

Chapter 2353 The Hidden Venomous Snake

After Matthew expressed his unexpected opinion about Kenzy, Levi also looked at him sympathetically.

"Perhaps you don't know yet, but Kenzy is known as the Two-Face of Bainbridge. He smiles in front of people but murders the person behind their backs," Levi explained.

"Now that you have offended him, you need to be cautious in the future. But because you have the title of the Holy Doctor now, he won't dare to go too far. However, he will definitely try to trip you up in secret."

After Levi's explanation, Matthew was speechless. It turned out that everything about Kenzy was just a disguise. Matthew even had a good impression of him before, and he didn't even realize that he could've offended him. Since he had chosen to stand up for Billy, he was already in opposition to the Nolan Family. It was just a matter of time and wouldn't have a big impact.

After regaining his thoughts, Matthew chatted with the two Kings for a while before taking his leave.

"King of the South, you have changed!" Martin suddenly exclaimed as he watched Matthew leave.

Beside him, Levi continued to savor his tea without paying much attention and casually replied, "People change, don't they? Now that Matthew's power is growing, suppressing him would only bring trouble to me."

As soon as he finished speaking, Martin suddenly stopped smiling.

"You really have changed!" He faintly sensed a hint of surrender in the other's words. If it were someone else, Martin wouldn't be surprised, but this kind of emotion was impossible if it came from the intelligent and brave King of the South.

"So what if I have changed? How about you? How did your little chess piece go?" Levi changed the topic.

With the switch of topic, King of Rivenia's face was filled with astonishment as he shook his head. "Young people these days are getting more and more abnormal. In just a few days, Fabien's strength has greatly improved."

Levi nodded and poured himself some tea. Afterward, he warned, "I advise you to be cautious. His changes are not just in strength but also character. Beware of his counterattacks and his potential intention of stealing your power in Rivenia."

The situation with Fabien was completely opposite to Matthew's. Matthew had grown from a young cub to a lion, while Fabien had transformed from a reckless youth to a mature and cunning snake. His character and strength advanced side by side, indicating that he had big plans.

Martin Newmont arched his brow in response to Levi's warning. "I don't have a deep grudge against him, and I was the one who brought him into the Martial League. Even if he has intentions of counterattacking, I can still subdue him for ten years."

"But you, on the other hand, killed his beloved pet. He probably hates you to the core," Martin joked.

It was initially just a playful remark from Martin. However, when he finished speaking, Levi's right hand suddenly trembled. The scalding hot tea instantly spilled all over the back of his hand. In the blink of an eye, he used his spiritual power to evaporate the tea.

On the other side, after dealing with trivial matters, Matthew returned to the cafe.

As soon as he entered, he saw his parents-in-law with joyful expressions on their faces.

"James, Helen, did something good happen? It's been a long time since I've seen you so happy," Matthew commented.

In recent years, James had more worries than smiles on his face. It was extremely rare to see him so overjoyed.

Seeing Matthew, James exclaimed with a cheery face, "You're back, Matthew! I was just contemplating when to tell you. The main branch of the Bainbridge Cunninghams, one of the Ten Greatest Families of Cathay, intends to include our branch from Eastshire in the family genealogy. Even your grandfather and great-grandfather couldn't achieve such a thing."

The Bainbridge Cunninghams were one of the Ten Greatest Families of Cathay. For members of the older generation like James, being included in the family genealogy was a great honor.
