

Chapter 436

Allison remained silent. When her father did not get her reply. He asked,

"Are you crying for that man?"

She opened her eyes and wiped away the tears that had been falling. She turned her head to the window and replied,

"No. I am crying because of the foolishness that I did two years ago."

"Allison, you did not do anything foolish. You chose the right thing. If he really cared for you, he could have told you about himself. But he did not do that. He let you in the dark."

"Dad, don't push someone to her limit. I have already reached the point of no return."

"He is-"

She looked at his seat and interrupted him.

"My future was the only thing you were worried about, right? He turned out to be the most powerful Alpha. When he left this pack, he already held the position of head Alpha of his pack. Now what, Dad? You have just been concerned about maintaining your status. What are your thoughts on this matter at this point?"

He turned his head from the front seat and looked at her.

"So what if he turned out to be a powerful Alpha? He is not a good person. Have you not witnessed the way that he behaved around his own father?"

"Really? Then hadn't you witnessed how his own family reacted to him two years ago?"

"Why are you defending him? You are Ethan's Luna, not his. By the way, he has another woman in his life now. So you better not think about him."

"Dad, I beg you, don't talk to me."

"I find it hard to accept that you are now being impolite to your father. It's all because of him."

Allison looked over at her mother, who had been completely mute during the car ride.

When Joey realized that her daughter was looking at her, she immediately spoke up and said,

"Glen, relax. Let's put an end to this topic here. During the meal, she declared that the only person she loves is Ethan. This brings an end to the conversation."

The peacemaking efforts of Allison's mother toward her father were successful. Glen did not say anything after then. He only glanced at the rearview mirror from time to time.

When they reached home, Allison did not waste any time getting to her room; she went straight there. She closed the door and slid against it.

She touched her neck and cried silently.

She grabbed her hair and pulled it in anger. She was depressed. Those burning gazes of Ryan's continued to torment her.

Every time she closed her eyes, she was only seeing his eyes. Those eyes were filled with a deep-rooted animosity toward her.

She recalled Ethan's words when she was in the garden. Ryan had someone else in his life now.

Though she thought she had moved on in her life, after watching him once again, she felt she had been lying to herself all these years.

She was unable to put him out of her heart.

Her wolf could not forget his warmth.

She had no idea how she was going to deal with everything now.

She did not know how long she would control herself. She cursed herself for saying those things to him two years ago. She cursed herself for listening to her parents and letting him go. She cursed herself for trying to forget him.

She pressed her head against the door and brushed her hand on her neck. He almost killed her today.

Did he hate her that much?

Would he ever forgive her?

Or he would punish her just like he said that she would have to pay?

The next morning,

Allison went to school. Students were passing her. A few of them bow to her since, in one month, she was going to be the Luna of this pack.

"Why do you look upset?" Diva asked.

Allison was sitting on a bench beside the window. She was lost, so her new friends were worried for her.

"Nothing." She mumbled.

"You can tell us. You are a strong woman. How come you look weak today? Are you sick? Should we inform Alpha?" Ciara inquired with a worried tone.

"Tsk. No, please don't." She replied. She did not like it when they talked to Ethan.

Last time, Ethan arranged a birthday party for her and invited all of them. After that point, all of them became Ethan fans. Because Ethan had previously instructed them to look after her, if there was a problem, they were adamant about informing him about it.

"Okay. But I think it would be best if we went to the clinic for a quick checkup." Diva said.

The day passed without paying attention to the classes. Allison could not just focus on anything.

She noticed Ethan's car waiting for her outside school. She could have chosen to take the bus, but given that his car was already parked there, others might have been suspicious of her conduct. Since she did not want anyone to discuss or gossip about her, she did not want to give them an excuse to do so.

She reached the pack house. She cast a glance across at the cars that were parked in the parking lot.

She remembered that there was a meeting scheduled for today in the pack house.

"How could I forget it?" She rubbed her forehead and got out of the car.

"What should I do now? I didn't even wear any appropriate dress to go in front of the Alphas or attend the meeting." She muttered and entered the pack house.

Since it was already noon, everybody was already in the meeting room. She looked for Ella in hopes that she could help her find a dress so that she could go to the meeting and join the others.

Ella was having a conversation with the cook in the kitchen. Allison learned that she was giving the chef instructions to prepare Ryan's favorite dishes.

"Aunt"

Ella smiled at her as she turned to face her.

"Good noon, my dear."

"Good noon. I came to ask for a dress."

Ella looked at her dress and said,

"Oh, you are late for the meeting."

"Yeah."

"Let's go. We can check Ethan's wardrobe."

Allison's legs froze. "Why?"

"Maids arranged Luna's clothes there. You will move in there in one month, but before then, you are required to visit here on a daily basis. Therefore, I instructed them to put everything in its proper place there. You can just go and change your clothes and then proceed right to the meeting."

Allison nodded her head, and she dashed for the stairwell. She was ready to climb the steps but stopped when she noticed that Ryan and his officials were making their way down. Teresa was with them.

Allison moved to the side to make room for their descent. It was clear to her that they were going to attend the meeting.

Ella smiled at Ryan and said,

"It's good that the meeting has not begun yet. Allison is going to the meeting hall after changing her clothes."

Ryan paused walking when he heard that. He turned to Ella and asked,

"What did you just say? Why would she attend a meeting?"

"She will be our Luna soon. So she started to attend meetings six months ago." Ella replied softly. She was feeling relieved that her son was at least talking to her.

Ryan gave Allison a stern look and said,

"You. You can't attend the meeting."

Allison was taken aback. "Why?"

"It's my meeting. And you haven't yet gotten the position of the Luna of this pack. So I don't want an unprofessional person like you sitting in front of me in the meeting room."
