

Mia is Not 381

Chapter 381: I'm Psychotic

As Koen was thinking, he saw Amelia rush over fiercely and step on the caretaker again and again.
“Aiyaya, I'll hit you! I'll hit you!”

Koen's mouth twitched. Okay, so Amelia was no different from a normal child. She was very vengeful.

When the police arrived, they saw this scene and could not help but twitch their lips.

Koen went over and explained the reason. After the police opened the caretaker's cell phone to check, their scalps immediately tingled! Not only was this caretaker's cell phone photo album filled with the process of her abusing the elderly, but there were also several videos of her suffocating the elderly she was taking care of! She did not have any reverence for life. Instead, she took pleasure in humiliation. One of the videos was of her killing process. She raised her cell phone and laughed strangely. “Everyone, look. I killed another person today. This old thing hasn't slept well for a few days. I didn't feed him anything either. He's already extremely weak! What's even more ridiculous is that his family actually thinks that his life is coming to an end. In that case, I'll send him off. Haha, look, his family won't suspect anything even if he dies now. Hahaha...” The video that followed was very blurry. It should have been secretly taken by the caretaker. It was the scene of the old man's family crying after the old man died. The caretaker pretended to cry at the side, but in the video, it felt like she was laughing...

“It's too scary!” Carl's servants' attention was attracted by the video and they forgot Amelia's strength. They felt their hair stand on end as they listened to the video from the side. However, what was even more terrifying was that there was not one, but several! Suffocating with a pillow and pressing the elderly's head into a basin to drown was the most common. According to the caretaker, it was not easy to discover. In addition to the caretakers own murder videos, she also saved many other people's videos. The content ranged from cat abuse to human murder. There was everything!

The police followed the clues and quickly found the WeChat group the caretaker was in. It was not an exaggeration to say that there were a hundred people in the WeChat group, half of whom were executioners! The police had handled so many cases, but this was the first time they felt the darkness and horror of human nature!

“Do you have anything else to say?!” The police officer looked at the caretaker sternly. The caretaker’s mind buzzed, and there was only one thought in her mind: It’s over.

The caretaker began to regret it, but she did not regret killing anyone. Instead, she regretted being so careless this time and being caught red-handed! She cried on the spot and shouted, “Spare me! I didn’t do it on purpose... Really, I don’t know why I took these photos. I... I’m mentally unstable... Yes, I’m mentally ill. I’m mentally ill!” Mental patients would not be sentenced!

The caretaker began to pretend to be crazy. “Hehe, come and catch me, come and catch me... Mommy, Mommy, where are you? I want to eat candy, eat candy...”

The police officer went forward and restrained the caretaker. “Whether you’re mentally ill or not is not up to you to decide.” He sneered. “Besides, you just recorded your evil deeds from beginning to end. From this video, it can be determined that you haven’t lost your ability to recognize and control yourself. Even if you’re a lunatic, you’ll be sentenced to death!”

The caretaker: “...” No, she didn’t understand! Why was she suddenly so unlucky? She even recorded the evidence that convicted her?!

“Mr. Carl! Help! Please, please let me off. I still have two children...” In a moment of desperation, the caretaker hurriedly begged Koen for mercy. She usually took pleasure in teasing others. Only when death fell on her head did she know fear.

Koen was expressionless. Forgive her? He would follow this matter to the end! Until these scumbags were sentenced to death!

The police took the caretaker’s phone and reported it as they collected evidence. This was a big case! In order to prevent more lives from being threatened, they had to move quickly and secretly to capture these people in one fell swoop!

At this moment, the people in the WeChat group the caretaker was in were completely unaware that the caretaker had sent them all to prison!

Everyone looked at the caretaker who was being taken away. They were shocked and afraid and did not come back to their senses for a long time.

Amelia was beside them, dragging something with great effort. Elmer took the Spirit Binding Net from her hand and said, "I'll do it." He moved his fingers, and the net floated up on its own. Elmer sneered.. "Are you touched that I'm carrying you myself?"

Chapter 382: Grandpa, You Have to Get Better Quickly

The black-hearted ghost, who was struggling violently: ‘

After what happened, the Carl family did not have the mood to entertain George and Amelia anymore. Amelia had also caught the black-hearted ghost and completed her mission. She picked Grandpa Turtle up from the lawn and patted him. She muttered, "Grandpa Turtle, I'm sorry. Mia was too anxious just now and really couldn't find anything..." She paused for a moment and immediately added, "But Mia just thought of it! If this happens again in the future, I can lose my shoes and never lose you, Grandpa Turtle!"

Grandpa Turtle: ‘ It narrowed its eyes as if it didn't care much about Amelia's words.

Seven saw Grandpa Turtle being found. For some reason, he suddenly exclaimed, "Yo, you're back?"

Grandpa Turtle: ‘ . ‘ He instantly retracted his head!

George and Koen exchanged a few words before bidding farewell at the door.

Master of Carl family. "Grandpa, you have to get better quickly!"

The Old Master of the Carl family was inarticulate. His current intelligence might not even be comparable to a child's. He only knew how to wave foolishly and mumble gibberish.

George said to Koen, "I'll get someone to send the relevant rehabilitation training methods over."

Koen was extremely grateful and watched George's car leave.

In the car, Helena said to Amelia belatedly, "Aiyo, your eldest uncle forgot to warn people to keep their mouths closed!" Several servants had seen Mia throw the nurse out.

Beside her, Elmer said calmly, "There's no need."

Helena was puzzled. "Why?"

Amelia had no idea what Helena and Elmer were talking about. She played with her feet and then asked in a childish voice, "Why?"

Elmer: "Deliberately sealing their mouths would make us look guilty. There are two ways to hide the truth in the world. One is to make people shut up completely, and the other is to turn the truth into a rumor." When things were exaggerated to the point that no normal person would believe it, no matter how true the servants were, no one would believe them. If they paid the hush money, they would leave evidence. As for Koen, even if he felt that something was wrong, he would not spout nonsense.

Helena was enlightened. "I see. My brother is my brother. His brain is amazing!"

George looked down at Amelia. "Talking to your mother?"

Amelia tilted her head. "Mom said, my big brother is my big brother. His brain is amazing! "

George instantly understood what she meant and could not help but smile. At this moment, Amelia raised her feet and laughed. "Eldest Uncle, I'll let you smell my stinky feet!"

George grabbed Amelia's little foot and stroked her nose indulgently. "Naughty."

After capturing the black-hearted ghost home, the rest was the process of the trial. Strangely, the black-hearted ghost did not say a word along the way and was very obedient.

When the car returned to the Walton family, Amelia dragged the black-hearted ghost inside. Helena quickly asked, "Do you need help?" Amelia waved her hand. "No need. One must do their own things."

Seven held the zipper of the pet bag in its mouth and unzipped it bit by bit. Then, it stuck its head out and spread its wings. It did not fly, but shook its head and followed Amelia.

At this moment, an accident happened!

The black-hearted ghost suddenly turned into a ball of murderous aura. As if he had gathered all his strength, he suddenly rushed out of the opening of the Spirit Binding Net! Elmer's eyes turned sharp, and he knew that the ghost was not that obedient! However, to his surprise, the black-hearted ghost did not rush towards Amelia. Instead, it rushed towards Seven, who was shaking his head behind Amelia.

Seven's eyes widened and he flew up with a creak. He even cawed, 'Don't come over!'

The black-hearted ghost's thoughts were simple. Possessing a living person was more difficult. Moreover, even if the possession succeeded, it was useless with Amelia and Elmer here. It was better to possess the parrot. This way, Amelia and Elmer would be caught off guard. Secondly, he could rely on the parrot's wings to fly away quickly!

However, the black-hearted ghost had underestimated Seven. Although Seven was glowing green, its movements were very fast. It rushed to Elmer's side with a whoosh! Wait, didn't ordinary animals not see ghosts? Why did it specifically choose Elmer's side?

The black-hearted ghost did not have time to brake. It chased after Seven and threw itself into Elmer's arms..

Chapter 383: When Have I Ever Been Afraid?

Elmer: The black-hearted ghost: ' Helena:

Elmer sneered. "Keep running?"

The black-hearted ghost face turned green. "I'm not running anymore, I'm not running anymore..." It looked at Amelia and saw that Amelia had opened the Spirit Binding Net. The black-hearted ghost flew in aggrievedly, feeling as if it had eaten sh*t.

At night, Amelia was about to return to her room after dinner. William was already waiting. He ran over with a camera. "Mia, did you catch ghosts again?" In the afternoon, he saw Amelia dragging something. She must have caught ghosts again!

At the side, Harper also passed by unintentionally and slowly followed William and Amelia.

Amelia asked William, "Brother, aren't you afraid?"

William sneered. "When have I ever been afraid?"

Amelia covered her mouth and giggled. Brother William's words were too funny. No one would believe it!

Harper joined in the teasing. "Do you believe your own words?"

The three children muttered and went to Amelia's room together. Emma turned her head and looked at Dylan pitifully. "Daddy, I want to play in Mia's room too."

Dylan's face was expressionless. "Go wherever you want after you finish your homework."

Emma immediately wailed, "Then why can Harper go!"

Dylan: "Harper doesn't play games anymore. He knows how to read. What about you?"

Emma was speechless. She was so angry! Her biological brother was too unreliable. He did not even unite with her and left her alone in deep trouble!

In Amelia's room, the black-hearted ghost was tied to the foot of the bed. William set up the camera, and Harper brought over two small stools. In the camera image, a crawling black shadow suddenly appeared at the foot of the bed. The black shadow looked at the camera with a dark and strange gaze.

Although William was already prepared, he was still frightened and held back from shouting. Then, he turned his head and saw Harper staring at the camera image very calmly. William began to doubt his life. Could it be that Harper was really not afraid of ghosts?

Amelia pulled out a bag of snacks from somewhere and sat on the small stool.

"Okay, you can talk now!"

The black-hearted ghost: "... Was it a storyteller?!"

Amelia stuffed a potato chip into her mouth. "Tell me, what's your name, where are you from, and how did you die?" She was only asking according to the procedure. As for whether there would be a result... Anyway, her master was here!

The black-hearted ghost glanced at Elmer and admitted his bad luck. He could only say, "My name is Yorky Sylvan. I was born in the Republic of China. I was pulled by five horses and died from tearing off my head, arms, legs, and body. My heart was even dug out..."

At this moment, Harper suddenly shivered and realized belatedly: Oh my god! The black shadow at the foot of the bed is a ghost! It's so scary!

Yordy was born in the Republic of China. At that time, he was doing business in the city. One day, he passed by a rice shop and took a fancy to the fiancée of the rice shop owner. The rice shop owner was a young man with a quick mind. In less than three months, the rice shop he ran became the best business on that street. As he could not handle it alone, his fiancée took the initiative to Yordy: "It's said that his fiancée grew up with him and was his childhood sweetheart. She didn't have any taboos and came over to help. The moment I saw that fiancée, I was deeply attracted to her..." That little girl was too beautiful and full of spiritual energy. She was clean and pure, Yorky immediately had an idea. He was a businessman to begin with and knew all kinds of bad tricks. That night, he found a hooligan to climb into the rice shop and mixed rat poison into every bag of rice.

William was shocked. "You got someone to mix rat poison into the rice?!" This was too crazy! From his studies of history, the people in the Republic of China were very poor. A month of hard work could only be exchanged for half a bag of rice. The entire family depended on this half bag of rice to survive, but Yorky actually mixed rat poison into the rice! One had to know that the rice shop sold a lot of rice every day! Especially when he said that the rice shop's business was very good. Wasn't this equivalent to murder?

Amelia's little brows were also tightly furrowed. "You'll kill a lot of people by doing this. Don't you know that?"

Yorky said, "I know, but so what? That era was too bitter. How many people couldn't live and wanted to commit suicide? I mixed rat poison into the rice to help them."

Amelia and the others: ‘

Yorky really did not care if someone would die from eating rice laced with rat poison. To him, the life and death of others had nothing to do with him..

Chapter 384: Can You Let Me Go?

The next day, as expected, someone’s family was poisoned to death because they had eaten rice laced with rat poison. In fact, it wasn’t just one or two families. Many families died, vomited, and were injured. The police followed the clues to the rice shop owner and captured the young man. As they couldn’t find evidence of him poisoning them, the rice shop owner was released first. However, the families who had been poisoned to death by the poisoned rice all came looking for them. The rice shop owner was overwrought.

“The rice shop owner desperately needed money, and others didn’t dare to buy rice at his house. At this moment, I had another plan...” York said, “I found two people to pretend to be merchants who bought rice and dragged the rice shop owner to eat and discuss business...” Then, during the meal, the two of them poured wine for the rice shop owner, making him drunk. Then, York took the contract that he had long written and grabbed the rice shop owner’s finger to sign it.

William asked, “Then what does it say?”

Yorky: “I’m writing on the contract that he voluntarily transferred the rice shop to me and sold his fiancée, Aki, to me to repay the debt.” Anyway, the rice shop owner was short of money. Because he had to compensate those who had died from eating poisoned rice, it was reasonable for him to sell the rice shop and his fiancée.

It was not until Yordy brought people to the door that the rice shop owner knew what had happened.

Amelia got angrier as she listened. She crushed the potato chips in her hand.

“And?”

Yorky said, “Then I got what I wanted.” The rice was his, and so was Aki. The owner of the rice shop even wanted to fight him. He secretly got someone to catch him, beat him half to death, and threw him into the river. When Aki found out, she hanged herself in grief and indignation.

Yordy: “I thought that the rice shop owner was dead, but I didn’t expect him to not be dead. He even sneaked into my house in the middle of the night. I caught him while I was sleeping.” At this point, resentment appeared in his eyes, and the murderous aura on his body surged. “That damned commoner! I don’t know where he got five strong horses from, but they were tied in five directions. Then, he tied my head, hands, and feet to the horses. Then, he threw the firecrackers in the middle, and the frightened horses instantly ran in five directions.’

That moment of strength killed Yorky.

Yorky: “I died so tragically! I died without an intact corpse! Those firecrackers were thrown at me, and they actually nailed my soul to the ground...” After he died, the rice shop owner did not let him off. He dug out his heart and placed it in a jar filled with charcoal. Then, he threw it into the feces pit and let it rot and stink... He was forced to endure the pain of being dismembered day and night. He died again and again in fear and despair, and finally became an evil ghost—a black-hearted ghost.

Harper crossed his arms and snorted. “You deserve to die!”

William: “Indeed, he deserves to die.’

Yorky: “I’ve said everything I need to say. You guys said that I deserve to die, so I admit it. Can you let go of me now and let me go to hell?”

Amelia clutched her potato chips and said angrily, “Who said anything about sending you to hell?”

Yorky was stunned and asked happily, “Really? You don’t want me to go to hell? Do you want me to reincarnate?”

Elmer held a pen and wrote something on the booklet. When he heard this, he sneered. “Reincarnation? Evil ghosts can’t be reincarnated.” There was no need to go to hell. Ghosts who had been punished in hell still had a chance to reincarnate, and a black-hearted ghost like Yordy was not worthy of a chance to reincarnate.

Yorky said angrily, "Then what do you want?! I've said everything, but you still won't let me go!"

Amelia was also angry. "Then did we talk about letting you go just because you said so?"

Yorky choked. "No..."

Amelia: "Then that's it!"

The parrot Seven, who was combing its green feathers on the balcony, suddenly interrupted, "Idiot! Idiot!"

Yorky: "... He was so angry! He thought that there would be something to be gained by telling them everything, but he did not expect to be played like a fool!

"I'm going to eat you!" Yorky was furious and pounced fiercely at Amelia! However, before he could break through the Spirit Binding Net, he was slapped back by Elmer. He instantly turned into a ball of murderous aura and was absorbed by the Soul Retrieving Gourd.

Amelia was stunned and asked in confusion, "Master? Didn't they say that only the ghosts Mia caught would count?"

Elmer raised his eyebrows. "The black-hearted ghost died in the Spirit

Binding Net, right?"

Amelia: "Yes, yes!"

Elmer: "You set up this Spirit Binding Net, right?"

Amelia: "... " She seemed to understand what her master was going to say..

Chapter 385: What's There to be Guilty About?

As expected, in the next second, Elmer said, "So, you killed the black-hearted ghost, right?" He slapped the Spirit Binding Net, not the black-hearted ghost.

The black-hearted ghost was unlucky and was instantly implicated to death. What could he do?

Amelia's mouth twitched.

Helena, who was on the other side, suspected that a master like Elmer would lead her obedient daughter astray!

At the same time, at the police station, the police were also interrogating the nurse.

The police officer: "Sini Hill, those old people have no grudge against you. Why did you kill them?"

Sini was listless and listless as she explained in detail, "It's just that life is too boring. They order me to do this and that every day, as if I was born to be ordered around. We're all humans. Why should I serve them when they're high and mighty? I feel that this world is too unfair and there's no fun. Then, I killed the first old person..."

When Sini first killed the first person, it was out of revenge. "I was also very flustered after killing someone. Who knew that the family was so kind-hearted? When they saw me panicking, they thought that I was frightened by the old man's death and even came to comfort me... That old man was not good to begin with. I pressed him with a pillow... so no one noticed anything amiss." After the old man was cremated and buried, her murder crime was completely buried!

Sini was overjoyed. She felt the joy of revenge and embarked on a path of no The interrogating police officer slammed the table and scolded angrily, "That family treated you so well. Don't you feel guilty at all?"

Sini pursed her lips. What did she feel guilty about? They were so rich, they could even hire her to serve others. She was a poor person. What did she have to feel guilty about?

When the interrogating police officer saw Sini's expression, he knew what she was thinking. He suppressed his anger and said, "Continue!"

Sini: "Later on, I became obsessed with this kind of behavior... Initially, I only dared to abuse them a little, especially those demented old people who couldn't speak..." However, later on, pure abuse couldn't make her feel happy anymore. When she saw those dirty old people who didn't die quickly and still needed her to take care of them carefully, who were they?! Hence, she probed on the edge of danger time and time again. Moreover, she realized that as long as she performed well on the surface, the higher the rating, and the more certificates she obtained, the less the patients' families would suspect her. Hence, she worked hard to be the best caregiver, so that the patients' families could hand the patients to her without worry. Then...

Sini liked the feeling of being able to control other people's lives and slowly became addicted. Gradually, she became more and more unsatisfied. She felt that she could not be happy herself, so she found many like-minded friends.

The interrogating police officer was shocked. "You're doing caretaker work to begin with. You're paid a high salary. How can you blame others for ordering you around? If you don't like others ordering you around, you can stop doing this job!"

Sini: "But this job makes a lot of money."

The interrogating police officer choked. He was so angry that he didn't want to speak! The police officer beside him still managed to maintain his calm. "Then, other than your like-minded friends in the WeChat group, what else do you have?"

After saying so much, Sini's lips were a little dry. She smacked her lips and asked, "Is there water?"

The interrogating police officer looked at her coldly. Sini could only say, “Alright, so be it. I only added this WeChat group. I like this group very much. The people in the group are like my family. They speak well and a_re humorous, so I haven’t changed the group.” She actually thought that it was humorous to play with human lives.

The interrogating police officers fell silent. Fortunately, all of Sini’s “family” were caught. After two consecutive days of high-intensity arrest, the police from all districts worked together to capture all the criminals in the WeChat group where Sini was!

The people who were arrested hated Sini to death. Even the evidence of their crimes had been clearly confessed by Sini! After Sini was interrogated, she returned to the prison. In the end, she saw her “family” from afar. She went up to them happily. The other party recognized her and slapped her to the ground without a word. Then, they stepped on her and hit her hard!

The Sini immediately screamed..

Chapter 386: Mom, How Did You Remember?

At night, the prison was colder than other places. Sini curled up on the bed, her eyes so swollen that she could not open them. She was almost beaten to death and was assigned to this single room.

“Boohoo... It hurts... It hurts so much...” Sini whimpered. She was thirsty, but it was so painful that she couldn’t get out of bed. She really wanted someone to serve her...

At this moment, a gust of wind blew past and the iron window creaked. In her daze, she felt someone touching her head. “Hehe... Do you want... me to take care of you...”

Sini was so frightened that her eyes flew open. She jumped up and sat up! She saw an old lady standing by the bed, staring straight at her.

“You...” Sini was shocked. She had recorded many, many videos and often secretly admired them. Naturally, she could recognize at a glance... This old woman was one of the people she had killed!

“Don’t come over... Don’t come over...” Sini panicked. When she was caught by the police, although she was also flustered, after staying in prison for two to three days, she knew that she couldn’t escape, so it didn’t matter. But now, the old person she had drowned suddenly appeared in front of her, this made Sini extremely afraid!

There was a rustling outside. Soon, two more old people climbed in through the iron window. “Come on, we’ll take care of you...” they said.

Sini screamed and wanted to run, but just as she landed, a withered hand reached out from under the bed and grabbed her ankle! The old man’s eyes were filled with resentment. “Come down, I’ll help you step on your back...”

“Aaaahhhh!” Sini screamed, but no matter how loud she was, nobody heard her.

The next day, Sini died in prison. Her eyes were open, and her body was twisted into an unbelievable arc. She died in a terrifying manner, just like Kali, the nurse who had been frightened to death in the corridor a few days ago.

For a moment, public opinion was in an uproar. However, as the case was announced, everyone’s focus was on the case again. They were all furious. Later, when they saw the verdict that everyone who had committed many evil deeds was shot to death. Only then were they satisfied.

“I heard that this matter was exposed by the same person. Which hero is it?”

Come out and accept my bow! ”

“He’s definitely a handsome man with a sense of justice!”

“How satisfying!

Amelia’s first kindergarten semester was coming to an end and summer vacation was coming. Mrs. Walton’s legs were much better too. Looking at her grandmother, who was looking better and better, Amelia wondered if it was time for her grandmother to see her mother.

“By the way, Mom, how did you come to Bradford City yourself?” Amelia suddenly thought of this question.

Helena was lying on her stomach and teasing Seven. When she heard this, she said, “At that time, I was so delirious and I ran out just like that.”

Amelia tilted her head and asked into her phone watch, “How do I get to Bradford City from here?”

Her cell phone flashed. “I’ll recommend the route for you: Route 1, take the subway’s Line 2 to Stone Road, then turn on Line 3 to Cypress Road, then turn on Line 4 to reach the train station. Take the train to Bradford City. Route 2, take a taxi to Buffalo Airport...”

Amelia felt dizzy as she listened. “The route is so complicated, I can’t even remember it. Mom, how did you remember it?”

Helena suddenly stopped in her tracks. That’s right. At that time, she was so ill that she was delirious. Not to mention how to get to the train station and the airport, just how to get on the train and take the plane was a huge problem! It was even more impossible to walk to Bradford City. With her physical condition at that time, she would die halfway! Why didn’t she have any impression of this?

Helena thought for a moment and her expression suddenly froze. “No, someone sent me out and into the car...” Thinking of that person, Helena’s expression suddenly turned ugly.

Helena had a vague memory of that part. All she remembered was that the person was wearing a very large fisherman's hat with a wide, oversized brim. She was wearing a loose dress and her stomach was bulging.

Helena: "That person brought me along a very dark road. Then, I got into the car. The car drove for a long time. When I slowly regained my consciousness, I realized that I was under a bridge cave..." She walked in a daze and met Jonathan.

Amelia asked nervously, "Who is that person?"

Helena pursed her lips. "You know her too. Your original second aunt..."

Amelia's eyes widened.. Second Aunt again?! Second Aunt killed the ugly auntie in order to be with Second Uncle, and then secretly sent her mother away?

Chapter 387: Why Did She Do This?

Helena said, "Her hat covered her face. I saw her face the moment I looked up, so I went with her." If Amelia hadn't asked, she wouldn't have remembered the scene.

"Why would she do that?" Amelia could not understand no matter how she thought about it. Her second aunt had no grudge against her mother. Why would she harm her mother?

Helena shook her head. "I don't know either. She's my second sister-in-law and my very first sister-in-law. She seems to be quite good to me usually."

Helena and Amelia looked at each other. Amelia raised her hand. "I'm going to find Daddy!"

Seven tilted his head and cawed, "Daddy's not here, Daddy's not here!"

Helena was speechless. Oh, she remembered. Alex seemed to have gone to another meeting. She'd heard that he was going to quit his job, but they wouldn't let him.

Amelia: "Then I'll go look for Eldest Uncle!"

Amelia hurriedly put on her shoes and went to the study to look for George. George was working. When he saw Amelia coming, he opened his hand to catch her. "What's wrong?"

Amelia: "Eldest Uncle, Mia doesn't understand one thing."

George: "What's the matter?" The little guy could even catch a ghost. What could stump her?

Amelia: "In the past, Mom was taken away by Second Aunt. Mia doesn't understand. Second Aunt has no grudge against Mom. Why would she do this?"

George's smile froze and his eyes turned sharp. He asked coldly, "Mia, do you mean that Sarah was the one who took your mother away back then?" Amelia nodded.

George stood up. "Since you can't figure it out, I'll ask Sarah myself." His expression was cold. He could already vaguely guess the reason. The Walton family had eight sons, and Helena was the only daughter. As the only girl in the Walton family, Helena had been pampered since she was young. Before she went missing back then, Sarah was about to give birth in a few days. If Sarah found out that the child in her stomach was a daughter, with her personality, it was very likely that she would send Helena away because of this. This way, her daughter would replace Helena and become the Walton family's favorite!

But George couldn't believe that it would be such a simple reason, and Sarah hadn't given birth yet...

The car soon arrived at the prison.

Sarah had been sentenced to twenty-five years for intentional murder. It could be said that her life was over. When she saw George bringing Amelia over to see her, Sarah's eyes revealed a trace of surprise, followed by joy! After she was locked in prison, not a single person from the Walton family came to see her. Even Emma did not come. Now that George had brought Amelia to see her, would she have a chance to beg for a reduced sentence or even get out of prison? She knew her mistake. She really knew her mistake! Prison was bitter and tiring. The punishment during this period of time was enough for her. She could leave, right? She promised that she would be a good wife and a good mother in the future...

"Brother..." Sarah's eyes reddened. She was handcuffed, and it clanged whenever she moved.

The prison meeting was divided into several situations. One was a general meeting. The family members and prisoners were separated by glass and communicated by phone. The second was a special meeting. There was a special conference room with prison guards watching from the side. Now that George saw Sarah, it was a special meeting. That was why Sarah had unrealistic fantasies.

George's face was cold. "Don't call me Big Brother. Our Walton family has nothing to do with you."

Sarah's tears fell. She felt very indignant. How was it unrelated? She was Emma's biological mother. Emma had the Walton family's blood flowing in her, so she was related to the Walton family!

George saw Sarah's expression and knew that she was prepared to argue. He didn't want to hear it, so he asked directly, "Sarah, let me ask you. Were you the one who took Helena away in the first place?"

Sarah, who was brewing her emotions and wanted to speak, froze in an instant. Then, her face was filled with shock. "Brother, what are you talking about! How could I? How could I do such a thing!"

Amelia sat on the big chair and placed her small hand obediently on the table as she looked at Sarah. "Second Aunt, you're lying. Master said that when people lie, their eyes will look to the right. Their eyes will flicker, so you're lying!

George corrected her. "Don't call her Second Aunt. She's just an unfamiliar auntie who committed a crime now."

Sarah's expression instantly turned ugly.. So was she thinking too much? From George's attitude, he didn't seem to be forgiving her!

Chapter 388: I'm Going to Use My Ultimate Move

Amelia changed her words and asked, "Aunt Sarah, my mother didn't provoke you. Why did you harm my mother?"

Sarah pursed her lips and turned her head to the side. "I already said I didn't harm your mother!"

George snapped, "Sarah, you're still stubborn?!"

Sarah suddenly turned around and her eyes turned red. "How am I stubborn? I said I didn't do it. What right do you have to say that it's me?!" She was also smart. She knew that if George had evidence, he wouldn't have specially come over to ask her. He would only secretly use methods to make her life a living hell in prison, so it was fine as long as she refused to admit it now. Anyway, the Walton family couldn't find evidence!

Sarah's attitude was firm, and her eyes were filled with despair. She even laughed self-deprecatingly. "That's true. Why would you believe me now? Just because I killed someone, you think I'm the greatest evil person in the world.

You can't wait to pin all the crimes on me, right?"

George was speechless to see that Sarah was still acting.

Helena, who was beside her, was also very angry. She instructed Amelia, "Mia, go! Kill her!"

Amelia immediately threatened obediently, "Aunt Sarah, if you don't tell the truth, don't blame me for using my ultimate move!" She bared her teeth and clenched her fists, threatening fiercely like a little kitten.

Helena was speechless. Was this a threat? This was super cute!

Sarah was also stunned. A big move? She stole a glance at George and realized that George was also looking at Amelia. So it was Amelia's big move? What big move could a brat have?

Sarah subconsciously asked, "What big move can you have?"

Amelia clasped her hands and lowered her voice. "I'll let my mother confront you!"

Sarah: "... Let Helena confront her? That was ridiculous. Helena was already dead. How could she confront her?! Besides, Helena had died of illness in the end. She hadn't killed her. Even if they dug up Helena's body and found the best forensic pathologist to do an autopsy, there was no way they could find evidence that she had harmed Helena!

Sarah thought Amelia had some big trick up her sleeve. Hearing this, she was completely relieved.

Sarah closed her eyes and said firmly, "Leave! I really didn't harm Helena back then. Even if Helena comes back to life, I'm not afraid!"

Amelia said, "Really?"

Sarah's tone was firm. "Really!"

Amelia exclaimed. What was this called? This was called not crying until she saw the coffin! She waved her hand and muttered. Sarah wanted to laugh when she saw Amelia's strange appearance.

At this moment, a faint voice came from the side. "Really?"

Sarah didn't react for a moment. "It's true. Of course it's true!" She was about to ask if she had treated Helena badly in the past when she heard a familiar voice whisper, "It's quite good..."

Sarah was stunned and turned around! She saw a woman in white. Her hair was loose and floated straight behind her head. Her face was pale and her eyes were lowered as she stared straight at her... Who else could this face be but Helena?!

"Ah! Ghost! Ghost!" Sarah was so frightened that she suddenly stood up. Her knee hit the table hard and she fell to the ground.

The prison guard next to her was shocked. "Behave yourself!" he snapped. They couldn't see Helena. Amelia cast a small spell. Only Sarah could see Helena.

"She, she, she... Helena..." Sarah was flustered and could not speak clearly.

Helena slowly raised her hand and floated towards Sarah. "Second Sister-in-law, I died so tragically... I died from the pain, do you know?"

Elmer's mouth twitched.

It was Helena's first time appearing, her first time scaring people, and she was having a lot of fun. Her hair was still neat just now, but now, it covered her eyes in a mess. Her originally light blue floral dress turned into a long white dress in an instant. Her toes were even straight as she walked with her big toes, approaching Sarah step by step.

Sarah's eyes rolled back and she fainted from fright!

The prison guard patted Sarah's face with his palm very gently. "Wake up, don't pretend to be crazy!" He heard that this woman had pretended to be crazy once when they arrested her. Now, she was using the same trick again?

One of the prison guards felt that Sarah didn't seem to be pretending, but she fainted too strangely. Perhaps her acting skills had improved? Over the years, in order to get out, the prisoners had pretended to be sick. They had seen too many people swallowing toothbrushes and blades..

Chapter 389: Such an Absurd Reason

The prison guard waved a small bottle at the tip of Sarah's nose. Poor Sarah had finally fainted, but she was woken up again. When she opened her eyes, she saw Helena's face pressed against the ground, lying in front of her. Her eyes moved. "Hehe... Second Sister-in-law, you're awake..."

Sarah screamed and backed away. "You! You, you, you! Don't come over! Go away! Go away!"

The prison guard was speechless. It was indeed an act! They stood back in their seats and said expressionlessly, "There's still ten minutes. Hurry up."

Hearing this, Helena continued to use her ultimate move. "Second Sister-in-law, I had no grudge against you back then. Why did you treat me like this? Why did you treat me like this... Why did you send me away when I was delirious? Boohoo... Do you know how painful it was before I died? Look, my heart was in so much pain that it was squeezed into a ball... And my liver... It was so painful that it was hard... And this intestine, it was twisted into a fried dough twist..." As she spoke, she took out her heart, liver, and intestines...

Sarah almost fainted again. Unfortunately, the smell was still at the tip of her nose and attacking her brain, so she could not faint at all!

"Don't come over! Don't come over!" Sarah was about to collapse when she saw this visual impact.

Helena suddenly grinned and said fiercely, "Alright! If you don't say it, I won't die in peace. Then I'll pull you down to accompany me! Come, die with me!"

With that, Helena shouted and pounced on Sarah! Sarah was so frightened that she said everything. "I'll talk, I'll talk..." She cried, her voice trembling.

"Back then... Back then, when I was pregnant with Emma, I did a chromosome test in advance and knew that I was pregnant with a girl..." The Walton family's girls were very valuable.

Sarah: "The Walton family is all boys. If there's only one girl, she will become everyone's favorite. Not only will they dote on the little princess, but the Walton family is not fated to have a daughter. A master told me that when a family prospers, it has to balance Yin and Yang. When the family is filled with boys, there has to be a girl. If there's only one girl at this time, this girl will definitely have a blessed body..."

And the prerequisite for the Great Fortune Body was that there could only be one girl in the family. In other words, Helena had to die before Emma was born! That was why Sarah thought of sending Helena away. Helena was already in the terminal stages of her illness at that time. She had to be carefully cared for by the Walton family every day. Even the air had to be sterile. She thought that if Helena was left on the streets, she would definitely die.

Sarah did not feel that she had done anything wrong. She just wanted to give the best things in the world to her daughter! She cried and said to Helena, "Anyway, you won't live long, and Emma would be born in a few days... Previously, I thought that you would die soon, but who knew that you would persist for day after day? I really couldn't wait anymore! Helena, don't blame me, okay? Emma is also your biological niece! If Emma is well, the entire Walton family is well. I was also thinking for the Walton family! Don't you want your brothers to be well?"

Helena was stunned. She really did not expect Sarah to want to get rid of her for such a ridiculous reason!

Amelia's eyes were also filled with shock. The problem that had troubled her had been resolved just like that, but she was not happy at all. Could people really do so many bad things for their own selfish desires?

George's eyes turned even colder when he heard Sarah's words!

Sarah knew that if she said this, it was impossible for her to get out of prison. In fact, her days in prison would be even worse in the future. She could only change the topic stiffly. "Forget it. It's all my fault anyway, Brother... As a mother, I just want to give the best to my child. I know my mistake... Brother, I just want to ask if Emma is okay now." Speaking of Emma, Sarah's eyes turned even redder. Her voice choked. "I can ignore anything, but I really miss Emma. Brother, please, let me see Emma, okay?" As long as she saw Emma, she would teach her to come and see her mother the next time she cried. After a while, Emma would not forget her as a mother. She had nothing now. When she was released from prison, she was already sixty or seventy years old.. At that time, she could not do anything but rely on Emma, her daughter, so she had to hold on to Emma...

Chapter 390: You Will Have Retribution

Sarah kept saying that she made these mistakes for the sake of the child, but she didn't mention Harper at all, as if she had forgotten that she had a son. In the end, she was selfish! Because at the Walton family, the daughter could help her get everything, but the son couldn't. The Walton boys were very strict and wanted to earn money themselves. The Walton family could be their backing and background, but they couldn't be their treasury. However, Sarah felt that the Walton daughters were different. A girl was delicate and weak. Why did she need to work hard? She just had to lie down and win. Taking a step back, when a girl got married, the dowry was also a large fortune.

Helena looked at Sarah coldly. It was impossible not to hate her. She said faintly, "Sarah, you'll get your retribution."

George stood up too. "Mia, let's go." There was no need to ask. There was no point. He wanted Sarah to suffer in prison!

Sarah saw the murderous look in George's eyes and panicked. "Don't go! Brother, don't go. Please, let me see Emma..."

Amelia pouted. "Aunt Sarah, my mother said, in your dreams. We will never let you see Sister Emma!"

Seeing that George and Helena were indifferent, Sarah could only turn her gaze to Amelia. "Mia, Mia, help Second Aunt. Second Aunt knows her mistake. Please plead with your eldest uncle... When Mia first came to the Walton family, didn't you always miss your mother? Children will miss their mother. Emma must miss me too, so you can't be so selfish. You can't make Emma sad...

Amelia snorted. "Sister Emma didn't miss you!"

Sarah was stunned, as if she had been agitated. She shouted excitedly, "How is that possible! Emma can't be such a selfish and cold-blooded child!" She had sacrificed everything for her daughter. She had sacrificed so much for her! How could she not miss her! How could she not miss her! If that was the case, didn't that mean that everything she did was a failure? Even her education was a failure?

Sarah cried miserably. "You can't do this! You're too selfish. You can't implicate innocent children just to take revenge on me! Emma is innocent. You can't do this..."

Amelia shook her head and said, "Aunt Sarah, Sister Emma is very good now."

You'll ruin things if she sees you!

Sarah refused to believe it and shook her head repeatedly. "How is that possible? You must have said something to her. You must have taught her behind her back and said that I don't want her anymore, right?"

George held Amelia's hand and walked out.

The chains on Sarah's hands and feet clanked. She tried to chase after him, but she was held back by the chains. Then the prison guards stepped forward to restrain her.

The door closed, and Sarah's desperate cries were locked inside.

Sarah was desperate and indignant. What right did she have to not let her see Emma?! Emma was her child. What right did they have to do this! In the past, Emma could not leave her for even a moment, but now, she did not even come to see her... Her daughter would not be so selfish. It must have been taught by the Walton family. They were all evil people! It was all their fault!

Sarah cried and shouted. In the end, she was taken down by the prison guards without explanation.

As the steel door closed, Sarah felt the light in her world close. From then on, her life was in darkness.

In the car, Amelia asked, “Eldest Uncle, why did Aunt Sarah become like this? She likes girls, but she doesn’t like Brother Harper.” In the past, when she was in the Gu family in Bradford City, Jonathan, Rebecca, and her grandparents all hoped that the child in Rebecca’s stomach was a boy. Once, they asked her if it was a brother or a sister in Rebecca’s stomach. She subconsciously said that it was a sister, but they were angry.

So Amelia didn’t quite understand why Sarah didn’t like Brother Harper.

George said, “Because the Walton family has a lot of boys, the Walton family doesn’t raise profligate sons. So when boys turn 18, they have to work hard on their own.’

Amelia asked curiously, “So the girls don’t have to?”

George did not answer. Instead, he asked, “Then what does Mia think?”

Amelia thought about it seriously and said, “Of course we have to work hard! Everyone has to work hard! Mia has to work hard to earn a lot of money. This way, Eldest Uncle won’t have to work so hard.. Our family can play happily every day!’
