

Chapter 19

Sophia's POV

I felt a light fall over my face. It was hard for me to open my eyes. At first, I opened them cautiously, and then I nearly instantly shut them again.

"Good morning, pretty girl."

I heard Sara's voice and felt a pair of arms encircling my waist at the same time.

I turned my head and opened my eyes to look at her. Sara appeared to be in a good mood. She sat up and turned to me.

"Feeling good?" she asked.

I could not say yes because my head was aching like hell.

I slowly sat up straight and said,

"Morning."

I looked around and found myself in Sara's bedroom.

I frowned when I thought, 'I was in the club last night. How did I come here?'

"Nolan carried you here. You passed out last night." Sara explained it to me.

"Oh," I mumbled while pressing my hand to my head.

Just after that, my eyes widened as I was driven by memories of what I had done last night.

"Oh shit!"

I covered my mouth with a shocked face.

"What happened?" Sara asked with confusion.

"Oh my goodness! Oh no! How can I be so dumb?" I said, and in a state of disbelief, I got out of bed.

My response left Sara bewildered and confused. "Sophia, what are you saying?"

"I met Alpha Bryan last night!"

Sara's expression slightly changed. She nodded her head. "Yeah. But he is the one who dropped you off here."

"Sara! How am I supposed to explain what I did last night?" I started to groan.

My stomach began to churn. I felt like giving myself a slap.

My idiotic decision to call him "Bruce" was engraved in my memory. I even hugged him!

'Why did I do that? He may think that I am still after his brother, which is not true.' I thought and felt regret.

"What exactly did you do? It was clear that he was angry last night." Sara inquired with doubt in her eyes.

"I called him arrogant in his face!"

"What the hell!"

Sara appeared to be in complete astonishment. She shook her head.

"But you were drunk. It's okay. Just calm down. It is certain that he was aware of it."

"No, he won't understand. He is an arrogant man. He will never understand me."

Sara placed her hands on her waist and said,

"See? This is the problem. You are calling him arrogant again. That's why you called him that in a drunken state. When people are under the influence of alcohol, they speak the truth."

I pulled my hair in stress. The memory of him pushing me once and then shoving me again in his car kept repeating over and over in my head.

I was feeling embarrassed.

How could I push myself toward a man? I could remember that he called me shameless. Now I felt that I really behaved like one.

'He hates me already. After what happened last night, I have no doubt that he despises even more.' I thought.

Sara told me that nothing had happened. Although Bryan looked cold, he did not say anything about me, which gave me a little relief.

"I can't believe that Nolan is my mate. I am so happy, Sophia," Sara said to me as she explained her feelings after she discovered who her mate was.

It was shocking for her at first, but later, her wolf reacted well, and she felt happy to find such a good boy as her mate.

In front of me, she admitted that she had feelings for Nolan for a long time.

"I am happy that you are happy," I told her.

After talking with her, I took a shower, and then I changed into the same outfit that I wore yesterday before switching out the black one. I wanted to go back home right then, but Sara's mother invited me to join them at the table.

I could not say no to her, so I joined them.

"From what I've heard, you participated in the last event. How was your experience?" Sara's father asked.

When I heard his inquiry, I immediately stopped eating. After a brief peek in my direction, Sara cleared her throat.

"Dad, it was great. She did well in that competition."

"Yeah, yeah. She won the competition, didn't she?" Sara's mother asked Sara.

I shook my head sadly. "No, Auntie. I didn't."

"It's okay. Better luck next time. Sara always talks about you. You are a top scorer. There is a great future ahead for you." Sara's father said.

I stared at Sara's father with a small smile. He was a businessman. He valued this type of event a lot.

If I wanted, I could tell Sara to talk about me to her father to get me a job. In fact, Sara proposed to me about it two months ago.

But I declined it. I did not want to take any opportunity on behalf of our friendship. I was looking for a job based on my skills.

"Thank you, Uncle."

I left Sara's house after breakfast. She instructed her driver to drop me off at my home.

On the way, I was thinking about last night. I was upset with myself.

"I should not have drunk last night."

---

The next day,

I arrived at the university at an early hour. The way people looked at me today was different from how they looked at me the day before.

It looked like the news about how I talked to Bruce yesterday had spread throughout the whole university.

Since my behavior was rude to him, others believed that I did not make the video to get Bruce back. Some of them even doubted that Luisa was a liar.

It was a relief to know that the tag on my head would be removed soon. Exactly like everyone else, I would live a normal life.

What I needed to do was get a job that I could do part-time and keep myself active in between my studies and my work duties.

I noticed Nolan, who approached me with a smile.

"I'm happy for you and Sara." I expressed my happiness.

Nolan nodded at me. "Me too," he replied with a lower tone.

After giving him a thoughtful look, I said,

"Nolan, let me request one thing from you. Always cherish your mate. She is someone the Moon Goddess created specifically for you. You both are part and parcel of your lives. Even though anyone wants to leave, your mate will always feel for you and your suffering till the very end."

Nolan stared at me for some time, then eventually gave me a gentle nod.

"I promise you. I will always cherish Sara."

Just as I was about to smile at him, Sara came up behind me and gave me a hug.

"Thank you so much. I love you," she said to me.

"I thought you were mine," Nolan said to Sara in a joking tone.

"Yeah, but I love her too," Sara replied.

Her adorable behavior caused Nolan and me to chuckle. She looked more beautiful after finding her mate.

We were all busy talking.

At that moment, we heard a voice calling me from behind.

"Sophia Berge?"