat next to Caroline and said.

Caroline waved her hand and said, "You can leave now. I know that you are afraid of your uncle. I won't blame you for anything."

"Look at your expression. Do you really mean what you said?" Leo was uncomfortable listening to Caroline's sarcastic tone, "Tell me your future plan."

"What else can I do? I have to write a good novel to make money since no one supports me now."

"You are wrong. I can support you now," Leo patted his chest and swore.

Caroline took a glance at him and said, "This gentleman, may I ask how much money is in your personal account?"

"I..." Leo had no courage to say the answer.

All of his paychecks were handed to Uncle Richard, who gave Leo pocket money monthly.

Caroline lightly sneered, "Leo, a man at your age might hand over his salary to his wife, yet you have to hand it over to your uncle!"

"I have no other choices!" Leo said in a bad mood, "I have to hand it over to my uncle, who will give me two hundred thousand dollars as pocket money every month. I'll save up and share one hundred thousand dollars with you. That's still enough to support you, right?"

"That is impossible!" Caroline stretched out her finger and hit Leo's head, "Since I get divorced, I shouldn't rely on Richard anymore. Anyway, I would never do this!"

"But how can you support..."

"That's enough!" Caroline directly interrupted Leo's words, "I can support myself!"

Seeing Caroline's impatient face, Leo decided not to continue.

"Then what are you going to do next?" he asked.

"I've already told you that I will keep writing a novel online. My new novel is quite popular," she said.

Speaking of her novel, Caroline patted Leo's shoulder and said, "Thank you for supporting my new novel with so much money."

"I don't understand what you mean," Leo frowned. He didn't even know that Caroline started to write her new novel!

"Don't pretend that you didn't know about my new novel. I know you have been supportive of me! You must be that Black Snow who has been supporting my novel recently!"

Leo was even more confused!

Recently, Leo had been filming and as one of the actors in the crew, he was not allowed to use his cell phone in the set. That was why it was impossible for him to support Caroline's online novel.

"Leo, I appreciate your kindness but you don't have to spend so much money on my novel in the future. I know you have to get money from your uncle!"

Leo laughed awkwardly and didn't say anything. He vaguely felt that there was something wrong with the name Black Snow.

"Anyway, Carol, I have to leave now," Leo said.

"Alright, I understand. You can leave now!" said Caroline.

As soon as Leo left, Caroline fell into a state of loss, with her eyes fixed on the divorce paper.

Without noticing it, Caroline had her eyes filled with tears.

She wiped away her tears, walked to the desk, and turned on the computer. The title of the latest chapter of her novel was Divorce.

Caroline felt that her profession as a novel writer was quite good. She could just work from home. If she were to change her profession, when she encountered a scandalous attack, she would probably have already been beaten into a sieve.

Since she didn't have to go out to work, she could stay at home, writing novels.

Leo returned to Richard's place and had dinner with Richard.

White tablecloths, silver glittering cutlery, and beautiful porcelain plates were on the table.

There were no words between Leo and Richard.

Leo had dinner with trepidation, not daring to make a sound with each bite.

"Is she living at your place now?" Richard suddenly asked.

"Well, yes," Leo froze for a moment and answered, "She has severed her relationship with her family, so she has no place to go. Don't worry. There is nothing happening between us."

Leo tried to explain clearly and didn't want his uncle to misunderstand anything between Caroline and him. know why he must clarify in front of his uncle. Leo himself didn't know why he was doing this.

"Okay," said Richard, "You should find someone."

Chapter 106 A Lot of Money

Hearing this, Leo was really taken aback.

He remembered Richard had said to him that he wasn't allowed to have a relationship before 25.

Therefore, Leo always kept a distance from those actresses and rarely even talked to female staff.

In fact, the primary reason that Leo didn't want to find someone was that Leo himself didn't want to have a relationship. He already had a woman in his heart and had no desire for others.

However, now, Richard unexpectedly agreed that Leo should have a relationship.

This was good for him, Leo thought. Since Richard divorced Caroline, it meant he would have the opportunity to be with Caroline!

"But, there are some conditions," said Richard.

"What conditions?" Leo asked nervously.

"First, she should not be older than you," said Richard.

As Richard finished, Leo immediately looked like a deflated balloon. Caroline was older than him, right, one year older!

"Second, she should be from a good family. It is not required that her family is equally strong to our family, but at least her family is with a medium level of overall strength."

The second condition made it possible for Leo to have a relationship with Caroline.

"Third, she should never be married once, and she should not have slept with another man."

This again excluded the possibility that he stayed with Caroline.

Leo kind of saw through what his uncle was doing here. His uncle was allowing him to find a girlfriend, but would never allow him to be with Caroline!

"Did I make myself clear?" Richard asked.

"Yes, I understand," Leo hung his head and replied.

"When you are sure that you want to be with someone under these three conditions, you can report it to me," said Richard.

"Yes, Uncle Richard," Leo said obediently.

Then Leo had his meal in silence. So did Richard.

The two didn't continue to talk.

After the dinner, the two went to their own rooms.

Leo was simply depressed to the extreme. Finally, his uncle allowed him to have a relationship, but Richard didn't allow him to be with Caroline whom he admired most!

In the middle of the night, when Richard's place had quieted down, Leo secretly got up.

He carried his laptop to the bed. He called himself a computer savvy who knew about hacking.

Leo attacked Richard's computer.

In Richard's bedroom.

The alarm sound of the cell phone immediately woke Richard up from his dream. That's because his computer and cell phone were connected to each other.

Once his computer was attacked, there would be an alarm on his phone.

Richard picked up the cell phone and looked at it. He smiled because the IP address was his place.

He turned off the alarm device on his cell phone, covered the quilt, and continued to sleep.

Leo still thought what he did was unknown to anyone, but in reality, Richard had known it already.

After Leo attacked Richard's computer, he checked Richard's recent browsing history and found that Richard had logged into NovelBee Novel Network many times.

And what's more, Richard's account name was Black Snow!

Actually, when Leo heard Caroline mention the name Black Snow, he had a feeling that it would be Richard.

Because Richard's mother's name was Diana Black who also liked to read novels. And the name she used when she registered on all the major websites was also Black Snow.

It turned out that the person who had been supporting Caroline's new novel was Richard!

Worried about being discovered by his uncle, Leo used his cell phone to take a few photos of the screen to keep the evidence before turning off the computer.

Lying on the bed, Leo tossed and turned. He was struggling to fall asleep.

Was his uncle really in love with Caroline?

If it was true, Richard would never allow Leo to be with Caroline.

Leo couldn't be more clear about what kind of person his uncle was.

In Richard's apartment in the middle of the night

Caroline was still working on her novel, which was about to charge after a few chapters. Her readers were enthusiastic lately because the plot was rather bitter and they were discussing it in the reader community.

But Caroline had no time to pay attention to the comments because she just wanted to produce a great novel for her readers.

In the future, online writing will be her future profession.

At this moment, Shaw the editor sent her a message.

Caroline immediately checked it.

From Shaw: My dear Carol, are you available now?

To Shaw(From Caroline): I'm writing my novel! Didn't you say that you would recommend my novel on the Banner? So I was writing as much as possible.

From Shaw: Wow, I am so touching. When did you become so diligent?

From Caroline: I want to make more money. I need to support myself in the future.

Caroline was confused about Shaw's behavior. When she was lazy, Shaw wanted her to write as much as she could, and now since she was diligent, Shaw said she was too diligent.

From Shaw: Well, this is really great news!

Then Shaw sent a kissing emoji.

Caroline took a glance at the emoji and immediately sent a poop emoji to Shaw.

From Caroline: Why are you so disgusting? My dear Shaw. It's the middle of the night. You are supposed to go to sleep if you have no other things to say. I have to restart my work now.

From Shaw: I do have something to tell you. I just came back from outside and there is something about your novel that you should know!

From Caroline: Then tell me right now.

From Shaw: Do you remember that we once talked about your novel's copyright before? Now the company who bought the copyright of your novel wants to see you and invites you to be one of the screenwriters of the drama adapted from your novel. After all, you haven't finished this novel yet, so if you weren't there, the other screenwriters can't figure out how the plot would develop.

It seemed that there was a question mark on Caroline's forehead and she typed, "The copyright of my novel was sold?"

From Shaw: How could you not know about this? Didn't I call and tell you?

From Caroline: Oh, I am sorry. I forgot.

From Shaw: I can't believe you! What are you thinking? The copyright of your novel is worth almost three million dollars and after deducting the tax, you could receive at least one million dollars! As for the TV drama, which was temporarily set for thirty episodes. The price of each episode is fifty thousand dollars. But after all, it was up to you to make the decision.

From Caroline: I will be the biggest fool if turn down such a good job!

Caroline was delightful in her heart. When she was short of money, the money came!

What a lucky woman she is!

From Shaw: No one hates money. But make sure you will keep writing your novel!

From Caroline: I will take it as a full-time job and I will make the best novel in the world!

From Shaw: Good night.

Caroline sent a 'good night' emoji.

Resting her chin on the desk and looking at the computer screen, Caroline was so happy!

In the future, she would no longer be an online writer, but also a screenwriter.

Is she on the road to becoming famous? If the TV drama became a hit, so would she.

Being famous was not bad!

In the past few days, Caroline was at home, writing novels. As for that divorce paper, she already forgot. Instead, she had been thinking about her novel recently.

On this weekend, the editor took Caroline to meet William Simon, the producer of the TV drama, The President is a Big Devil.

William was a producer who had made many big hits in recent years, and he was responsible for the court drama Princess and the soap opera Youth Invincible.

Seeing Caroline in person, William was startled because she was wearing a mask and sunglasses.

As far as he knew, Caroline was not famous enough to wear a mask and sunglasses.

"Ms. Fowler, why are you still wearing sunglasses and a mask?" William asked.

Shaw was nervous. It would be bad bad news if William recognized Caroline!

Chapter 107 Special Scriptwriter

"She recently has skin allergies, so..." Shaw smiled awkwardly while explaining.

Caroline immediately took off her sunglasses and mask. She was now in the private room anyway.

Compared with Shaw's cover-up, Caroline was very open and straightforward, "Mr. Simon, the media has reported some negative news about me in recent days, and I was even beaten up by a group of people on a bus station, and this is why I am wearing sunglasses and a mask..."

Shaw gave Caroline a wink, which she ignored.

Caroline continued, "So, you'd better think twice before you make the decision. If it's just an adaptation of my novel, the public will not know that I am the writer and there shouldn't be any risk. But if I show up on the set, there's bound to be some risks. Generally, the public hates me."

Caroline was frank. She didn't want to hurt others for her own benefit.

Shaw sighed in his heart, "Caroline, why are you so honest?"

William Simon was not surprised at Caroline's words and he said, "I have heard about your news, but I didn't expect that there would be an attack on you. It seems that I need to send a bodyguard to protect you."

Caroline and Shaw looked at each other in silence.

"Mr. Simon, do you mean that you still want me even with that negative news?"

Caroline was so surprised.

"Why not? I don't care about that news. The media nowadays distorts facts and tells fake stories to get headlines. News nowadays means nothing to me," William said.

Shaw let out a long breath, "Thank you, Mr. Simon."

"Alright, let's talk about the drama next," William handed over a script to Caroline, "This is the script that some scriptwriters wrote for the drama. You can take a look and communicate with the scriptwriter if there's anything wrong."

Caroline took the script over and asked, "Is this so urgent? I thought it would take a while."

"The investor is very quick. All the funds we need are ready, and the casting is almost done," said William.

"But I haven't finished writing my novel yet," Caroline was confused. Without even an ending, how could this drama be filmed?

"Ms. Fowler, there's no rush for the ending. We adopt a foreign filming mode this time, which is filming while broadcasting. This is a very bold attempt for us," said William.

Caroline was taken aback.

Caroline still remembered that when she was in college, she was obsessed with some TV dramas that were updated once or twice a week.

As far as she knew, this mode, although miserable for some, was very good for the development of the plot, because the later filming would change according to the audience's reactions, and the quality of the drama would get better and more enjoyable.

"Now I understand," said Caroline to William.

"So, Miss Fowler, you'd better hurry up reading the script," said William.

Caroline nodded, "It shouldn't take too long for me to write novels and read scripts."

"I will inform you when the official shooting date is decided. I hope you can cooperate with us."

"Sure," said Caroline.

"Then wish us a happy cooperation!" said William.

The two shook hands.

William did things cleanly. He signed a contract with Caroline which said her remuneration was fifty thousand dollars per episode.

In addition, in order to promote her engagement with other colleagues, William provided her with clothing, food, housing, and transportation, equipped her with a bodyguard, and bought insurance.

As soon as she got home, Caroline started to read the script.

This was the first time she felt that her life had a goal and a point of support.

Life seemed to open new doors for her, and everything became clear.

As for the divorce paper, Caroline completely put it behind her.

Late at night, Coco walked out of the bathroom in a thin nightgown. Without makeup, she looked greater and her skin was like snow.

Wendell was already lying in bed, playing with his cell phone.

The recent shooting of a historic drama finally was finished so Coco had been living in the hotel arranged by the crew. Today was the first day after work.

After Coco applied her skincare products and dried her hair, she went straight to bed and hugged Wendell.

"Wendell, do you miss me these days?" Coco asked.

"Yes," Wendell said in a cold manner. He put his cell phone on the nightstand, "Now sleep."

After saying that, he raised his hand and turned off the lights in the bedroom.

Coco remained in the position of embracing Wendell and pressed her head against his chest.

"Wendell, I miss you so much. It's been a long time since I hugged you like this," said Coco.

Her soft voice went into Wendell's ears like a fresh breeze.

Wendell, however, was rather calm and indifferent.

"Coco, after the miscarriage, did you go to the doctor for a checkup? Tomorrow I have nothing to do, so how about going to the hospital together?" Wendell asked.

Coco froze for a while and then said, "I don't want to bother you. I can go by myself."

"It is okay. I have nothing to do tomorrow. Let's go together," Wendell patted Coco's hand and then turned around on the bed.

Coco had to lie flat on the bed.

Wendell and she had never had sex since they got married, at first because she was pregnant, and then because she had a miscarriage.

Now that she had returned from work and recovered, he still didn't want to have sex with her.

Coco's heart was more or less uncomfortable.

The next morning, Wendell woke up early.

After breakfast, Wendell brought Coco to the hospital.

Coco was the hospital's VIP, enjoying the right to see the doctor at any time, and can choose the best gynecologist.

Before entering the examination room, Coco blocked Wendell from the door, "Don't come. Men aren't allowed in here."

Wendell understood, "I'll wait for you here. When the result comes out, call out for me to go in."

"I will," Coco smiled, then turned around and entered the room.

The examination was over, and Coco put on her clothes.

"Mrs. South, your medication abortion didn't have any side effects and you are recovering well. If you want to have a baby eagerly, you can prepare for it after a while," said the doctor.

Coco didn't say anything, got out of the examination table, and took out a bunch of bills from her backpack.

The doctor looked at the banknotes and then at Coco, somewhat puzzled.

"The result has not been printed yet, right?"

"Not yet, Mrs. South. What do you want to say?"

Coco patted the doctor's shoulder and said, "You don't need to be nervous. There is something I want to say."

"I am listening," said the doctor.

"First, I had an accidental miscarriage, not a medication one; second, I didn't recover well because of the accidental miscarriage; third, you suggest that I should have a baby after a year. Put these on the checkup result," said Coco clearly.

Chapter 108 Let Her Play the Leading Role

The doctor looked at Coco, surprised and speechless.

"Mrs. South, are you sure about this?" the doctor asked.

"Do as I say, and all this money will be yours," Coco pushed a bunch of bills to the doctor.

In the room, besides the physician, there was an assistant doctor.

Coco glanced at the assistant and took out two more piles of banknotes from her bag. One pile was handed to the junior doctor, and the other was given to the physician.

The two doctors looked at each other in disbelief.

"Mrs. South, we have professional ethics. We can't distort the result. We are responsible for this."

Coco smiled faintly, "You've already told me the truth and it means you've done your duty. As for the check report, I'll destroy it after I show it to my husband. It won't cause you any trouble."

The doctor looked embarrassed.

"Don't be so nervous. The reason that I want you to change the report is that I don't want to have a baby with my husband temporarily so please do me a favor!" Coco said.

Wendell was waiting anxiously outside, wandering in the corridor.

After a while, Coco poked her head out, "Dear, come in."

Wendell immediately followed Coco and walked in. The report was placed on the table. Wendell picked it up, looked at it, and didn't understand it.

"Doctor, how is my wife's condition?"

The doctor smiled at Wendell and moved his glasses, saying, "Mr. South, Mrs. South recovers not as quickly as expected because of her accidental miscarriage."

"Then is there anything we can do to help her?" Wendell immediately tensed up.

Coco held his hand tightly.

"Relax, Mr. South. It is nothing serious. Mrs. South will fully recover but it takes time," the doctor said.

"That's right. Wendell, don't be so nervous. I am quite alright now," Coco comforted him.

"Then when can she get pregnant?" Wendell asked.

Coco's face looked a bit embarrassed. She had expected Wendell to ask this question.

"Under the current situation, I suggest that she should have a baby a year later when she has fully recovered. If she gets pregnant too early, there may be newborn deformities. If she miscarries again, the possibility that Mrs. South gets pregnant will be smaller," said the doctor.

Wendell nodded.

Coco finally breathed a sigh of relief.

"By the way, Mr. South. You can have sex but be careful with contraception."

Wendell smiled awkwardly, "Thank you, Doctor."

"We are leaving, Doctor," Coco stood up.

The two walked out of the hospital together, and all the way Wendell was in a low mood.

Coco sensed his displeasure and pouted as soon as she got into the car.

"Wendell, are you upset because I won't be able to get pregnant?" she asked.

Wendell turned his head to look at Coco and said, "No, don't think about this anymore."

"Then why are you unhappy? After hearing the doctor say that I could only have a baby after a year, you turned unhappy! You know I am willing to have a baby for you but it is not the right time!" Coco said with a louder voice.

Coco was fuming and muttered, "It was all Caroline's fault! We should have had a baby now if she hadn't pushed me that day!"

Wendell hurriedly explained, "Coco, you misunderstand me. I think it's my responsibility that you are not recovering well. Don't be angry. Since you finish work, how about going to eat something delicious?"

Coco bristled, "Alright!"

Wendell touched Coco's hair and started the engine.

"Wendell, when the doctor says that I am suitable to have a baby, I'll stop working and prepare to have a baby as soon as possible," Coco comforted Wendell.

Wendell smiled reluctantly.

Wendell took Coco to a buffet and after the meal, Coco told Wendell that she had to go back to her company, so Wendell sent Coco back. He himself returned home alone.

After getting one big thing done, Coco was in high spirits.

As soon as Coco entered the office, Chole could easily tell that she was in a good mood.

"You look good today. Is it because you finally finished shooting?" Chole asked.

"Yes. What are you looking for me for?" said Coco.

"Since you've finished shooting, do you have any plans next?" Chole asked.

Coco was silent for a moment and replied, "I want to rest for days and then I'll start working."

"Rest? Since you are gaining popularity these days, you should seize the opportunity and get more jobs!" Chole glanced at Coco.

"Alright. Chole, do you have work for me?" Coco asked.

"Well, in my opinion, after you finish your historic drama, you can try a soap opera."

"Soap opera?" Coco sighed. She was proud of being a graduate of a prestigious school with great acting skills. And now Chole told her to do some soap operas? What kind of joke is that?

"Chole, I don't think it is a good thing for me to act in a soap opera. I'd better have a break."

"Don't look down on soap operas. Many actors get famous starting from this," Chole said.

After saying that, she took out a script from the desk.

"This drama is going to be filmed recently. It is said that the investor has a very rich background, and within a few days, the funds are all ready. As for the crew, including the producer and the director, they were all famous and known as professionals. What's more, this drama adopts the mode of shooting while broadcasting," Chole said.

"Wow," Coco exclaimed and was stunned.

"I tried my best to help you get this chance! It is said the drama was adapted from an online novel, which is a super hit. I am telling you, this is the greatest chance for you even if you get the chance to play a role in this drama," Chole said seriously.

Coco took the script in her hand and replied, "I will think about it."

"But this is not the final script. You go back and read it first. The audition is in two days."

Hints Group

After coming out of the conference room, Richard had a tired face. Recently he always felt tired.

When Caroline was around, he was busy arguing with her and handling the business at the same time, but he didn't feel so tired.

Tom noticed that Richard was a bit tired so he walked to Richard. His words reached the tip of his mouth but he swallowed them back.

"Say it," said Richard.

"Mr. Preston, William Simon made a call."

Hearing William's name, Richard raised his head and asked, "What did he say?"

"William said that Coco Fowler wants to audition but he wants to ask you first."

As for this drama, Richard did this for Coco. He bought the copyrights, chose the best team, and also gave Caroline the chance to be the scriptwriter.

If Coco came...

"What role is she auditioning for?" Richard asked.

"The leading role," said Tom.

"The leading role?" Richard snorted coldly.

It seemed that Coco's ambition was not small.

"Mr. Preston, I think it's better not to let Coco enter the crew. Miss. Fowler surely doesn't want to see Coco. What if they have a fight on the set?" Tom asked.

"No, let Coco play the leading role."

Chapter 109 Sisters Meet

The launching scene of The President is a Big Devil The novel itself was a hit; it used the mode of filming while broadcasting; and the investor was willing to spend money on publicity. Therefore, the launch site was crowded with the audience.

Caroline was also invited to the scene. William picked her up, and brought her to the room behind the launch, followed by a tall and sturdy man.

"Miss. Fowler. This is your bodyguard. As long as you are on the set, he will protect you and his name is Gavin Samson," William introduced the bodyguard to her.

Caroline looked up at Gavin, who was tall and big, with well-built pectoral muscles.

"Miss. Fowler, it is great to see you. You can call me at any time if you need help," Gavin nodded politely towards Caroline.

Caroline looked at Gavin with a smile and said, "Thank you so much, Gavin."

"It is my honor to serve you, Miss. Fowler," said Gavin.

Caroline looked at this tall man and was very satisfied. Now she would never be afraid of being beaten like last time!

"Gina, look at all the media at the conference site. I think this drama will definitely be a hit."

"I don't care much about the fame. I just want to play my role well," Gina said calmly.

Feeling that the voice was familiar, Caroline turned around and saw Gina, "It's you?!"

Wasn't she the woman who gave her two hundred dollars the day she was mobbed?

Gina looked at Caroline, feeling that the person in front of her was unfamiliar, and said, "Excuse me, have we met before?"

"Don't you remember me?"

The day she was beaten, her body was dirty and her hair was disheveled.

And today, Caroline had put on makeup, so it made sense that Gina wouldn't recognize her.

Caroline walked to her and said, "Did you forget that the day I squatted under the wall, and you gave me two hundred dollars, telling me to take a bus to S city?"

Ann, the assistant next to Gina, recognized Caroline first, "You're that little beggar!"

"Ann!" Gina hurriedly stopped Ann from speaking further.

Ann covered her mouth and smiled awkwardly.

"It's okay. You're quite right. I did look like a beggar that day! Today, I'd like to introduce myself. Hello, my name is Caroline Fowler."

"Caroline Fowler? Are you the special screenwriter of this drama?" Gina was overjoyed.

Caroline nodded in embarrassment. For the first time when she introduced herself to others, she would get such a great reaction.

"Great! You know what? I've been reading your novel lately, and when I heard that there's going to be a drama, I came to audition for it. Even if I'm admitted to play an insignificant role, I'd love to do that!" Gina said with excitement.

"Are you an actress?" Caroline asked Gina.

"Yes, my name is Gina. I will play Doris in this drama."

"Wow, that's great!" Caroline took Gina's hand and shook it.

Outside the conference site.

A high-end nanny van passed by the entrance; the car window rolled down a little bit, and Coco took off her sunglasses to take a look.

That was so lively!

"Coco, see? This drama is on fire before it's even shot. You can just imagine how hot it'll be when it is on air. You will be the superstar one day."

Coco smiled and wished that what Chole said would come true one day.

The car kept driving to the parking area, and Chole first got out of the car and looked around, but as a result, no one came to pick them up.

"What the hell? You will play the leading role and no one comes to pick up us?!"

Chole was furious and stomped her feet heavily against the ground.

Coco couldn't wait and got out of the car, "Chole, why don't we go by ourselves? If we are late for the conference, there's going to be negative news about me again."

Chole sighed, "Coco, it is because you are not famous enough. If you are a first-tier actress, there must be someone who comes to pick you up today! Anyway, take this drama seriously."

Coco nodded, and they entered the building where the conference was taking place through the back door.

Chole grabbed a staff member and asked him about the waiting area for the actors, and then took Coco over.

As soon as they arrived, they saw Caroline holding Gina's hand and talking.

Caroline was also startled to see Coco here.

"Why are you here?!" The two asked in unison.

Coco crossed her arms and smiled contemptuously, "Caroline, I'm playing the leading role here, and that's why I came, but you... you even dare to appear in public now. Are you not afraid of the media outside?"

Coco came to Caroline's side, circled around her, and looked at Gina contemptuously.

"I advise you to leave through the back door earlier, or it won't be easy for you to leave when the media sees you and hounds you."

Caroline didn't say anything. She was used to Coco's attitude and she didn't want to waste time.

"You have no right to come here. You are not qualified."

Coco really looked down on Caroline more and more.

Gina took a step forward and was about to speak when one of the staff members walked over.

"Miss. Fowler, you should stay with the director later. These are the questions that the media is going to ask. Please take a look."

Coco walked forward and reached over her hand, "Thank you."

The staff froze for a moment when he saw Coco reaching out her hand. Only then did he realize that there were two Miss. Fowler here.

He scratched his head and said, "I'm sorry, Miss Coco. I'm talking about Caroline."

After saying that, he handed the paper to Caroline.

Coco awkwardly took her hand back, cleared her throat, and showed an embarrassed look.

"Why can she stand next to the director? Caroline is an actress?"

Coco muttered in a small voice.

"Coco, don't you know? Caroline is the writer of this novel and is the special scriptwriter of this drama. That explains why she should stand next to the director."

Coco was even more taken aback. Caroline is a writer? How could it be possible?

"If you don't want to work with me, we can use another actress," Caroline smiled smugly.

Chole immediately pulled Coco back to a corner.

"Chole, I don't want this role. I don't want to work with Caroline!"

"Coco, don't be so childish. She's a screenwriter and you can't afford to offend her. Moreover, we've signed the contract and you can't quit at this moment!" Chole said.

"But..." Coco was still hesitant.

"No more but. This is your big chance and you should seize it! You can't ruin your career just because of Caroline Fowler," Chole said seriously.

Coco was still very angry!

"Coco, I know you're not happy in your heart, but you have to endure it until you succeed!"

"But, Chole, you know that earlier I held a press conference and said so many bad things about Caroline in front of the media. Now I'm working with her. Isn't that a slap in my own face?!"

Chapter 110 Have to Bend

Coco was so close to being a big star so it was impossible for her to be self-contradictory.

"But there are no other choices now. We've signed the contract already! It's said that the investor in this drama has a strong background, so we can't afford to offend him. You have to bend this time, Coco," Chole sighed.

"Would it be possible that Richard is the investor of this drama?" Coco guessed.

Chole shook her head and said, "I've asked around. The investor is the boss of a game company. However, Hints Group doesn't have any game business. It shouldn't be Richard, I think."

"If it's not Richard, who would help Caroline with her stupid novel?" Coco burst into anger and thought, "Caroline is always the lucky one! That is so unfair!"

"Lower your voice! What if someone overhears you?" Chole said in Coco's ear.

Chole tried to comfort Coco, "But you can look at the bright side of this matter. Think about it, Coco. Now the public believes Caroline has been treating you badly and you still decide to work with her. The public will think you are a gentle and kind-hearted figure. It is good news for you. Don't you think so?"

Coco took a glance at Chole.

Coco realized that what Chole cared about most was 'the fame' rather Actress Coco.

"I have no other choice but to give in, have I?" Coco said helplessly.

"Don't cause any trouble then and be careful about your expression when you meet Caroline," Chole reminded Coco.

Coco nodded and complained, "The producer and the director know the history between Caroline and me but they still put us in the same crew. I don't know what they are thinking."

"They don't give a damn to what kind of grudge you have. As long as the drama can be a hit, nothing matters to them," Chole analyzed.

Coco lowered her head and sighed.

The Media

Some were carefully preparing the questions they were going to ask in a while; some were reading the conference procedure; and some were chatting.

"Have you heard that Coco Fowler is the leading role of this drama while the special scriptwriter is Caroline Fowler?" one asked.

"Caroline Fowler? Is that one who made her sister Coco miscarry?" the other asked.

"Yes, that's her!"

"I can't believe that they could appear on the same stage one day. I'm going to ask Caroline why she is so cruel to her sister?" one reporter said.

"Right. I'm going to ask her why she let her sister play the leading role?" the other reporter said.

Another one came over and said, "I have to remind you two not to ask Caroline these questions."

"Why?" The two young reporters spoke in unison.

"Didn't you guys get this question card? These are the questions, especially for Caroline. Except for these, you are not allowed to ask anything else. If you do, you will know the consequences," the reporter warned.

"Is that serious?"

"I have already warned you so it's up to you to take my advice or not. Listen, you might not be able to take the consequences if you ask these questions not allowed in front of Caroline. Anyway, you can ask Coco."

"Then I will take your advice. Since we are not allowed to ask other questions, it's better not to ask."

"I won't ask those questions either."

The conference began.

First, the producer William went to the stage with the director and Caroline. This also showed that Caroline enjoyed a high status in their crew.

The director here was the well-known Bob Sharp. All big names today. After the three people appeared, there was a round of question time.

A reporter stood up and said, "Mr. Simon. I was a bit shocked when I saw Caroline standing next to you. Don't you think it is a bit inappropriate for her to appear with you and the director?"

This reporter was quite bold to ask this question.

"Well, it's not inappropriate for me. Miss. Fowler is the creator of this drama and also the special scriptwriter of this drama. She's important and she should stand with us."

William made Caroline so important that many reporters threw questions at Caroline.

Just to Caroline's surprise, there was not a single sharp question. All the questions were about the novel.

Though it was her first time to attend the conference, Caroline was quite relaxed.

Then a few main actors came to the stage, including Coco. The room was filled with applause, and Coco waved her hands to say hello to the audience.

Gina's role was not very important, so she was standing in the corner. As soon as Coco came out, she became the center of attention of the media. The reporters started to ask questions to her one by one.

Coco replied with patience, always keeping a smile on her face.

"Miss. Coco, I remember that you once said that you didn't like soap operas because you think they are meaningless. And what makes you change your mind?" a reporter asked.

"People change over time. I'm looking for breakthroughs and want to try different roles. I am open to everything and I want people to know that I have endless potential."

Coco's reply was perfect.

"Miss. Coco, what makes you want to play in this drama?"

"First of all, I am personally reading this novel and found it quite interesting. When I heard that it was going to be adapted into a drama, I decided to give it a try," said Coco calmly.

Coco maintained a smile on her face.

"Then did you know that the writer of this novel is your sister Caroline?"

Coco smiled awkwardly and replied, "I didn't know about this. I am surprised to know."

"Then when you knew that the special scriptwriter of this drama was your sister, Caroline, did you ever think of quitting?" the reporter continued to ask sharply.

Coco's smile was awkward.

Another reporter stood up and asked, "Miss. Coco, you once held a conference to denounce your sister and said it was she who made you lose your baby. With such a history, do you still want to work with her? Why did you insist on playing the role?"

Coco's smile was even more embarrassed.

Caroline stayed silent. She couldn't understand why these reporters kept throwing sharp questions at Coco. It seemed that Coco couldn't handle them.

However, Caroline was glad to see his sister's embarrassed face.

Coco smiled weakly, "After I knew the screenwriter of this drama was my sister, I was surprised. I didn't expect her to be so talented. I am proud of her from the bottom of my heart."

Hearing these words, Caroline just wanted to vomit.

It was so hypocritical of Coco to say these words in public. Coco was never a good sister.

"As for what happened before, I don't want to talk about that anymore. I don't want to live in the shadows of the past. I am embarrassed when these questions were put forward."

Coco smartly avoided the reporter's question.

But there were some reporters who liked to see things get worse!

"Miss. Coco, you are playing the leading role. I guess it's inevitable that you'll discuss the script with the director and screenwriter. With an embarrassed relationship, can you work well together? If you can't work well together, then it will definitely affect the quality of this drama."

Coco wanted to strangle this reporter to death when she heard this. This reporter was forcing her to show goodwill with Caroline! That was a big humiliation to Coco!
