

Chapter 342

"Don't trust me, Allison."

Allison opened her immediately. She was shocked, mostly horrified.

What happened to her?? Did she just almost let him kiss her? If he did not back away, they might have kissed already.

'What is wrong with me?' She thought.

She looked at Ryan. He was looking at her. His eyes were cold.

'He must be thinking of me as a shameless girl.'

Her eyes became teary. She turned her head to another side. She wiped the corner of her eyes.

"Why are you crying?" He asked.

She was speechless. Should she reply to him? She stood up.

"Nothing." Then she stood beside the door.

She glanced at him. He was staring at her.

"Go and take a rest. You should sleep."

She opened the door wide and left the rooftop.

She was mad at herself. Every time she met Ryan, something happened.

She could blame him for the classroom, but what about today? How could she let go of her self-respect like that?

She was going downstairs when her eyes fell on Ethan.

She tightened her fists. She wanted to give him a punch.

'All of this is happening because of him.'

"Allison"

Ethan called her.

She walked past him. Ethan followed her behind.

"Allison, listen to me."

"Stay. Away." She muttered angrily.

"Where are you going?"

"You don't have to know."

Everyone was staring at them. They were surprised that their Alpha who never behaved so desperately to any girl was running over a girl.

Allison emerged from the entrance. She began to walk in the direction of the bus stop.

Ethan grabbed her hand. "Stop."

"How dare you touch me?" She roared and snatched her hand.

Ethan took a deep breath. "Okay, calm down. I am not touching you."

"Shut up. And don't follow me."

She continued to walk again. She felt he no longer followed her.

She went to the bus stop and sat down on a bench, waiting for a bus.

She was moving her legs while sitting. She was very nervous. She did not know why.

"I have to stay away from Ryan. I can't go around him. Whenever he comes in front of me, I feel strange."

She bit her lips. She rested her chin on her palms.

A bus came and people started to fill the bus. She stood up and went inside the bus.

She sat beside a window. A middle aged woman sat beside her. She observed Allison's expression.

"Are you upset?"

"Huh?"

Allison turned her head to her. The woman smiled at her. "Is something bothering you, kid?"

The woman's green eyes were very attractive. Allison understood that she was a witch.

"I am just confused." She said and turned back to the window to see outside.

"Why?"

"I am not feeling good."

"Is it about your wolf?"

Allison turned to her and asked, "How do you know?"

"We can see many things." The woman replied. Green eyes turned dark, she let out,

"Your wolf does not look good to me. She is in anguish. She felt some pain that broke her totally."

Allison lowered her head when she heard that.

"But she will recover soon."

Allison heard her again. It was true because she took Doctor Linus's potion.

"Yeah, I have a potion for omegas."

The woman looked perplexed. "A potion?"

"Yeah, my doctor told me that would help me."

She shook her head. "There is no potion in the world that can give you back your wolf but your mate."

"Mate?"

The woman nodded. "Yeah. Only a mate can save her mate's wolf. I can see, she is recovering well. Though she is weak, she will be fine soon. All you have to do is, stay beside him."

Allison stared at her blankly. She whispered,

"But my mate rejected me."

The woman was stunned. "How can this be possible?"

Allison did not reply to her. She had nothing to say.

"I think the mate bond has not broken yet. Because I can see you have a mate."

Allison's eyes widened. She could not be more shocked.

The woman patted her back. "Kid, don't worry too much. Your wolf needs her mate as well as you. So try to stay close to him. It will give your wolf strength. It will help her to recover fastly."

At that time the bus stopped. It was Allison's house area. She stood up slowly. But her mind was full of confusion.

She smiled at the woman. "Bye Aunt."

"Stay blessed."

"Thanks."

She got down from the bus and started to walk. She was confused about what the woman said to her.

She tried to remember when she first felt her wolf response after the rejection.

But that morning she did not meet Ethan or did she? Was he there somewhere?

She met him when she went to Doctor Linus. She felt pain in her heart. Was it also a response?

Today she felt it again. Today Ethan was there in the hall too.

Allison closed her eyes and shook her head.

"No, no. This is nonsense. Mate bonds haven't broken yet? How can it be possible?"

She headed to Teresa's house as she was guessing about everything.

"But if it's not true then how did my wolf react?"

She tried to shove her all thoughts and reached Teresa's house.

"Allison, Dear. How are you?" Teresa's mother asked.

"Fine, Aunt. How about you?"

"All good. But your best friend suddenly got sick."

"Yeah, I came to see her."

Teresa's mother nodded and told her to go to Teresa's room to meet her.

Teresa was using her phone when Allison went to her room.

Teresa was stunned that she came so early. Allison hugged her and asked about her condition.

They talked about Teresa's health. Teresa asked her what happened to her.

Allison could not restrain herself to tell her everything.

"You mean your mate is helping your wolf to recover?"

"The witch woman said so."

"How can we believe her?"

"She told me about my wolf without me telling her anything. She is a witch so obviously she was trying to help me."

Teresa nodded her head. She thought for a moment and advised her,

"That means you will have to spend some time with Ethan from now on if you want to recover your wolf."
