

Chapter 1910 The Bodyguard Showed Up Again

Ignoring the businessmen, Trevor said loudly, "I came to this banquet on behalf of the Archer family in Clouauro. Since I'm clearly unwanted here, there is no point in me staying any longer. I will make sure I tell the Archer family about how you welcomed their representative."

Upon hearing that, the businessmen burst into an uproar again. They began to discuss among themselves.

"Even if what Miss Burke said about this gentleman isn't true and he doesn't own the Sanderson family's assets, he represents the Archer family here! This alone proves he has a high position in Clouauro!"

The wealthy businessmen continued to apologize to Trevor.

"I've told you all that this man, Raven, looks different. He must be from a big family! Raven, please forgive me if I offended you just now!" someone said.

The reverential attitude of these bigwigs was enough to show that the Archer family had a lot of influence in Clouauro.

Although the Craig family had grown a lot lately and became the dominant family in Clouauro, they hadn't completely outpaced the Archer family.

Several big shots changed their attitude and tried to curry favor with Trevor.

Now that things had come to this, Curtis didn't bother hiding his hatred for Trevor anymore. He shouted loudly, "I don't care who you are! Today, I'm going to settle accounts with you about what happened in Dreles!"

He snorted, "The invitation you claim is the Archer family's must be fake. Why didn't someone from the Archer family come but ask an outsider like you to come on their behalf?"

He swept the crowd before continuing, "Let me tell you, This banquet is not a place where a meaningless security guard like you can come and go at will. Where are the security guards here? Get him out of here now!"

As soon as Curtis finished speaking, a security guard in a black uniform and black sunglasses with a noticeable hooked nose walked over.

It was the bodyguard whom Trevor encountered on the plane!

Looking at the man, Trevor narrowed his eyes and said with a sneer, "Is this the person you rely on to take revenge on me? Let me put it this way, I will come and go at your family's banquet as I want!"

Hearing this, Curtis sneered at Trevor and said with disdain, "Dealing with you will be a piece of cake. I should tell you that this is a special bodyguard of my family and he has never lost a single fight. He will definitely throw you out of here!"

After saying that, Curtis gave the bodyguard a nod. With Curtis' signal, the bodyguard stepped forward and immediately threw his huge fist at Trevor's head.

Trevor snorted coldly and stepped forward to fight back.

Compared with the time they fought on the plane, the bodyguard was much stronger. For a moment, he resisted Trevor's attacks.

Trevor was really shocked.

What was this medicine? This had truly transformed the clumsy bodyguard to the point where his strength was comparable to that of the best Mobius killers.

But Trevor noticed something strange. The bodyguard seemed to act like a mere puppet.

He was right.

The bodyguard fought mechanically, like a robot. In the course of the fight, he sustained several injuries all over his body. However, he didn't seem to care about the pain at all.

His whole mind was focused on one goal, and that was to defeat Trevor!

Because of that, the bodyguard was more powerful than the ordinary members of Mobius.

The big shots who witnessed the fight were shocked by what they saw and they discussed with each other.

"The Craig family's bodyguard is extremely powerful," someone said.

Hearing that, Curtis said complacently, "My bodyguard has been administered another drug, which was jointly developed by my family and the Wright family. This drug can not only strengthen a person's body, but also greatly enhance their fighting power. Let's watch the fight. That loser will soon be defeated!"

Hearing that the Wright family was also involved in the development of the drug, the businessmen were more eager to get shares of the medicine company.

They figured that they wouldn't even need to administer such medicine on themselves. They could use it on their bodyguards and train them to be more efficient in their duties.