

Chapter 1912 Testing Medical Skills

The banquet ended in a tumult.

All the big shots left, leaving the people of the Craig family alone in the hall.

Ewing was completely confused. He didn't have the faintest idea what had happened at the banquet. He turned to Curtis and asked Curtis confusedly, "Why did the banquet end so soon? What happened? I see that everyone left with unhappy faces. It doesn't look like they had a good time at all."

Curtis was in no mood to answer Ewing's questions. Instead of answering, he glared at Ewing and asked, "How is your plan to destroy the Archer family going?"

Seeing that Curtis didn't answer him, Ewing didn't have the guts to insist. He replied stealthily, "I'm almost through with it. The lady from the Archer family is really stupid. She is addicted to gambling and keeps squandering the Archer family's assets!"

Hearing that, Curtis snorted coldly and ordered Ewing, "Speed things up! I need you to destroy the Archer family as soon as possible! There should only be one big family in Clouauro, and it should be the Craig family!"

"Raven! That bastard... Just wait and see! Once the Archer family is destroyed, I will drive you out of Clouauro! At that time, no one will be able to help you!" Curtis muttered under his breath.

A fierce look appeared on his face as he spoke.

It was only then that Ewing realized that Curtis and Trevor were in a conflict. He mumbled, "Raven was the one who saved me when I had that car accident... The doctors and nurses in the hospital all said that I was lucky that an exceptionally skilled practitioner helped me, or I would have died long before I reached the hospital."

Hearing that, Curtis was shocked.

How could a mere security guard have such incredible medical skills?

Curtis was eager to see just how good Trevor's medical skills were.

The Craig family's biological medicine company needed skilled employees recently. It would be in the company's best interest if he hired the best practitioners.

If Raven was as capable as Ewing said, and really had wonderful medical skills, it would be good for business. Curtis thought he could find a way to force Trevor to work for him.

As the CEO of the medicine company, he would have countless ways to make life unbearable for Trevor once Trevor worked for him.

While Curtis was engrossed in his fantasies, Ewing silently left.

When Curtis came back to his senses, he immediately called one of his good friends, Kaden Navarro.

Kaden's father happened to have a strange disease and had been suffering from it for a long time. Doctors were unable to cure him.

Curtis figured that was a good chance to test Trevor's medical skills.

As soon as the phone was connected, Curtis went to the point.

"How is your father doing? Is he getting better? I've heard about another highly-skilled doctor who just recently came to Clouauro. He lives at the Archer family's now. From what I've heard, he has incredible medical skills. He can easily cure the most difficult ailments. You can take your father to him to try your luck. Maybe he can cure your father."

Kaden was skeptical when he heard Curtis' words.

For several years, he had taken his father to see more than a hundred highly qualified doctors, but none of them had been able to cure his father of his strange illness.

This time, Kaden didn't have much hope, but he was still willing to take a chance for his father. He nodded and said, "Thank you for the information. I'll pay a visit to the doctor at the Archer family's soon. If he can really cure my father, I will forever be grateful to you."

On the other side of the phone, Curtis said hypocritically, "We are friends, so you don't have to be so polite with me. Just take your father there as soon as possible. I hope your father can be cured at last."

After hanging up the phone, Kaden wasted no time and he immediately took his father to the Archer family's residence.

Coincidentally, Braden was not at home at that time. When Kaden arrived, the first person he saw was Trevor. Looking at Trevor who seemed very young, Kaden immediately judged that the young man in front of him couldn't be as capable as Curtis described.

With that in mind, Kaden walked over to Trevor and asked arrogantly, "Are you the highly-skilled doctor who just recently came to Clouauro? Come and check on my father and tell me if there any treatment to his condition!"

