Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1851-“I don't care if you're a god, but since you're here, you must produce results. Otherwise...”

“Otherwise, you'll threaten me with my family, right?” Lily chuckled.

“Come on. Is this the only tactic you've got? Besides, I wonder how you're going to have your way outside. We're in Hyderland, not a place where you can do anything you please.”

The man snorted dismissively, then got up and walked to the wide floor-to-ceiling window, where he gazed downstairs.

“So what if it's Hyderland? I still have everything under my control! I run the show in this building, and soon everyone will yield to me!”

Lily felt the urge to kick him out the window and end all this as she watched him spread his arms and laugh maniacally.

However, she knew she could not, as she had yet discovered the most important secret.

The R10 they discussed had yet to be handed to her, and she thought it must be imperative.

Lily took a deep breath, calmed herself, and said blandly, “Oh, yeah? You never know because the experiment has yet to succeed. If even I fail, wouldn't you guys be wasting your time? What can you achieve even if you kill me and my family and friends? You'll still fail miserably!”

Her words failed to rile up the man as he laughed scornfully.

“Do you think I'll run out of means by stalling and delaying the experiment's success? If the experiment succeeds, I will allow those who yield to me to live, and death awaits those that oppose me! However, if the experiment fails...”

He paused before slowly saying, “Then I'll destroy the world!”

“If you could, why do you still look for me?”

Unconvinced, Lily tried to provoke him.

The man turned halfway and sized her up from the corner of his eye as his scarred lips curled into a grim smile.

“I’ll destroy the world along with myself! Everyone shall perish together. If I fail, everyone shall die with me!”

He laughed maniacally, sending chills down Mike and Lily’s spines.

“I think you overestimate yourself.”

Lily clenched her fists and told herself inwardly that he was only trying to scare her.

‘How could one person destroy the whole world?’

“you can choose not to believe me, but you’ll see. Oh, yeah, I forgot to tell you that the pandemic at Burnkwen is just a trial run. Even a small pandemic is enough to cause such havoc in every country worldwide. Do you seriously think I can’t cause something worse?”

Lily fixed her gaze on him, trying to see if he was hiding something or looking guilty.

However, she was disappointed because all she saw was determination and madness.

‘He’s a madman!’ Although she knew it from the beginning, she grew convinced that he was no doubt crazy.

Putting aside whether or not what he claimed was true, she thought his intentions to get everyone to die with him were dangerous and terrifying.

Lily clenched her fists tightly and tried to remain calm outwardly as she said, “You don’t want to die.”

He let out a mocking and dismissive snort.

“If you want to die, you would have done so. Either you can’t destroy the world as you claim, or you don’t want to die.”

Although Lily could not see his expression behind the mask, she sensed hesitation in his eyes before adding, “You enjoy winning.”

Why would you want to die if you haven’t gotten what you want or achieved your goal? You’d like to win and succeed, so you don’t want to die.”

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1852-The man’s eyes darted left and right thoughtfully after hearing what Lily said.

Due to his small figure, he looked funny as his chest heaved and fell heavily.

“Indeed, I’d like to succeed, so I won’t allow myself to die before that. However, if you don’t obey me, we’ll all die together!”

He laughed as if he had prepared for it.

After laughing, he walked over and climbed back up to his chair to sit.

Crossing his legs, he leisurely sipped his tea, then said, “All right, stop wasting my time with your idle talk.

Mike said a lot to you, but I advise you two not to get ahead of yourselves. You guys are no match for us.”

“Us?”

Lily quirked her eyebrows.

“Surprised? You knew long ago that we’re an organization, and it’s not just me.”

He shrugged indifferently.

“Lily, tell me. Have you made any progress?”

He propped his elbow on the desk and leaned forward before resting his chin on his interlocking hands.

He gave her an inquiring gaze but looked weird in such a posture.

“Nope,”

Lily answered readily, “The task you’ve given me has nothing to do with your ultimate goal. I have no idea why you’re wasting my time here. As you said, we’re on a tight schedule. Shouldn’t you hand me the task that truly matters? You’re the one stalling by giving me unimportant tasks,” she said forcefully.

The man laughingly shook his head, then waved his index finger.

“No, no, no! Every project is important as each of them serves a different purpose. For example—”

“For example, numbing one’s nerves and causing someone to lose their volition? Or letting the virus invade human bodies and using the immune cells to attack the victims?” Lily interjected.

The man's open mouth closed, and he smiled meaningfully. He spread his arms and said, "See? I knew we were on the same wavelength. You know very well what we're trying to do!"

'Same wavelength, my a*s!' Lily wanted to tell him that, but she stopped herself.

"Since I do, then let me handle the toughest project. You've got my help, so let's not waste my time on other projects."

The man sized her up solemnly and nodded.

"All right! But you must complete the task under the supervision of my man."

Lily glanced spontaneously at Mike.

"Him?"

"Him?"

The man chuckled and shook his head.

"He doesn't count. I've found you a good assistant who can surely help you with the task"

He raised his hands and clapped a few times gently.

At this juncture, footsteps sounded, and Lily looked over her shoulder. Mike also turned his head to glance toward the sound.

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1853-It was easy to tell who the person was from the click-clack of the high heels, the loosely tied wavy hair, the delicate makeup, and the seductive eyeliner.

"Rhea."

Lily was not the least bit surprised.

"It's you."

The other day at the lab, she sensed that the disrespectful worker's figure, tone, and behavior were much like Rhea's, and she had always suspected that she had not died.

'So I was right after all'

However, Mike frowned and fixed a thoughtful gaze on Rhea.

"Of course, it's me."

Rhea stood beside the "boss" with her usual arrogant look.

"The boss and I have the same goal. How can I die before the experiment succeeds?"

"So the body..."

"It's not difficult for people like us to find a substitute and change the DNA test result, right?" Rhea said indifferently.

Her tone was casual as if the incident had nothing to do with her, even sounding a little proud.

"Do you think you're smart enough to fool the police?"

Seeing her smug look, Lily could not help but say so.

Rhea only curled her lips into a smile.

'She doesn't answer me, but her expression has given her away. Everyone outside thinks she's dead. Even I'd doubt my suspicion because doctoring the autopsy report is challenging.

However, I couldn't be more wrong! 'If they could infiltrate the heavily guarded X Department, I wonder how many more spies are out there.

Also, I don't know how many members the organization controls through drugs and how many they've forced to cooperate with them, just like they're doing with Mike.

Still, I think he's right that no matter how large the organization is, there must be a name list. If I can find the list, I would have the edge over them, and the short man before us most likely has the name list hidden on him"

The man was so short and looked funny wearing a suit too large for him.

If Lily had met him on the street, she would have thought he was a disabled person who deserved people's sympathy.

She would never have guessed he could be so cruel.

Nonetheless, Lily wondered where he would hide the list.

Mike said he would carry it wherever he went, but no one knew where the man hid it.

Lily knitted her brow and sized the man up.

The man did not mind her stare and laughed, saying, "Are you sure you'd like to handle R10? Once you begin, you can't change your mind, got it?"

"Even if I were to change my mind, you don't plan to free me, do you?"

Lily shook her head and chuckled mockingly.

The man did not answer and looked at Rhea.

Seemingly reluctant, Rhea met his eyes and hesitated momentarily before turning around and walking toward the safe beside the bookcase.

She crouched down, quickly punched in a series of numbers, and scanned her palm.

After turning the handle, the safe door clicked and opened.

Mike was somewhat astonished.

He had seen the safe inside the room but never saw the man taking anything from it, let alone knowing the passcode.

However, he could tell Rhea knew everything about the safe from how she opened it. It meant that the man trusted Rhea much more than Mike.

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1854-Mike was not jealous but always thought the "boss" did not trust anyone.

Therefore, Mike was surprised Rhea knew the passcode to the safe.

As Rhea removed a slightly yellowed kraft paper bag from the inside and turned around, Lily saw a small jar inside.

However, before she could take a better look, Rhea shut the safe door.

The door made a crisp clicking sound and automatically locked when she shut it.

Rhea held the paper bag, turned to look at the two, and laughingly said, "You guys didn't try to peek when I entered the passcode, did you?"

She was half-joking and half-serious.

Mike chuckled coldly.

“You blocked our view so carefully. Who could we have seen it?”

After a pause, he added, “Plus, the passcode to the lab changes daily. The passcode you use might be one-off.”

When he said the last sentence, he looked at the “boss” to observe his reaction.

Rhea smiled.

“Hey, you’re right! You can only use it once.”

“So, don’t waste your energy, okay? Now that we’re a team, we should focus on ensuring the experiment’s success for the sake of glory!”

Although Rhea said so, she did not hand over the paper bag.

Lily looked at her and did not try to take it but turned to the man instead.

“So she’s my assistant?”

The man nodded.

“Why do I feel it’s the other way round, and I’m her assistant instead?”

Lily chuckled and mockingly continued, “Who will be in charge when my experiment begins?”

“You, of course!” the man answered without hesitation.

With an elbow on the armrest of his chair, he propped up his slightly distorted chin.

Although his voice sounded awful and hoarse, it was unwavering.

“In that case...”

Lily’s face stiffened as she said harshly, “Give me the document.”

Rhea was unwilling.

“Are you disobeying my order?”

Lily raised her brow, saying, "I don't need an insubordinate assistant to impede my progress. Please get me someone who will follow my instructions."

"Here,"

Rhea reluctantly handed the document over.

"Don't tell me the information isn't complete this time."

Lily glanced blandly at her but did not mind her attitude. She took and unwrapped it and noticed the document's weight and thickness.

"It contains all the information on R10. I'll be expecting results within five days, got it?"

The man leaned forward and held up five fingers while looking at Lily.

Mike wanted to object because five days were too short.

'So many experiences have failed before this.

Five days are simply not enough!' However, Lily's crisp voice readily answered before he could say anything, "Okay! Five days then."

Rhea snorted a laugh.

"You think too highly of yourself."

'she's underestimating the experiment's difficulty level. Most importantly, she will pay for her stupidity and arrogance!'

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1855-"However,"

Lily paused, "I have a request."

"Name it."

The man did not even blink. He did not care what her request was.

"I'll produce your desired results in five days and leave here..."

Lily said calmly, "safely!"

“You can’t!”

The man readily rejected it without thinking.

“How will I know if what you give me is fake? How will I possibly know if you’ve succeeded? I’ll let you go once we complete the task.”

Lily asked immediately, “Once you complete the task? What task?”

The man’s reaction was quick. He immediately realized she was trying to get him to reveal their plan and fell silent.

After a few seconds, the man chuckled.

“I almost fell for it, Lily. Why? Are you trying to get me to reveal our plan? “Rest assured, you’ll discover what you want to know eventually, but now isn’t the time yet. Each person has their responsibilities. The same goes for me!”

The man pointed to his chest.

“So, stop thinking about what you shouldn’t and just do a good job. The organization will not mistreat anyone who contributes to it!”

“Of course, it would not spare anyone who betrays it either!”

He added coldly, then slowly climbed up to stand on the chair.

Standing there, he did not look much taller, but one could feel his overwhelming presence.

It differed from the one Alexander had. He had a noble presence. His decisions would make people believe in him and yield to him involuntarily.

However, the man before them only instilled fear in them.

The man’s physical body, gaze, and everything else made people think he was perverted.

As it was impossible to know what he would do next, one would feel pressured as if enveloped by darkness.

Still, Lily ignored that feeling and stood up.

She was slightly taller than him as she looked down at him and said, “Don’t forget I’m only working with you.”

I agreed to do this not because of your threat but to challenge myself with things I've never accomplished.

"If you can't promise me, I'm afraid I can't guarantee the speed and quality of the experiment."

"That's not up to you."

The man laughed.

"You still don't know what's happening outside, do you?"

Lily was puzzled. She glanced at Mike, but he looked clueless, too.

When they saw confusion in each other's eyes, Mike rushed over and slammed his hands on the desk, asking emotionally, "What have you done to my son?!"

As he was too agitated, he shoved his face near the man.

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1856-The man backed off in disgust and touched his mask before reaching out to push Mike's face back.

He said casually, "Think bigger. Don't just think about your son all the time, okay? Seriously, Mike, you're making me feel like it's not worth spending so much time and effort engaging your help. You're not worth it at all!"

His scornful voice exasperated Mike.

"Then let my son go!"

Mike shouted. He could not help but yell after feeling pressured for such a long time.

"I'll certainly let go of your son, but it's not the time yet. Besides, did I say anything has happened to him?" the man said indifferently, "Can killing your son accomplish anything great? Don't think too highly of yourself."

He then turned to Lily.

"Don't try to refute me. I know you and the Russells are not only intelligent and wealthy but are also good at fighting. However, you're nothing compared to our experiment. No matter how good a fighter you are, the virus will defeat you.

"I also know you must have a way to contact the outside world, so you can try to find out what's happening before..." he paused and sneered, "you try to bargain with me!"

His confident tone and inscrutable gaze made her heart sink.

'Perhaps he's just bluffing, but he's so confident and has discovered my and Alex's background. He even knows I've been secretly contacting the outside world.

Could he have found out everything about me through surveillance systems?' Rhea was eager to let Lily and Mike know what was happening, so she said smugly, "Why do you think I faked my death and showed myself now? Do you guys genuinely think it's easy to rescue someone from here under our constant surveillance? "Or do you think you can easily find a cure for the virus we've researched for such a long time?"

The series of questions dumbfounded them.

Mike said, "What do you mean?"

Although he had suspicions, he had no proof and did not think much about it.

After hearing these questions, he could not help but ask Rhea about them.

"Take a guess."

Rhea smiled, wanting to keep them guessing.

Lily held out a hand to stop Mike from asking further and said coldly, "Stop playing guessing games with us. Truthfully, we don't trust each other and must work on the same project for different reasons.

"Whatever your threat is, don't forget that you still need me to complete the experiment. Therefore, I'm the one who has a say, not you guys!"

After a pause, she interrupted Rhea before Rhea could refute and pointed at the man, "I don't f*cking care about what's happening outside! Many people die daily, and I can't care about all of them, let alone take care of them! "I'm willing to save people if I can, but I wouldn't risk my life for them if I can't. I'm not that noble, okay?"

she added, "So you should think about my condition! I am leaving after five days and would also like to meet the person you work for if you want results!"

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1857-The man narrowed his eyes.

However, Mike threw Lily an astonished look over his shoulder.

As the organization held his son hostage, he was always submissive whenever he tried to bargain with the man.

He would also never dare to make such a demand.

Even his outburst was limited to yelling.

He and the man knew well that he dared not do anything beyond that.

Still, Lily seemed like she did not care and feared nothing even though she was pregnant.

“Aren’t you afraid that—”

After being quiet for a few seconds, the man began to speak, but Lily cut him off decisively, “Nope!”

“I’ll die sooner or later. Indeed, I want to protect my family, friends, husband, and son, but it shouldn’t be my responsibility alone. I also believe my husband can do it. Even if he and I failed despite our best efforts, I would have no regrets,”

Lily said earnestly, “However, why should I believe you’re able to do that?”

With a dismissive sneer, Lily continued mockingly, “If you truly have so much power, you wouldn’t even need a woman like me. You would have conquered the world and done what you wanted to long ago and not depend on others like now!”

What she said hit the man where it hurt.

After all, he would not be working for others if he were so powerful.

In other words, he was just someone else’s pawn.

Taken aback, Mike realized he had not thought about it that way. He always knew the man was working for someone.

Mike thought the organization was large and fearsome because he failed to locate his son despite his network and resources.

After hearing Lily’s words, he could not help but agree.

Even though the organization was large and fearsome, he should fear it and not the man before him.

'Even though this guy keeps acting tough, he's just a clown who works for someone else'

Thinking so, Mike became less afraid of the man, and the hatred in his gaze deepened.

"You..."

When Lily exposed the little man, he became so furious that he wanted to stomp his foot.

"Tell your boss I fear nothing. If they want to talk business, talk to me face-to-face and stop hiding behind your back."

Then Lily left the office with the documents.

Mike peered at the man for a while, then turned to leave, no longer as respectful as before.

Only the man and Rhea remained in the office while a dead silence ensued.

Suddenly, the man grabbed the stuff on the desk and flung them to the floor.

"What insanity is this?! They have f*cking lost their minds!"

Rhea dodged aside as the things fell all over the place.

Seeing her dodging, the man grew angrier and grabbed a book to throw at her, but he hesitated and put it down. He glared at her with red eyes and asked, "Didn't you say everyone has a weakness? Didn't you say not everyone is indifferent to everything like you are?"

Rhea was dumbfounded.

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1858-Rhea hesitated about whether or not to answer.

'That has nothing to do with me'

"Liar! You're all liars!"

The man was agitated.

“Even you care about someone. How could Lily not care about anything? No, I’m sure she would f*cking regret it!”

Although the man often lost his temper and had mood swings, he never behaved like this.

He was infuriated, and Rhea could sense his anger from his expression and voice and something deep within him.

The man had always thought he was powerful.

Despite his body, he relied on his intelligence and cunning ways to climb to his current position and had people in the palm of his hand.

However, what Lily said exposed the reality that he was nothing without the person he worked for.

It stung him deeply and forced him to face the truth.

‘No, that’s not true! When I succeed, I will become the king of the world, and no one will dare to look down on me ever again!’ He did not notice Rhea’s disturbed reaction as he breathed heavily with his hands on the desk.

His remark that even she cared about someone stung her, and she clenched her hands into fists.

She had to admit that she indeed cared about someone deep down.

Despite Rhea’s denial, she somehow felt touched by her mother grieving and wanting to die with her when she faked her death.

Rhea always thought her mother was partial to Anastasia and cared more about that girl than her.

Although Maria sometimes said she only did so to curry Cameron’s favor, Rhea was still upset.

As Cameron had never used his position to help Rhea’s family, she could not understand what was so great about him or why her parents made such efforts to please him and gave all the best things to Anastasia.

It made Rhea believe she was a nobody to her parents compared to Anastasia.

She resented Anastasia leading a happy life like a princess simply because her father held a high post in the government while she remained unnoticed, like Cinderella.

Rhea did not want to be Cinderella and hated her.

She did not want some prince to save her and wanted to be her own savior.

'To hell with the princess and her glass slipper! I want to be a queen!' When Rhea met the man before her, he guided and initiated her into the organization.

After many years had passed, she thought she had been so hardened that nothing would move her.

However, Rhea suddenly felt her deeply buried emotions stirred when she saw her mother mourning and attempting to protect her.

As her emotional defenses crumbled, she could not help but feel terrible.

She had always yearned for her mother's love, but it seemed too late.

After taking a few breaths, she calmed herself and said inwardly, ' No, I don't f*cking care about anyone! If Lily doesn't care about anyone, why should I?' Rhea knew what she was trying to do would change the world, so she decided not to get bogged down by trivial sentiments.

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1859 -Lily left the office and reached downstairs when Mike caught up to her.He hurried over while calling out, "Lily? Lily! Did you mean what you said?"

Lily stopped and turned to look at him.

"Which part?"

"Well..."

He hesitated, seemingly not knowing how to phrase himself.

"That I don't f*cking care?"

Seeing his hesitant look, Lily said it out loud on his behalf.

Mike let out an embarrassed smile.

"Of course not,"

she readily denied it and added, "How could there be anyone who doesn't care about their beloved family or friends? However, I meant it when I said that as a parent, I can't always protect my children despite my best efforts."

She looked saddened as she stared at the ceiling, but Mike disagreed, "You might think so, but I'm going to rescue Nick even if I have to sacrifice myself!"

I still have to try even if I can't. Even if I die!

"Then what?" Lily asked blandly.

Her question bewildered him.

"What do you mean?"

"Will you be able to protect him forever if you sacrifice your life?" she asked.

Mike was stumped.

Indeed, he could not guarantee that.

'We face various problems in our lives.

Even if I give up my life, can I guarantee my son will be safe forever? I don't think so"

After some silence, he could not help but say, "Nonetheless, I must protect him as long as I'm around!"

After all, he would feel useless and defeated if he did not.

Lily nodded thoughtfully and did not mock him.

"I believe you will."

'As parents, of course, we will risk our lives and everything we've got to ensure our children's safety, but even if we do, will we succeed for certain?' "I'm willing to do that for my children as well," she added, "But if we think about it rationally, many things happen against our wishes. It's noble to sacrifice our lives, but it could also be meaningless."

"I don't get it."

Mike could not quite understand what she said.

Lily patted his shoulder with a smile.

"It's not that I don't care about my children, but I can't let that man use them to threaten me. Perhaps they'll only be safer if I stopped caring."

Mike was baffled.

"Just leave it at that."

Lily did not want to dwell on it and changed the subject, "Oh, yes, I observed him just now, but I don't think he could hide anything on him, not to mention he keeps changing his clothes. Do you think the list could be inside the safe?"

They saw Rhea take the document from the safe, and Lily spotted something else inside.

Although she could not get a good look at it, she suspected it was important.

However, Mike immediately shook his head.

"No. They only bought the safe after moving here. They didn't bring it from the old research institute. Where was it before if they kept it inside the safe now?"

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1860 -After some thought, Lily asked, "Don't you think you might be wrong?"

Mike was puzzled.

"Why do you care where he kept it previously? It's enough to know where it is now. Perhaps he had kept it with him or elsewhere, but he might've changed his mind now."

"You could be right, but that's not his style."

Mike pondered and thought what she said made sense.

Still, he was unsure.

"So what are you suggesting?"

"We stick to the plan,"

Lily added, "Let's follow what you said previously."

“Noon tomorrow then.”

Lily nodded, then glanced upward and put her hand on his shoulder to stop him from talking.

Before Mike could turn his head, he heard a mocking voice from behind, “I didn’t know how close you two were. I wonder if Mr. Russell knows about it?”

Rhea’s voice was shrill, and it was clear what she was implying.

Mike stiffened his face and turned to look at her.

“I wonder if people outside are interested in knowing about you faking your death.”

“Do you think I would worry about it after showing up before you guys?”

Rhea snorted and said indifferently, “I’m afraid the outside world is in chaos now, and no one will bother about me.”

Mike looked baffled.

“Since you guys are so resourceful, just ask around.”

Rhea’s gaze alternated between the two, and she let out a suggestive smile.

“No wonder you stopped caring. It’s not that you don’t care anymore, but you care about other people now, don’t you?”

Mike looked infuriated.

“Watch your mouth! As a woman, you should know better not to accuse others.”

“Oh yeah? What have I said? Or are you the one being sensitive?”

Rhea casually asked him back.

“You should stop trying to look for your son. Also, Lily is giving birth soon, and you’re going to have—” Ww Before she could finish, a loud slap sounded.

Stunned, Rhea felt the burning pain on her cheek.

Someone slapped her before she could even realize what had happened. She palmed her cheek as it heated.

“How dare you hit me?”

She stared at Lily in disbelief and anger. She was shocked because she did not even see how Lily did it. She heard Lily came from a family of kickboxers, but she knew little about kickboxing and even looked down on it.

'Kickboxing is just like herbal medicine.

People like to exaggerate how wonderful herbal medicine is, but if it's truly so amazing, its practitioners would have come up with ways to achieve immortality, wouldn't they? If kickboxers are so powerful, wires and pulleys wouldn't be needed when they make martial arts films, would there?' However, when Lily struck her, she saw nothing and only felt a gust of wind before her face started to hurt.

Rhea would have suspected she was hallucinating if it were not for the pain.

"So what if I did?"

Lily did not deny it.

"Since you don't know how to talk nicely, I can only teach you some manners."

"Lily, don't think I'm no match for you!"

Rhea barked through clenched teeth. She dared not hit Lily back, knowing she was no match for her.

Rhea would only humiliate herself if she did.

Lily let out a cold smile.

"Well, I've never thought of fighting you. You're also unworthy to be my opponent."
