

Medical M 1751

Chapter 1751 A Big Project

Boom! Boom!

Under the control of the young officialling, a luxury car, which was not considered that luxury in the local area, quickly came to the door of a very ordinary residential house.

As soon as the car stopped, the officialling immediately rushed down with three examination reports in his hands while running to the residential house excitedly.

“Dad! Dad...”

As soon as he rushed to the front of the house, the young officialling immediately knocked crazily on the door as he shouted excitedly.

Soon, a middle-aged man with curly white hair and fair skin came to open the door.

“Matthew?”

Looking at the young man in front of the door, the middle-aged man asked with a bored face, “Shouldn’t you be working?”

“Yes. I’ve been patrolling the coastal area all day today.”

The young officialling who was called Matthew immediately nodded and said, “But today, I found something very strange, so I have to report it to you as soon as possible.”

As he said that, Matthew walked into the house.

The middle-aged man also returned to the house. He looked at Matthew with distrust and said, "I hope you can really give me a good inspection report. In this way, it can at least prove that you aren't staying at work because of my reputation."

"Don't worry, it must be a big deal this time."

Matthew patted his chest and promised, "This business deal is definitely worthy of your name and identity as the famous Charlie Rodd!"

"I'm an official in tourism development, not a businessman."

The middle-aged man named Charlie curled his lips and said to Matthew, "My duty is to help the country develop more attractive tourist attractions and contribute to the development of tourism as much as I can."

"Charlie."

Matthew looked at his father and said with a serious face, "I promise that you will definitely fall in love with this project. Your round belly will also disappear because of this!"

"Hmm?"

Charlie raised his eyebrows and reached out to grab those three reports from Matthew. After reading it carefully, he shrugged helplessly and asked, "Are these examination reports the project you want to tell me about?"

"That's right."

Matthew immediately nodded and said, "Don't turn it down so soon yet. When I tell you the whole story, you will definitely go crazy about it!"

“Alright.”

Charlie knew that Matthew would not give up so easily, so he could only say helplessly, “I’ll only give you five minutes. As you know, I don’t want to waste my rare vacation.”

“Listen.”

Matthew immediately stepped forward and said, “Today, when I was on patrol, I used some of my privileges to take my good friend to an island. You know that good friend. It’s Riley. You also know that he has lung cancer, right?”

“Yes, I’ve heard of it.”

Charlie nodded in understanding.

“Look at the examination reports in your hand.”

Matthew said with great excitement, “He has recovered. It’s as if he had never been ill at all. His body has completely returned to normal, and all this happened when he went out to sea with me. On the island I told you about, we met a person called Heavenly God by the locals!”

“Heavenly God?”

Charlie couldn’t help laughing.

“That’s right.”

Matthew said with a smile, “In the beginning, my reaction was the same as yours. When I heard that someone in this era is called Heavenly God, I also felt like laughing. But in order to verify whether the so-called Heavenly God was capable or not, Riley and I found a cancer patient in the hospital and took him to the island to the one called Heavenly God by the natives.

“And guess what?

“That patient also got cured!”

At this point, Matthew rushed to Charlie excitedly, pressed his palm on Charlie, and said, “That’s how it was done. It only took Heavenly God more than ten minutes to cure the man’s cancer as he maintained this posture!

“Now, what you’re holding is the two’s examination reports. The two examination times of the second patient, in particular, were less than two hours, which is the best proof!”

Charlie’s expression changed.

He had never expected to hear such an incredible thing.

Charlie asked, “This is indeed incredible, but what does it have to do with the development of the tourism industry?”

“Isn’t that simple?”

Matthew immediately said, “The reason why Riley wants to surf there is that the waves there are very suitable for surfing. Moreover, it is a natural island with a pure natural beach and a very beautiful environment. In addition, with Heavenly God there, the island has a great attraction, which will promote its development.

“Once this attraction spreads out, it will not only draw a large number of investment funds, but it will also definitely attract people all over the world to go to the island for pilgrimage!”

At this point, Charlie’s eyes lit up.

What Matthew said made sense.

As an official in tourism, he knew very well that from the current situation, any place in Autransssy could be developed into a scenic spot. However, because there were too many scenic spots, most tourists would only choose one or two to visit. As a result, after many scenic spots were developed, the benefits would not be as expected.

This was the biggest problem that the government of Autransssy was facing.

However, the attraction on this island was indeed very attractive.

With the natural beach and the Heavenly God who could cure incurable diseases, as a great surfing place, the wild island would inevitably attract countless tourists, which would directly drive the local economy.

That would be a big promotion for tourism.

Matthew had already begun to make a small plan in his heart.

Because the people on that island were natives, they had never been in contact with the current world. In this case, as long as Charlie decided to do this project, Matthew could negotiate with the people on the island as a contact person. Maybe he could make a lot of money from it.

“Although it sounds like a good project, I still can’t believe that such a thing exists in this world.”

After thinking about it carefully, Charlie, as an official, couldn’t help shaking his head and said, “This is the era of science. As an official, I can’t believe what you said. Your proposal will be kept before there is any evidence!”

“Let’s go now. I’ll take you to the evidence now.”

As Matthew spoke, he grabbed Charlie’s arm and pulled him out.

Charlie really wanted to see what was going on.

Therefore, he did not refuse.

They went out and got in the car.

Not long after, they arrived at the port.

It was already evening, and it was not dark yet.

After getting on the boat, Matthew immediately began to drive it quickly and soon arrived at the edge of the island.

“This is the island.”

Matthew pointed to the island and introduced it to Charlie.

“Well.”

Charlie surveyed the surroundings and remarked, “Not bad. There are no treacherous reefs encircling the island, so maneuvering the boats toward the shore won’t pose any challenges. The beach is exquisite, and the natural environment of the island is breathtaking. It’s undeniably an excellent location.”

“You’ll know later what’s the most attractive part of this island.”

Matthew stopped the boat on the shore and got on the island.

Soon, he found the native tribe and began to communicate with them.

Fang Qiu clearly heard their purpose of coming here through the conversation between Matthew and Charlie while he had his eyes closed on the side.

He opened his eyes.

By observing and recognizing the symptoms, Fang Qiu gave Charlie a check. After that, he went up to Charlie in person, grabbed his wrist, and secretly performed another check. He found that Charlie had diabetes.

At Matthew's request, Fang Qiu began to treat Charlie.

Because he had treated diabetes at the World Medical Conference before, Fang Qiu performed the treatment with ease.

In as short as 10 minutes, Fang Qiu cured Charlie's diabetes completely.

After the treatment, Fang Qiu waved his hand and asked them to leave.

Without hesitation, Matthew immediately grabbed Charlie, who was in a state of confusion, returned to the boat quickly, and then quickly turned back.

On the boat, Charlie asked with a puzzled look, "What happened?"

Matthew said with a smile, "Dad, didn't I tell you that this is his unique treatment? Let's go back to the hospital now so that you can have a detailed physical examination. When the examination report is made, everything will be clear!"

Soon, they returned to the city.

After getting off the boat, Matthew immediately took Charlie to the hospital where he had a detailed health examination.

Forty minutes later, the examination report was made.

After getting the report, Matthew took a look at it first and then handed it to Charlie excitedly.

Charlie took it and read it.

In an instant, his expression changed drastically.

His examination report showed that all his health indicators were within a normal range, and his physical condition was particularly good.

In terms of blood sugar, his indicators were already at the level of a normal person. He didn't have glycemia.

Charlie couldn't believe it.

In fact, he had always believed from the bottom of his heart that what Matthew said was impossible.

But it actually happened, and it happened to him.

He found it hard to believe that his diabetes, which had made him suffer for so long, was completely cured in just ten minutes.

Moreover, it seemed that the treatment method was so incredible.

Charlie flipped the report over and over again. After making sure that there was nothing wrong with it, he came to his senses from the deep shock.

Then, he became excited.

“Yes.”

Grabbing Matthew’s arm, Charlie said excitedly, “Matthew, you’re right. This is indeed a very good opportunity. It’s a great opportunity to establish a brand new tourist attraction for our country. We must seize this opportunity and squeeze our cities into the top ten tourist cities!”

Chapter 1752 The Media Reporters Are Here

Matthew said with a very proud smile, “I told you, this project will definitely work.”

“Let’s go!”

Charlie did not hesitate to grab Matthew’s arm and said, “Let’s go back to the island now.”

They left the hospital and got in the car.

“If I remember correctly, just now, I used my phone to find out that the island is called Jusa Island. Although there is a native tribe living on the island, Jusa Island is actually owned by a small town called Banker Town, which is under Heiland’s command.”

In the car, Charlie said, “The entire island is owned by Banker Town. In the past, the mayor of Banker Town also tried to turn Jusa Island into a tourist attraction. He offered to make the natives on the island the stunt, but this proposal was rejected back then.

“Let’s go find the mayor of Banker Town now. He lives on the other side of Jusa Island. As long as we communicate with him, we can officially start this promotion project!”

Upon hearing that, Matthew immediately laughed and said, “It’s exactly what I thought. Jusa Island is an important catalyst to promote the development of Heiland’s tourism. As long as this matter is completed, I will no longer be regarded as merely an officialing!”

Charlie laughed out loud.

It seemed that he was very satisfied with his son's proposal this time.

Soon, they came to the port again.

When they were about to board the ship, Charlie stopped Matthew and waited at the port for about ten minutes before they saw a car coming over.

When Matthew saw the car, he was stunned.

He asked, "Are they reporters?"

"Yes."

Charlie immediately nodded and said, "Since we've decided to do this, we should officially start working from the beginning!"

Soon, the reporters got out of the car.

At Charlie's invitation, they got on the ship together. Then, under Matthew's control, the ship quickly rushed to Banker Town.

Of course, Fang Qiu was aware of the Banker Town.

At first, when Fang Qiu came to this island, he didn't notice the town. Later, when he cured the surfer and patrolled the island alone, he found the town.

Banker Town was a very special place.

This small town was built on a very steep cliff. From a distance, it looked like a mountain wall. It was laid out in layers from top to bottom, which appeared very beautiful.

Originally, the purpose of the existence of this town was to increase the value of this island and make Jusa Island a tourist attraction area.

However, the local government didn't root for this proposal.

Therefore, the small town could only develop on its own.

In order to attract people's attention, the buildings in the town were completely built in the same style and used the same color. It was an azure area. Looking from the sea in the distance, it was like a mirror, reflecting the seawater, which was very special.

Fang Qiu also saw this town when he patrolled along the beach.

At that time, Fang Qiu didn't enter the town to check.

It was because he found that the residents of the town lived a particularly comfortable life. There was also a perfect beach in the area where the town was built, and the waves would never reach the town.

The most special thing was that the area where the town was located was completely on the lee side.

No matter how strong the wind was, it could not affect this place.

Most importantly, this place not only faced the east but also received the first ray of sunlight every day. One could even watch the sunset and see the last rays of the setting sun there.

Because of his dressing, Fang Qiu didn't disturb the people in the town. Instead, he returned after patrolling around.

Before long, a patrol ship stopped at the port of Banker Town under the light of dusk.

Charlie got off the ship with all the media, followed by Matthew.

On the way to the town, Charlie had already asked his men to contact its mayor.

At this moment, all the officials of Banker Town were already waiting at the port to welcome Charlie and the others.

When they saw Charlie, they were really respectful.

Especially when they saw the reporters, the officials tried their best to present the town and kept introducing everything about it.

The mayor of the town was called Jaydon. He was a thin middle-aged man who looked very artistic.

“Mr. Rodd, may I ask why you’re here this time?”

After admiring the scenery of the whole town along the way, the town’s mayor, Jaydon, took everyone to the office of the town government building. They began to talk while admiring the sea view.

“There is indeed one thing I need to do here.”

Charlie immediately nodded and said, “I remember that a few years ago, you expressed your wish to develop Banker Town into a tourist town, right?”

“That’s right. We’ve always been working hard to achieve that.”

Jaydon immediately nodded.

“Well, there were many reasons why the proposal was not approved at that time. But today, I’ve brought you and your townspeople a piece of good news.”

Charlie smiled and said, “We are going to promote Jusa Island as a major tourist attraction in Heiland. Of course, your Banker Town will also be included.”

“Really?”

Hearing what Charlie said, Jaydon immediately became excited.

“Yes, really.”

Charlie immediately nodded and said, “This is the decision I made not long ago, and the person who proposed this suggestion is my son, Matthew.”

Jaydon immediately looked at Matthew, his eyes full of surprise and gratitude.

Charlie asked with a smile, “Don’t you want to know why I agreed to my son’s proposal?”

Jaydon immediately asked, “Why?”

“Because the tourism resources in your town are particularly good, and it doesn’t need much effort to build it. Of course, the most important thing is that there is a man called Heavenly God in the indigenous tribe of your town.”

Charlie didn’t hesitate at all and said directly in front of all the media reporters, “Previously, I went to the native tribe. As far as I know, this man, who is called Heavenly God by the natives, has a very special ability to cure all diseases.”

As he said that, Charlie took out his health examination report as well as the one for the cancer patient. He asked the media and Jaydon to read the reports and explained what had happened at noon in detail.

After learning about the whole process, everyone present was shocked. Even Jaydon had a look of disbelief on his face.

However, since they had such good resources, they had to seize this great opportunity.

Charlie said, "The purpose of me inviting the media reporters over is to prove the power of this Heavenly God to everyone through the media!"

Jaydon was not stupid.

He knew very well that such a magical Heavenly God was definitely a great stunt to attract tourists, so he immediately expressed his willingness to actively cooperate.

"I can understand the natives' language, and I can communicate with them. I can take you there now."

Jaydon volunteered.

Charlie said, "Before we do that, we need to find a patient with diabetes."

He knew that diabetes was very difficult to cure because he had personally experienced it. As long as people could see Heavenly God cure diabetes, it would inevitably cause a sensation. It would directly make Jusa Island and Banker Town famous throughout the country and even the whole world.

Under the arrangement of Jaydon, they soon found a diabetes patient in the town and went there with a home glucose meter.

They came to the tribe where the natives lived on the mountain.

Jaydon directly communicated with the chief of the natives.

Although these natives maintained their indigenous habits, they were not rude. They were very willing to get along peacefully with others. In addition, the people of Banker Town would help them more or less, so they were very happy to invite everyone to visit their tribe.

However, as for whether Heavenly God was willing to help out or not, they could not guarantee it.

After everyone entered the tribe, the chief of the natives directly took them to the front of the house and babbled something that Fang Qiu couldn't understand as he kept gesturing.

Although Fang Qiu had been observing for a whole day, he could only understand a few words and could not fully understand the native language. But from their gestures, Fang Qiu clearly understood what the natives meant.

The chief of the natives said that the ones who came over were the natives' benefactors and they hoped that Heavenly God could help them.

Fang Qiu looked over and found that of the ones who had come over, two were the ones who visited him at noon.

"I just cured that man's diabetes. Why are they here again?"

He was confused.

With the patient with diabetes brought by Jaydon, Matthew came to Fang Qiu and pointed the patient to him.

Fang Qiu stood up.

Then, he took the patient to the woods to start the treatment and drew a line on the ground. No one was allowed to cross that line.

Merely two or three people had seen how he treated his patients before, and the ones he had treated were all natives.

Fang Qiu didn't expect that he would set off such a big scene when he treated patients here. Seeing the reporters coming with the team, he remembered to hide his treatment methods and didn't want these people to see him perform his treatment.

At Fang Qiu's request, these people really didn't dare to cross the line on the ground.

Fang Qiu took the patient to the woods and cured the patient quickly in secret while making some unnecessary noise. The whole process only took five minutes, which was twice as fast as before.

Seeing Fang Qiu coming out with the patient, Charlie and Matthew immediately thanked Fang Qiu. The town's mayor and the others also thanked him one after another.

After that, Matthew and Charlie took the patient all the way back to the downtown area in Heiland and sent him directly to the hospital for a health examination as the reporters kept following them.

They waited for 40 minutes.

At eight o'clock in the evening, the examination report was made.

When the patient got the examination report, he was shocked.

He had been ill for so long that he could only keep suppressing it. There was no way to cure it completely.

To his surprise, he was actually cured by a native on the island.

"Is that native really a Heavenly God?"

Not only the patient but also Jaydon and all the media reporters were stunned when they saw the physical examination report.

Chapter 1753 The Mayor and His Wife

“The Heavenly God has descended to save the world from suffering!”

“A native tribe from Jusa Island, a blessed land, has received the care of the Heavenly God!”

“Heavenly God of the indigenous tribe cured diabetes in ten minutes!”

With the release of the hospital’s examination report, all the media reporters who had witnessed the whole process couldn’t help but start to report crazily.

After all, this sort of thing was truly too miraculous.

Nowadays, people loved to see these magical things, didn’t they?

That night, when the news was broadcast, it attracted a lot of attention in the whole downtown area of Heiland.

All the residents in Banker Town of Jusa Island also saw the news reports.

Others might not be willing to believe it, thinking that it was very likely to be a lie.

However, it happened right next to the residents, and the man who had been cured of diabetes was their very familiar neighbor and friend. It could be said that everyone in the town knew about his diabetes.

They didn’t expect that his diabetes had really been cured.

Moreover, it had been cured by a native of the island. This caused everyone in Banker to be incomparably excited.

By the time the news report was released, Jaydon had already returned to town.

He had a hunch that his town and island would be famous this time. After the report was sent out, people all over the country would definitely go to the island. By then, the island would definitely be overcrowded, so he had to come back as soon as possible to make proper arrangements.

He needed to prevent too many people from traveling to the island, and the only way to achieve that was to charge.

Back in the town, Jaydon immediately began to announce that all those who wanted to get on the island must buy tickets for a round trip.

After all, this would bring money to Banker Town.

Although the Heavenly God who could cure diseases lived in the native tribe on the mountain, people who came from all over the country couldn't also stay in the native tribe, could they? How could those people get used to staying there?

Therefore, under the arrangement of the town's mayor, the townspeople also began to prepare for homestay service.

This town had always been developing into a tourist attraction, so all the houses had been equipped with guest rooms. The townspeople only needed to tidy up the rooms and then the tourists could directly check in.

That night, everyone in Banker Town was busy.

The calmest place seemed to be the newly opened Chinese Medicine clinic in the town.

Although the doctors had also seen the news, the number of tourists didn't seem to have much of an impact on the Chinese Medicine clinic, so the Chinese Medicine practitioners were very calm.

In the clinic, a middle-aged Chinese Medicine doctor was checking and packing all kinds of new Chinese medicinal herbs.

A young apprentice came over and said, "Master, I just heard from the people outside that there seems to be a Heavenly God who can cure all diseases in our native tribe on this island. This got on TV. It seems that he has not only cured two patients with diabetes but also cured cancer!"

"Heavenly God?"

Hearing what the apprentice said, the middle-aged Chinese Medicine doctor immediately shook his head with a smile and said, "After all, it's a native tribe. People are still into superstition."

"Since it has been reported on TV, and there is also a diabetes patient on our island who has been treated, according to the report, this patient has really been cured by the Heavenly God."

The apprentice said, "I remember that this diabetes patient also came here to get medicine several times, but he never returned because the medicinal potion was too bitter."

"Is that so?"

The middle-aged Chinese Medicine doctor was stunned and asked, "Has he really been cured?"

"That should be the case. Otherwise, the media wouldn't have reported it so crazily, would they?"

The apprentice nodded affirmatively and said, "It seems that we haven't been here for a long time, but now there's someone who can challenge us!"

The middle-aged man finally said very curiously, "It's not easy to cure diabetes."

He then shook his head with a smile and added, “However, there is a big problem to cure diabetes in one day. The only person in the world who can do this is Fang Qiu. Unfortunately, this is not Huaxia. I don’t believe that there is anyone on this island who can do it better than John Doe.

“What’s more, there is no Heavenly God in this world!”

The apprentice asked, “What do you mean?”

“Isn’t it obvious?”

The middle-aged Chinese Medicine doctor shook his head with a smile and said, “I will expose him!”

Because it was too late, no one went up the mountain that night.

Early the next morning, just as Jaydon had predicted, countless people swarmed over from all directions and wanted to enter the island.

Even if they had to pay to get on the island, it couldn’t stop the enthusiasm of these people at all.

There was even a special route between Port Heiland and Banker Town for traveling back and forth.

Meanwhile, countless people rushed to book the various guest rooms in the small town.

Everyone was ready to stay on the island. After all, it was not easy to come here. Unexpectedly, the guest rooms on the island were limited, and they were all quickly booked.

In desperation, some could only bring their own tents, while others could only book guest rooms near Port Heiland.

All the townspeople of Banker Town were extremely excited.

They didn't expect their town to be so popular.

Of course, the mayor of Banker Town was the happiest and most excited of them all.

In just one day, he had made a lot of money through the round-trip tickets.

This made him see the potential of Banker Town, and he was even more determined to develop the town.

By noon, there were already five groups of people who had come to the town.

However, in order not to disturb the natives, Jaydon organized a team in the town to stop all the tourists from entering. He would only lead them in at a suitable time.

In the beginning, everyone was very displeased, but after seeing the beautiful scenery of the town, they were all attracted, and the displeasure in their hearts gradually dispersed.

In the afternoon.

Under the arrangement of the guards sent by the town's mayor, all the people who came to the island went to the native tribe together.

Because there were too many people, they came to a relatively flat place on the mountain instead of going to the native tribe. The locals and Fang Qiu were also invited to that place by the people sent by the town's mayor.

There were many locals who had come over.

The one taking the lead was a Huaxianese.

When Fang Qiu saw the Huaxianese, he was stunned at first and then full of doubts.

He didn't expect to see a Huaxianese on this island.

At this moment-

"Ouch."

Suddenly, a loud cry was heard.

Everyone immediately looked in the direction of the cry.

A resident from the small town also came to join in the fun. Unexpectedly, because there were too many people and he was too anxious, his sole, while he was stepping on a reef, was directly cut when he went up the mountain. Although it didn't hurt his foot, it made him lose his gravity. As he fell backward, he broke his leg with a click.

Seeing this, Fang Qiu immediately walked up and helped him up from the ground.

Then, he drew a line on the ground to prevent others from crossing it. He walked into the jungle with that man, ready to treat him.

Right then, the middle-aged Chinese Medicine doctor, who had been trying to expose the so-called Heavenly God, quietly came to the jungle on the side. While hiding, he quickly followed Fang Qiu.

Fang Qiu easily noticed the middle-aged Chinese Medicine doctor, but he didn't care about his following. Instead, he took the injured to a bush that the people outside couldn't see and began to treat him.

Fang Qiu directly used the boneset technique.

When the middle-aged Chinese Medicine doctor saw that the so-called Heavenly God actually used the boneset technique, he was immediately shocked because he could see that this person was using the real and authentic boneset technique.

Most importantly, after the boneset treatment, the injured was cured in less than a minute.

The middle-aged Chinese Medicine doctor was even more shocked when he saw that.

“How is that possible?

“How can there be any medical skill more powerful than Chinese Medicine in the world?

“Is there really a god in this world? Is this guy really a Heavenly God?”

...

After curing the injured, Fang Qiu took him out of the jungle.

When everyone outside the jungle saw that the person who had just broken his leg was now recovered, they immediately exclaimed.

Gradually, everyone looked at Fang Qiu in disbelief.

Right at this moment-

“Get out of the way. Get out of the way...”

Suddenly, a shout was heard.

Everyone turned to look.

The mayor of Banker Town was quickly walking over with two people, and he even took the initiative to ask the crowd to move aside.

“Is that... the mayor?”

“It’s the mayor and his wife!”

“Oh my god, even the mayor and his wife are here?”

Everyone started to discuss it.

Jaydon, who was walking in the front, looked excited since he was the one who invited the mayor over.

Because the mayor’s wife had heart disease and was in poor health all year round, Jaydon found this opportunity to invite the mayor’s family over.

When they came to Fang Qiu, Jaydon immediately asked the natives’ chief to let Fang Qiu treat the mayor’s wife.

Fang Qiu took a look and found that everyone respected the mayor very much. It seemed that he should be a good person, so Fang Qiu didn’t hesitate to go straight up to the mayor’s wife to give her a check and then took her into the jungle.

He stood behind the mayor’s wife and began to treat her.

In just a few minutes, Fang Qiu directly cured the cause of her disease with his internal Qi and then took her out.

After learning that the treatment was over, Jaydon did not dare to hesitate at all. He immediately arranged for a ship to return to Heiland for an examination with the mayor and his wife. The middle-aged Chinese Medicine doctor also followed them.

Chapter 1754 Utterly Shocked

While Jaydon was full of confidence and the mayor's family was full of doubts, everyone got on the ship back to Heiland. The middle-aged Chinese Medicine doctor in Banker Town was also allowed to board the ship because he was a doctor.

Along the way, the mayor kept asking his wife, "Do you feel any discomfort?"

"What did he do to you?"

"How did he treat you?"

"Did you take what he gave you?"

From all kinds of concerned words, one could deeply feel that this mayor of Heiland loved his wife very much.

"Mr. Hans."

Seeing the mayor so nervous, Jaydon, the mayor of Banker Town, immediately said with a smile, "Don't worry. Mrs. Hans's condition will definitely improve. The man who treated her is called Heavenly God by the locals. I have witnessed his medical skill with my own eyes. It's really amazing.

"As you can see, there is nothing wrong with Mrs. Hans. You don't have to be nervous at all."

Seeing his wife nodded her head, the mayor of Heiland, whose name was Hans, felt slightly relieved.

Although this man, who was called Heavenly God by the natives, had been reported by the media, Mayor Hans, who was deeply influenced by modern science, still couldn't believe that such a magical thing existed in the world.

However, the facts were soon verified.

Because they had informed the hospital in advance, as long as they arrived at the hospital, the mayor's wife could immediately have a very thorough examination.

The middle-aged Chinese Medicine doctor had been silent all the time on the ship.

Because the distance between the two places was not far, the ship quickly returned to Heiland Port.

After disembarking, the group of people immediately got in the car and rushed to the hospital.

After arriving at the local municipal hospital, the mayor's wife was immediately examined.

When the examination was over, the results were made in less than half an hour.

When they got the examination report, the mayor and his wife were both stunned.

Mrs. Hans's heart disease was congenital, and there was a small hole in her heart. Because it was not found when she was young, this small hole gradually grew. It hadn't been discovered after she married the mayor and she fainted once.

When the problem was discovered, there was no way to do the heart repair operation.

Therefore, the mayor's wife could only pay attention to the details of her life as much as possible. Usually, the mayor did not dare to make her angry.

But now, when they got the examination report from the hospital, it was as if they had seen something impossible. Because the X-ray in the examination report showed that the small hole in Mrs. Hans's heart had completely disappeared, and the results of the examination were completely normal. Her heart was very healthy.

Seeing this result, the mayor was extremely shocked and excited.

The mayor's wife was so excited that she almost cried. The two of them held the examination report and read it carefully over and over again. Finally, after confirming that her heart disease had been completely cured, they hugged each other tightly in surprise and excitement.

"Congratulations, Mrs. Hans!"

Jaydon came forward to congratulate her at the right time.

When the middle-aged Chinese Medicine doctor saw the examination report, he was also completely shocked.

"Mr. Hans."

After the shock, the doctor of Chinese Medicine walked to the side of the mayor and said, "I'm a Huaxia Chinese Medicine doctor. It's not that I don't believe in the examination report and results of the hospital, but that only the essence matters to Chinese Medicine doctors. So I hope you can allow me to use the method of Chinese Medicine to check the condition of Mrs. Hans to make sure that she is really cured."

"Okay."

The mayor didn't hesitate and immediately nodded.

He couldn't believe that this kind of heart disease, which couldn't even be operated on, was cured in a few minutes without an operation.

Even with the examination report in his hand, the mayor still couldn't believe it.

Besides, in recent years, Chinese Medicine had become popular internationally. It was also a good thing to have a Chinese Medicine doctor examine his wife from the perspective of Chinese Medicine.

Mrs. Hans was also very cooperative.

She also wanted to know if the effect of this kind of treatment could last or was merely temporary.

The middle-aged Chinese Medicine doctor immediately took the mayor's wife to the public seat in the hospital, sat down, and began to feel her pulse.

"Mr. Hans."

Jaydon stepped forward secretly and said, "Before this, Mr. Rodd, who is an official in the development of tourism, has already decided that Banker Town will be promoted and developed as the main tourist attraction. Now you have seen the effect of the treatment. Do you think Banker Town is qualified to be the main tourist attraction?"

"Of course!"

Mayor Hans immediately nodded and said, "Mr. Rodd has always made the right choice, so our municipal government will cooperate with you and him to build Banker Town as the main tourist attraction.

"Don't worry. When I get back, I'll contact more media outlets to report on this event. At the same time, I'll try my best to contact the government and report this project. I'll try to get more funds to promote the tourism development of Banker Town!"

"That's great!"

Jaydon immediately cheered excitedly and said, "I will definitely inform the people in the town and fully cooperate with the municipal government and the media's promotion and assistance."

The middle-aged Chinese Medicine doctor had also finished examining the mayor's wife.

After the examination, he was completely and utterly shocked.

"How is this possible?"

"How?"

"He can even completely cure this kind of disease. What treatment method did he use? How did he achieve this?"

The more the middle-aged Chinese Medicine doctor thought about it, the more shocked he was.

"How could there be such medical skill in the world? Isn't this kind of medical skill too simple?"

"It seems that Fang Qiu is the only one in Huaxia who has mastered a special treatment method, but the native tribesman can actually do this. Is he more powerful than Fang Qiu? Is the special treatment method he has mastered better than Fang Qiu's?"

His mind was filled with questions.

"How is she?"

Seeing that the examination was over, Mayor Hans immediately came over and asked, "How is my wife? Is she fully recovered as the examination report says? Has my wife become very healthy?"

Mayor Hans looked expectantly at the middle-aged Chinese Medicine doctor.

Although the hospital had given him the examination report, he still hoped to verify the results again. As long as the Chinese Medicine doctor confirmed that his wife had completely recovered, he would no longer have to worry.

“Yes.”

Hearing the mayor’s question, the middle-aged Chinese Medicine looked up at Mayor Hans and said blankly, “Yes. Mrs. Hans has completely recovered and is no longer ill. I think it’s time for me to go back.”

After that, he stood up and walked out.

He was at a loss.

He couldn’t believe that he had encountered such a magical thing.

Therefore, he needed an answer. He urgently needed an answer.

Jaydon also left with the Chinese Medicine doctor. They quickly returned to the town. After all, now Banker Town was busy and very profitable. As the mayor, Jaydon still needed to arrange many things.

Before long, the mayor and his wife also left the hospital together.

After sending his wife home, the mayor immediately contacted all the media in the city to hold a press conference, announcing that the government would focus on building Jusa Island and Banker Town.

For a moment, the local media began to report on it.

What attracted the most attention were the indigenous tribe on the island and the legendary Heavenly God.

Many media reporters also came to the island and took photos of the beautiful scenery from all angles, which quickly attracted a large number of tourists.

As all kinds of reports spread, Mayor Hans contacted the governor directly to work on the project of building Jusa Island and Banker Town as he began to ask for funds from the higher-ups.

...

In the evening.

After returning to the Chinese Medicine clinic and thinking for a whole day, without a proper answer, the middle-aged Chinese Medicine doctor directly hired an interpreter in the town and came to the indigenous tribe during the night.

Because it was already late at night, all the tourists had been asked to go back to their rooms. No one was allowed to go up the mountain to disturb the natives at night.

Of course, the locals were an exception.

Over the years, the locals had never disturbed the natives, and the mayor of the town trusted his people very much.

When the middle-aged Chinese Medicine doctor arrived outside the native tribe, the natives immediately came out to ask what he wanted to do in the tribe so late at night.

The interpreter brought by the middle-aged doctor talked and gesticulated for a long time before he conveyed the doctor's meaning. He said that the Huaxia Chinese Medicine doctor wanted to see the Heavenly God.

It took a lot of effort for the natives to figure out what he meant.

Then, the natives went to Fang Qiu to ask for his opinion.

Pretending not to understand human language, Fang Qiu looked at the native in front of him as if he were watching a show. The native chattered on about something he didn't understand and kept gesturing with all kinds of movements.

Fang Qiu couldn't understand him at all.

He didn't figure out what the native meant.

Without any other choice, the native could only gesticulate repeatedly.

After a long time, Fang Qiu finally understood what the native meant. A Chinese Medicine doctor wanted to visit him.

After figuring it out, Fang Qiu thought about it carefully.

"A Chinese Medicine doctor?"

"Isn't that the middle-aged doctor I saw at noon?"

After figuring it out, Fang Qiu nodded in agreement to the native.

The native immediately went out. He was sweating profusely, but he nodded excitedly to the interpreter and the middle-aged Chinese Medicine doctor, indicating that the Heavenly God had agreed to accept their visit and invite them in, but they needed to promise to maintain enough respect for the Heavenly God.

After communicating with the interpreter, the Chinese Medicine doctor soon came to Fang Qiu's room.

The houses of this tribe were all built with trees. Under normal circumstances, the pyramid-shaped houses were not large. Because Fang Qiu was mistakenly regarded as Heavenly God, the natives directly built a very large room for him.

At this time, Fang Qiu was sitting cross-legged in the room.

Chapter 1755 Heavenly God Masters Chinese Medicine

Although it was a native tribe, the room where Fang Qiu lived was very luxurious. The three very thick trunks were triangular and built together. The floor of the room was one meter above the ground, and the whole floor was completely made of round wood. Although it was not very flat, the room was already super luxurious compared with the rooms of other people in the tribe.

The interpreter and the doctor came to the door made of leaves and vines.

The interpreter was blocked by the natives and only the Chinese Medicine doctor was allowed to enter.

After the doctor came in, he stared at Fang Qiu with a very special look, his eyes full of confusion and doubt.

Upon seeing that doctor, Fang Qiu remained expressionless.

When the man came to him, Fang Qiu stood up, took a wooden stick from his hand, and handed it to the Chinese Medicine doctor.

The Chinese Medicine doctor took it curiously.

Because he knew that this so-called Heavenly God couldn't even understand the local language, so he didn't say anything. Instead, he quietly waited to see what this person was up to.

At this very moment, Fang Qiu remained indifferent. After handing the stick to the doctor, he also picked up a stick, walked out of the room, and came to a forest behind the room.

The Chinese Medicine doctor followed.

Without the permission of Fang Qiu, the natives were like guards and soldiers, guarding the forest and not letting anyone in.

In the forest.

Fang Qiu inserted the torch into the ground to light up the soil and then began to do his work on the ground. As he did it, he motioned for the doctor to follow suit.

After receiving the signal from Fang Qiu, the Chinese Medicine doctor imitated him.

As a result, as he learned, his face gradually became shocked.

“This, this is so similar to the legendary formation. It’s the Huaxianese acupuncture!” said the Chinese Medicine doctor in shock.

But Fang Qiu still pretended not to understand and continued teaching.

This Chinese Medicine doctor didn’t dare to be careless at all and began to study very carefully.

Fang Qiu approved of him secretly.

Under normal circumstances, the Chinese Medicine doctors who had become other people’s masters had strong confidence and exclusion in terms of medical skills. However, the Chinese Medicine doctor in front of him didn’t show any rejection from the beginning. Instead, he was humble as he was willing to learn and comprehend at this moment.

In the case that Fang Qiu didn’t have any verbal explanations, he could comprehend this method of acupuncture, which proved that his talent was very good.

Of course, Fang Qiu was more willing to teach.

Since that doctor was willing to learn, Fang Qiu taught him all the acupuncture techniques that had been lost in Huaxia, such as the Mountain-burning Fire Needle Technique.

In this way, he taught the doctor one method after another.

This middle-aged Chinese Medicine doctor was also very diligent and focused all the time.

Fang Qiu taught him everything he could teach during the entire night.

The next day, after learning all this, the middle-aged Chinese Medicine doctor was extremely happy and excited as if he had got a great treasure, but his heart was still full of doubts.

“Is there really an immortal in this world?”

“Otherwise, how could he know so many long-lost acupuncture methods in Huaxia?”

“Is it because he is a Heavenly God that he knows everything?”

Muttering to himself, the doctor had been staring at Fang Qiu, only to find that Fang Qiu remained expressionless from beginning to end. After teaching him, Fang Qiu went straight back.

Because there was no way to communicate, the Chinese Medicine doctor didn’t think it was appropriate to ask anything and could only leave the indigenous tribe.

Back at the Chinese Medicine clinic, the doctor carefully recorded all the lost acupuncture techniques he learned from the Heavenly God in a notebook, for fear of forgetting.

He knew that the acupuncture methods recorded in this notebook were definitely a treasure for Chinese Medicine practitioners.

Of course, he would not associate Huaxia Chinese Medicine with the Westerners.

He firmly believed that Chinese Medicine had nothing to do with Westerners. Even in the West, it was difficult to find most of the medicinal herbs applied in Chinese Medicine. Therefore, the reason why the person named Heavenly God knew these long-lost acupuncture methods was either that he was really a Heavenly God and knew everything in the world, or that he had been taught by some Huaxia Chinese Medicine doctors. That was why the Heavenly God took the initiative to teach that doctor these long-lost acupuncture methods that he knew that the visitor was from Huaxia.

That afternoon, Fang Qiu continued to see patients from all over the country, which made his title of Heavenly God more eye-catching.

In the evening, the Chinese Medicine doctor came to him again.

It wasn't that he wasn't satisfied, but that what Heavenly God taught him was too precious. He wanted to see if there was anything else Heavenly God could teach him.

This time, Fang Qiu didn't take him to the forest. Instead, he taught the doctor in the room with a wooden basin filled with mud and branches.

The teaching lasted for a night once again. Fang Qiu taught while the doctor learned, but they still didn't say a word.

On the third day, when Fang Qiu was about to start treating people, he found that the number of people who came to him suddenly decreased a lot.

This made Fang Qiu very confused.

According to the situation of the past two days, there should be more and more people coming. Why were there so few people now?

Did something happen?

Just when Fang Qiu was wondering, Jaydon's voice suddenly reached him.

Fang Qiu looked up and saw that Jaydon was coming over, followed by a group of people.

The leaders of the group were a middle-aged man and an old man.

The middle-aged man was supporting the old man, and the people around him were very respectful to him. His temperament seemed to be much more arrogant than that of the mayor.

It seemed that he was another big shot.

Fang Qiu sat in his place and waited motionlessly.

When this group of people came up, Fang Qiu found that there was a large number of media following behind them, which was really many times grander than before.

There were a lot of media reporters.

This scene gave the natives a fright.

Followed by a large number of media reporters, Jaydon walked up to Fang Qiu with the middle-aged man and the old man and began to communicate with the chief of the natives.

"Tell him that this is our governor. Next to him is his father."

Jaydon talked to the chief through the interpreter.

The natives' chief asked directly, "What do you want?"

“Here’s the thing.”

Jaydon explained with a smile, “His father’s eyes are a little sick. It’s not suitable for surgery because he’s too old. The governor heard that a Heavenly God in your tribe can cure all kinds of diseases, so he specially came here to ask the Heavenly God to treat his father.”

Because Jaydon spoke in Anglanish, Fang Qiu could hear him clearly and finally understood why there were so few people.

Obviously, Jaydon had limited the number of people going up the mountain because he knew that the governor was going to bring his father here to see Fang Qiu. Moreover, he had especially taken the governor over.

At this very moment, Jaydon was still communicating with the natives’ chief while Fang Qiu had begun his observation.

According to what Jaydon said, the governor’s father was indeed suffering from an eye disease, and it seemed to be quite serious.

Fang Qiu took a closer look and realized that the governor’s father was suffering from cataracts.

Cataracts was a disease that can cause metabolic disorders in the lens due to various reasons such as aging, heredity, local nutritional disorders, immune and metabolic abnormalities, trauma, poisoning, and radiation. The lens proteins would become deformed and cloudy, and the optical fiber would be blocked by the cloudy lens and could not be projected on the retina. The patient would have blurred vision.

The disease was most common in people over 40 years of age and the incidence increased with age.

After confirming the patient’s illness, Fang Qiu immediately thought of acupuncture as the treatment method.

Using acupuncture to treat cataracts was a common technique in Chinese Medicine.

According to cataract therapy, it was advisable to tonify the liver and kidneys for those with liver and kidney deficiencies and to tonify the spleen and Qi for those with spleen deficiency and Qi weakness.

Therefore, for acupuncture treatment, the main acupoints, including Zanzhu, Sizhukong, Sun, Sibai, and Hegu points should be selected.

Those with liver and kidney deficiencies would also have their Shenshu, Ganyu, Taixi, and Taichong points acupointed.

Those with spleen deficiency and Qi weakness would have their Zusanli, Baihui, and Fenglong points acupointed.

Soon, the conversation between Jaydon and the natives' chief ended.

After the conversation, the chief immediately walked to Fang Qiu and began to make all kinds of chattering gestures. He also kept pointing at Jaydon, the governor, and his father.

After a long time, Fang Qiu nodded.

The natives' chief turned his head and nodded at Jaydon, who turned around in surprise and nodded to the governor and his father, indicating that the Heavenly God had agreed to the treatment.

With the help of the governor, his father walked into the forest behind the room of Fang Qiu.

After that, Fang Qiu drove the governor back and then began to treat his father.

With internal Qi as needles, Fang Qiu began to treat the patient. It looked as if he was hitting at certain acupoints.

The Chinese Medicine doctor was secretly hiding in the woods not far away and watching.

When he found that the parts where Heavenly God hit at were acupuncture points, he was suddenly stunned.

“Acupuncture points?”

“Is he hitting at the acupuncture points?”

“Even Heavenly God also uses acupuncture points to cure diseases?”

The Chinese Medicine doctor was very shocked.

He had seen too many things related to Huaxia in this Heavenly God, which made it difficult for him to come to his senses.

Outside the mountain forest.

Jaydon, the governor, and the reporters all stood on tiptoe and stretched their necks to look into the forest, but they were all stopped by the natives, who did not allow anyone to watch.

Helplessly, they could only wait.

After some time-

“Ah!”

A scream suddenly came from the forest.

As soon as the scream rang out, all the media reporters, the governor, and Jaydon on the scene were instantly on tenterhooks.

The governor immediately rushed forward and pushed the others away. He wanted to see what was going on inside and why there was a scream.

The natives were also shocked by the scream. They were pushed away by the governor and naturally moved aside.

As the governor looked into the forest, his face changed drastically in an instant.

Chapter 1756 The President's Attention

"What?"

As the governor stood next to the natives and looked at the forest, his face changed drastically in an instant.

Everyone quickly looked over.

The governor's father, who needed the help of the governor to walk in, now had a bright and excited smile on his face. He stepped out of the forest like a normal person.

Seeing this, the governor couldn't help trembling with excitement. He trotted all the way to his father.

"Dad! Dad..."

Grabbing his father's shoulders, the governor asked, "Have you recovered? Have your eyes recovered?"

"Yes."

The governor's father laughed and held his child in his arms, saying, "My eyes are cured. I can see everything in front of me again. I can see everything you can see. I really can't describe it. I'm so excited!"

At this moment, Fang Qiu walked out of the forest, passed by the father and son, and returned to his room to sit down with an expressionless face.

The media reporters all went crazy when they heard the excited voices of the father and son and saw their excited expressions.

Previously, these reporters clearly saw that the eyes of the governor's father were blurry and sick.

But now, it seemed that his eyes were no longer as blurry as before. Instead, they looked extremely clear, and he did not look sick at all.

At the sight of this, all the media reporters went crazy.

For a time, countless media reporters took photos of the three people involved, and some of them directly recorded the scene.

However, they didn't disturb Fang Qiu and didn't dare to interview him. This was what Jaydon had instructed them in advance because Fang Qiu didn't understand what they were talking about at all.

Although the reporters didn't interview Fang Qiu, there were many interviews about the governor and his father.

All the media reporters surrounded the father and son, asking all kinds of questions.

The father and son also deliberately walked to the side of the Heavenly God from the native tribe. When the Heavenly God was in the camera, they began to answer all kinds of questions.

A reporter asked, "Mr. Hawk, what do you think of this matter? How are you feeling now?"

"It's too crazy. It's incredible."

Matt Hawk, the governor, answered with great excitement, "I never thought that my father's illness could be cured in just a few minutes. This kind of therapeutic effect is beyond my expectation. Before I came here, I heard that the natives regarded him as Heavenly God. I still disdainfully believed that it merely was superstition. But now I've seen it with my own eyes. This is really the medical skill that only Heavenly God has. You have seen it with your own eyes, haven't you?"

The media reporters on the scene all nodded excitedly.

Indeed, they had also witnessed it.

"I really want to thank God now. This native Heavenly God is the best gift that God has given to us humans. He is the strongest in the world, and he is the treasure of the world!"

The governor praised Fang Qiu crazily with great excitement.

Next to him, his father was also very excited to be interviewed by the media.

"Sir, how do you feel now? Can you tell us how the Heavenly God treated you? Can you describe the changes in your mood in just a few minutes?"

The media reporters asked questions.

"Oh, my god. Really. I have never encountered such a crazy thing."

Even though he was old, the governor's father still held his head with both hands and said in great shock, "This feeling is incredible. Can you feel it? I even needed my son to support me when I walked before. I couldn't see everything around me, including the green trees, flowers, or the sun, because my cataracts made me almost blind, but in just a few minutes, I got to see everything again.

"I can see your face now. I can even see the pimples on your face. I can also see the reflection in your eyes. It's amazing. I swear to God that this is the first time I've seen everything clearly in my life!"

It could be judged from his tone that the governor's father was very excited.

After the interview, Matt Hawk communicated with the natives' chief in front of all the media, hoping to find a way to repay and thank Heavenly God.

After a tough interpretation, Fang Qiu, who was respectfully called Heavenly God, waved his hand, refused Matt's favor, and asked them to leave as soon as possible.

The governor thanked Fang Qiu by promoting the native tribe, Jusa Island, and Banker Town.

After the governor left Jusa Island, the whole Autranssy began to report this matter on a large scale.

Because of the governor's prestige, the media reporters that followed him to Jusa Island were all top-notch media from Autranssy.

Without exception, they all witnessed that scene with their own eyes.

Therefore, they went all out to report what they had witnessed.

"Heavenly God? Heavenly God of the native tribe on Jusa Island cured the governor's father."

"The indigenous Heavenly God with immortal-like medical skills is the real modern god!"

"He cured incurable diseases first and then serious ones. The native Heavenly God of Banker Town will shock the whole world!"

"He is the best gift God has given to us humans. He is the indigenous Heavenly God!"

“No one knows his name. The natives respectfully call him Heavenly God, and he also has this type of Heavenly God-like method!”

“A being that surpasses humans – Heavenly God has descended on Jusa Island!”

“More than a dozen media have witnessed what happened to the governor’s father with their own eyes!”

“We don’t need to be afraid of diseases anymore, because we have the indigenous Heavenly God!”

“He cured heart disease and cataracts within minutes. How amazing is the Heavenly God?”

All the reports about Heavenly God, like dandelions blown out by the strong wind, quickly spread throughout Autranssy. Almost all the Autranssians saw these reports.

They saw not only text news, but even many TV stations had begun to play videos of the scene.

A lot of live interviews and videos were played on TV, and most of them were posted on the Internet.

As the news spread widely, all the people in Autranssy began to pay attention to this matter, paying attention to the indigenous Heavenly God.

The whole country was in an uproar.

Soon, all the other countries around the world also received the news.

Everyone was very curious about what was going on in Autranssy.

How could such a thing happen that shocked the whole country? In shock, all the countries also took action to investigate, only to find that there was a Heavenly God in Autranssy.

They also used all kinds of methods to learn about this Heavenly God in detail.

“He came out of nowhere?”

“He actually appeared in a native tribe?”

“Is he really a Heavenly God? Otherwise, how could he have come out of nowhere?”

“I think this is simply a scam.”

“In terms of means, this so-called Heavenly God performed perfectly, and his technique was like traditional medicine, just like Chinese Medicine in Huaxia.”

“How could there be such a god in the world? There was Fang Qiu from Huaxia before. How could there be a Heavenly God now?”

“Are these two years the outbreak period of traditional medicine?”

“At present, what this native Heavenly God has done is still a little far from what Fang Qiu has done in Huaxia. But the difference is only in the number of cases because he has not failed yet. He has cured all the difficult miscellaneous diseases, which is the same as Fang Qiu in Huaxia.”

“Is it the traditional medical skills of Autranssy?”

“I feel like we should call him Divine Doctor instead of Heavenly God because he is a human made of flesh and bones!”

...

Because Heavenly God had received too much attention, the president of Autranssy was alarmed soon.

After a public speech, the president was interviewed by the media.

A reporter asked, “Mr. President, what do you think of the native Heavenly God of Jusa Island who appeared in public in the past two days? Do you think this is a good thing?”

“This is a good thing.”

Hearing the question, the president of Autranssy immediately answered very simply, “This is not only a good thing for us but also for the whole world. I am also very curious about this so-called divine doctor because there is no so-called Heavenly God in the world. Heavenly God and God only exist in our faith, so I am more willing to call this man a divine doctor because he is a living person with flesh and bones.

“In addition, considering that everyone is paying attention to this surrounding divine doctor, I may invite him to see me.”

As soon as he finished speaking, the media reporters immediately began reporting.

Because it was the same incident, and on the basis of the reports about Heavenly God and the appeal of the president, the interview news quickly spread throughout the entire Autranssy at a faster speed.

Seeing the whole news, all the Autranssians began to talk about it.

“Mr. President is right. We shouldn’t call that man Heavenly God. We should call him divine doctor.”

“I hope the president can really invite this divine doctor for a meeting because the people’s livelihood matters most to a country. Since now there’s such a divine doctor, we will have a chance to free everyone from serious diseases.”

“Our president has truly achieved something nice by doing that.”

“I want to see what this divine doctor looks like in person. I’m going to Jusa Island tomorrow!”

...

In the midst of great anticipation, the president of Autranssy sent his men to Jusa Island to invite this divine doctor with great respect the next day.

On the island.

After receiving the invitation from the president, Fang Qiu also knew that it was time to leave.

He had gained quite a bit from this trip.

He had adjusted his state of mind while he treated patients.

“It’s time to go somewhere else to make a breakthrough.

“However, I heard that the president of Autranssy is quite against Huaxia?”

Chapter 1757 Meeting the President

When Fang Qiu was in Huaxia, he had heard that the president of Autranssy was now targeting Huaxia. Recently, everyone in the world knew about the Huaxianese construction of the fifth-generation mobile communications network had been openly boycotted by the president of Autranssy.

The current president of Autranssy had done a lot of anti-Huaxianese affairs.

Before the Huaxianese construction of the fifth-generation mobile communications network, the current president of Autranssy not only judged the domestic and foreign affairs of Huaxia but also did a lot of things that hurt the interests of Huaxia.

Although Huaxia had been letting it go, the Autransian president did not cherish that favor at all. Instead, he was pushing his luck and setting Huaxia up again and again. Moreover, he was getting more and more unscrupulous.

First of all, the case of the Heshton Company many years ago brought hundreds of billions of losses to Huaxia.

In addition, when Autranssy utilized the pricing power it had to sell iron ore to Huaxia, it not only did not follow the market of the year to reduce the price but also increased the price significantly.

At that time, Autranssy took 50 billion dollars from Huaxia in just one year.

Also, Autranssy's various taxes and high-priced goods specifically targeting Huaxianese tourists had also been reported in Huaxia for a long time.

These were the reports that Fang Qiu had heard.

There were countless reports that he hadn't learned.

Hence, Fang Qiu didn't have a good impression of the Autransian president.

Of course, Fang Qiu would not blame the Autransians for what their president had done. Fang Qiu was not interested in causing trouble for that president at all.

"I've never messed with him. However, since he's coming to me, then he can't blame me for showing no mercy."

Since this Autransian president liked to oppose Huaxia so much, Fang Qiu could only trick him.

On Jusa Island.

Accompanied by the governor, mayor, and Jaydon, the envoy came to the indigenous tribe and invited Fang Qiu.

Fang Qiu didn't refuse. He got up directly and nodded.

When he left, he gave the black wooden stick in his hand to the natives' chief.

In the end, under the worship of the natives, he followed the envoy sent by the president of Autranssy and boarded the ship to Heiland.

long the way, the envoy, the governor, the mayor, and Jaydon were all extremely respectful to Fang Qiu.

Because of the speech given by the president during his interview, they no longer called Fang Qiu Heavenly God but all called him a divine doctor.

In order to communicate with Fang Qiu, the mayor even hired a master of sign language to try to communicate with Fang Qiu.

Unexpectedly, Fang Qiu didn't even look at that master.

Helplessly, they had no choice but to arrange for Fang Qiu to board the plane alone with the envoy sent by the president to the international airport in Heiland. They arrived at the capital city, Canbara, which was located between Melbourne and Sydney in the southeast area.

As the capital of Autranssy, Canbara was located in the political center of the country. The Autranssian Parliament Building, the Autranssian High Court, and numerous other government departments and foreign educational institutions were built in Canbara.

The Parliament Building was located at the top of a mountain in the capital.

It was the place where Autransian government cabinet members and parliamentary members conducted important discussions or took temporary breaks.

Fang Qiu was directly brought here after he got off the plane at Canbara Airport.

As soon as Fang Qiu got off the car, he saw extremely neat and tidy green grass.

There was also an extremely modern and spacious square and buildings.

At this moment, the square was already crowded with media reporters from all over the country. The president was standing inside the building, resting, waiting for Fang Qiu's arrival.

Under everyone's gaze, Fang Qiu stepped forward and came to the entrance of the Parliament Building.

The president of Autranssy came out to meet Fang Qiu in person.

Under the witness of countless media reporters, the president took the initiative to reach out to Fang Qiu with a smile and shake hands with him for a photo.

Of course, Fang Qiu didn't change back to his original appearance after leaving the island. He was still tanned and looked like a native on the island. Except for his hair, the other parts of him were the same as the natives.

Media reporters were not allowed to enter the Parliament Building.

Therefore, after the reporters took some photos, the president of Autranssy invited Fang Qiu into the building.

After they got into a reception room that had already been prepared, Fang Qiu took his seat, and the president immediately reached out his hand and motioned for Fang Qiu to treat him.

Next to him, the government staff of the Parliament Building immediately came over and made an inviting gesture to Fang Qiu. Without hesitation, Fang Qiu immediately walked to the president, held his arm, and began to examine it.

After the examination, he immediately gave a thumbs-up to the president, indicating that he was in good health.

Actually, Fang Qiu didn't want to examine him at all.

"Why should I give a check on this kind of person who targets Huaxia?"

Of course, Fang Qiu didn't expect him to get sick.

"Great."

Seeing Fang Qiu giving him a thumbs-up, the president of Autranssy was quite pleased.

In his opinion, Fang Qiu had been recognized as a divine doctor in the whole of Autranssy, and he was even called a Heavenly God.

Since Fang Qiu said that he was in good health, there must be nothing wrong with his health.

This made him very happy.

Because they couldn't communicate with each other, there was no communication or interview part during the reception. After Fang Qiu gave him a check, the president directly got up and took Fang Qiu to visit the Parliament Building.

It had to be said that the building was really big with almost everything equipped.

The tour lasted for more than an hour before Fang Qiu finished visiting everything about the Parliament Building.

After that, the president of Autranssy invited Fang Qiu to a meal.

Although their languages were different, they got along very well in the past few hours.

As the leader of the country, the president made time to receive Fang Qiu. In fact, his purpose was to do a show under the high attention of all the people in the country just for his reputation.

Who would be willing to spend the whole day with someone they couldn't communicate with?

However, people wouldn't dwell on that.

For the Autranssians, what they saw was everything.

They saw that their president received Fang Qiu in person in a very kind manner. They saw that he had been very patient all day with a smile on his face all the time. They also saw that he invited Fang Qiu to a banquet.

Unfortunately, they didn't know that this was just what their president wanted them to see.

The president of Autranssy received Fang Qiu in the Parliament Building until it was evening.

In the evening, they left the building.

The president directly let Fang Qiu take his motorcade.

When they left, although the media had been asked to leave, there were still some reporters who secretly took some photos in the distance.

Soon, the motorcade drove into a huge manor in an extremely noble area.

This was the Autransian president's temporary residence.

There were even soldiers guarding the gate.

Although the manor was located in the downtown area, it was particularly quiet after entering because of its large area.

The motorcade drove smoothly for a few minutes before stopping in front of a T-shaped villa.

The president was the first to enter.

Fang Qiu was also invited out and walked in.

It seemed that Fang Qiu would be asked to stay there.

However, after Fang Qiu entered the villa, no one but a bodyguard who followed the president dared to follow him to go in.

"Phew..."

The moment the gate of the villa was closed, the president of Autranssy immediately breathed a sigh of relief, and his whole body completely relaxed from the tense state.

The president said to the bodyguard beside him, "Alright, tell him."

"Okay, Mr. President."

The bodyguard nodded. He then walked toward Fang Qiu and began to gesticulate.

Fang Qiu pretended to watch curiously and tried his best to understand what the bodyguard meant, but he couldn't find anything after looking at it for a long time.

Fang Qiu was speechless.

"What do they want? Can't they tell me?"

"It will be easier for me to understand if they just say it.

"Why do they have to gesticulate?"

Helplessly, Fang Qiu could only try his best to interpret the bodyguard's sign language.

In desperation, the bodyguard began to explain.

"Mr. President has a young daughter."

The bodyguard gestured and said, "His, his young daughter is unknown to the outside world!"

After a while, Fang Qiu nodded to show that he understood.

"You should've just said it at the beginning, and I would've understood a long time ago, wouldn't I?"

"His young daughter is ill. It's an incurable disease that's very difficult to treat. We hope you can see her."

The bodyguard continued to gesticulate.

Fang Qiu continued to pretend not to understand.

After gesticulating with the bodyguard for a long time, Fang Qiu nodded to show that he understood.

The president of Autranssy, who had relaxed, came forward and asked, "How is it going?"

The bodyguard nodded and said, "He should have understood by now."

"I'm glad he understands."

The president smiled with satisfaction and said, "I heard that he can cure terminal diseases. I don't know if it's true or not. Fortunately, I can't communicate with him. Otherwise, I wouldn't dare to let him treat my daughter."

The bodyguard comforted him by saying, "Don't worry. I think he can definitely cure her with his medical skills."

"Let's go."

The president nodded. He then pointed upstairs and invited Fang Qiu to go upstairs together.

They came to a room on the third floor.

Fang Qiu saw a little girl with silver hair. She looked very beautiful and cute.

From the conversation between the president and the bodyguard, Fang Qiu learned that the president's young daughter had never been known by the outside world. There might be some reasons for it, but neither of them mentioned it.

Although Fang Qiu came here to trick the president of Autranssy at the beginning, he didn't intend to leave a little girl in the lurch when he learned that she was ill.

The mistake made by the president of Autranssy could not be blamed on his daughter.

When the three came to the room and saw the little girl, the president first talked to the little girl, telling her not to be afraid of Fang Qiu, because Fang Qiu could cure her. As long as her illness was cured, she could play like an ordinary child.

The little girl nodded very sensibly.

When everything was ready, Fang Qiu stepped forward and began to examine the little girl.

Although he knew that it was an incurable disease, he didn't know what kind of incurable disease the little girl had yet.

Chapter 1758 Treating Leukemia

When Fang Qiu came up, the little girl was holding a beautiful doll in her arms, staring at Fang Qiu with her eyes wide open. Her eyes were full of curiosity and showed no fear at all.

Looking at the little girl's big clear eyes, Fang Qiu began to examine her with a kind smile.

After the examination, Fang Qiu immediately found that the little girl was suffering from leukemia, which was as he had expected.

After all, there were only a few incurable diseases in the world.

Chinese Medicine believed that the symptoms of leukemia were mostly caused by internal weakness, Yin and Yang imbalance, viscera weakness, etc.

Internal deficiency of essence and Qi was the internal cause of leukemia and was closely related to the liver, spleen, and kidneys.

Warm-heat toxicity was the cause of leukemia, especially acute leukemia, which was characterized by rapid onset, rapid development, vicious condition, easy relapse, and poor prognosis.

Soon, the examination was over.

Fang Qiu also began to think about the treatment plan in his mind.

Chinese Medicine had several treatment plans for leukemia. For those who suffered from excessive heat, they needed to clear the heat, detoxify, and cool blood to save Yin. The idea of Clearing Plague and Poison should be applied.

For those who had poisonous and injurious blood, they needed to use the Divine Rhino Pill to clear their internal heat, neutralize the toxins, and stop the bleeding.

Those who had both Qi and Yin deficiencies needed to nourish their Qi and Yin with Meridians Reviving Potion.

...

After thinking carefully, Fang Qiu asked the Autransian president and his bodyguard to leave the room.

After they left, Fang Qiu immediately began to treat the patient.

Thinking about the treatment methods was the habit of Fang Qiu as a doctor of Chinese Medicine. After confirming the treatment method, Fang Qiu could simplify it and directly inject his golden internal Qi into the little girl's body to help her directly eliminate the disease.

After the president and his bodyguard went out, the little girl sat on the bed playing with the doll in her hand. Fang Qiu stood behind her and gently knocked her out. Then, he pressed his hand on her back and began to inject his golden internal Qi into her body for treatment.

The golden internal Qi entered her body.

During the treatment, Fang Qiu directly controlled his internal Qi to circulate in the little girl's body several times in a row, sweeping away all the warm and evil moisture in her body without leaving a trace.

After that, Fang Qiu took the initiative to mobilize the little girl's internal Qi and let her completely return to a healthy normal state.

Five minutes later, the little girl woke up.

Fang Qiu opened the door and walked out.

The president of Autranssy immediately rushed forward to ask, "How is she?"

Fang Qiu nodded in response with a poker face.

Seeing Fang Qiu nod, the Autranssian president and the bodyguard instantly looked extremely surprised.

Without any hesitation, the president immediately rushed into the room to check. After finding out that the little girl was cured, he was very happy and asked the bodyguard to take her to the hospital for a check to see if she had really recovered.

Without hesitation, the bodyguard immediately took the little girl out of the manor and went to the hospital for an examination.

The president invited Fang Qiu to the dining room of the villa and entertained him well, waiting for the news from the bodyguard.

Half an hour later-

Beep! Beep! Beep!

The Autransian president's private phone rang.

Without delay, he immediately took out his mobile phone.

It was indeed a call from the bodyguard.

"Hello?"

The president immediately answered the phone and asked, "How is it? Did you get the report?"

"The examination report is made."

The bodyguard's excited voice came from the other end of the line. He said, "She's fine now. She has really recovered. From today on, she has finally become healthy. She can finally live a normal life!"

"Really?"

As the president heard the voice from the other end of the line, his turned red, and he even cried. It could be seen how excited he was.

"Yes. I'll come back with the examination report right away."

The bodyguard's voice came.

After hanging up the phone, the president took a look at Fang Qiu and then held his hand tightly with excitement. He stood up and pulled Fang Qiu quickly to the hall of the villa. The president kept pacing back and forth, waiting for the little girl to come back.

More than 10 minutes later, the roar of a car engine came from outside.

Soon, the bodyguard came in with the little girl.

The president immediately went up and took the little girl's examination report from the bodyguard. Then, he picked up his daughter and read the report excitedly while giggling.

After reading the report, the president calmed down a little.

He looked overjoyed as he decided to repay this divine doctor, who was his great benefactor.

After all, this divine doctor had saved his daughter's life.

The president said to the bodyguard, "Immediately arrange for someone to accompany him in the capital for a few days. If he wants anything, report it to me. Agree to whatever request he makes."

"I'll arrange it right away."

The bodyguard nodded.

In the next two days, Fang Qiu settled down in the president's manor. There was a large group of people following him in and out of the manor. Fang Qiu wandered around the city as those people bought him whatever he pointed out.

It was as if he were an emperor.

Soon, the news that the divine doctor was warmly welcomed by the president spread throughout the country of Autranssy. Those who had gone to Banker Town on Jusa Island to see Fang Qiu also left Banker Town and rushed to Canbara.

The popularity of Banker Town, which had just risen, suddenly dropped.

The town's mayor was unhappy, and so were the merchants of the town. Even the merchants of Heiland were unhappy.

They kept making calls to appeal to the higher authorities, asking the government to send the divine doctor back.

Because Heiland was building Jusa Island and Banker Town as the most famous tourist attraction in the next hundred years, this plan would be ruined without the divine doctor.

After numerous reports, the president received the news. Due to pressure, he could only send a car to send the divine doctor back.

But it was a pity that Fang Qiu had to leave after two days of great enjoyment.

On the day when Fang Qiu left, countless locals of Canbara came to see him off, which made the president of Autranssy very happy.

In his opinion, now all the people in the country had completely accepted the existence of the divine doctor, and they loved him very much.

In this case, his performance in the past few days would definitely be praised by the general public.

It seemed that he had done the right thing to meet the divine doctor in person this time.

In the president's office of the government office building, the president of Autranssy looked through the glass window at the car escorting the divine doctor leaving from a distance, his face full of pride and satisfaction.

In the car.

"It's about time."

Sitting in the car, Fang Qiu looked at the people who were closely protecting him in the car and then looked out of the car at the famous Mogglo River.

The Mogglo River was a big river that ran through the entire Canbara and connected to the famous Glafen Lake.

If people wanted to go to the airport from the central area of Canbara, they had to cross the Mogglo River.

When the car arrived at the bridge above the river, Fang Qiu, who had always been expressionless, suddenly smiled.

He secretly controlled his internal Qi.

When the car reached the middle of the bridge, Fang Qiu moved his fingers slightly.

A gust of invisible internal Qi directly came out of his body and hit the bridge under the car fiercely.

Under the bombardment of this internal Qi, the bridge surface, which had been intact, exploded in an instant. As the surface of the bridge exploded like a jerry-built construction, the car jolted.

Even if the driver tried his best to drive the car across the road that suddenly collapsed, he still failed.

As the bridge was broken, the car rushed straight into the Mogglo River below.

When it rushed down, the car was in chaos.

The moment it fell into the water, the windows were shattered by a powerful force.

Fang Qiu took the opportunity to get out of the car and swam quickly all the way to the distance. Soon, he disappeared from the place where the car fell into the water.

At the same time, the others in the car also swam upstream one after another. In the end, all of them poked their heads out of the water.

The moment they reached the water surface, they all looked around and searched, only to find that everyone was fine, but the divine doctor was gone.

As soon as they found that the divine doctor was missing, everyone immediately dived into the water to look for him.

But after searching for a long time, they couldn't find him at all.

At this moment, the citizens on the street who took the initiative to send the divine doctor away immediately ran over after seeing the accident with their own eyes. They also saw that the divine doctor did not come up after falling into the river.

This shocked everyone.

Some citizens immediately ran to the accident site to check.

At a glance, they found that the bridge was hollow. Although the steel inside had reached its standards, it had softened because of the lack of maintenance for a long time.

This was the real reason for the accident.

Under the water.

On the way out quickly, Fang Qiu directly washed off the tanned color on his body and returned to his original appearance. After swimming for a long distance, he quietly came ashore in a corner.

Looking at the scene on the bridge from a distance, Fang Qiu couldn't help laughing.

This was his way of tricking the Autransian president.

In front of so many people, something happened on the bridge of the Autransian capital, and it was a god who had just been received by the president of the country, who personally sent people to escort him. How could there be such a great accident?

All the people who had been sent to see the divine doctor were fine, but only the doctor who was respected by everyone was missing.

There was no doubt that everyone would inevitably blame the president of Autranssy for this matter.

As for Fang Qiu, he could just take this opportunity to get away.

He had had enough of being a native Heavenly God and a divine doctor. There was no need for him to continue.

As soon as the accident happened, it quickly attracted all the local media reporters to come over and make all kinds of live reports.

In this era of the Internet, the president of Autranssy also knew that it was impossible to keep this down.

However, once this news was spread, it would probably shock the whole country.

Chapter 1759 March

There might be a large-scale march.

Sure enough, as soon as the news was released crazily on the Internet and on the live reports of the major media, what happened at the scene immediately spread wildly throughout Autranssy like a hurricane.

“A major accident! The bridge on the Mogglo River in Canbara collapsed. The car that sent off the native divine doctor fell into the river!”

“The divine doctor fell into the river. A major accident in Canbara!”

“At present, it’s unknown if the indigenous divine doctor is still alive. All the people escorting him are safe for the time being.”

“The natives of Jusa Island have always held great respect for the sea. They fear the sea and the water!”

For a moment, there were all kinds of news headlines.

The entire Autranssy was completely in shock.

When everyone heard the news, they were all dumbfounded.

It was hard to describe how popular the indigenous divine doctor was these days. Even the president received him personally, which was enough to prove how influential the indigenous divine doctor was.

Because of the series of miracles he created, almost all the people in Autranssy prostrated themselves at the feet of the indigenous divine doctor and became his devout believers.

Most people wanted to admire the divine doctor.

There were even groups of people from all over the country rushing to Canbara, and there were also groups of people rushing to Heiland. Their purpose was to see the indigenous divine doctor.

Among them, there were a lot of rich people.

They took so much money and wanted to find the indigenous divine doctor. They wanted to pay the doctor for merely a treatment.

Originally, Heiland was a tourist attraction, but it wasn't very popular. As the native divine doctor became famous, the entire Heiland became popular.

Countless people swarmed into the city, passing through Heiland to Jusa Island, to Banker town, and to visit the native divine doctor. This caused the population of the entire Heiland to reach an unprecedented level.

Because of the native divine doctor, the entire Heiland enjoyed great benefits.

Of course, the biggest beneficiary was the owner of Jusa Island, all of the townspeople of Banker Town.

After waiting for so long, they finally got a chance to become famous.

But unexpectedly, an accident occurred at this time.

"The native divine doctor is missing?"

"What the hell is going on?"

As soon as the news spread, most of the people in Autranssy were stunned.

It was because they never expected that so many unexpected things would happen, let alone a man called Heavenly God would actually encounter a disaster.

Those who had already trusted the native divine doctor highly also couldn't believe it.

"This can't be. He is the Heavenly God. How could this type of disaster happen to him?"

"Why didn't this happen in other places but Canbara?"

"Since the president invited and received the distinguished guest in person, he should have sent a few more cars to escort the divine doctor. How could there be only one car to escort him?"

"Such a big accident actually happened in Canbara. What the hell is going on?"

"Why is it that all the people escorting the indigenous Heavenly God are fine, only he has disappeared? What exactly is going on?"

"Impossible! He's the Heavenly God. This can't have happened to him!"

As everyone was blaming the president for what had happened, everyone began to call the divine doctor the native Heavenly God again.

It was because everyone felt that he had magical power. He had god-level power. He could even cure incurable diseases. How could such a disaster happen to him?

There was just too much doubt within.

Not only these people who were paying attention to the indigenous Heavenly God but also all the people in the country were concerned about this matter.

No one could have imagined such a thing to happen in Canbara.

It was too shocking and hard to accept.

“Why? Why did such an accident happen?”

“The indigenous Heavenly God was fine staying in Canbara. Why did he suddenly leave?”

“Why did the bridge collapse when the indigenous Heavenly God crossed it?”

“Why are all the people escorting the indigenous Heavenly God fine, to the extent where not a single one of them was injured? Why is it that only the indigenous Heavenly God got in trouble?”

“None of this makes any sense!”

The public began to talk about it.

They could not accept that the faith they had just accepted had been shattered in just a few days.

What happened was deliberately made.

This wasn't the destruction of faith itself, but rather a man-made destruction.

In the president's office of the government office building in Canbara.

The Autransian president standing in front of the window saw it when the bridge collapsed and the car fell into the Mogglo River.

He was shocked at that time.

He immediately made a phone call and asked for immediate rescue.

Under the personal instructions of the president, the rescue team arrived quickly.

The president was also anxiously watching the situation over there through a telescope in front of the window. But because of the small field of view of the telescope, he didn't notice that someone was taking photos of him in another direction.

Soon, all kinds of rescue workers rushed to the bridge.

After dispersing the crowd, they immediately carried out the rescue. First, they rescued the people who were in the water. Then, they fished up the car and dived into the water to look for the indigenous Heavenly God.

After searching for a long time, they didn't see anyone.

The news was reported to the higher-ups and soon reached the president.

"Find him. Find him now. Hurry up and save him!"

The president of Autranssy roared in exasperation.

He knew the consequences of this matter, so he was very scared.

At the same time, he felt that it was a pity.

He also hoped that the native Heavenly God would be fine because he had seen that man's mighty power with his own eyes. He knew that such a divine doctor would be of great help to the development of the whole country.

He didn't want to lose such a talent, nor did he want to take the blame even if he knew that he was destined to take the blame.

The bridge was urgently being repaired. A total of ten fishing teams were searching from top to bottom in the Mogglo River, and even life detectors were used.

However, after searching for a whole day, they still couldn't find any trace of Heavenly God.

The president of Autranssy became more and more anxious.

"Even if there is a little clue, it can temporarily stabilize the public's emotions. Why is there no clue at all?"

"Continue. Continue to search. Even if he's dead, you must find his body!"

The president of Autranssy gave the order under great pressure.

The vast majority of the people didn't care how much pressure the president was under at all.

After the search went on for an entire day without finding a single clue, the residents of Banker Town began to grow angry.

How could their cash cow be lost in Canbara?

How could they take it lying down?

Everyone in the country was confused.

All of a sudden, all kinds of conspiracy theories began to emerge from the Internet, and all kinds of rumors began to spread among the people.

“It must have been planned. Otherwise, how could such an accident happen?”

“I have a friend whose duty is to maintain the bridge. He watched the surveillance video on the bridge. Before the car arrived, there was no problem with the bridge at all, not even a crack. Moreover, according to the surveillance video, the bridge suddenly collapsed without any sign, as if it had been deliberately designed.”

“If that’s the case, then it’s too terrifying.”

“Think about it carefully. There were a total of four people in the car, including the indigenous Heavenly God. After the accident, except for the indigenous Heavenly God, the other three people were fine. However, he disappeared. No one knows if he’s dead or alive. There’s no clue at all. How could this be possible?”

“Whether he is dead or alive, it’s impossible that there are no clues at all.”

“Unless the government is deliberately hiding something!”

“That must be the case.”

“That’s right. He is the Heavenly God. Even if there’s an accident, the other three should be the ones in trouble. The Heavenly God definitely has the ability to protect himself, but in the end, it was he who got in trouble. This makes no sense at all!”

“Could it be that Heavenly God was knocked out or killed when he was in the car? The reason why the government deliberately caused this accident is to cover up the truth?”

As soon as this guess showed up, it immediately attracted the echoes and analysis of countless people.

All the clues of the whole accident seemed to indicate that it was a conspiracy.

This made the president of Autranssy very upset because he didn't have any evidence at all.

If he went out to refute at this time, it would definitely arouse public anger, and at that time, the matter would be even more serious.

Therefore, he could only remain silent.

Seeing that the government didn't do anything and that the president was silent and didn't explain, all the people in Autranssy were more convinced of the conspiracy, so countless people began to organize a march, and more and more people joined it.

This accident soon caused a nationwide march.

The opposition political parties in Autranssy, who were against the president, found that it was a great opportunity.

Under the suppression of the Autranssian president, they had never had a chance to rise. Once there was a chance to rise, they would be severely suppressed.

But now they had such a great chance as the Autranssian president was doing nothing in response.

Now that so many people had begun to go on a march, there was absolutely no problem for those opposition parties to do it as well.

The members of the Autranssian opposition parties immediately began to discuss. They wanted to quickly prepare a bigger march to oppose the president.

At the Canbara Airport.

Sitting in the departure lounge, Fang Qiu watched the reports on the TV hanging on the wall with a smile. He was ready to rush to a place called Kubo to try to make a breakthrough.

Kubo was at the eastern edge of the desert, which was distant from the location of the Yuan Yang Fruit.

Fang Qiu still had a little time. Before the Yuan Yang Fruit ripened, he could try to make a breakthrough.

Chapter 1760 The Only Chance

The plane landed in the city closest to Kubo.

Actually, Kubo was not even as big as a town. It was just a place prepared for adventurers who wanted to enter the desert. It was just like the occasional stalls outside the uninhabited area in Huaxia.

However, Kubo did not have a stall. There was just a simple campsite.

After getting off the plane, Fang Qiu bought two bottles of water at the airport, rented a car at the airport, and drove to Kubo himself.

He came to Kubo.

Perhaps it was because the beautiful scenery of Autranssy was by the sea and the main tourist attractions were coastal cities, there were very few tourists in the desert, and not even a single person could be seen.

Yet, for safety's sake, Fang Qiu didn't rest in Kubo's camp to make a breakthrough. Instead, he went straight through Kubo and came to a high and dense sand dune in the desert. He found a very hidden corner, sat down directly, and began to try to make his breakthrough.

Since Fang Qiu broke through to the stage of the One-Flower Core Formation, his strength had been steadily improving.

Battles broke out one after another along the way.

In addition, Fang Qiu had the habit of meditating and cultivating almost every night, which led to a steady rise in his strength and realm.

Before coming to Autranssy, the flower in his Dantian had already etherealized a lot, but it had not been separated for the time being.

After arriving in Autranssy, he first wiped out the stronghold of the Nirvana Organization, and then he faced the local metahuman forces in the desert and even confronted SS-level experts.

Although he had been hiding behind the scenes, he had attacked many times.

As he did that, the flower in his Dantian became more ethereal.

After the battle with the Little Saint Lord, Fang Qiu also vaguely felt that he had broken through the shackles, but the feeling was too faint.

Fang Qiu knew that his strength had reached a certain level, but his realm was not high enough.

That was why he wanted to take this opportunity to improve his state of mind and calm down.

Now, he had done it.

The shackles that blocked him gradually became clear.

Although it was not the perfect time yet, time was limited. There was not much time left before the Yuan Yang Fruit ripened. Therefore, Fang Qiu had to try his best to make a breakthrough and reach the Two-Flower Core Realm before the Yuan Yang Fruit was ripe.

He cultivated for an entire day and night.

During this day and night, Fang Qiu worked very hard to run the internal Qi in his body and was very focused on looking for an opportunity to make a breakthrough.

During this period, he had tried to break through several times, but he had never been able to grasp the opportunity perfectly.

When there was only one day left before the Yuan Yang Fruit ripened, Fang Qiu woke up.

“Alas...”

Fang Qiu couldn't help sighing as he opened his eyes.

It didn't work.

Although he had tried very hard, he was still missing something in the end.

In his Dantian, the flower had been etherealized and scattered, only one step away from being completely separated.

In fact, if there was enough time, it would take Fang Qiu ten days or half a month to make his breakthrough here.

However, time was limited.

Fang Qiu felt a little pity, but he wasn't obsessed.

While taking cultivation, it was taboo to be eager for quick success and instant benefits. It was the best way to cultivate when conditions were right. Even if he was anxious for instant benefits and made a breakthrough now, it was definitely not the best result.

“Perhaps I don’t have enough luck yet...”

Standing up, Fang Qiu took out the three bottles of water he had bought before from his pockets. After drinking them up one by one, he took out his mobile phone, checked the direction of the Yuan Yang Fruit, and then immediately set off for that area.

Because it was very far away and there was no one in the desert, Fang Qiu could move as fast as he could.

Shortly after, Fang Qiu finally got close to the location of the Yuan Yang Fruit.

After being discovered by the Little Saint Lord last time, this time, Fang Qiu completely suppressed his aura from ten kilometers away and did not reveal anything.

Then, he secretly moved quickly toward the area where the Yuan Yang Fruit was located.

His Divine Consciousness fluttered.

On the way, Fang Qiu could clearly feel that people from all over the world were still guarding there.

The Autranssians still occupied an area of 120 square meters around the Yuan Yang Fruit.

It seemed that during these days, the other forces still couldn’t find a good way to deal with the Autranssians.

Fang Qiu quietly lay in ambush and came to the sand dune one kilometer away from the Yuan Yang Fruit.

He hid himself completely in the sand dune. As he continued to get closer secretly, he began to observe carefully at a close distance.

He first saw the Little Saint Lord of the Nirvana Organization.

When he released his Divine Consciousness, Fang Qiu clearly noticed that the Little Saint Lord was sitting cross-legged somewhere with his eyes closed. He was monitoring the surrounding situation. Obviously, he was looking for Fang Qiu.

However, with the lesson he learned last time, Fang Qiu would not have the Little Saint Lord discover him again now.

He came to a place about 500 meters away from the Yuan Yang Fruit.

Fang Qiu was secretly observing under the sand.

He found that at this time, over ninety percent of the Yuan Yang Fruit had turned scarlet red. Only the upper and lower edges of the fruit had a small piece that was the color of candlelight.

The Qi of Heaven and Earth in the surroundings kept gathering and pouring into the Yuan Yang Fruit.

With the infusion of the Qi of Heaven and Earth, the Yuan Yang Fruit was transforming little by little. At this speed, it would only take one day at most to completely transform successfully.

The atmosphere on the spot was extremely tense.

All the Autranssians were focused and staring around vigilantly, ready to fight at any time.

Around them, the other forces, who had been threatened by the bombs covering a range of 120 meters, also approached one after another. Although they didn't directly charge at the Autranssians, they had already divided their own areas and surrounded the Autranssians from all directions.

The atmosphere was very depressing and solemn.

Everyone was clear that the final battle was about to begin. At this time, no one dared to relax. A second of relaxation could very well cause them to brush past the Yuan Yang Fruit.

They had waited for so long. No matter what, they would not allow any accidents to happen.

In the distance.

The Muricans, who were occupying the northeast area, happened to be within 100 meters where Fang Qiu could sense it with his own eyes.

After seeing the situation clearly, Fang Qiu quietly sank into the depths of the sand.

He directly closed his eyes and began to sense calmly and carefully.

At this time, the Muricans were discussing.

“Where on earth did John Doe go?”

“The Autranssians are not in a hurry at all?”

“Originally, I wanted to use the Autranssians to track John Doe down, but I didn’t expect that they were not willing to look for him at all. Instead, they used John Doe, who was in the dark, as a bargaining chip to deal with us. They are simply crazy!”

“The Autranssians are also very clear that although it is their territory, they are dealing with face major forces from all over the world. They will definitely not be able to fight us head-on. Even the 120-meter bomb area can’t protect them. In this case, they have nothing to fight against us. The only thing that can help them is John Doe, who is hiding in the dark!”

“John Doe is really good at hiding. Where on earth is he? He hasn’t shown up for the past few days!”

“From the effect of the Little Saint Lord chasing after him last time, John Doe has been injured. I guess he has been recuperating during these days.”

“Well, although John Doe is very powerful, this is no longer his battlefield. The only thing he can do here is to die!”

“Is it because John Doe has seen through all this that he chose to give up?”

“In the past few days, the Little Saint Lord has been sensing the situation around him, and he has never found John Doe’s aura. Although this guy is not a person who will give up easily, the situation this time is obviously different. Anyway, this top-level spiritual fruit is about to ripen. We’d better focus on snatching it first.”

Hearing everyone’s discussion, Tony, the leader of the Muricans, spoke and then added, “Do as you are told!”

The others nodded.

At this moment-

Bam!

All of a sudden, in the area occupied by the Autranssians, three military vehicles moved toward the town on the edge of the desert.

Upon seeing this, the people of various forces in the surroundings all got up to watch from a distance.

Hiding beneath the sand, Fang Qiu also instantly understood the Autranssians’ intentions.

Apparently, it was the last time the Autranssians went out to purchase.

Because they had already lost a helicopter and two military vehicles, the Autranssian authorities were not willing to send new military vehicles over, so they could only use the three military vehicles on the spot.

The date of the Yuan Yang Fruit's maturity was tomorrow. This time, the Autranssians were very likely to secretly do some weapon deployment in the name of purchasing so as to prepare for the competition for the spiritual fruit tomorrow.

Of course, it was also possible that those people were up for a pure purchase.

Maybe the Autranssians really wanted to keep confronting forces from all over the world like this.

After all, as long as there was a bomb zone, they would be safe.

When the Yuan Yang Fruit matured, as long as they didn't pick it, the forces from all over the world wouldn't dare to take action directly.

If they continued to confront each other, it was very likely that the Autranssians would be the last ones to hold on. After all, this was their territory.

"Time is limited. I must think of a way to get in."

With that in mind, Fang Qiu quietly retreated and rushed to the town where he had hidden before.

Both sides were now at loggerheads.

The only way for Fang Qiu to get in was to use a military vehicle.

Hopefully, this time, the military vehicle would not be in danger.

Although the military vehicle Fang Qiu took had been blown up before, things were completely different at this critical moment. It was very likely that something unexpected would happen.

However, this was his only chance.

Fang Qiu could only give it a try.