

Chapter 488

Everyone gathered outside the room to wait for Georgiana to come out. All of them had worry written on their faces.

"Neil, our son is dying." Ella whimpered and sobbed as she spoke.

Alpha Neil extended his arm out to envelop her in his embrace and wrapped his arm around her.

"Don't worry; our son will be fine." He assured her.

Although he was aware that it would be extremely challenging for Georgiana to save Ethan, he was unable to share the facts with Ella.

He had no choice but to pray that Georgiana, despite all of her obstacles, would be able to save Ethan.

His gaze wandered throughout the hallway and then settled on Elora, who was likewise crying her eyes out. Her expression revealed that she was filled with regret.

His gaze turned, and it settled on Allison for a moment.

He recalled what he had learned about Ethan and Allison.

He could not just believe that his son, Ethan, could reject Allison.

Why did he do that?

If he were fine at that time, he would have slapped him for doing this.

He turned his head to look at his best friend, who was aware of everything but had chosen not to tell him anything about it since he believed his son's mistake would only hurt him.

The door to the room opened, and he swiftly turned his attention to the woman who emerged from it.

"Georgiana"

Ella rushed to her. She asked with a hopeful voice, "How is my son?"

Georgiana looked at her and sighed. "I tried my best."

"And?" Alpha Neil inquired about Ethan's health and wanted to know more about it.

Georgiana gave him a friendly grin and nodded her head in response.

"And I was able to help him. Hope he will be fine soon."

Everyone felt relaxed. Ella embraced Georgiana and expressed her gratitude to her.

"Goergiana, you have my sincere gratitude. When will he finally open his eyes?"

"About it, I have no idea.. Your pack doctor may check him."

Linus acknowledged her with a nod before proceeding into the room to check on Ethan.

Everyone walked inside to see what the doctor had to say regarding Ethan's condition.

While Linus was checking on the medical mercenaries, he also checked on Ethan. He had a frown on his face.

"What happened, Linus?" Wade asked with worry.

"Beta Wade, I think his situation calmed a little, but I can't locate his wolf inside him. I don't know when he will be fine. Because his heartbeat is still unsteady."

"But.." Wade was about to say something but paused and turned his head to Georgiana, then asked,

"You said you could help."

Georgiana nodded her head with approval. "Yes, I cast spells on him. I hope he will be fine soon until the moon goddess decides something else."

"Don't say that. He will be fine." Neil said.

"Uncle Neil, he is still in a life-threatening situation. Tomorrow, we will be able to say something."

Everyone felt worried once again. Georgiana told them that she cast spells, but she did make sure that he would be fine.

After some time had passed, Ella made the decision to remain in the room with his son in order to care for him.

Wade told her that he could assist her. But she refused to take his help. She told him that he would have to take on Ethan's responsibility until he was fine.

"I will be with you." Alpha Neil said to Ella.

"No, Neil. You are sick. Your health is not good. Go to our room and take some rest. I will be here to take care of Ethan."

Alpha Neil had to leave the room. Others also went to their rooms since it was late at night.

Allison had the intention of letting Ella know that she, too, could stay with her. However, she prevented herself from it. She did not want to disturb the mother who was eager to take care of her son. She felt that it would be rude.

Alpha Neil told Glen that they would stay at the pack house tonight. Glen thought it would be better if he stayed the night here. Because who knew when they needed him?

"Are you okay?" Teresa asked Elora.

When Allison heard Teresa, she cast a glance in Elora's direction. During the time that Goergiana was trying to save Ethan in the room, Teresa arrived to check on Allison and stayed with her all the time.

"I am totally fine, Teresa. I just want to stay alone." She said it with an upset tone and headed upstairs.

Teresa glanced at Elora, who was climbing the stairs. She turned to Allison. They were standing in front of the staircase.

"I think Elora is regretting her decision." Teresa said to Allison.

"She should have thought about it first." She replied angrily and proceeded to the guest room.

She thought about Ethan the whole night. Ethan was not a bad boy. He had made a mistake, and now he was feeling pain because of it.

"I hope you will be fine, Ethan." She mumbled as she recalled how broken he was.

How was she going to handle the fact that the man she had been with only a few hours earlier had just received rejection and was now fighting for his life?

She stood by the window, unsure of how much time had gone by or how long she had been there. She turned around to have a glass of water.

When she saw the jar was empty, she went to the kitchen to drink a glass of water. She stopped on her way back to the guest room, turned around, and then continued on to the room where Ethan was at that very moment.

Since Ella was by herself in the room, she reasoned that she should check on her to see if she needed anything.

However, she was stopped in her tracks when she saw a man in black attire come out of Ethan's room.

She frowned and then headed in his direction.

"What are you doing here, Ryan?" She asked him with a suspicious voice.

Ryan looked taken aback. His face was saying that he did not expect her to come there at that time.

"What would I tell you?" He gave a chilly response.

She was just about to respond to him, but at that moment, she heard a scream from inside.

"Did you do something to him?" Allison asked Ryan while glaring at him.

"Shut up. I was just passing the room and thought to say hi to your Ethan."

She paid no attention to his comments and dashed into the room instead. She noticed that Ethan's entire body was violently trembling on the bed. Ella was wailing inconsolably while clinging to his hand. She was shocked.

At that moment, everyone, including Elora and Georgiana, hurriedly entered the room.

Georgiana was smirking as she kept her gaze fixed on Ethan while she stood behind everyone.

Linus went straight to check on Ethan. His pupils became much larger. After injecting some of the medication into his arm, Ethan's body calmed down.

"What happened, Ella?"

"It's all my fault. I don't know how I fell asleep. My sleep broke when I felt Ethan's body shaking on the bed." Ella began to explain while she sobbed.

Allison cast a glance in the direction of Ryan, who rolled his eyes at her.

After Linus had spent a few minutes arranging the medical equipment, he turned to the other people in the room and smiled broadly.

"He is finally out of danger now."
