

Chapter 380

ONE MONTH LATER

"Allison, you have started doing the same thing again." Allison's mother yelled at her.

"What, Mom? I am getting late."

"No, you can't leave without having breakfast."

Allison felt defeated and went to the table. She sat and drew her plate closer to her.

"That's my good girl." Her mother said.

Her father laughed at them. She had her breakfast hurriedly and was about to rush out when her father spoke out,

"Allison, I forgot to tell you. Alpha Neil wants to meet you."

She turned around and asked,

"Why?"

"He and Luna Ella want to thank you. The way you always were always with Ethan when he was injured, it really touched their hearts. So they arranged a get-together. Just us and their family."

"Oh. Okay. I will come back soon, then."

She went out of the house, and their driver waited for her to drop her off at school.

In this one month, she most of the time went to meet Ethan. She tried to give him time. He eventually recovered his health last week.

He became healthy in the first week, but his hand was paralyzed for three weeks. Until last week, his hand had completely recovered. After his recovery, he began to attend work and go to school again.

Such a workaholic person!

The car stopped in front of her school.

She stepped down and proceeded to the entrance. She could see girls with piercing gazes at her.

They were jealous that she was Ethan's girlfriend.

Ethan admitted to everyone in the school that she became his girlfriend. After that, everyone was behaving strangely with her. Some of them almost bowed to her. They believed she would be the Luna for sure because she was not an average girl with whom Ethan could break up at any time. She was Beta Glen's daughter, so even if he wanted, he could not break this relationship. It would only destroy two families. It was their thoughts.

Because Allison's thought was different. She did not feel like that, and neither did Ethan.

Ethan loved her, and she used to love him.

Their feelings were different. However, she tried her best to stay with Ethan and forget the past.

Though they were in a relationship now, they did not tell their parents about it.

"You missed the first class."

Teresa's voice was heard from behind her.

She turned to face her and grinned. "How can I attend? My lovely mother made me have breakfast at home."

Teresa burst out laughing when she heard her.

"She did the right thing. But you should strive to get up early in the morning."

Allison pressed her hands in front of her. "Okay, my second mother."

Then they giggled and walked towards the locker room together.

They heard other girls who grabbed their attention.

"Yeah, look how hot he is! He does not go to the club we usually go to. He goes to the high-class clubs."

"Take a look at this lucky new girl. Who is she?"

"Another chick. She is not from our school."

Teresa rolled her eyes and opened her locker. But Allison, on the other hand, was still listening to the conversation.

"I don't know how these girls mustered the courage to approach him. He always looks intimidating."

"I will faint if he just kisses me."

"Stop dreaming. Haven't you noticed? He hooks up with beautiful girls with hot bodies."

Teresa grabbed Allison's hand and pulled her to her locker.

"Why are you listening to them?"

Allison did not reply. She opened her locker and took out her book.

"I am going to my class."

"Allison--"

"I'm getting late, Tess. See you after the class."

She walked to her class and thought about what those girls were gossiping about.

They were talking about Ryan.

After the day she encountered him in the cabin of the hospital, he left the pack without saying anything to the others.

Max informed Alpha Neil that he would come back soon.

Alpha Neil tried to contact Ryan a lot, but his phone became unreachable.

She cried that night and thought he would never come back. She felt an unknown attachment to him that she could not realize until he left the pack.

He returned to this pack after two weeks. He did not give any justification to his parents about it.

She saw him in the pack house many times, and he always avoided her.

Every day, she noticed him with girls. He began to go out with girls again.

He had now gone to extremes. The majority of the students witnessed him making out with girls inside the school. They even discussed how they saw him with girls at the clubs. His life was now full of girls and club parties.

Every time she heard about him, she felt a pang in her heart. She had no idea why she was feeling this way. Because she had never felt like this for him before.

She remembered his words that he said to her in his room on the night of his mother's birthday.

'Don't accept anyone other than me in your heart.'

She was furious with herself. She should forget about him. She made the right decision by accepting Ethan.

His mother was right that night.

He was unchangeable. He remained the same. He desired to be with her, and once he obtained his desire, he would have crushed her heart.

He would do the same thing that he was currently doing.

She went to the class. She could not be attentive to the lecture that the professor was giving.

After the class, she headed to the next class. She was happy that this class would be with Teresa.

Her phone began to ring. She looked at the phone screen.

It was Ethan. She received the call.

"Yeah."

"Where are you?"

"I'm going to class right now."

"Dad told me about today's get together. You are my special guest."

His remarks made her chuckle. Ethan had recently begun to behave cutely.

"I heard it from my dad. I will come with them."

"I will be waiting for you. I did not go to school today because I had some stuff to do. Otherwise, I would have picked you up from school."

"No worries."

"How are you now?" He asked.

While walking, she lowered her head. Her wolf was not doing well at the moment. Even if she shifted, she appeared agitated. Allison did not know the reason. That was why Ethan inquired about her health.

"Fine." She replied while looking at her hand. She still did not get the reason about how her wound healed so fast.

"Why are you silent? Are you missing me?"

Ethan's voice took her out of her thoughts.

"Missing you?" It was her question, but it came out of her mouth like an answer.

At that time, she bumped into someone, and her phone fell to the ground.

A pair of warm hands gripped her waist, preventing her from falling.

Her heartbeat fastened as she inhaled the familiar cologne.

Then she heard a rude voice scolding her,

"Where are your eyes? Or are you so busy with love talking with your boyfriend that you forgot how to walk properly?"
