

Chapter 500

Georgiana was taken back after hearing Ryan. She could not believe her ears. It was hard for her to accept that Ryan was aware of everything.

"You knew about it?" Elora asked, sobbing. Seeing her crying, Ethan leaned toward her and wrapped his hand around her shoulder, then rubbed her forearm to comfort her.

"Of course, I knew. I was aware of her every action when she was in my pack. Otherwise, why did you think I brought another older witch to the coven?"

Georgiana fell to her knees and cried out loud.

"Forgive this naive witch, Alpha. Accept my apology, or kill me. I didn't mean to do that. My daughter was in love with you. That was why I gave her a way to come close to you."

"Hmm, we can take that excuse." Ryan nodded his head as if he agreed with her. But he raised a brow and asked,

"What about the wizard of Alpha Axel?"

Goergiana's eyes almost popped out. "H-How did you know about it?"

Ryan glanced at his officials, and they started to chuckle. Others were looking at them with wonder.

"That wizard was a fan. When Ryan returned to the coven from this pack, the man told him everything he knew about you, including how you went to his pack and manipulated him into entering the coven in order to break every spell." Beta Max spoke out.

Georgiana's face turned pale. Ryan shook his head and said,

"You wanted me to stay away from this pack, or I can say stay away from my mate and stay bedside your only daughter."

At that instant, Glen got to his feet and bolted over to Georgiana. In a fit of rage, he seized her by the hair and demanded to know,

"You knew about the mate thing? Why did you lie to me? Why did you deceive me like that? Why did you force me to play with my daughter's life?"

Glen was yelling in fury. His eyes were watery and blurry. He could not believe that their old friend, whom he thought was a well-wisher of them, turned out to be an evil witch.

How could he forget about the days when he heard her daughter crying alone in her room?

There were many times when he had the urge to go talk to her and tell her the truth about the situation. He desired to reassure her that he was not ruining her life but was, in fact, protecting her from danger. Every time, he stopped himself and Joey because he knew that their daughter was stubborn. If he had told her about it, she would not have listened to any prophecy and would have chosen the path of love.

But now he was regretting it. He felt that he was actually a life destroyer for his daughter. He was living with seeing hate in her daughter's eyes because he felt that her daughter was at least safe. But now, how could he live with this guilt?

Glen fell to the ground with a push when Georgiana grabbed his wrist. She pushed him with power. It burned his wrist slightly.

Joey and Allison were the first to reach him. Allison scowled at Georgiana.

"How could you do that to me? What have I done to deserve this from you?"

As soon as Georgiana realized that everyone had been aware of every detail of the truth, she lost all desire to keep anything a secret.

She started to laugh. Her dark laugh echoed throughout the pack house.

"I thought we were good friends, Georgiana. Why did you play with my children's lives?" Neil said this to her with a disappointed look. He came to his best friend to support him and told Linus to help him.

Meanwhile, Ella was crying. She stared at Georgiana. "I despised you. You are also a mother. But you didn't even bother to hurt your own daughter. Why? What was the need for you to do that?"

Georgiana's eyes glowed green. Her face turned grimace. She twisted her head and pointed her finger at Elora.

"I wanted my daughter to become the Luna of a true blood Alpha. She fell for him too. But she never paid attention to what I had to say. I desired to have control and power. I wanted her to be powerful. So I pushed her to death so that your son could come and save her. I wanted him to mark her that night. But he was clever enough to understand my plan and did not mark her."

Saying that, she turned to Ryan, who was staring at her with his sharp eyes. He asked her,

"You wanted power? What if I show you some new power? Are you excited?"

Georgiana was astonished, but she gathered up her courage. She was the most powerful witch. How could she lose? She nodded her head proudly.

"Come." Ryan let out.

At that precise moment, Teresa and another elderly woman entered the pack house as though they were waiting for him to grant permission to do so.

Allison realized that Teresa was absent all the time. However, when she shifted her eyes to the old woman, her lips parted, and she said,

"Grandma, you?"

It was the old witch she used to meet at the bus stop. Last time, she was the one who told her about the true blood at the art gallery.

Suddely, something hit her mind.

She felt tears roll down her eyes when she recalled her statement.

Upon their first meeting, she told her she had a mate. The next time, she told her that her mate was the Almighty Alpha. She mistook it and thought that she was talking about Ethan. In fact, she was the one who told her to stay close to her mate to get her wolf back.

She was talking about Ryan the whole time! But I could not understand her.' She thought and bit her bottom lip to control herself.

"Allison, her name is Aurelia." Teresa told her. Aurelia smiled at Allison.

Allison observed that Aurelia appeared to have a younger appearance compared to how she appeared in the art gallery. It was not a cosmetic because it could not change her complexion or make her glow; rather, it was something else. It was the power that, day by day, gave her a more youthful appearance.

Georgiana stood up and asked in anger,

"What is she doing here, Alpha? Didn't you say you kicked her off the coven?"

"I lied, Georgiana." Ryan replied and grinned at her.

"How could you?" Georgiana asked with disbelief.

Ryan threw the cigarette and got to his feet. Everyone moved a little when he stood up.

"Remember, Georgiana. You asked me a question approximately two weeks ago. You asked me why I was staring at the entrance like I was waiting for someone."

Georgiana took a step back as she recalled that.

"What did I say? What was I waiting for, Georgiana?"

She tightened her fists and replied while stuttering,

"W-Waiting for the demise of your enemies."
