

Chapter 1337 The Ghost In The Castle

---

Trevor was shocked to see the deputy leader outside the door.

Although the castle looked very simple, the decorations were advanced, and the sound insulation effect was good. Besides, Trevor was very relaxed while eating just now, so he didn't notice that there was someone outside the door.

Terrance also saw the deputy leader, and his expression drastically changed. Sweat started to come out on the tip of his nose.

He didn't know why the deputy leader of the Shadow Guards suddenly appeared outside. How long had he been standing there? Did he hear their conversation just now? And why was he here?

These questions made Terrance panic in an instant. He leaned back in horror, and his body stiffened.

The deputy leader stood outside the door like a ghost, looking very scary.

Then he said coldly, "Mr. Sanderson, let me see the guest off."

His cold voice reminded people of the wet cemetery, the cold coffin, and all kinds of horrible things in the dark.

"Okay, thank you." Terrance didn't dare to refuse, so he could only nod stiffly.

Trevor looked back at Terrance, feeling even more disappointed.

Then he followed the deputy leader to the corridor of the castle.

The corridor was brightly lit, but it had no sense of warmth at all.

Trevor and the deputy leader walked silently. It was so quiet that one could have heard a pin drop. They were like ghosts in the castle, and even the sound of their footsteps could not be heard.

The deputy leader led Trevor out of the castle. But when they were about to turn a corner, he suddenly stopped and blocked Trevor with his hand.

Then he turned his head and looked at Trevor ferociously.

"Oh, wait. What is the meaning of this?" Trevor said calmly.

The deputy leader sneered and said in a dry and hoarse voice, "You're smart. But the Sanderson family is very complicated. You can't handle it. Actually, you made the right choice when you refused Terrance."

Terrance was not there, so the deputy leader didn't even bother to address him as Mr. Sanderson.

He continued, warning Trevor, "Besides, I don't want to see you here again in the future. Otherwise, I won't only give you a verbal warning."

After saying this, he stretched out his hand very swiftly and was about to pat Trevor's shoulder.

Trevor moved his feet slightly to dodge the deputy leader's touch. As a result, the man's hand fell into the air.

He was a little stunned as he didn't expect that this unknown young man could dodge his hand.

Trevor looked at the deputy leader, but he didn't say anything. Then he continued to walk forward, leaving the deputy leader behind.

He left the castle alone. When he reached the gate, he turned around and stared at the magnificent and ancient building.

He could tell the sharp gaze that followed him like a shadow.

It was the deputy leader, standing in the shadow inside the castle.

His eyes were filled with coldness and viciousness as he stared at Trevor.

Half of his body was hidden in the shadow. It was as if even the sunlight that fell on his body became ice.

He stood there, not taking half a step out of the castle. He was like a ghost entrenched in the castle or a horrible viper.

Trevor gritted his teeth.

When the deputy leader raised his arm just now, Trevor saw the snake tattoo on his wrist.

He was a member of Mobius!

At the thought of this, Trevor was boiling with killing intent.

He swore that when he accumulated enough strength, he would return to the castle and clear everything.

He wouldn't let go of all the traitors and members of Mobius.

By that time, they would face his wrath.
