

Chapter 510

Allison got shivers as she stared at the many people who were prostrating themselves before her.

"You all can leave now. We are going to have a feast very soon.' Beta Max said it loudly.

Everyone got to their feet and smiled broadly as they heard about the feast. In addition to being a feast, it was also an occasion for them at which they may receive offerings from their Alpha.

Allison cast a wary glance around the gathering of people. So many young people were there. She could see children, too. In fact, old people were also there. What drew her attention were the men and women with different colors of eyes. They were wizards and witches. She was surprised that they were also bowing all the time. It reminded her of Teresa's words. Even other creatures bowed to him.

When she saw everyone standing up and starting to leave, she turned around to her family.

Her parents' eyes were wet with tears. Her father looked at Ryan and joined his hands together in front of him.

"I have done so wrong with you, yet you give my daughter the respect that we have never imagined."

Ryan responded to him while holding his hands and saying, "Your daughter is mine." You don't need to concern yourself with thinking about her any longer."

Glen hugged Ryan and felt regret. He was ashamed that he refused to accept this man for his daughter so many times in the past.

Ryan patted his back. His eyes shifted to Allison, who was staring at him with calm composure.

Joey also hugged Ryan and apologized. Ryan's parents and Ethan looked happy with the decision.

"It's too early. How are we going to have everything organized in just one week?" Ella asked with a worried tone.

"Don't worry, Aunt. Your son demolished a whole pack in just a night. Wedding arrangements are nothing in front of him." Theta Owen said this and chuckled.

Ryan was the first one to leave the terrace. Allison's eyes followed him. The gaze of Allison was fixed on him. Teresa took her hand and leaned in close, whispering,

"Let's have a tour around the pack house. Everyone is going for it."

Allison smiled and nodded her head. Teresa kept her company while showing her the entire pack house. Behind them were others looking around the house.

"It says that this pack house was built in the Black Moon Pack in ancient times."

Allison heard Teresa and looked around. She was able to observe the magnificent architecture of the pack house. It was stunning in every way. The color scheme created the impression that the house had a dark ambiance.

"Nice." Allison mumbled.

While walking with a group of people, Allison cast a peek across at Elora, who appeared upset.

"Don't worry. She is upset because of her mother." Teresa said.

"I know. We can't feel her pain. She is having a really bad time."

"Yeah."

As soon as they entered the living hall, a group of women approached Teresa and said,

"Introduce us to our Luna."

Teresa looked to Allison and said, "They are the wives of our pack fighters. I told them to come here. Because I planned a small welcoming party for you."

Everyone was surprised to hear that. Allison raised her eyebrows and asked,

"For me?"

Teresa nodded her head. She walked to Ella and held her hands.

"Aunt, I used to be the only lady in this house. Therefore, each and every decision on the arrangement would have been made by me in the past. However, Alpha's mother is now present here. Therefore, you are the one who needs to embrace responsibility. Are you okay with the party?"

"Of course, my dear. Allison is going to be the Luna of this pack. Of course, she needs a party to meet new people. At this party, we can also meet others here."

"Yeah, I have invited every sub-Alpha's family. They will join us tonight."

Allison met those women and talked with them for a while. Then Teresa took her to the staircase. There were two staircases joined together on the upper level. The marbles on the staircase give off an elegant appearance.

They walked to the upper floor, where Teresa showed her a room where she was going to stay. Allison couldn't help but be astonished when she opened the door and saw what was on the other side. It was a big room. She was able to see the bed, which was queen-sized. The color white was used for the walls and the furniture in the room.

Allison was enveloped in a bear hug by Teresa. "I can't believe my dream is going to come true. We are going to live together. I am so happy for you."

Allison broke the hug and lowered her head. "But he doesn't want me."

"You're crazy. He has his sights set on you. You are in his heart. He loves you. But he is stubborn enough to give in so easily."

Allison frowned at her. "Then what should I do now?"

Teresa gave her a sly grin and then said, "You should try to win his heart back. Since it was he who was pursuing you with the goal of winning your love, you will have to be the one this time."

Allison recalled how he used to meet her, look at her, and talk to her. In fact, he was the one who gave her a new makeover. He helped her move on in her life after the rejection.

"You are right. But how?" She said and started to think about what Teresa had just advised.

"Maybe with your words, or maybe with your actions."

"Tess, I need your help. He is mad at me. He didn't even like that when I rested my head on his shoulder in the car."

"What was going on in the car, huh?" Teresa wiggled her brows at her.

"Not now, Tess. I am serious about it. Help your best friend."

"I think you should talk to him as much as you can. You have to show him that you are not weak and fixed on fate. You didn't want him just because he is your mate, but actually, you love him."

"I need to talk to him." Allison said and was about to leave the room, but Teresa held her hand and stopped her.

"Not now."

"Why?"

"Now, he must be keeping himself occupied by compiling statistics regarding the deals that our pack has made in the past few weeks."

"Then when will I talk to him?"

Teresa brought her to the bed and made her sit down. She sat next to her and replied,

"Tonight's party is very important. You can talk to him tonight. He is now your mate and your soon-to-be husband. You can be with him as much as you want. From today on, there is no one who can stop you."
