Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1471-“Well...”

As Thompson hesitated, Austin continued, “Professor, I know they’ re watching you too.If you go to the police, I’m afraid you won’t be able to make it to the police station.It’s even more unlikely for you to reach my family.

“Lily, however, is closely related to the laboratory.You can tell them you’re facing a bottleneck or want to ask her about previous lab data, and then they won’t suspect you if you meet her.

“Lily can fight, and her husband is Alexander, whose family wields a huge influence in Kingsland.Only she can help you and me!”

Probably because the bread and water had strengthened Austin, he could think clearly and calmly.

Looking at Thompson’s expression, he slowly loosened his arm and said earnestly, “Professor Thompson, I have no idea what the experiment is about since you can’t tell me, and I’m not going to ask you about it.

“However, you should know better than anyone that you can’t let it continue.Perhaps they’ve threatened you with your family’s safety, but if they succeed, the world will be thrown into chaos.How safe would your family be then?”

Thompson looked greatly unsettled.

“I-I have no idea.I can’t help you.I can’t!”

He left, almost as if he was fleeing, and Austin did not try to stop him this time.

Having said what he wanted to say, he knew Thompson needed time to think about it and would not dare not to promise him so easily.

As for whether he would help, Austin was not sure and could only leave it to fate.

Daisy left the second day after Lily fired her.

Lily had transferred her wages to her bank account with an additional month’s salary.

As the woman had not done anything bad to Galen, Lily thought it was better to end her employment ina good way.

Probably because it was mentioned before this, Galen did not react much to not seeing Daisy around.

Sitting in the backseat, he swung his two legs leisurely.

“Mommy, are we going to Grandpa’s house today?”

“Yes, and you’re going to stay there,” Lily said as she drove the car, nodding.

“Okay,” he answered without throwing a tantrum.

Lily threw him a curious glance through the rearview mirror.

‘He’s taking it quite well, isn’t he?’ After a while, he asked, “Are you going to see daddy?”

Stunned, Lily held onto the wheel and gave him a sidelong glance.

“How did you know?”

“I heard you talking with Grandpa.”

Pursing his lips, he blinked his big and beautiful eyes.

“Is it dangerous?”

“Not really. It should be safe.”

Surprised that he was concerned about her, Lily smiled soothingly.

“Are you going to miss me?”

“yes!”

Nodding firmly, he said, “Mommy...”

Lily became curious.

“you have to come back soon, okay?”

His eyes sparkled like stars in the sky.

Lily felt warmed hearing his mellifluous boyish voice.

‘What an adorable child! He’s not just sensible but also smart. I must come back safely. So must Alex! We’ll be okay!’

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1472-The car headed toward the estate and gradually moved onto a desolate stretch of road.

It was empty, with almost no cars or people in sight.

Lily did not drive fast on such a road, but a car followed them at a moderate distance, drawing her attention.

She had not minded it at first, but whether she turned or braked, the car remained behind them without overtaking her or going off to a different road, seemingly keeping the same distance.

Knitting her brow, she felt something was bean not right and glimpsed over her shoulder at her son, seated safely in the child safety seat with the belt tightly on.

“Galen, sit tight! Mommy is going to speed up,” she said half- jokingly, not wanting to alarm her son.

“Okay!”

He nodded sharply and held onto the seat belt with one hand.

Lily looked at him and then at the car through the rearview mirror. She stepped on the gas, and the car sped up and raced forward.

The car behind did the same, tailing behind.

Someone was indeed after her.

Being alone with her son on a quiet road without any other motorists, she was somewhat nervous, not knowing who the person was.

As she drove anxiously, she made a call using the car’s Bluetooth speakerphone.

Fortunately, someone soon answered the call, and Dominic’s lazy voice came from the other end, “What’s the matter? Do you miss me?”

“Old man, I’m bringing Galen to your place now, around 0.3 miles down Eastern Road.”

She did not waste her time and got right to the point.

“you’re coming again? You—”

Before he could grumble about it, he heard Lily say anxiously, "Someone's following me. There's a black car chasing after us, and I have no idea who the person is."

Hearing this, Dominic no longer wanted to make fun of her and asked seriously, "It's just you and your son?"

"Yes."

"wait. I'll send someone over immediately," Dominic said.

"Don't hang up, okay?"

Things got hectic on the other end as the old man instructed someone to go to her, and there was the sound of a car starting.

Lily felt calmer.

If she was alone, she was confident in taking care of herself, but as her son was with her, she could not take any risks.

"Is the car still following you?" Dominic asked.

"Yes!"

Galen answered in his innocent voice.

As the call was on loudspeaker, he could hear it.

However, he sounded excited instead of scared.

Lily was surprised.

"Hey, little guy, aren't you afraid?"

Dominic was happy to hear his voice and tried to tease him.

Galen said, "Nope!"

"Good boy! Don't be scared, okay? Grandpa is sending people over. If there are any bad guys, my people will kick their a*s*s!"

Dominic tried to encourage him.

"Okay! Keep it up, Grandpa!"

Dominic laughed happily.

Lily was speechless.

'We're the ones who need encouragement. Not him!' However, she was still glad.

At least her son was not frightened and was taking things exceptionally well.

Taking another glance at the rearview mirror, she tensed up again.

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1473-The car, which had kept a certain distance away, suddenly sped up and barreled toward them.

Instead of trying to pass them, it was coming straight at them.

'The pursuer is hostile!' Narrowing her eyes, Lily cocked her head a bit and had no time to glance at her son.

"Sit tight!"

She floored the gas pedal, and the car shot forward like an arrow.

Not wanting to make a single mistake, she focused on the road ahead as trees swept by the vehicle on both sides.

Hearing that something was not right, Dominic hurriedly asked, "What happened? What happened?"

"Nothing. The car behind us looked like it was about to hit us, so I sped up," Lily answered.

"Hit you?" Dominic shouted.

"How is that nothing?"

Lily then heard him talking on the phone with his men.

"You guys heard that? Why are you so slow? Hurry up! If anything happens to them, I'll kill you!"

She had never heard him so angry before.

No matter how angry he got, he never threatened to kill anyone.

The most he would do was tell others to get lost.

“Calm down, old man. We’re fine!” She said calmly as she sharply turned the wheel, drifting the car around the bend.

It was good that she learned how to drive and did not rely too much on the chauffeur.

As she drove often, her driving skills were not bad.

Otherwise, she would not know what to do now.

She saw the car behind catch up and said solemnly, “Galen, hold onto the seat belt!”

She steered hard in one direction, and the wheels screeched across the ground as the car made a spin and charged past its pursuer.

Unprepared for the abrupt maneuver, the car braked immediately, and by the time it made a U-turn, it had fallen behind.

Looking at the rearview mirror, Lily saw the car was now far behind them and let out a slight sigh of relief.

However, knowing it would catch up soon, she dared not let her guard down.

All she could do was bide her time and wait for Dominic’s men to assist her.

“Galen, are you-“

She wanted to ask her son if he was doing okay but heard clapping instead.

“Mommy is awesome!”

Wide-eyed, he clapped excitedly as if he had just seen a fantastic performance.

Lily did not expect such a reaction.

‘Well, he’s rather psychologically resilient. At least he’s not crying and is quite upbeat!’ However, things did not allow them to stay upbeat for long. The car caught up not long later, but as it was delayed when making the U-turn, it was not as close as before.

Several vehicles, seemingly driven by Dominic’s men, were tailing it.

Then a hand reached out from the car, and Lily glanced at it.

Although she could not see it clearly due to the distance, she had a sense of foreboding.

A loud bang was heard, and Lily's car shook violently, swaying.

As the car started to veer uncontrollably to one side, Lily saw that one of the tires had gone flat and was hissing.

Before she could steer the car straight, a few more shots were heard. She never expected these people to have guns.

Shocked, Lily shouted, "Galen, get down! Cover your ears!"

She gently stepped on the brake, trying her best to keep the car from flipping, and the car gradually slowed down.

Keeping her eyes on the approaching vehicle, Lily looked over as it came almost parallel to hers and saw its occupants.

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1474-There were two men in the car.

One was the driver, and another the shooter.

Lily could not see their faces clearly since the two men were wearing sunglasses, but she knew the gun was not a prop.

As the two cars moved alongside, the man in the passenger seat aimed his gun at her.

Lily held on to the steering wheel tightly, ready to make a sharp turn.

'I've got to protect my son, no matter what!' The man showed no emotion and looked cold-blooded as his finger slowly pulled the trigger.

Lily gritted her teeth.

"Hang tight, son!"

She turned the wheel sharply as she stepped off the gas pedal, then floored it again.

The car swung abruptly toward the other vehicle and banged loudly against it.

Three gunshots were fired.

Lily's car thrust the pursuers' vehicle for quite a distance off the road across the muddy land on the side.

Unprepared, the driver lost control of his car after the powerful impact while the shooter desperately tried to keep himself from falling.

Dominic's men were tailing close behind and finally caught up.

They saw the two cars finally come to a stop due to inertia, but just as they closed in, the black car raced away.

"Let's go after them!"

Stunned, one of Dominic's men waved to the others to chase after the two men.

"There's no need!"

Lily stuck her head out her car window and caught her breath.

"Let them go."

'These men have guns, and we have no idea who they are. Even if Dominic's men can fight, they have no firearms. Since the pursuers retreated and my son and I are safe for the time being, there's no need for Dominic's men to risk their lives. Besides, no one knew if that attack was a diversion. If Dominic's men give chase and others come to hunt Lily and Galen, then it would be hard to protect themselves.

"Yes, ma'am!"

Dominic's men had come to ensure her safety, so they naturally listened to her.

"What's happening now? Are you guys all right?" Dominic asked anxiously through the speakerphone.

Having heard an ear-piercing bang without seeing what had happened, his heart was pounding hard.

'Who the hell did the wench offend? Now people want to kill her?'

"we're fine," Lily calmed herself and spoke into the speakerphone.

Before she could say more, she heard her son's boyish voice, "Bad guys gone! We won!"

Nonplussed, Lily caught herself and saw that he was not just okay, but also emotionally stable. He was even a bit excited, to her bewildered amusement.

'Anyway, as long as he's fine. Now I can finally relax.'

"That's great. Hurry over here, and we'll talk more later!"

Knowing they were fine, Dominic heaved a sigh of relief and urged them to go to his place as soon as possible.

Nothing cropped up again, and the mother-son duo safely reached the old man's estate.

For the first time in history, Dominic was not waiting inside but at the gate, anxiously looking for signs of their arrival.

He eagerly jogged over when he saw Lily's car.

Read Novel Spoiled By Mr. Russell Chapter 1475 By Luminous Night

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1475 -After not stepping out of the estate for many years, Dominic finally broke his rules for the mother-son duo today.

Dominic waved at Lily while she pulled her car over and was about to remove her seat belt.

"No, no, park inside! It's not safe outside."

Lily was surprised.

"Grandpa, it's safe. Bad guys are gone."

Galen leaned out of the window, excited that his mother had outmaneuvered the pursuers.

"Okay, okay, go inside first."

Dominic was shocked to see how damaged Lily's car was.

Judging from its state, he could tell how dangerous it was.

If his men did not arrive just in time, or if Lily did not know kickboxing and could not respond swiftly, things might have ended badly.

Dominic took Galen from Lily and carefully examined the little guy inside the house.

He breathed a sigh of relief after noticing Galen had not suffered even a scratch.

"Good thing you're not hurt. Were you scared?"

Galen shook his head.

“Nope!”

“Ha, you weren’t scared, but I was terrified!”

Dominic patted his chest to show he was horrified.

The toddler giggled innocently.

“Grandpa is a scaredy-cat!”

“Well, Grandpa is a scaredy-cat compared to you two, who dared to mess with people with guns!”

Dominic looked at Lily.

“Do you know who they are?”

Lily shook her head slightly and drank some tea to calm herself down.

Looking back at the incident, she thought there was , something fishy about it but could not figure out who the pursuers were.

“No matter who they are, if they dare to attack us with guns, they are no ordinary enemies. I think you should go to the police!”

Dominic growled.

He was so anxious that he forgot to report the incident to the police.

“Not yet,” Lily said.

The old man was puzzled.

“It’s a serious matter. If the police were to investigate the incident, I’m afraid I won’t be able to leave anytime soon,” Lily explained, “If I want to go to Burnwken, I can’t afford to get involved in any —trouble.

“Also, since they failed this time, I think they wouldn’t dare act rashly again. That was a sneak attack, and they would think the next time they do anything similar, the police would be able to track them down.”

“You’re still going?”

Dominic did not expect Lily to insist on going to Burnkwen after what happened.

"Yes, I'm almost done arranging my travel. Galen will stay here with you starting today. Please look after him for a few days, okay?"

She looked at her son and could not bear to part with him, but she had no choice as she felt Alexander needed her.

"You..."

Dominic looked at Lily and her bulging belly.

He was at a loss for words.

"Even if you don't care about your safety, you should take care of your unborn children, shouldn't you? I didn't try to stop you before this, but people are trying to kill you now! All of you! "I'm afraid that even before you get on a plane, something might ..." He spoke halfway and hissed.

"Forget what I said!" Lily chuckled despite herself seeing him both anxious and regretful.

There were few old people like him.

"I'll be fine, old man. Don't worry, okay? I know what I'm doing. Although Alex isn't here, his bodyguards are, and I can use his network I'll arrange for more workforce to protect your estate and me and find out who the culprits are!"

She was unprepared just now, but those people would not be able to attack her the next time.

"You..."

Unable to dissuade her, Dominic released a heavy sigh and said helplessly, "Fine! Young people like you and Austin have their ways of thinking and heed no advice. No one bothers to listen to an old man like me, so just suit yourself!"

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1476 -Dominic sounded as if something had happened, and Lily was puzzled.

"Austin? What's wrong with him?"

"There's nothing wrong with him.

He's doing great! He also dared to hang up on me and has even turned his phone off for two days!"

Dominic got upset and puffed his cheeks.

Galen thought he looked funny and started to pinch and poke his puffy cheeks.

"Hey, hey, you little brat! Don't be so heartless like your mommy, okay? You've grown bolder after just surviving an ordeal, have you —hey, hey, not my beard!"

Dominic whined as he played around with the boy.

However, Lily had a vague feeling that something was not right.

Having spent some time around Austin, she knew what kind of a person he was even though she was unfamiliar with him.

'Austin might behave like that to others, but he's subservient to Dominic.

Did he hang up on the old man? That's so unlike Austin.

Besides, he even turned off his phone for two days."

"Old man, why would Austin hang up on you? Were you fighting?"

Lily asked after some thought.

"Hell no! He hasn't returned after leaving in a fit the last time.

Then I thought something was wrong in the lab and wanted to tell him not to be a pawn in someone else's game.

He said nothing when I called him and even hung up on me! Don't you think he's being disrespectful?"

Dominic got angrier as he spoke and wanted to give Austin a beating.

"He didn't say a word? What did you say to him?"

The more Lily heard, the more she felt something fishy was going on.

"Nothing, of course!"

Dominic said indignantly.

“Why should I speak first? I had to wait until he told me he was sorry! Who knew he wouldn’t make good use of the opportunity and hung up on me instead!”

Lily was at a loss for words.

‘The old man wanted him to apologize first instead? Anyway, there’s something odd about the whole thing.

Austin would never resent Dominic for what happened last time or wait for him to apologize first.”

After so many years, Austin should know what Dominic was like.

If Austin were so petty, he would not have visited his granduncle and brought him gifts repeatedly despite getting scolded.

“So, you two didn’t say anything, and he hung up the call?”

Lily thought about it carefully and asked, “Don’t you think something isn’t right?”

Pouting playfully at Galen, Dominic glanced at Lily.

“What are you talking about? That a*shole has become high and mighty; that’s what it is!”

Lily knew Dominic was still upset and did not refute him directly.

“

Think about it.

You watched him grow up, didn’t you?”

“Hell no,”

He immediately denied it.

“Even if you didn’t, Austin has hung around you for so many years, and you should know what he’s like,”

Lily added.

“I don’t!”

Dominic behaved like a stubborn child and only kept retorting.

Lily started losing her patience, so she glared at the old man and said, "Can you stop talking and don't interrupt me?"

Dominic pouted resentfully but kept quiet anyway.

With that, Lily continued, "Is Austin someone who would stop coming here just because of what you said? Would someone like him bear to give up the title of the miracle doctor's apprentice? Even if he is furious and decides to cut his ties with you, wouldn't he scold you first to vent his frustration since you've been yelling at him for so many years?" -

Read Novel Spoiled By Mr. Russell Chapter 1477 By Luminous Night

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1477-Dominic blurted it out.

However, the look he gave Lily changed as he also felt that something was wrong.

At first, he thought angrily that Austin was being disrespectful by hanging up on him and turning off his phone.

Now that he had heard Lily's reasoning, he felt that there was more than met the eye.

"Then..."

He frowned.

"Why?"

"Have you called his parents and asked why he has turned off his phone for two days?"

Lily asked.

Dominic shook his head vigorously.

"No, no, no, I'd never ask them! I haven't visited them for so many years.

Besides, why should I inquire about this? What has it got to do with me? It should be turned off so he can't bother me!"

"What if he had an accident? Or something happened to him? You may brush it off if you don't know any better, but how could you live without doing anything if you knew that something might be up?"

It was not that she worried too much, but many things had happened recently.

Besides, people were trying to hunt her down just now.

There was something uncanny about everything that had happened, and these unrelated incidents seemed somehow linked.

“Well...”

Hesitating for a moment, Dominic tried to act tough.

“

Why can't I? What has it got to do with me? It's not me who's done anything to him.”

“If you truly can, then suit yourself.

Anyway, I hope you meant what you said!”

Nodding her head, Lily walked over to take Galen from him.

“Galen, let's go and pick a suitable room for you.”

“Hey, I...”

Dominic wanted to shout after them, but they ignored him as they excitedly discussed which room was better and more comfortable.

‘What the h*ll? Having just survived a brutal attack, the mother and son are a bit too composed, aren't they?’ Standing thoughtfully where he was, Dominic knew Lily had purposely left him alone so he could make the call.

However, he struggled against it.

For a while, Lily's words lingered between his ears.

‘What if something is up? Based on what I know about Austin...

‘Yes, that a*sshole doesn't usually turn off his phone.

Although I seldom called, whenever I did, he always answered and rarely made me wait.

There's indeed something fishy about his abnormal behavior.”

He thought it over and finally called Austin's parents, despite himself.

It was Austin's father who answered the phone.

Hearing his voice, the man suddenly sounded excited.

“Uncle, is it you? What can I do for you?”

Hearing his enthusiastic tone, Dominic felt less awkward and cleared his throat.

“Is that brat home? Get him on the phone!”

“Austin?”

The father was puzzled.

“No.

He hasn’t come home for a few days.

Why? Do you have things to discuss with him? You should try his cellphone.”

“Of course, I know I should try his cellphone! But he turned it off.”

Dominic said it in a bad temper.

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1478-Austin’s father was embarrassed.

“Well, Austin might be experimenting in the lab.He often turns off his phone while experimenting,” he explained thoughtfully.

“What’s the matter? Has Austin done anything wrong?”

Sensing that Dominic was upset, Quincy Fike asked carefully.

“Experiment? It has gone on for so long, don’t you...Anyway, he’s your son.Haven’t you tried contacting him?”

Dominic could not help but mock him.

Quincy chuckled and explained, “Well, there’s a reason, Uncle Dom! Austin doesn’t like us to mind his business and is quite similar to you in some ways.He’s very focused on the work he’s doing.We called him before, but he either said it was inconvenient to talk while experimenting or he had no time to be outside and would contact us when he was free.

“Both his mother and I are used to it, so we rarely call him unless there’s anything urgent.”

Knowing Dominic was upset, he added, “Would you like to leave a message for him or know when Austin will be back? I’ll ask him to go to your place and apologize to you.”

“Apologize for what? Did I say he offended me?”

Dominic expressed his dissatisfaction.

“Forget it. It’s a waste of time asking you guys! Being his parents, you two don’t give a damn about him, do you?”

“Austin is a grownup and no longer a child, Uncle Dom. We can’t interfere with his private life too much,” Quincy patiently explained.

“Okay, okay! Talking to you guys is such a waste of my breath.”

Dominic hung up.

Reprimanded for no reason, Quincy looked at the cell phone and shook his head.

Then his wife dared to speak, “Was that your uncle?”

“Yes.”

He nodded.

“How unusual! He’s calling us to talk to Austin? Has Austin offended him?”

They were all scared of Dominic, who had such an odd temper that one could unknowingly say something that offended him.

However, as Dominic was not a bad person and the family basked in the reflected glory of him being a famous miracle doctor, they revered him at the same time.

Only Austin managed to build a closer relationship with Dominic, having brought gifts and received his tutelage.

“No idea. It doesn’t seem like it.”

Shaking his head, Quincy thought about what the old man had said and felt something was off. He looked toward his wife.

“Have you called Austin the past few days?”

She shook her head.

“No! Didn’t our son say not to call him needlessly since he’s busy with an important experiment? He’s on the home stretch, he said.”

“yes, he did.”

Inclining his head slightly and thoughtfully, Quincy said, “How long has it been since Austin came here?”

“I have no idea.” She thought about it and made a rough guess.

“About four to six days?”

“You’re really on top of things, aren’t you?”

Shaking his head, Quincy found Austin’s number on his phone.

“I’ll give him a call.”

“I…”

His wife felt he was being unfair because Austin was his son too.

“Besides, our son is a grownup. How can I keep my eyes on him all the time?”

Quincy looked at his phone and disconnected the call.

“What’s the matter?” she hurriedly asked.

“It’s turned off!”

Looking at her, Quincy was puzzled.

“How could he be experimenting for so long?”

“Could it be a coincidence? How about we try again later?”

Read Novel Spoiled By Mr. Russell Chapter 1479 By Luminous Night

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1479-“Well, that’s the best we can do for now.”

Meanwhile, Dominic was upset after hanging up the phone, regretting making the call for nothing.

A short while later, Lily and Galen return, holding hands.

Seeing the old man's furious look as she had expected, she laughingly asked, "You still couldn't reach him?"

"What kind of parents are they? Their son hasn't returned home for days, yet they aren't worried. They're heartless like Austin's grandpa!"

Dominic thundered, attacking even his brother.

"Austin hasn't gone home for days?"

Lily caught on to the critical point and could tell something was wrong.

"Yes."

Dominic's mood only got better seeing Galen.

Grinning, he crouched down and hugged Galen lovingly.

"Aren't Austin's parents worried that he hasn't returned for a few days?"

"Not even the slightest!"

Dominic pouted.

"They say it happens all the time and should mind their business since Austin is a grownup. Why should I be worried when his parents don't even give a damn? I say to hell with him!"

"There's nothing to worry about since he's experimenting at the lab."

However, Lily was puzzled.

Indeed, things could get hectic at the laboratory.

One might not even have time to answer a call while focusing on work.

Still, there was always time to check the phone whenever one was on break or awaiting lab results.

"It's highly unusual for someone to switch off their phone, be absent from home, and not contact anyone for days!" "Try calling Austin's phone again,"

Lily said thoughtfully.

“No!”

Dominic was having fun playing with Galen and said reluctantly, “Why don’t you call him yourself if you’d like to try?”

“I don’t have his number!” Lily said matter-of-factly.

“How about you give me your phone, and I call him?”

She was telling the truth about not having Austin’s number.

Since she and Austin were not on good terms and could hardly see eye to eye, it was pointless for Lily to save his contact information.

Dominic mumbled and gave his phone to Lily, who found the number and made the call.

As expected, an automated voice said that the phone was off.

“That’s weird!”

She shook her head and asked, “So he switched it off when you called the last time?”

Perplexed, Dominic thought about it and said, “Yes! He hung up my call, then switched off his phone when I called again.”

“That doesn’t make sense. If Austin could turn off his phone, then he was using it. Why wouldn’t he say anything to you and simply switch it off? I think he’s in danger.”

Lily was initially doubtful, but she was certain after hearing what Dominic said.

“No way!”

Dominic said so, but his voice dripped with suspicion.

He also felt that something was up.

‘Now that I think about it, the call got disconnected out of the blue.

Did something happen to the little p*ick? But what? Hasn’t he been doing well? He has been close with the rich and powerful by using my name and has spent his days at the lab lately.

What could happen to him?’ Almost simultaneously, he and Lily looked at each other and said, “The lab!”

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1480 -Right at that moment, Lily's phone rang.

The two exchanged a look and quieted down.

Lily took out her phone and was surprised to see it was a call from Thompson.

They had just mentioned the laboratory, and he called.

Furthermore, he had not contacted Lily since she left.

After all, she had a falling out with him and destroyed the data.

'Why is Professor Thompson calling me now?' She answered the call.

"Professor Thompson?"

"Lily, are you free? I have something to discuss with you, face-to-face."

Since Thompson's voice was low, and there were noises, he did not seem to be in the laboratory.

"What time?" Lily asked solemnly.

"Now. Do you have time?"

'He's in such a hurry, huh? Now, and face-to-face? It must be something serious.'

"What's it about?" Lily asked thoughtfully.

"Well..."

Thompson hesitated momentarily and seemed reluctant to tell her.

"I'll tell you later since it's hard to describe it over the phone. It's about the lab's experiment. I hope you can help!" He spoke earnestly.

Lily thought about it and ignored Dominic's frantic waving.

Then she said, "All right. Name a place, and I'll go there right away."

"your house then. I'll drive over now and should be there soon,"

Thompson added, "Wait at home and don't go anywhere, okay?"

"But I'm not at home."

Lily was slightly puzzled, then threw Dominic a subconscious glance.

"Are you going there now? I'll head back right away. How long will it take you to arrive? I'll hurry."

"Okay, I'll wait for you if I reach there first. Otherwise, wait for me and don't go anywhere, okay?"

He sounded strange, but Lily did not ask any more questions since she knew she would find out why when they met.

She nodded and said, "All right, I'll return immediately. Drive safely, okay?"

She hung up and hurriedly took her handbag.

Dominic quickly tried to stop her from leaving.

"You're really going?"

"Yes, Professor Thompson says he wants to discuss something with me. It might have something to do with Austin's bizarre behavior over the past two days. Let me go back and find out what it's all about," Lily said while nodding.

"You can't! You already know something's wrong at the lab, yet you're going to meet that professor? What if he's going to harm you?"

Dominic was worried.

"Don't forget that you barely made it out alive just moments ago. You shouldn't take the risk!"

"Professor Thompson is an old man—even older than you!"

Lily said half-jokingly and chuckled.

"If he tries to harm me, he might be in danger instead, okay? Just relax."

Dominic frowned in disapproval.

"He's old, but it doesn't necessarily mean he'll be alone! Did you forget about the killers just now? He might be the one who sent them! No, no, you mustn't go back!"

“If I don’t go back now, what about later or tomorrow or the day after?”

Lily knew she had no choice.

“I can’t be hiding in your place for the rest of my life! Just relax. Although I have no idea who those people were, they can’t just do anything they want in this country.

“The security system at my house is still passable, and there are bodyguards. It’s not as unsafe as you think!”

Lily gave her son’s cheek a gentle pinch.

“Mommy has to get going.

Be a good boy, and don’t monkey around, okay?”

She knew that even if her house were not safe, she would be in danger no matter where she hid.

As she turned and walked out the door, Dominic hurried after her.

“Wait, wait!”
