

Chapter 451 Beating Him Up

At the stoplight, Camila glimpsed a familiar vehicle out the window.

Before it came into focus, the car sped off.

Turning her head, she caught a fleeting sight of Stevie exiting the car.

No surprise the vehicle was familiar.

It belonged to Robin.

Neither Isaac nor Camila kept in touch with Robin.

As she made her way back home, a deafening silence filled the house, save for the soft sounds trickling from the kitchen.

Rowena was nestled on the couch, organizing baby items.

They had been purchased that day.

"Is Isaac around?" inquired Camila.

"He's conversing with Alick in the study," Rowena responded.

Upon noticing the baby drifting into sleep, Camila quietly left the room.

Rowena said, "Check if their conversation is over. Dinner's served."

Upon reaching the study, the door was ajar. Camila extended her hand to nudge it open.

Right then, she overheard Alick utter, "Willie has dealt with the doctor. Jaylen is stirring up issues again. What's your plan, Mr. Johnston?"

Isaac hadn't taken any action, he simply abducted Jaylen's baby as a form of intimidation, all in a desperate bid to get his own son back.

Isaac used to be a ruthless man.

But fatherhood had softened him, fostering a small iota of compassion for all creatures.

He couldn't harm a child.

However, Jaylen's actions were beyond pardon. Isaac didn't plan on letting Jaylen off this time.

He had been excessively lenient with Jaylen in the past.

This leniency had only emboldened Jaylen.

Jaylen had kidnapped his child!

This incident sent Camila into a frenzy of worry, wreaking havoc on her health which began to deteriorate.

Jaylen must pay for this!

Isaac had shown Jaylen too much leniency in the past.

"Infiltrate his company. If that fails, we can lure his employees away and extract vital business information. Given his wrongdoings, we'll find the proof to destroy him," Isaac said.

Upon processing this, Alick immediately grasped the idea.

Pretending deafness to their conversation, Camila gently swung the door open and stationed herself at the entrance. "Dinner's served. Alick, feel free to join us."

"I have obligations to attend to, so I'll have to take my leave now," Alick responded courteously.

Having eavesdropped on their plan earlier, Camila didn't insist and nodded in understanding.

Once he had departed, she entered.

She brought up the Johnston family in conversation with Isaac.

He was intrigued. "Why the sudden interest in them?"

Camila informed, "On my way back from Forrest's place today, I noticed Stevie. His car was stationed outside a hotel, as if he was there to meet someone."

"I'll investigate." He approached and suggested, "Let's get dinner."

In Skystead.

Jaylen consumed some wine at the dinner event and headed to the restroom. In the hallway, he clumsily collided with a man who clasped onto his arm, refusing to let go.

Angered, he attempted to shove the man off.

The altercation escalated into a brawl.

Outmatched, Jaylen was dealt a severe beating. Soon, he lay incapacitated on the floor. The man seemed well-versed in Taekwondo and boxing.

The man fled the scene.

Jaylen was rushed to the hospital. Upon regaining consciousness, he immediately dispatched his men to look into the incident. Their investigation, however, didn't go well.

After a week's investigation, his men were unable to identify his assailant.

After a few days, Jaylen had recovered somewhat.

Upon reflection, he had a hunch about who could have done this to him.

"There's no one else capable of this but him. Did you complete the task I assigned to you?" Jaylen attempted to move, but his entire body ached.

Even though there were no visible injuries on his skin, his internal organs had suffered damage.

The assistant confirmed, "Yes."

Jaylen cracked a smile. "This time, I need to outmaneuver him to avoid being on the back foot again. I've been dealing with him long enough to know his tactics."

The assistant, concerned for his health, suggested, "Sir, you've been bedridden for a week. Your injuries are serious. Perhaps you should recover fully before seeking vengeance."

Jaylen scowled. "What do you know? If I don't act soon, I'll sustain more losses later. Can't you see I was almost beaten to a pulp because of him?"

The assistant caught on. "Sir, are you implying that Isaac hired someone to assault you?"

"Exactly! Why haven't we apprehended the man yet? Because Isaac has it all planned out." Jaylen's face turned cold. "I won't suffer for nothing."
