

Chapter 474 Nonsense

Witnessing Laura wielding a stick in her hand, Forrest was taken aback.

He hadn't anticipated that Laura would attack him from behind.

"Laura?"

What did she mean by this?

Forrest couldn't comprehend her actions.

Laura immediately pretended to be frightened and stammered, "I... I meant to hit Aldrin..."

Aldrin grew even more irritated upon hearing her explanation. Taking advantage of Forrest's momentary lapse in defense, he kicked him from behind. As Forrest fell, Aldrin seized the opportunity to mount him and strike him with both hands.

Laura's unexpected act left Forrest in a state of shock.

For a moment, he was unable to retaliate.

Inside the room, Alick watched the surveillance footage, his brows furrowing. He inquired, "Should I intervene and stop them?"

Otherwise, would Forrest be beaten to the point of severe harm?

Isaac glanced at the screen and instructed him, "Go and pull Aldrin away."

Alick promptly made his way out.

He separated Aldrin from Forrest and issued a warning, "If you continue to assault him, I'll kick you out!"

Aldrin, still consumed by anger, spat on Forrest.

While Aldrin was beating Forrest, Laura remained on the sidelines, motionless, which struck Alick as rather peculiar. He stared at Laura and

While Aldrin was beating Forrest, Laura remained on the sidelines, motionless, which struck Alick as rather peculiar. He stared at Laura and asked, "Forrest was being attacked. Why didn't you help him?"

"I was shocked," Laura explained ruthlessly.

Alick found himself at a loss for words to counter her statement. He simply felt that Laura displayed a cold demeanor toward Forrest.

"Let's go inside," Alick suggested before stepping forward.

Feeling pain throughout his body, Forrest mustered the strength to hold Laura's hand and said, "Let's go."

Aldrin stood in the background, observing the tightly clasped hands of Forrest and Laura. His eyes got red out of fury!

Laura turned around and noticed Aldrin in that state.

Her heart suddenly ached.

She could genuinely sense his sadness.

Aldrin met her gaze. Just as he was about to approach her, Laura averted her eyes, took hold of Forrest's arm, and asked with concern, "Are you okay?"

Forrest reassured, "I'm alright." With Laura's care and attention, he no longer felt the pain in his body.

Upon hearing this, Aldrin withdrew his hand once again.

He couldn't bear witnessing the intimacy between Forrest and Laura.

As he turned to leave, Rowena went out of the house, calling out, "Aldrin, where are you going? Mila wants to see you. It's also time for dinner."

Aldrin wiped the blood off his mouth and replied, "I don't have an appetite."

"Come inside, even if you're not hungry. Let's tend to the wounds on your face," Rowena insisted.

Aldrin lowered his head and complied.

He followed her into the house.

Rowena led him into the study.

Camila was waiting for him there!

"Camila, what's wrong with Laura?" Aldrin inquired.

"I asked you to come here because I wanted to explain it to you. Laura has lost her memory. She doesn't remember anything from the past..."

"If she doesn't remember, why is she with Forrest?"

Aldrin didn't understand.

"Laura was found by Forrest. They were once in love. Now that Forrest has divorced, it's natural for them to be together..."

"Huh!" Aldrin scoffed. "It's absurd. Camila, do you support the relationship between Laura and Forrest too? Have you forgotten what Forrest did to Laura in the past?"

"I haven't forgotten, but they had a history of love, an emotional foundation..."

"Bullshit!" Aldrin grew angry at Camila's support for Laura and Forrest's relationship. "Camila, you have disappointed me greatly. Moreover, I'm afraid I won't be able to take the job that you arranged for me through Alick. Thank you for your kindness."

With that, he stormed out in a fit of anger.

Camila frowned, calling after him, "Aldrin..."

She stood up, intending to chase after him. However, unable to lower her head, she accidentally brushed against the bookshelf beside her. Inadvertently, the diary fell to the floor. As she bent down to retrieve it,

Isaac entered the room!
