

Chapter 305

Victor looked at Bryan. He had a smirk on his face as he walked in Bryan's direction. Behind him were many fighters who were only protecting him.

He stopped close to a tree and leaned his back against it.

"Oh, Alpha Bryan! Did you really think you were one step ahead of me? Didn't I tell you? In every way, only I will win. You tried to save your mate from me, but now you need to save her from yourself. By the way, where is she now? Do not tell me she is dead. I thought about going for her after the war, but unfortunately, you killed that naive woman."

He laughed while looking at Bryan. His eyes were brimming with mockery.

Bryan growled at him as he rushed up to him. The war resumed as the Moon Valley Pack's fighters attempted to stop him.

But his body was so massive that they could not reach his neck. Before they could even touch him, he tossed their bodies to the ground by just moving his head.

His officials were relieved that he was back. His father and brother were surprised.

Victor saw how Bryan was approaching in his direction. So he turned to look at Bryan's family members. His gaze was drawn to the she-wolf, Mila's wolf.

His grin deepened as he signaled to his beta and ordered,

"Kill that woman."

Bryan's paws came to a halt as he turned his head. He noticed Victor's beta running toward Mila. He turned around and dashed towards Mila to save her.

Mila was so shocked that she let out a howl. Victor's beta did not give her a chance to move because he arrived faster than anyone.

Mila took a step back as the past played on her mind. Victor's beta used to have bad intentions toward her. She used to hear Victor say that he would let his beta play with her. Though Victor's beta never touched her, she had the fear, which returned to her like a trauma.

That wolf snarled at her while nuzzling the fur around her neck. She howled as she tried to fight back.

Just as he was about to bite her leg, a gray wolf bit his neck and knocked him down.

Mila's eyes widened for a while. Then she realized Bruce was the one who had saved her.

Bruce killed Victor's beta, growling in the mind link.

"How dare you touch my mate?"

He looked at Victor and warned him in the mind link,

"If you have the audacity to touch her or let your man touch her, I will chop your manhood and make your officials eat it."

Mila was staring at Bruce. Her heart began to pound harder. Her wolf took a step toward him, rubbing her head against his neck. Bruce looked at Mila and was surprised by her action.

If Mila had not fallen for Bruce for the entire month, her heart skipped a beat now. She fell deeply in love with this man. The man she was looking for in her life was not anyone else but him.

"You all are emotional fools," Victor muttered as if he were losing his patience.

It was true that he did not expect Bryan to come to the war. He had information that Bryan and Sophia had left the pack. No one was sure where they had gone. He thought Bryan was trying to save his face, so he flew away with Sophia.

"I think it's time for your death, Alpha Bryan. I am losing my patience now."

Victor took out a wooden stake. He smirked at Bryan, who was fighting with other wolves to reach him.

He gripped the wooden stake tightly and aimed the target in Bryan's direction.

Bruce and Robert noticed what Victor was doing. They growled to notify Bryan of the situation. However, it was too late because Victor had already raised his hand to do it.

It was just as he was about to throw the stake that something came to pierce his arm, which caused him to let out a loud groan.

He discovered that someone had attacked him with another wooden stake pierced through his arm. He was stunned. Everyone was in their wolf form except him.

Then who did that?

He slowly shifted his gaze to the side. His eyebrows arched in surprise.

"Sophia?"

Everyone turned to see where he was looking as soon as they heard him.

Sophia was standing at a distance. She was not in her wolf form. She was wearing a simple white long dress, which was thin and loose.

She started to walk toward Victor.

Victor was so focused on her that he did not notice the other two women behind her.

"It looks like Alpha Bryan has such great patience and love for you. If it were me, I would have marked you the first night to secure my position."

Sophia stared at him as she came to a stop a short distance away.

Victor did not feel any danger from her. In fact, he was pleased that she had come to the war. Bryan's death was inevitable now. If he killed her, Bryan would die in sorrow for losing her anyway.

Victor took a step forward while muttering,

"It's good that Bryan didn't mark you. Otherwise, how can his mate die in my ha—"

Victor froze when the dark clouds cleared from the moon and the moonlight illuminated the ground, allowing him to see Sophia clearly.

He was taken aback when his gaze landed on her neck.

"H-He marked you! H-How? How on earth are you still alive?"

Victor was unable to help but stutter. He was shaken from inside because what he was seeing was impossible.

There was no way Sophia could survive after getting marked.

Sophia's lips formed a smirk as she reacted for the first time after coming to the war.

Her eyes moved to Bryan, who was looking at her.

As if in a flashback, they recalled what had happened yesterday after Bryan noticed his mark on her neck.
