

Chapter 1453 Loophole In The Wording

Looking calm and composed, Trevor gave the car keys to another security guard.

"Please help this gentleman park the car in the parking lot."

Trevor was respected by the other security guards. As a result, it was easy for him to arrange someone else to park the car.

The security guard immediately took the car keys and set forth to do the task he was assigned.

Smiling, Trevor reached out his hand to the glass doors to the company.

The sensing device of the glass doors sensed Trevor's hand and opened automatically.

"Please come in. Luisa has been waiting for you for a long time." Trevor smiled and made a gesture of invitation.

How could he let a member of Mobius approach Luisa alone?

The reason Trevor came back to Dreles was to ensure Luisa's safety.

The arrogance on Gunter's face faded away slowly. He stared at Trevor for a few seconds, and then snorted before following him into the company.

At this moment, Luisa led the senior leaders of the branch company to the hall to welcome them.

"Welcome!" Luisa greeted with a bright smile.

Gunter turned his head and glanced at Trevor.

"Next is the meeting on the strategic cooperation between our companies. I'm hoping there won't be any irrelevant people present at this meeting."

Luisa didn't understand the implication behind those words. She nodded her head.

"Of course, it's about the cooperation of our companies. It's a big deal and there won't be any irrelevant people present."

Gunter nodded and gave a satisfied smile. "Well, that's good to hear."

He glanced at Trevor complacently.

According to him, people had to be treated according to their status.

He was eager to start the business cooperation and had no desire to keep a security guard in the same room.

He would like to see how Trevor would ruin his plan this time.

Seeing Gunter's expression, Trevor could guess what was on his mind.

He stood there calmly, pretending like he had no idea Gunter was mocking him.

With his hands in his pockets, Gunter couldn't wait to show off what he had learnt yesterday.

"Severich is a well-known international brand. If you cooperate with us, we will not let you suffer losses. You must have already known the strength of Severich. At the most recent product launch, the new product released in cooperation with your company was widely praised. As the only new product launched in the last quarter, our company has put in a lot of effort and success is guaranteed."

Gunter just recited the information he had learned yesterday. Trevor, who knew the real story, couldn't stifle a chuckle.

Gunter had a good memory, but there was a loophole in his speech.

The new lipstick Severich had planned to launch was not the product cooperated with Newmere Cosmetics. Instead, it was a lipstick with the +120 Points at most theme, "secrets make women more charming," which was plagiarized by another company.

Trevor's chuckle didn't go unnoticed by Gunter.

This ruffled his pride!

He was doing his best to charm Luisa, and Trevor had the audacity to mock him!

Gunter stared at Trevor coldly and demanded unhappily, "Hey! Dragon! What is so funny?"

Gunter felt humiliated. He was laughed at when they talked about lobster yesterday. Trevor was quick to point out his mistake.

Now being laughed at again, he was furious.

If it wasn't for the fact he wanted to maintain a gentleman's elegance in front of Luisa, he would have beaten up Trevor on the spot.

What he said today was the internal information of Severich. Gunter didn't believe that Trevor could point out any mistake in his words.
