

Read Novel Spoiled By Mr. Russell Chapter 1911 By Luminous Night

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1911-Lily was puzzled.

“We don’t have time to dwell on this now.I’m serious.”

Edward sighed helplessly.

“Please.I’m begging you two to leave.Now!”

“Did you place bombs in this place?” Lily asked after some thought as he urged them to leave.

Mike became wide-eyed.

“Bombs?”

Then he rummaged around, unsure if Edward had placed a bomb there.

‘He would be crazy if he did!’ “No,” Mike sighed.

“We shouldn’t stay here any longer.I...”

Before he could finish, a banging sound came from inside the bookshelf.

Lily glanced over subconsciously while Edward became increasingly anxious.

“Mrs.Russell, please listen to me this time!”

“You listen to me.Bring us inside to meet him!” Lily said severely.

After a momentary hesitation, Edward nodded.

Although they knew he was unwilling, he always obeyed Lily.

Lily noticed it and slowly loosened her grip on Edward.

Upon regaining his freedom, Edward moved his wrist a little.

Although it still hurt, his skin had no marks—not even a red mark from being grabbed so tightly.

He always knew Lily was an expert in kickboxing, but as they had never engaged in combat, he was unsure of her real capabilities.

However, he finally experienced it for himself.

After twisting and turning his wrist, Edward walked over to the bookshelf.

He stood there and raised his hand before squatting to turn the vase on the shelf's bottom – most section.

However, the bookshelf remained the same.

Lily was confused, and so was Mike.

Edward turned to look at them and explained nothing, even though he knew why they were confused.

Instead, he walked to the other side of the shelf.

Then he stretched his arm and bent over to pick up a book, doing the same to another section.

After his last action, a booming sound came from the bookshelf.

The sound was not particularly loud, but as the trio was not speaking and focused on the bookshelf, it still surprised them.

Lily said nothing but was shocked to her core.

It turned out this office was indeed hiding an important secret.

Not only did it have a secret room, but it was also tricky to enter.

Without seeing it for herself, she would not have known how much it took to unlock the secret room.

Still, she wondered how Edward knew this.

She looked at Edward doubtfully, but he did not look back at her.

He stood with his hands hanging by his sides and faced the bookshelf splitting into half from its center.

It made him feel a sudden sense of loneliness.

Mike's mouth was wide open, astonished beyond words.

“What? There's a secret room in here!”

Mike said, "I was the one who moved and arranged all the things in this office. How did I miss this?"

He could not explain his feelings and was amazed by how well the secret room was hidden.

Once the bookshelf split in half and moved to both sides, they could see what was behind it all along.

Mike entered the space hurriedly, with Edward following suit.

As for Lily, she watched them and paused momentarily to look outside the door.

Since it was dead silent, she followed behind them as well.

Read Novel Spoiled By Mr. Russell Chapter 1912 By Luminous Night

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1912-The secret room was not large but had a bed, sofas, bedding, tables, a coffee maker, etcetera.

The eeriest thing was a row of transparent jars on the left-hand side tables.

It was hard to distinguish the things submerged in the murky liquid inside these jars, but their shapes and colors were unsettling.

Heavily tied up on the floor on the right was the mysterious and vicious man who had been bossing them around.

Completely still, he seemed asleep or passed out, but the banging just now had come from here.

Lily raised her eyebrows and asked, "Is he dead?"

Edward shook his head.

Mike went over and lowered his head to take a look.

"I don't think so."

Then he looked toward Edward.

"How did you catch him? Were you the one who struck down the bodyguards outside?"

Edward nodded slightly.

Although those people were not easy to deal with, they were not his match.

Mike gave him a thumbs-up and lowered his head to stare at the man on the floor conflictedly.

Since the man had kidnapped his son, Mike hated him very much.

Still, tying the man up like this was not a solution.

If this could work, he would have done it long ago.

However, he knew this perverted man too well—he would rather die than reveal Nick's whereabouts.

Mike turned to look at Lily and asked, "Now what?"

Since things had come to this, there were no other ways to deal with it.

Since Edward had done this, they could not drop their pretenses on whether or not they chose to kill the man.

"Let's talk."

Lily pulled over a stool and sat on it. She could not stand for long periods as she was pregnant. She would sit whenever possible.

Mike knitted his brow.

"Talk? With who?"

"Him, of course!"

She pointed toward the man lying still on the floor with her puckered lips.

Mike opened his mouth to say the man was unconscious and could not talk, but he heard a familiar peal of shrill giggles before he could speak.

Although the man was tied up and curled on the floor, his laughter remained creepy and smug.

The man giggled till his whole body shook as if he had heard something amusing.

"You're smarter than I imagined."

"Of course I am."

Lily propped her hip with one hand and leaned against the edge of the long row of tables, feeling much more comfortable with the support against her back.

“So what if you are? Do you think you can change anything? What a joke!”

He laughed increasingly madly, to the point his entire body convulsed.

“stop laughing!”

Edward seemed angry and went over to give him a hard kick.

The kick landed squarely and heavily on the man’s stomach.

Grunting, the man curled up due to pain for a few seconds before continuing to burst into maniacal laughter.

It was as if he heard a funny joke, and nothing could stop him from laughing.

Edward grew upset and wanted to kick him again, but Lily raised her hand and said, “That’s enough.”

Her voice stopped Edward, and the man’s laughter gradually became intermittent chuckles filled with ridicule.

Lily looked at him and said coldly, “Cut your act!”

Read Novel Spoiled By Mr. Russell Chapter 1913 By Luminous Night

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1913-The man’s initially curled-up body slowly stretched as he moved his legs. Then he turned around and sat upright before crossing his legs to face Lily. He looked up, still wearing his mask.

However, his eyes seemed even creepier and more intense as they glowed with malice. He cocked his head and looked at Lily, then glanced briefly over his shoulder at Mike before fixing his gaze on Edward.

After that, he burst into a peal of giggles again. “I truly underestimated you, huh?”

Edward gazed back grimly without a word as he stood beside the man.

Lily chuckled coldly. “You’ve underestimated a lot of people, haven’t you?”

"Tell us. Who do you work for? What kind of organization is this? What are you guys up to? How many people are in your organization?" Although she knew he would not tell the truth, she still had to try.

The man tilted his head and looked back at Lily. To her surprise, he answered readily, "Our organization is beyond your imagination.

What do you guys know? You think you're acting nobly for the sake of righteousness, but the truth is that nobody is nobler in the face of reality and self-interest!"

"Cut the crap!" Mike said impatiently and crouched to meet the man's eye level. "Are you guys supported by the royal family of Yudonia? Is my son in their palace?"

He was so eager that he blurted everything before Lily could stop him. Since that was the case, Lily decided to see the man's reaction.

The man was stunned but soon chuckled and said smugly, "You found out about the royal family, huh? It seems like you're not as stupid as I thought. However, even smart people do stupid things. Do you think you can change a thing by tying me up? No, you can't! Not even the slightest!

"All you can do is watch the world improve as we enter a new era!" He looked unusually excited, gleaming with emotion as he continued, "What you're doing can't change a f*cking thing, as the world will change in the direction I want it to! I will ultimately dominate every human being!"

If he was not tied up, the trio could imagine him acting ostentatiously now.

"Aren't you a human being? Won't you be dominated?" Lily interrupted by throwing him a wet blanket.

She said indifferently, "Do you think you'll be an exception? Even now, you're working for someone else, aren't you? If you're so powerful, you would have started your own organization without relying on others, right?"

"Now you're just someone else's lackey. How noble can you be if you're a lackey of the royal family?"

Her words hit the man's sore spot, and his gaze suddenly became fierce, wanting to lunge at her. "What do you know? It's just a process, and the world will be mine eventually! You know f*cking nothing!"

Lily smiled and shrugged. She brushed the nonexistent dust off her knees, breathed, and said light-heartedly, "Perhaps I don't, but I know you can't achieve what you want without me, and I'm calling it quits!"

However, the man chuckled, neither upset nor nervous. He said, “ Do you think it’s up to you? Lily, you’re too naive. Do you think you can back out at this stage?”

He leaned backward as he spoke and seemed relatively happy while looking at the ceiling. “Even if you guys could walk out of here, do you think it’ll be safe for you outside?”

Read Novel Spoiled By Mr. Russell Chapter 1914 By Luminous Night

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1914-“How many viruses have you released?” Edward asked grimly.

“Edward Sullivan...” The man called out his name, paused, and cocked his head thoughtfully before continuing.

“Oh, no.

I should call you...R16, right?” Edward became wide-eyed when he heard that.

Then he kicked the man’s stomach hard.

The man grunted and bled from the corner of his mouth, but he continued to laugh as if he enjoyed upsetting them.

Lily looked at Edward conflictedly.

Although she did not know what type of virus was inside his body, she knew he was one of the experimental subjects after hearing his codename.

‘This experiment is inhumane!’ She knew the organization experimented on humans, but she felt terrible whenever she heard about it and that it was happening to the people she cared about.

‘Edward must feel much worse as an experimental subject since he experiences it first-hand.

However, he quietly bears it all, even attempting to sacrifice himself to destroy the place.’ Lily looked at him profoundly and pursed her lips.

“So what if you’ve caught me? You still can’t change the fact that you’ve become our guinea pig.

You can’t eliminate what’s inside you for the rest of your life.” The man kept laughing maniacally.

Edward wanted to kick him again, but Lily stopped him.

“Edward!” she said, “he’s trying to provoke you into killing him!” “Provoke me?” Edward had not thought about that.

However, the man repeatedly riled him up, urging Edward to kill him.

“If he dies, we’ll have no way to gather information from him,” Lily said blandly.

‘I guess that would be his goal, huh?’ “I’m not afraid of dying.

What can you do about it?” The man asked laughingly and looked annoying, making anyone want to beat him.

Although he was out of breath, he continued, “I don’t mind telling you the virus inside our guinea pigs are all unique.

You can’t develop a cure-all.

Furthermore, our guinea pigs will carry the pathogens for the rest of their lives!” He said those last few words through clenched teeth.

Edward held back his urge to kick him, but Mike could not take it anymore and punched his face with a thud.

The man’s face turned aside, and his mask cracked in half.

Read Novel Spoiled By Mr. Russell Chapter 1915 By Luminous Night

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1915 -Although they had anticipated it, they were still terrified by what they saw.

Lily instinctively put her hand over her stomach, worrying the sight would frighten her unborn twins.

The man’s face was indescribable.

They knew not to discriminate against anyone based on looks, but it was terrifying.

Not only was the man’s face full of dense scars— his mouth and nose were skewed in different directions.

The man’s skin was not only burnt, but there were also traces of knife scars.

It seemed like many wounds had accumulated in one place, twisted and tangled, giving people the creeps just by looking at his face.

His face alone was scary enough.

Coupled with his vicious gaze and wicked mind, he looked like a devil who lived on earth and never ceased to do evil.

The fresh bloodstain on the corner of the man's mouth made his face so eerie that it was hair-raising.

"Aargh!" The initially calm man suddenly screamed as if he had got stepped on or stabbed.

He squirmed and shrieked, trying to put his mask back on.

However, he could not do anything since he was tied up.

Instead, the mask cracked even more as he hastily turned and rubbed his face against the edge of the bed to cover it with the mask.

When he finally succeeded, he turned his head abruptly and glared spitefully at Mike.

He scolded, "I'll kill you, Mike! I'll kill your son, too!" "How dare you?!" Mike slapped him so hard that his mask broke again.

They clanged to the floor, exposing the man's entire face.

The other side of it was even more unsettling.

His whole face resembled a pile of clay that had gotten repeatedly stepped on, utterly horrible.

"Argh—" With the mask broken, he went berserk, screaming while swinging his head around.

Then he squirmed to move toward Mike.

Mike was not afraid of him now and resented him for threatening to kill his son.

Mike sneered, "You're disgusting to look at! No wonder you wear that thing.

It seems our appearance indeed reflects our inner selves.

You deserve such ugliness for being so vile! "No, you should look even uglier to match your spitefulness!" he continued, ignoring the man's mad screaming.

“Why bother to research the viruses? You should study plastic surgery and fix your screwed – up face.

“But too bad! No matter how you fix it, you can’t change how ugly you are inside.

You’ll always be ugly! What a joke! How could the world be ruled by anyone so ugly? If it were to happen one day, I’m sure God would rather destroy our world!” “T’ll kill you, Mike!” The man screamed, then lunged headlong toward Mike.

Sensing danger, Lily shouted, “Watch out!” However, Mike thought the tied- up man could not harm him.

He was so angry and preoccupied with his mockery that he did not take heed and suddenly felt a sharp pain in his leg, screaming in agony, “Argh!”

Read Novel Spoiled By Mr. Russell Chapter 1916 By Luminous Night

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1916-The man bit down hard on Mike’s thigh and continued to let out muffled screams like a madman.His horrifying face was undoubtedly his sore spot, and he went amuck without the mask to hide it.

“Let go, you nutcase! Let me go!”

Mike continuously punched the man’s head as he yelled.However, no matter how hard he hit the man, the man refused to yield and continued biting down with all his might.

Blood seeped from Mike’s pants, staining them red.

The other two knew how hard the man’s bite was.

The crazy man lost control and had no regard for his life.

Mike hit him incessantly, and the unyielding man looked like he would get beaten to death.

Lily hastily looked at Edward.

Edward caught himself, raised his hand, and struck the back of the man’s neck with a hard chop.

The man grunted and passed out.However, he continued to bite down on Mike.

“F*cking nutcase!”

Mike scolded but could not remove his leg from the man's mouth.

Edward pinched the man's cheeks, and with his help, Mike finally freed his leg.

Mike sat on the floor and was in such great pain that he kept sweating as he gasped.

Meanwhile, Lily knew the cut was deep, even without needing to check on his wound.

"He's a maniac, alright." Edward looked at the fainted, ugly man and said solemnly.

Lily got up and joined Edward by his side. novelebook.com Then she bent over to look at the wound on Mike's thigh before tearing off a cloth to staunch the blood.

"You shouldn't have provoked him. He's crazy!"

"I'm crazy too! I'll kill him for wanting to harm my son!"

Mike said through gritted teeth, still resentful.

"Don't be rash,"

Lily said, "Now's not the time."

She looked toward Edward.

"What do you have set up? What's your plan?"

Edward remained quiet.

Lily thought about it and asked, "Did you set up bombs?"

Edward lowered his gaze, seemingly admitting it.

Mike came to his senses when he heard the mention of bombs.

He turned to look at Edward while saying in shock, novelebook.com "Are you insane? Bombs? Do you know how many viruses are in the facility and the consequences of blowing up the place?"

Edward answered quickly, "It's better than spreading them! The 'vaccine' will launch soon, and tens of thousands of innocent people will get infected unwittingly. We can't let that happen!"

It was his decision and had nothing to do with anyone.

He concluded that it was the best solution.

'We can only eradicate harmful viruses by destroying the facility!' "Have you ever thought about the innocent people here who know nothing about the organization's secrets or what's happening? Do you plan to kill them, too?" Lily asked.

Read Novel Spoiled By Mr. Russell Chapter 1917 By Luminous Night

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1917 -Edward fell silent after hearing Lily's question.

He balled up his fists, then slowly unclenched them.

"I...couldn't care that much," he said, sounding like he was holding back his emotions.

'Yes, I didn't have time for that! Although many innocent people are here, I can only sacrifice them to save many others"

Lily asked, "We're not that desperate yet! How could you not have talked to us about such an important decision? Did you even discuss it with Alex? I highly doubt it!"

She looked at Edward. She did not mean to blame him but sounded slightly upset.

'He worked for Alex for many years, and Alex treated him like a brother. Yet, he kept such a critical thing from Alex and decided independently. novelebook.com He'll sacrifice not just many innocent peoples' lives but also his. If Alex finds out about this, he'll be heartbroken!' Edward did not know how to respond to Lily.

Given his situation, he could not have thought ahead that much. He only made it back from Burnwken because someone had saved him.

Edward initially thought he was no longer in danger but was in a stupor and kept waking up and passing out again.

When he awoke, he was in physical agony. He vaguely heard people talking but could not determine what they were saying.

There were also shadowy figures moving around, and then someone injected him.

The needle mildly stung him, but he later suffered unbearable physical pain.

After a while, a voice kept repeating into his ear, "Who is Alexander Russell?"

He answered groggily, "Alex is my boss and friend."

"No, Alexander is your enemy. He's the one who abandoned you. Have you forgotten? He pushed you to shield himself from the bullets."

“No, no...”

“yes! I saved your life, and it’s Alexander who nearly got you killed!”

Edward knew it was untrue but could not wake up from his stupor. He repeatedly tried to resist the suggestion before losing consciousness.

Then he suddenly jerked awake as if having been roused from a nightmare.

He collected himself and felt much calmer as he gazed steadily at Lily, “I know it’s unfair to many people, but I couldn’t care that much because this place is way more terrifying than you realize. Besides, I didn’t have time to discuss my plan with anyone.”

Saddened, his eyes gradually lost their glow.

“Well, even if you didn’t have time to discuss it, you could have at least informed us about it, couldn’t you? Besides, have you thought your plan through? How big is the place, and how many bombs do you need? “Also, are you certain that blowing the place up can eradicate all the viruses? What if you end up destroying the building and not the viruses?”

Lily continued, “On top of that, without anyone or equipment to contain them, would the viruses mutate and spread even faster?”

“Well...”

Edward was shocked by what she said as he had never considered these possibilities.

In other words, it was not that he did not plan things well enough, but he had zero knowledge about viruses or what might happen if one did not contain them. He naively thought he could solve the problem by blowing up the place.

“But...what else could I do?”

He was on the verge of breaking down. He thought he had planned it well and even prepared to die. He was not afraid of death, but his actions would spread the viruses even faster if Lily were right. He would be making a grave mistake.

Read Novel Spoiled By Mr. Russell Chapter 1918 By Luminous Night

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1918-Edward did not know what else he could do.

“Listen to me, and don’t do anything rash,”

Lily said, "Do you think we couldn't just catch him? It's easy to do that, but what about those he's working for and their network?"

"Have I...made a mistake?"

Edward hesitated. He did this and stuck to his plan since regaining his volition. However, he now realized he might be making a massive mistake.

"Nothing has happened yet, and you can still stop this,"

Lily consoled him, "However..."

She quietly sighed while looking at the man who had gotten knocked out cold. She never expected Edward to be here and do all this before she and Mike could carry out their plan.

Lily palmed her forehead, rubbed between her brows, and felt it was tricky to solve the current problem.

Meanwhile, with his thigh in great pain, Mike looked pale as he breathed heavily. He sat weakly aside as he glared at the man on the floor. novelebook.com The man looked genuinely ugly, and Mike wanted to kill him after thinking about what he had said and done.

"Ma'am..."

Edward called out to Lily hesitantly.

Lily looked at him. "How many bombs did you set?"

Edward was puzzled.

"Not many, but enough to blow up the whole building." Lily was stunned.

'This is crazy! If Mike and I hadn't come here and Edward hadn't asked us to leave, this place would have been in the ground by now.

What a close shave!' Lily broke out in cold sweat just thinking about it.

"Can we defuse the bombs?" she asked.

"Yes, but it'll take some time,"

Edward said, "They're remote- controlled bombs, but—"

At this moment, hurried footsteps came from outside.

The trio knew the ones approaching must work for the organization because the regular employees could not access this floor.

Mike exchanged looks with the other two, palmed his wound, and forced himself up.

“I’ll deal with them.”

However, Edward thought Mike could not do it and wanted to help.

“Let me do it!”

Mike shot him a glare instead as he gasped in pain.

“You? Do you plan to strike them all down? How many can you handle?”

Before Edward could speak, Mike added, “Do you know they have firearms?”

Edward was at a loss for words. He knew it would be impossible to overwhelm armed men, no matter how good he was at fighting.

Mike said, “Just leave it to me!”

He went out and pushed the button. Then the bookcase door slowly closed again.

Read Novel Spoiled By Mr. Russell Chapter 1919 By Luminous Night

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1919-The small room suddenly became stuffy after the bookcase door closed. It was hard to breathe without a single window. However, it was a perfect hiding place for Lily and Edward.

The two looked at each other without a word, then heard footsteps and someone talking outside.

Someone seemed to have discovered the bodyguards lying at the doorway and rushed into the office, yelling, “Sir?! Sir!”

Lily tensed up and gripped the desk corner beside her as she listened intently.

“What took you guys so long?” Mike’s voice was tinged with anger and sounded authoritative.

“Mr. Corden?”

Those grunts knew him and were shocked when they saw him. Mike said, "You imbeciles! Where were you?!"

"Mr. Corden, what the hell happened?" Mike said solemnly, novelebook.com "Someone barged in and kidnapped the boss, but I got wounded and couldn't stop them.

They're a bunch of losers!"

Although Lily was not outside and could not see him, she knew he referred to the bodyguards lying outside in the last sentence.

"Who were they? How did they enter the office? They need the passcode to get in here!"

The grunts were puzzled.

Judging from the question, Lily knew Mike's words did not entirely convince them.

Then she heard Mike raise his voice, "How the f*ck would I know?! Why do you ask me? They nearly stabbed me to death, you know? Stop wasting time and f*cking chase after them!"

"uh..."

After being scolded, the grunts were probably confused and did not suspect anything, significantly since Mike was indeed injured.

"Mr. Corden, how many were there? Where did they take the boss? How long has it been since they left?"

"Quite a while ago. Just hurry! They dressed up like our workers... Yes, just like you guys! They could be spies working among us. Are you sure there are none among you?"

Mike started accusing them by mixing truths and lies.

It was a perfect diversion that could create rifts within the organization.

"Mr. Corden, we would never betray the organization!"

"How would I know if there's a spy among you guys? If there isn't, don't waste time and chase after them!"

The grunts seemed to realize something, and a flurry of their chaotic footsteps soon followed. However, their footsteps gradually became distant this time, indicating they had all left.

Lily sighed in relief and thought, 'It seems Mike is quick-witted. I didn't know how to handle the situation, but he handled it well. His wound also helped.

They got fooled, and it's a state of emergency to them now.

'Still, if someone discovers that Mike's wound isn't knife-inflicted when they return, it'll expose his lies'

Lily was about to leave the secret room and tell Mike to settle the matter and leave when she heard something and stopped.

As she expected, one of the grunts had already returned in less than two minutes.

"Mr. Corden, in which direction did those men run off?"

After a pause, Mike shouted, "How the f*ck would I know?! Would they send me their f*cking location after going downstairs? novelebook.com If I weren't f*cking wounded, I would've given chase and not asked imbeciles like you for help!"

Read Novel Spoiled By Mr. Russell Chapter 1920 By Luminous Night

Spoiled by mr. russell chapter 1920-After getting an earful, the grunt no longer dared to utter another word.

Still, he did not leave.

"What the f*ck are you waiting for?"

"y-You're injured. Would you like me to send you to the hospital?"

The grunt asked tentatively, probably trying to please Mike.

"Thanks, but no thanks! If we can't get our boss back, we'll all die. You might as well send me to the morgue!" novelebook.com Mike sneered.

"Oh, by then, you'll also get sent there with me, won't you?"

The grunt was terrified by what he had heard and hastily said, "I'll go right away!"

Then he ran off.

This time, there were no more noises. However, Mike did not return to the secret room, probably for safety's sake.

Lily also remained inside, seemingly thinking about something.

After five minutes, the bookcase door made a sound and slowly opened.

Mike appeared at the doorway and said solemnly, "You can't hide here for long."

Lily nodded, wanting to leave as well.

"What about him?"

Mike pointed his chin to the man on the floor. Lily glanced over at the man and then looked at Edward.

"Does anyone else know about this place?"

Edward shook his head.

"I doubt it. I only found out about this place by chance."

The boss did not expect him to find the secret room and left it unguarded when Edward caught him.

"Then we'll hide him here."

Lily held out her hand toward Edward.

"Give me the chloroform."

Taken aback, Edward fished out the bottle while saying, "How did you know I have it on me?"

"Didn't you use it on those guards lying outside? Do you think Lily wouldn't now?"

Mike grinned, happy that he finally knew something Edward did not.

Edward caught on and gave it to Lily.

Lily poured the proper dosage of chloroform onto a handkerchief, which she then pressed firmly against the nose and mouth of the man on the floor.

After a while, she removed it.

"He should only regain consciousness at night, and we must stay away from here for now. Let's talk more at night."

"wouldn't others find him?"

Edward asked despite himself.

"I doubt they will. They've already searched the office. The most dangerous place is usually the safest. Besides, there are no better places to hide him, and we can't just run off with him."

Edward thought she had a point and nodded.

"Then we'll interrogate him tonight?" Mike suggested eagerly.

He wanted to interrogate the man immediately and force him to free Nick.

However, he knew the man would not yield. Mike could only be patient for his son to return safely.

"We'll decide later," Lily answered.

She got up to leave, but Mike stopped her.

"Wait, let me see if the coast is clear."

Lily stopped and waited as Mike limped toward the door. He looked outside, kicked the bodyguards lying on the floor to ensure they were still unconscious, and turned before beckoning Lily.