

199 A hopeless fight

At least 30% of the enemy forces were knocked out in this attack. Locke single-handedly dealt a huge blow to the wolf army. Unfortunately, this came at a price and before he could begin to fall unconscious in the air, he was caught by the fourth realm teacher in charge of the room. 1

BOOOM!

BOOOM!

BOOOM!

Linus managed to cast three large explosive spells before collapsing from exhaustion. His spells caused another 20% to be taken out of the arena in just a few seconds. Half of the animals were killed by two people. This display of strength left everyone impressed, even the fourth realm teachers who had already seen dozens of bizarre things.

Clap!

Kayden clapped his hands, drawing the attention of the rest of the room.

"Do your best." There were no big speeches or motivating phrases, Kayden didn't care about any of that. In the next second, his room started a fierce fight against the other wolves.

There were still a few dozen wolves left at the fifth rank and at least two hundred at the fourth rank. This was practically an impossible fight. All of the students were geniuses, but most were only at the second rank. They could face a beast one rank ahead of them with some ease, but two ranks were already starting to be a difficult fight. Fortunately, most had been indoctrinated by Locke and were just trying to take as many animals with them as possible.

Meanwhile, Kayden was just looking at the huge wolf in the distance. His every move was being watched. If he tried to help anyone, the wolf made a move to intervene. Therefore, Kayden just decided to wait for everyone to be disqualified and accumulate mana inside his body.

Dozens of spells were cast in a suicidal manner. No student fell without taking at least three animals with them. Almost everyone was being taken out of the arena due to mana exhaustion. Isaac was one of the mages who was getting the most casualties. His fighting form was extremely fast and allowed him to use every space around him as a wall or floor to move around.

Little by little, students were disqualified. Resistance and morale were falling with each passing minute. No matter how hard they fought, a lost battle was a lost battle.

In the end, only Kayden was left, facing a destroyed battlefield with hundreds of fallen corpses. In front of him, there were still at least 30 wolves at the fifth level and around 100 wolves at the fourth level.

"This is already over."

"Kayden should have just fought sooner and lost with honor."

"Shut up and watch."

All the rooms were facing something at this level, but only Kayden's was so quick in its suicide attacks, in the end, there was only one man left against hundreds. The wolves began to howl, the wolf on the sixth level seemed to have some awareness as it looked into Kayden's eyes and howled in celebration. Anyone driven by their emotions would be furious right now at being disregarded, but Kayden? His emotions died a long time ago.

"Pathetic," Kayden said. The clouds began to close horribly across the entire plain, in a way that was not at all natural. Kayden's strength had not yet been revealed to the general public and when they saw a mere teenager controlling the weather without even blinking, they were shocked. But what happened next left everyone not even knowing what to say.

"The falling of the heavens." The clouds began to thunder as if the end of the world was just a few minutes away, the sound was loud enough to even launch the other rooms.

BOOOM!

BOOOM!

BOOOM!

Dozens of lightning began to fall without a second's pause, mana was swirling throughout the environment at an absurd speed, and each bolt of lightning was capable of killing a wolf at the fourth level and injuring one at the fifth level.

AAUUU!

The sixth-level wolf howled in hatred as he saw his pack being slaughtered by just one opponent. The wind began to rush around him and bizarrely increased its speed, in just a few seconds he was in front of Kayden.

SWISH!

An aura cut automatically arrived before he managed to get close to Kayden. He had great pride, but he was no idiot. The strength of the attack was completely ridiculous and forced him to dodge. Unfortunately for the wolf, this resulted in three wolves on the fifth level being killed in the crossfire.

Meanwhile, the lightning continued to fall as if there was no end to Kayden's mana, which was partially true considering he was only utilizing mana from the environment.

SWISH!

Another slash of aura came out as the alpha wolf tried to attack him. Once again, he dodged and a few more fifth-level wolves fell. Kayden's every attack was perfectly timed to deal as much damage as possible.

In just a few minutes, the number of wolves on the fourth level fell by half. Those on the fifth level had a loss of ten limbs. Kayden was just running from the wolf in the sixth realm and keeping it at bay with aura attacks.

Its rays were accurate and made the plain seem like it was facing the fury of a god, but a few seconds passed before another ray fell perfectly on its target, weakening or killing it, meanwhile, the sixth-level wolf chased Kayden.

SWISH!

His aura attack was impressively deflected by the wolf and he managed to quickly approach

Kayden. Without any fear, Kayden forced all the mana in his body into the acceleration spell and defended the wolf's claw attack directly.

Clang!

The sound of metal hitting metal resounded and neither of them was pushed back. Kayden defended another claw attack, this time on the edge of the limit. The wolf was ridiculously fast, Kayden could barely track its movements with his eyes.

Fortunately, his spiritual sense combined with all his experience meant he was able to predict his opponent's movements and stay at a distance. A smile appeared on his face. It had been a long time since he had faced this feeling of depending only on himself, of fighting with his utmost in every second, of just one mistake being able to cost him his life. Even if the professor took it away before he died, it didn't matter. Kayden was treating the fight like it was just him and the wolf.

BOOOM!

Lightning struck the wolf, catching the animal off guard, but in the blink of an eye, it increased its speed several folds and managed to leave the spell's area of effect. This time, it was Kayden who was shocked. If the wolf moved against him like that, the fight would already be over.

Meanwhile, lightning continued to fall by the dozens, eliminating the fourth-level wolves as if they were mere ducklings. Even those in the fifth had already suffered heavy casualties, leaving only 15 left, and the worst part was that they could do nothing. The alpha wolf was already facing the last threat and ordered no one to flee.

SWISH!

Kayden's aura cut took off a large chunk of the alpha wolf's flesh, leaving the side of its body completely exposed. It was possible to see some bones and pieces of certain organs. That wasn't an attack that should have hit. This only happened because the wolf exchanged one attack for another.

Its claw descended like an executioner on Kayden, he just had time to try to retreat, but his movement was slow compared to the animal's suicidal action. His katana countered the claw, deflecting the attack to the lower part of his body.

One of Kayden's legs fell from his body. The claw passed through his body as if it were cutting a mere sheet of paper. The professor was going to intervene at this point, but he didn't feel the slightest change in Kayden's aura or his expression.

"He doesn't feel pain?"

"What the fuck?"

The public went crazy when they saw the size of the injury that Kayden received and yet he continued fighting normally as if it were nothing more than an inconvenience. The lightning didn't stop for a second, the alpha wolf's despair began to increase as he heard the sad howls of his companions.

There were only 30 wolves left in the fourth level and only 12 wolves in the fifth level, meanwhile, Kayden remained in the sky like an executioner. He didn't stop, he didn't get tired, and his movements didn't lose precision even after suffering a serious injury.

Finally, the wolf abandoned any reservations and decided to end this fight, even if it cost his life. Kayden noticed this and stopped shooting lightning at the other animals. This time, he would only focus on him.

"Come, I will show you the extent of your insignificance." All the mana within 200 meters of Kayden began to converge on him. The boy was using his path to the fullest. Even in his previous fights, he never needed to go this far.
