

Chapter 180 I'll Take Revenge

Isaac left without hesitation.

Fidelia's high-pitched sobbing could be heard from behind him.

His behaviour threw Willie off. Isaac was not a cruel man, and he certainly would not have been so toward the person who saved his life.

"Mr. Johnston?" Willie called questioningly.

Isaac stopped at the car door and instructed, "Go and tell Audrey that I won't get involved in her son's case."

At first, he pretended he was unconcerned since he suspected that everything was an act, a performance put on by Audrey and Fidelia.

Indeed, it was just an act.

Audrey had assured Fidelia that the men were merely there for decoration and would not touch a strand of her hair.

She had lied.

Audrey knew that she could not fool Isaac with an act alone if she wanted him to believe her.

In short, Fidelia's fate as a victim of sexual assault was sealed the moment she decided to agree with Audrey's plan.

Willie nodded firmly.

He hastily returned inside.

It was too late, though.

Fidelia's pitiful wail was increasing.

Isaac left without hesitation.

Fidelia's high-pitched sobbing could be heard from behind him.

His behaviour threw Willie off. Isaac was not a cruel man, and he certainly would not have been so toward the person who saved his life.

"Mr. Johnston?" Willie called questioningly.

Isaac stopped at the car door and instructed, "Go and tell Audrey that I won't get involved in her son's case."

At first, he pretended he was unconcerned since he suspected that everything was an act, a performance put on by Audrey and Fidelia.

Indeed, it was just an act.

Audrey had assured Fidelia that the men were merely there for decoration and would not touch a strand of her hair.

She had lied.

Audrey knew that she could not fool Isaac with an act alone if she wanted him to believe her.

In short, Fidelia's fate as a victim of sexual assault was sealed the moment she decided to agree with Audrey's plan.

Willie nodded firmly.

He hastily returned inside.

It was too late, though.

Fidelia's pitiful wail was increasing.

Still, Willie conveyed Isaac's words to Audrey.

Audrey smiled as if she had been expecting that. "Why didn't he say so earlier?"

have to play your cards right. Remember, he still thinks that you saved his life, and this happened to you because he didn't come to your aid in time. As long as you master the art of appearing helpless and miserable, he'll keep you by his side. You'll have to act the part to win his love." Fidelia was easily manipulated by Audrey's words.

She asked expectantly, "Really?"

"Yes, really. I have no more reason to lie to you. Follow my instructions, and you'll win his heart in no time." Audrey continued, "Tell me, have you ever heard anything about my husband cheating on me?"

Fidelia shook her head. "No."

"That's because he has always been faithful to me. This is exactly the reason why you should listen to me. I can teach you how to win a man's undying devotion." Audrey helped Fidelia stand up before adding, "When you meet him, don't say anything. Just cry."

She was well aware of Fidelia's idiocy. She would undoubtedly expose the holes in their plan if she talked in front of Isaac.

There was no doubt that Audrey was a very cunning woman. Otherwise, she would not have been able to get away with repeatedly trying to kill Isaac.

Fidelia nodded. "Okay, I'll do as you say, but only if you promise that I can win Isaac over with your plan."

"I promise," Audrey stated confidently.

Fidelia believed her without a doubt.

"Remember, you have to act very miserable around Isaac," Audrey reminded.

Fidelia nodded. "Got it."

"Don't forget, okay?" Audrey prompted.

After making sure that Fidelia understood everything, she escorted her to where Willie was waiting.

Willie grimaced as he lamented how dirty Fidelia was, both figuratively and literally.

"Come with me," he said.

Fidelia hugged herself tightly. Her clothes were in tatters, exposing her shoulders.

Her eyes were red and swollen. Her cheeks were smeared with tears, and her hair was a mess. In short, she looked extremely miserable.

"Mr. Johnston," Willie called when they reached Isaac.

"Get her in the other car," Isaac instructed without even looking at Fidelia.

"Yes, sir."

Willie immediately guided the woman to the other car they had brought.

Following Audrey's advice, Fidelia said nothing and just wept.

Her sobs were truly heart-rending.

Willie managed to find something Fidelia could wear. Once she was settled in the car, Willie approached Isaac and asked, "What should we do now, Mr. Johnston?"

It was the perfect opportunity for Isaac to get back at Audrey. Considering how many times she tried to murder him, he had every right to kill her. Someone as vicious as her deserved a terrible death. Isaac had brought his men with him. He only had to say the word, and they would kill her for him. With how few her subordinates were, she would not be able to defend herself.

Of course, Isaac wanted to kill Audrey, but he was not a rash decision-maker.

"Killing her would only taint our hands."

After some consideration, Isaac said, "Let's go."

Willie got in the car and started the engine without saying a word.

They took Fidelia to the hospital. No visible injury could be seen on her.

However, considering what happened to her, she needed to be examined by a doctor.

Also, they needed to calm her down.

Isaac had always been distant toward Fidelia.

Suddenly being treated so nicely by him was flattering, and she enjoyed every minute of it.

As she sat on the bed, she suddenly forgot everything Audrey had said. She was currently faking a sorrowful demeanour, which did not seem quite as pitiful as before.

"My life is ruined. From now on..."

"I know. It's a pity, really," Isaac stated emotionlessly.

Fidelia abruptly stopped crying and looked up at him with wide eyes. "What..."

"With your looks, it wouldn't be hard for you to find a decent man to marry, but that was in the past. Nobody would want you now." Isaac looked her up and down. "I don't know about other men, but I'll never like a filthy woman like you."

Suddenly, something inside Fidelia shattered.

The ideal future Audrey had created for her was destroyed in an instant.

Indeed, no man would ever want to date a woman who had already lost her virginity.

Even if Isaac understood her plight, he still probably would not like her.

"I saved you because you saved me back then. Now, we're even. This will be the last time we'll see each other." Isaac then turned to Willie. "Give her some money. Make sure it'll be enough for her to lead a comfortable life."

"I don't want it." Fidelia jumped out of bed all of a sudden and grabbed Isaac by the arm. "I don't want your money! What I want is you!"

Isaac's expression hardened. He shook her hand off and hissed, "Filthy!"

She disgusted him.

Fidelia was almost thrown to the floor.

In his disdain, Isaac shook her off with all his might.

Whether Fidelia was completely blameless or had helped Audrey, he would not show her mercy.

His savior left quite an impression on him, and he was sure he would never forget her.

As he stared at the person in front of him, though, he felt nothing at all.

"This happened to you because of Audrey. Everything is her fault. You should get back at her," Isaac suggested.

Fidelia snapped out of the shock.

She remained silent.

She and Audrey were partners. Exacting revenge on the older woman was out of the question.

Isaac was able to read her thoughts with a glance.

It seemed she was really working with Audrey.

Why she sacrificed her body for such a farce was beyond him.

Audrey must be really good at brainwashing people.

"You teamed up with her to save her son, but what did you gain in return?" Isaac asked.

Fidelia gave it some serious consideration. Indeed, Isaac's scorn was all she gained from the stunt she and Audrey pulled. That much was evident in the way he harshly shook her off earlier.

To feel such an aversion to being touched by her, she must have really repulsed him.

"What did I get?" Fidelia asked herself, hoping to find an answer, but all she came up with was, "Nothing."

Back then, her good looks and innocence were all she had.

Now, though, what else did she have?

Rather than benefiting from working with Audrey, she lost what was most precious to her.

Additionally, she had lost her chance with Isaac.

"She's the one responsible for everything that has been taken away from you. If you want to get back at her, I'll help you. If you don't, take the money and go somewhere far, preferably to a place where no one knows you. It's your choice."

After his speech, Isaac walked out of the ward.

Fidelia thought for a moment, then ran to follow him. Once she caught up to him, she grabbed a handful of his shirt and blurted, "Help me get revenge on her!"