

Chapter 507

Allison opened her eyes when she felt the sunlight hit her face. She blinked a few times to clear her view. She felt that her head was leaning on something. When she moved her head, she realized that she was sleeping on Ryan's shoulder.

His eyes were closed, indicating that he was asleep.

She took a close and cautious look at him. He had a particularly stunning set of eyelashes. Her gaze traveled to the sharp lines of his jawline. She had an urge to run her fingers along his jawline.

She did not know what was on her mind; she lifted her hand slowly. But before she could touch his face, he opened his eyes.

She gasped in shock. She could not even move. Her entire body went numb.

He dipped his chin and cocked his head to the side in order to gaze at her.

When his nose brushed hers, she felt her heart give a little jump in response. It was almost as if he were going to kiss her. Therefore, she shut her eyes quite tightly.

"Stop clinging to me."

Hearing him, her eyes flung open. He withdrew his gaze from hers and moved his head away. Almost instantly, she sat up straight and shifted away from him.

"I-I am sorry. I didn't know when I fell asleep and my head fell on your shoulder."

He did not respond to her, giving the impression that he disregarded her apologies. She was angry with herself since she had been unconsciously leaning on his shoulder.

'He must be very angry at me. He does not even like my touch now.' She thought and turned to the window.

She was surprised when she saw they were passing many houses. After a while, a few tall buildings came into her vision.

The Black Moon pack was indeed very developed. They had every possible way to expand their pack since their Alpha was Ryan, and they had powerful official wolves beside their Alpha.

She smiled when she saw couples walking hand in hand. They appeared to be in their collegiate years. Her eyes grew really wide as she came to a realization. She switched her attention to Ryan, whose eyes were closed.

She wanted to ask him when she would be going back to her former pack to carry on with her studies.

However, looking at his face, she could not ask about going back. For some reason, she was afraid. She was terrified that he would back out of the agreement to make her his Luna at any moment. But she wanted to stay as close to him as possible.

The car stopped so suddenly. She turned her head and noticed that everyone's car had come to a complete halt. She thought they had arrived at the pack house.

However, when she spotted Max walking toward their car, she became perplexed by the situation.

Max knocked on the window. Ryan lowered the pane of glass in the window and questioned, "What the hell happened?"

"Ryan, we can't enter our car from the front side of our pack house."

Ryan frowned. "Why?"

"Everyone got to know about you winning two new packs. They are celebrating it. They are waiting for us."

Ryan rolled his eyes and closed his eyes again. "You could have told that to me in a mind link. It wasn't necessary for you to stop each and every car."

Max gave a smirk while looking first at Allison, then at Ryan, and then at both of them together. "I just wanted to make sure that the temperature in your car wasn't too high or too low. I thought it would be hot. But why am I feeling the chilly air here?"

It was completely above Allison's head what Max was talking about. She did not know why Max was even asking that. Since the car's air conditioner was running, it was only natural that the air inside the car would be cool.

"Please go in your own car and warm it up. Stop disturbing me." Ryan replied calmly.

"I gave my car to others. I am going with Tess in Ethan's car. Elora is with us."

"Too bad that you can't heat it up in front of him. You have very little guilt; therefore, you should avoid doing anything in front of other people."

When Allison finally realized what they were talking about, her expression changed drastically. Her cheeks turned a bright red.

"You two! Stop talking about such things. Max, how can you stop all the cars and waste your time talking about these things?" Allison said.

Max did not say anything to Allison. He looked at Ryan and waited for his instructions.

"Let's enter from the back door." Ryan stated. After confirming his agreement with it, Max returned to Ethan's car. His mind was linked to others.

All the cars took a U-turn and headed to a different road. They were going to enter the pack house from the backside.

Allison was quietly observing the scene outside. The faster the car drove, the more nervous she became. Her anxiety increased as the car continued to accelerate.

She noticed a large number of people congregating on both sides of their cars. They understood that their Alpha had returned with victory once again.

She was shocked when she noticed those people were bowing their heads and did not even dare to come close to the car.

They were extremely disciplined people!

All the cars entered an area that Allison guessed was the pack house's area.

When she took in the breathtaking scenery, it brought a sense of contentment to her eyes. Both sides were full of trees, and in the middle was the road for transportation.

After driving in a straight line for close to ten minutes, the cars curved to the left to go around a large fountain.

Allison tilted her head to glimpse at the fountain through the window.

Two enormous wolf statues stood with their heads touching the crescent moon.

They were encircled by water all around them.

The stunning appearance of the fountain left Allison speechless. The color of the wolves and the color of the moon were the things that initially drew her attention.

The two wolves differed in color, with one being white and the other black.

The moon was full black, but it had a glitter shade around it, which would shine under the moonlight at night.

Before Allison could think more, a guard opened the doors for them to come out.

Allison stepped out of the car and looked at the fountain directly.

All the officials walked to Ryan as he got out of the car.

Everyone emerged from their cars beaming broadly with a smile. The breathtakingly magnificent fountain was the first item that caught their attention in the area. They looked at it with expressions of surprise on their faces.

Gamma Colin noticed Allison staring at the mountain. He spoke out,

"This fountain was created after Ryan won the war against Alpha Axel. The next night, Ryan hurriedly made his way back to the Moonlight Crown pack. But before returning, he instructed us to construct this fountain. He even named it."

"What?" Allison asked instantly.

He replied,

"A symbol of Agape."
