Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1531 -"Really?"

The man questioned with a half-smile.He did not know if he should believe her, but he did not want to persist.

Instead, he walked to the window and looked at the scenery outside before calmly saying, "The bidding for the vaccine development project had long ended.Your father did not win the bid.Just like that, he let a big fish escape from his grasp."

"What do you mean?"

Rhea did not understand why he would suddenly bring this up.

"Cameron Rollins is your uncle, and your father is his brother-in- law.Still he didn't secure the project for your father.Your uncle is incorruptible!"

He sneered and shook his head.

"Cameron has always been like that," Rhea answered lightly.

"My parents can't seem to wrap their minds around it."

"Can you?"

The man turned around and asked.

"Your family is about to go bankrupt! Without this project, your father's company's capital chain will be cut off.Debt collectors will be knocking at your door.The bank and other companies will cut ties with you.Can you still feel at ease experimenting here?"

Hearing this, Rhea's eyes widened as she looked up at him.She hardly asked questions when it came to family matters, nor did she bother understanding them.

When they visited the Rollins' house today, her parents were eager to settle accounts with Cameron, but Rhea had no interest in it.

In her eyes, apart from her own experiments, everything else was a trivial matter.

Upon hearing this, she began to have second thoughts.

Was it that serious? Although she could support herself, her life would never be as comfortable if her family went bankrupt.

A frown began to form on her face as she silently waited for the man's next words.

"Do you want to save your parents?" As expected, the man asked.

"I'd like to hear what you have to propose, sir."

Based on her understanding of people, there must be an ulterior motive behind his kindness.

With a slight smile, the man turned around again.

Squinting his eyes, he stared into the distance.

"Do you know that if your father manages to get the vaccine development project, it'll be a good thing for us as well? That piece of land is on the outskirts of Kingsland. It's not only suitable for us to conduct experiments, but also for the expansion of experimental products. It would have been perfect, but what a shame. Your father has been in the scene for years, yet he can't even handle a mere Cameron Rollins..."

He let out a long, regretful sigh.

"What do you mean? Do you want me to find a way to help my father get this project?" She asked after thinking about it.

"Is there anything you can do?" He cast a sideways glance at her.

Rhea did not answer.

The man had expected this. His following words were filled with disdain.

"You're all too shallow. Be it just the vaccine development project or future ones, it is only by controlling Cameron that things can go smoothly."

"Control Cameron?"

"Give him the thing in that vial of yours. As long as Cameron is under control, nothing will ever be too hard for you. Although you can't win over a person's heart, you can control a human's brain. What's wrong? Are you confused?"

Rhea did not answer. She was shocked. She did not expect the boss to tell her to use the content in her vial on Cameron.

Suddenly, she felt conflicted.

"But that thing..."

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1532-She was not even sure how effective that thing was.

It was a new product that she had just developed.

She kept it like a treasure, firstly because it was her own hard work, and secondly because she was unsure about the stability and effectiveness of the product.

Not only did the boss know about this product of hers, but he was also asking her to use it on Cameron.

This made her feel a little uneasy.

“What’s wrong? Are you getting softhearted?” The man laughed mockingly.

“I’ve always thought you were ruthless.Are you telling me I was wrong?”

“I’m not soft hearted.I’m just reluctant to finish up what I’ve just made,” she replied.

“If you can make one vial, what’s stopping you from making a second and a third? Once you have Cameron under your control and the vaccine development project under your belt, you’d have a large enough lab to use and almost limitless funds to squander.You won’t care about this tiny bottle.”

After a pause, he was afraid that she wouldn’t do it and continued to persuade her, “What Mike said just now wasn’t an exaggeration.We might not be able to stay here for long.I’d have to find anew place.

“Do you plan to continue staying here or go abroad? As for your parents, since they’re going bankrupt, they probably won’t be able to live for much longer.You don’t have to worry about them.”

Rhea lowered her head.

“I understand!”

With that, she took two steps back.

After seeing that the man still had not turned around, she left.

After returning home from Dominic’s place, Lily was restless.

Even though it was already late at night, the thought of what had happened in the past few days kept her awake. She lay on the empty bed for two hours and stared at the ceiling. She could not sleep.

Ultimately, she simply got up and checked her phone.

It was two in the morning, but there was still no news from Alexander.

After that phone call, he never called or sent another message.

It was as if the two had lost contact again.

She had already made up her mind on what to do next.

As soon as it was the break of dawn, she got in the car and drove to where he was.

She had traced his phone's signal to a small country town on the outskirts of Kingsland.

Although Lily did not know the exact location, it was enough for her.

She could not wait another day.

It was about five in the morning when her phone suddenly rang.

After looking at the unfamiliar number, Lily picked it up decisively.

"Hello?"

"Cough, cough, cough..."

Violent coughs were heard from across the phone.

This made Lily very worried. She could tell it was Alexander.

"What's wrong? Are you okay? Did something happen?" Lily asked anxiously.

"I'm fine."

After coughing a few more times, he finally calmed down.

"I'm fine. I'm just calling to tell you that you don't need to come over."

Hearing this, Lily was furious.

"We've already agreed on this! You can't change your mind just like that! I'm about to leave the house. I have to see you today!" Alexander sighed.

“Listen to me. I feel a lot better. I’ll go home in two days once I’ve recovered. Considering the overall situation, you don’t have to come!”

“I can’t do that. I’m not a visionary. I’m just a woman that wants to see her husband!” She said it firmly.

He fell silent for a moment before he sighed again.

“I’m really fine. You don’t have to worry. Although my cough is bad, I can feel that my physical strength is slowly returning. I know my own body. Also, the messages you sent me that day, what happened?”

“There are too many things that are happening!” Lily immediately exclaimed.

“I can’t tell you through the phone like this. I’ll tell you when I see you! I—”

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1533-After a pause, Lily continued, “Someone is tapping my phone, but don’t worry. I’ve changed to a new card and increased the cyber protection around my phone. I bought a new phone as well.

Nothing will happen for now.

“I know you’re worried about our children and me, but you must know that not seeing you doesn’t make these dangers disappear, and it’s not because of you that all this is happening. You have to let me see you!”

Lily did not know if what she said had convinced Alexander or if he was too lazy to argue.

After a pause, Alexander ultimately caved in.

“Make sure you take precautions and bring some bodyguards with you. Immediately leave if you’re in any danger. Don’t try to put up a strong front.”

“I will,” she replied.

Then, worried she might disturb her husband, she quietly hung up without saying anything.

Alexander forwarded his location to her shortly after.

Sure enough, Lily pinpointed the location at a small village where she had traced his signal before. She could not go back to sleep and went to wash her face with cold water before changing her clothes.

When she saw it was bright outside, she did not bother bringing the driver or a bodyguard.

In her mind, their skills were not as good as hers.

It would attract more attention if she brought too many people with her.

So, she drove the car that she rarely used and quietly cruised out of Kingsland into the nearby village.

There was a faint sound of some movement in the basement.

Austin thought he was hallucinating.

He had no idea how many days had passed and whether it was day or night. He felt drained, hungry, and tired.

If it were not for the bread and water Thompson had given him and the medicine he had created, he could have died long ago. He reluctantly moved and forced open his heavy eyelids.

The sound outside was getting louder and closer.

It did not seem to be a hallucination since it sounded too real.

Austin struggled to prop himself up to get a better look. A glimmer of hope rose in his heart.

'Is someone coming to save me? Did the news finally get out?' Soon, the basement door opened.

Just as the light streamed in, the hope in his heart quickly vanished.

The man who came in was not his savior. He looked familiar. He was the one who had a dispute with Rhea that night. He was Mike Corden.

Mike walked up to Austin and bent down to look.

"Are you dead?" Austin did not answer.

"If you are, I'll have you dragged out and buried!" Mike snapped coldly.

Instantly, Austin spat on the ground.

That made Mike laugh.

“It seems like you’re not dead. Since you’re still alive, get up and follow me!”

“Where are you going?” Austin looked at him curiously.

However, each word from him sounded hoarse, hurting his throat.

“Do you have the right to ask?”

Mike straightened up and looked down at Austin with a mocking smile.

“Can you stand up?”

Austin did not answer. His mind was turning.

If he stayed here, he would just be waiting for death.

If he followed this man, at least he could see the outside world one more time before he died.

With that in mind, he struggled to get up, but a sharp pain jolted through his body as soon as he moved. He dropped to the ground again as soon as he stood up, grimacing in pain.

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1534-“Is your leg injured?”

Only then did Mike notice Austin having a bandage on one of his legs with dried-up blood on it.

“It’s all thanks to you guys!” Austin replied with a snort.

He felt that this was all an act. However, Mike raised his eyebrows and denied it.

“It wasn’t me.”

“Aren’t you all on the same side?”

Austin gritted his teeth with hatred.

Although this man was here to save him, he was still with Rhea and the others.

Mike could not be any better than the rest of them.

Hearing what Austin said, Mike retracted his outstretched hand and shot him a cold look.

“If that’s what you think, I’ll leave then. You can continue staying here.” Austin did not reply.

His ego told him to stay silent and not give in, but his survival instinct kicked in when he saw that Mike was genuinely going to leave.

“Wait a minute!”

Mike stopped in his steps and turned to look at Austin nonchalantly.

“I’ll go with you.”

Gritting his teeth, Austin forcefully stood up and limped behind Mike.

Just as they reached the door, two people stopped them.

“Mr. Corden...”

“What’s wrong? Are you blocking me?”

Mike immediately turned cold.

This man was quite frightening when he was serious.

“No, but Ms. Moore ordered...”

“Her orders have nothing to do with me. I have the final say here, not her! Rhea Moore is just the leader of your project team. Know your place!”

He coldly snapped.

“Move!”

The two men did not dare to stop him, and they could only watch as Austin limped away behind Mike.

Austin did not know who Mike was, but it seemed like he was in a higher position than Rhea.

It also looked like he was planning to save Austin.

Austin felt a little more at ease when he thought of this.

Mike took him outside and let him into a black car before throwing in some water and food.

“Eat up. Don’t die in my car.”

Although Mike’s words were harsh, his actions showed otherwise.

Austin did not bother to reply and immediately peeled open the food and drink before he stuffed himself with them. He had been hungry for days, so this was a treat for him. He ate mouthful after mouthful as if it was the most delicious thing he had ever eaten.

Once he had enough, he looked up to see Mike driving and asked, “Aren’t you worried that Rhea might cause a scene by taking me away like this?”

“She can’t control what I do!” Mike snorted disdainfully.

“What are you doing in this lab? I’ve never seen you before. Also, how did you find out about what the lab was doing? Do you know Lily? Are you two friends? Does she know what you did?”

After holding it for so long, Austin began to ask a stream of questions. He felt a lot better after finally seeing the light again.

On top of that, now that he felt he was being saved, his mind relaxed.

As he continued to eat and ask questions, he accidentally choked on his food.

“Shut up!”

Mike was annoyed. He did not expect this man to be so noisy.

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1535-If Mike had known that this man would be so annoying, he would not have bothered bringing him out. However, Mike did not want to cause trouble.

Austin finally kept quiet for a while, but he could not hold back his curiosity, especially as he watched Mike drive down the familiar yet unfamiliar streets.

“Where are we going now? Are you taking me home? Do you know where I live or are we going to the police station? Why don’t we stop by the police station first? Maybe I’d need a test...”

“Who said I’m saving you?”

Mike’s lips twitched as he glanced at Austin through the rearview mirror.

“If you’re not trying to save me, where are you taking me?”

Austin could not make sense of this. He wondered why Mike brought him out if he was not trying to save him.

‘Is he going to kill me somewhere else?!’ Austin suddenly became more vigilant when he thought of this possibility and stared at Mike with widened eyes.

“What are you doing? Are you trying to kill me?”

Mike smiled but said nothing as he continued driving slowly with his hands on the steering wheel.

“Stop the car! I want to get out! Stop the car now!”

Austin hurriedly threw his food aside and turned to open the car door, only to discover that Mike had locked it from the inside.

At this moment, the smile on Mike’s face seemed off-putting. He seemed even scarier than Rhea.

Austin was just beginning to trust him.

No one would have expected him to be exactly like Rhea.

“You, you...”

Just as Austin was about to speak, he felt his head spinning.

This dizziness, he was very familiar with.

“The food...”

“How can you just eat the food I gave you? You deserve to die,” Mike said as he glared at Austin.

The smile on Mike’s face never left as he continued to drive.

“You...”

Austin began scratching at his throat, trying to vomit the food out.

After retching a few times, he managed to vomit some out, but he felt his strength rapidly depleting.

“Don’t waste your energy. You’ve already ingested the medicine. What good will it do to spit the food out?”

Mike had been expecting this reaction, so it didn’t bother him. He calmly drove the car and continued to taunt Austin, “Let’s enjoy the rest of this road trip!”

That was the last sentence Austin heard before his vision darkened.

The village was surprisingly lively for a town on the outskirts, and the narrow streets were full of people coming and going.

There were even tricycles, electric bicycles, and even tractors.

Lily drove slower and slower, but her mood lightened the further she drove.

The atmosphere here made her feel at ease.

She watched as people shopped for vegetables by the road and yelled at their husbands. People were chattering about their house chores and drying fruits.

Such a simple lifestyle was a beautiful sight.

Lily slowed down the car as she continued her peaceful journey.

Nothing had stopped her, nor was anyone following her.

According to the address, she was less than 13 miles away.

The sun had already risen, and the thought of seeing Alexander brightened up her mood.

‘Everything is going to be all right. Everything will be all right, won’t it?’ As she drove on and left the city center, her surroundings gradually became more desolated and uninhabited.

The grass on both sides was getting taller, and the woods were denser.

Even the road was getting narrower.

She mustered up her courage and focused on driving.

However, she was not too scared.

She knew Alexander could not live in a densely populated place after contracting such a disease.

He had to isolate himself.

Although Lily had no idea how he survived the past few days, she assumed he must have suffered a lot.

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1536 -As the road continued to narrow, she was beginning to lose phone signals as well.

Finally, as she entered an extremely lush forest, she saw a small wooden cabin in the middle of the woods.

The reality was grim, despite the fact that most log cabins in the woods sounded magical in fairy tales.

The wooden cabin was simple and covered in moss.

It was carefully hidden in the woods, unnoticeable to most.

There was simple fencing around it, making it look like an ordinary farmer's hut.

Lily checked the address on her phone again before looking up at the hut in front of her.

She was sure this was the place.

Other than the cabin, there seemed to be no other residences around.

As she couldn't drive the car forward anymore, she stopped and got out before walking to the cabin.

When she reached the door, she realized that the house was not as simple as it looked on the outside.

There were surveillance cameras all around, and the cabin seemed to be fortified.

This made her feel a little more at ease when she saw that he still made it a point to protect himself.

Sure enough, the surveillance worked, as she was immediately greeted when she arrived at the door.

“Ms.Christian?”

The other party was a man with a thick beard, looking like a brute.

Lily had never seen him before, yet he knew her last name.

After slightly nodding, the man said, “Please come with me!”

With that, he opened the door and stepped aside for Lily to walk in.

Once she entered the compound, he closed the fence’s gate again and strode into the house.

Lily followed closely behind him as she looked around the area.

This place was relatively hidden.

It seemed like a good hiding spot.

On top of that, the signal was not strong, so it should be hard to track him.

She had no idea how Alexander found this place.

However, it was not a surprise either.

As the head of the family, he would always have some contacts on hand to help him out.

Lily noticed that Alexander was not present when they first entered the living room.

Instead, the man went to the table and took out two masks.

After putting one on himself, he passed the other one to Lily.

She waved and signaled that she did not need one.

Then she took her own mask out of her pocket.

She knew the plague was contagious, so she had taken protective measures.

Not only did she bring a mask, but she also had disinfectant and gloves with her.

She had to prioritize her safety and the child in her belly in such a situation.

This was the biggest responsibility she had toward Alexander and herself.

The man watched Lily take out her disinfectant and was startled.

He put down the bottle he was about to give her and watched as she took all of her safety measures in an orderly way.

The man was impressed.

Once he saw that she was done, he led her into the back room.

There was nothing in the back room except an empty bed.

Lily was stunned to see such a simple room.

The man walked to the head of the bed and pressed on a raised piece of wood in the headrest before turning it twice to the left and three times to the right.

Then, a creaking sound echoed.

The wooden bed slowly turned to one side, revealing a small tunnel.

From the opening, Lily could see the steps that extended down, but she couldn't see the end of them.

She did not rush down as she glanced back up at the man.

Without saying a word, the man took out a flashlight from the side and led the way down the steps.

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1537-At this point, it was impossible for her to back down.She pressed on the dagger pinned to her waist and slowly walked down.

As she walked, she realized that there was no light on the stairs.

Once they reached the bottom, there was a faint light source at the end.

This was obviously a basement or a secret room.

She did not expect such a simple wooden cabin, hidden inside the forest, to have such a room.

It was a good place to recuperate and hide out.

After walking a few steps forward, she heard a slight cough, and she could immediately tell that it was Alexander.

Suddenly, she became excited again and took a few more steps forward, calling out softly, "Alex?"

Unlike what she had imagined, the inside looked like a study room with bookshelves and computers.

There was a big bed that was properly made on one side.

Alexander was sitting behind the desk, coughing lightly into one hand while his other held the mouse. He was frowning as he seemed to be looking at something on the screen.

"You..."

Lily was at a loss for words at the sight of him like this.

Alexander glanced at her and calmly put on the mask at the side.

"You're here."

His face was calm.

There was no hint of excitement on his face, but the light in his eyes showed how happy he was to see her.

"Why are you still working when you should be resting?!"

Lily was a little angry.

'He kept telling me to care for myself, but what about him? He's already sick, yet he's still working'

"I am resting. I just got up to sit here for a while," he said with a weak smile, but the two dark circles under his eyes said otherwise.

"You're always like this!"

She shot him a glare before quickly walking toward him and carefully examining his face.

He seemed to have lost a lot of weight, and his cheekbones were more prominent. He looked haggard but seemed to be in good spirits. He wasn't sluggish at all.

This comforted Lily a little.

She scrutinized him for a while before suddenly reaching out to take one of his hands.

"What are you doing?"

Alexander was taken aback and subconsciously wanted to retract his arm.

However, Lily had a tight grip on him.

"Hold on!" She called out.

"Let me check your pulse!"

"You know how to check pulses?" Alexander could not help but laugh.

"You've only been in the laboratory for several months and did research on medicinal herbs. When did you become a doctor?"

After saying that, he began to cough.

Lily didn't bother to joke around with him. She checked his pulse carefully and raised her head to look into his eyes solemnly.

Then she said, "Take off your mask!"

Alexander was stunned.

"You know what disease I've contracted. Although you've taken protective measures, I should still..."

"Listen to me and take it off!" She wasn't listening to him.

"Lily..."

"If you don't take it off, I will pull it myself. If you accidentally pull mine off, all my protective measures would be useless!"

She didn't look like she was joking at all.

Looking at her, he let out a helpless sigh before slowly taking off his mask.

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1538 -He looked normal even after taking off the mask.

Other than his pale complexion, he did not seem any different.He was just a little weak.

The plague had spread so quickly and fiercely, but there seemed to be nothing serious about contracting the disease.

According to the news, those infected would be coughing non- stop, and those with severe symptoms might even cough up blood alongside other unknown symptoms.

However, looking at Alexander, it wasn't as serious as it sounded.

"Stick out your tongue!" She ordered again.

Alexander was taken aback for a moment before he laughed.

"Look at you! You're quite thorough!"

"Enough nonsense! Stick out your tongue!"

Lily had a solemn look on her face, looking like an extremely strict doctor.

With a doting smile, Alexander obediently cooperated with her and stuck out his tongue.His tongue seemed to be covered in a thick layer of mucus with tooth marks on the edge and white patches in the middle.

After studying medicine with Dominic for so many years, this was the first time Lily tried diagnosing a person.

In the past, she rarely had the opportunity to consult patients.

She could only follow Dominic around and learn by observation.

Later, the only time she treated someone was for a minor ailment.

It was nothing as serious as the plague this time.

She probably wouldn't have bothered if it weren't for Alexander.

"How is it? Can you save me?"

Alexander said half-jokingly as he noticed her straighten up with a serious expression on her face.

“How did you get the plague? Do you feel discomfort anywhere else?” Lily did not joke around as she sat down beside him and asked gently.

The smile on his face froze. He couldn't recall.

“I'm not quite sure. After going over to Burnwken, I hardly went anywhere else. I spent most of my time in the factory and had no contact with outsiders.

“you know the situation there. With the ongoing war, it's not safe for me to go out. One day, people in the factory began to start coughing. Some had fevers, and most of them felt lethargic. I also began to feel that something was wrong with me.”

“So, this happened without warning?”

Listening to what he said, Lily felt that it was similar to what she had heard from the news.

However, she wanted to hear his experience firsthand rather than through the media.

“Yeah! Later, my symptoms became a little serious, and I couldn't get out of bed. The war blew up telecommunications in the area, and I couldn't get in touch with you. Did I make you worry?”

At this time, he still thought about how he must have made her worry.

Lily quickly shook her head.

“It's fine! So, how did you get here?”

“It was a coincidence. I knew Greg a while back and gave him this place. I didn't think I'd be needing it now.” He sighed.

Everything had to be arranged in secret.

Lily was surprised.

“You gave this to him?”

“Yeah.”

Alexander nodded.

"I discovered this place by accident when my master took me here to train. However, this wooden cabin isn't like how it was before. It was deserted. I thought that it was a good place to isolate myself for self-cultivation.

Later, I renovated it to its current state.

"Then, I met Greg..."

He paused, put one hand on his chest, and took a deep breath to calm himself down.

Lily didn't urge him to continue but instead watched as he slowly adjusted his breathing. He closed his eyes for a moment before opening them again once he regained his strength.

"He has nowhere to go, and he doesn't want to live in the city. This was an ideal place for him, so I thought I should give it to him."

"So, when you came back, this was the first place you thought of when you needed a quiet place to recuperate?" She asked.

Alexander nodded.

"There are very few people here, so the risk of the plague spreading is low. It's also relatively remote here, so it's harder for people to find me."

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1539-Alexander was very thoughtful.

However, judging from how Greg acted, Alexander had probably trained him.

The security measures of this place were also very well planned.

"Then..."

After pondering for a moment, Lily asked softly, "Where's Edward?"

Alexander fell silent as soon as he heard that name, and his face turned solemn.

From the looks of it, the situation might be more ominous than Lily had thought. Her mood dropped as well.

On the one hand, she wanted to know the answer, but on the other, she was afraid of what she might hear.

'If something bad happened, how would Olivia take it?' "Many died in the factory,"

Alexander began slowly, "Some died from the war, and some from the plague. I knew I couldn't stay any longer and had to return."

After a pause, he continued, "The whole situation was chaotic. Just as we were about to leave, we ran into a bunch of thugs. Edward took a bullet for me..."

"Is he dead?"

Lily suppressed the sadness that started to bubble in her heart and asked directly.

"Maybe." Alexander sighed.

"He was still alive when I left, but he didn't come with me. He urged me to go and said he would cover for me. Otherwise, I wouldn't have been able to make it back as smoothly as I did."

Although his explanation was brief and light, Lily could feel how complicated and dangerous it was at that time just by listening to him.

Chaos, gunfights, and one could barely make it out alive.

Even thinking of this almost made her heart stop.

Although Alexander had gotten infected with the plague, he could still be here, talking to Lily calmly.

It was as if all the danger he faced was stories she heard on the TV.

'I-I was so close to losing him. Our children were so close to growing up without a father'

With those thoughts in mind, Lily's breathing became shallow, and she could not help but squeeze Alexander's hand tightly.

"Alex tt "It's okay. It's all over now."

Alexander patted her hand lightly and forced a smile.

"I've secretly sent someone to check on Edward's whereabouts. I don't believe he would just die like that. He is talented and agile. The gunshot didn't hit any vital parts. Whatever it is..."

He paused.

It seemed like he was trying to convince himself that Edward was not dead.

Ultimately, he quietly mumbled, "In short, he's only dead when I see his body. I won't leave Edward in a foreign land like this."

Lily looked at his heavy eyes and understood his pain. She nodded.

"We'll find him. I believe Edward will be safe and sound."

"Olivia...did you tell her?"

Alexander suddenly asked. Lily shook her head.

"I didn't dare to say anything. She's pregnant. I'm worried she might not be able to take it. Besides, even you said you're unclear about the situation. I don't know much, so I didn't want to spread nonsense."

"Then don't tell her anything yet. Wait until I hear back from my men," Alexander said firmly with a nod.

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1540-"Is our son okay?"

Once Alexander had updated Lily about the situation, he turned his concern toward his son.

"I left him in a very safe place for now. He's fine."

"He's not at home?" Alexander asked, a little surprised.

"No."

She shook her head.

Then she suddenly remembered something.

"By the way, there's something up with Daisy."

"The new nanny?"

After thinking for a while, Alexander frowned. "Didn't I do a background check and find nothing wrong with her? What happened? What did she do?"

Alexander had specially hired Daisy to take care of his son.

If there were something fishy about her, it would jeopardize his son's safety.

Only people who had passed his background checks were allowed to work in his house. It would be a severe problem if he let a dangerous person near his son.

"She didn't do anything."

Lily shook her head.

Although she had put this matter on hold because she did not have time to deal with it, she was starting to feel more suspicious about Daisy as days passed.

"Your son learned something from her," Lily said as she helplessly cast a look at him.

"What did he learn?"

Alexander was puzzled.

"Lock picking."

"Lock picking?!"

The more he listened, the more confused he became.

Lily nodded seriously.

Then she explained the situation and omitted the parts where Dominic was involved.

Alexander was dumbfounded by what he heard.

"You're saying that Galen picked a lock with a thin rope?"

Alexander widened his eyes in disbelief.

"Yeah." Lily nodded affirmatively.

She could understand the shock he was feeling at this moment. She was simply stunned when she first saw it with her own eyes.

Once Alexander got over his initial daze, he suddenly slammed the table.

"My son is a genius!" Lily was speechless.

She knew he would get distracted and let out a light cough.

“No, the problem here is where did he see Daisy pick a lock, and why was she picking locks in our house? “She also didn’t list that as part of her skills in her resume. We didn’t find anything like that about her either. Later, I got someone to recheck her background.”

“What was the result?”

“It’s the same as what we found. Daisy has no bad track record.”

That was what made it even more suspicious.

Who would have such a perfect resume? The more flawless her resume was, the more suspicious it became.

What was Daisy hiding? “That’s right!”

Alexander nodded and said, “The Russell family has an outstanding IT team. There’s no way they wouldn’t be able to find out about something like that. Daisy must have hired someone more capable of erasing things, so we could only see what she wanted us to see.” Lily agreed with him.

“There are too many things going on recently for me to deal with her. So, after much deliberation, I thought it was best to fire her first. I can’t leave my son with someone who might explode any time.”

“You’re right.” He agreed.

“So, where’s Galen now?”
