Chapter 430: The Most Important Thing in the World!

"Hmm."

"I hate kids."

With those words, Jason walked over to a corner of the house.

As Jason distanced himself, Emma immediately stopped trembling, confirming everyone's previous speculation in the room.

"You need a more refined technique to conceal the secret technique."

"Don't worry."

"When you train with the sword, I will teach you." Continue your journey with empire

Avent came over, looking every bit the elder, consoling Jason.

"Hmm."

All Jason did was nod, having no idea what else to say.

Fortunately, the ambulance and doctors arrived soon after.

There wasn't just one ambulance; a team of doctors and nurses appeared, and an assortment of dazzling medical equipment quickly filled the room.

"Has medical emergency response become this sophisticated?"

Danfoss blinked, looking puzzled.

Pasi, however, laughed and pointed at Jason, Aras, and Avent.

She did not know what had happened, but she was sure it must be related to one of those three.

It wasn't just Pasi who thought this; Esther thought the same, especially when he quietly asked Jason and received some secretive answers, his gaze towards Aras shifted.

The fear was still there.

But at this moment, it was mixed with awe.

Indeed, a family worthy of causing my father's defeat!

Esther thought to himself.

And then, he just watched as many doctors and nurses bustled around in front of him.

"How is she, Doctor?"

When the doctors and nurses stopped, Esther walked over and asked.

"According to the instruments, Miss Emma has an ordinary fever and a bit of nutritional deficiency."

"I assure you she will recover quickly."

That appeared to be the leading doctor speaking reassuringly.

Then, taking a step closer, he continued in a voice only the two of them could hear, "Deputy Leader, Miss Emma has no issues, I assure you."

After speaking, the doctor stepped back with a smile.

"That's good to know."

Esther nodded, his face void of any surprise.

Instead, there was a sense of it being a matter of course.

If adaptability could also be 'abnormal,' then Esther would definitely be at a T-level.

He had now adapted to everything that came with being the 'Hydra' Deputy Leader.

Or more precisely, he had come to accept his role as the 'Hydra' Deputy Leader.

"Leave some reliable people to watch over Emma."

Esther ordered.

"Yes, Deputy Leader."

The doctor responded softly, then quickly made arrangements.

Seeing Emma breathing evenly, everyone finally breathed a sigh of relief, especially Logan and Kuituo, who relaxed their tense little faces.

"It might be out of place to say this, but we should have dinner."

Pasi said.

Missing a meal might not be a big deal for adults, but it was a different story for two children.

She patted the tops of the heads of the two children.

"Don't worry, everything is going to be alright."

Esther, who was nearby, busied himself with arrangements.

"Come, come on, let's eat."

But at that moment, Jason started walking towards the outside.

"Lord Jason, aren't you going to eat?"

Esther was taken aback.

"I've eaten enough."

With those words, Jason stepped out and disappeared behind the door.

Avent watched the door close and couldn't help but sigh.

Still a loner, take it slow.

Everything will get better.

I will bring you back to the right path!

In that moment, the 'Sword Saint' Avent was full of confidence!

He believed that once he could make Jason feel the presence of 'family,' everything would get better.

Because, that is—

The most important thing in the world.
