

Chapter 1914 The Prediction Came True!

Kaden had been beaten so bad he groaned in pain.

Alden Navarro, his father, couldn't stand seeing his son being beaten anymore. He glared at Trevor and warned in a low voice, "Young man, you'd better not be cocky. You have to understand that there are people whom you can't afford to offend. The only reason we came here to see you is because we hold the Archer family in high esteem. As a matter of fact, once we leave this place, you won't be qualified to see us again. Now, I advise you to let my son alone and obediently do as he said, or else you will be considered an enemy of my family."

Trevor was so angry he suddenly burst out laughing. He let go of Kaden and gave him another hard kick. Then, he shouted at the father and son, "I don't care about the Navarro family. You guys are nothing in my eyes. Now, you two get out of here at once! Go and prepare for the funeral. After all, you only have a few days left to live."

Gritting his teeth, Kaden had no choice but to leave sadly with his father. He knew they couldn't fight Trevor in hand-to-hand combat, so they could only come back for revenge in the future.

It turned out Trevor was right since after a day, Alden had difficulty breathing.

Kaden hurriedly took his father to the hospital. He was overwhelmed with anxiety, but did his best to stay calm.

He figured it must just be a coincidence. The young man they met at the Archer family's house the day before just made a random assumption.

The doctor soon came over, and to Kaden's dismay, he didn't bring good news.

"Your father's condition is very bad. The success rate of the operation is... It's not really high."

Upon hearing that, Kaden broke down on the spot. He grabbed the doctor's sleeve and begged anxiously, "Doctor, is there really no other way to cure my father? Please think of a less risky way to save my father! If my father happens to die in your hospital, you can be sure I will make you pay for it!"

◀ Chapter 1914 The Prediction Came True!

+120 Points at most

The doctor looked at Kaden and explained helplessly, "We normally should have had better chances of curing your father, but recently, all the best doctors in our hospital were secretly poached by the Craig family. Now, we don't have any skilled doctor to perform the operation."

After hearing that, a deep hatred for the Craig family welled up in Kaden's heart.

With his father's condition rapidly deteriorating, he couldn't afford to delay the treatment.

Kaden knew his only hope at this time was the young doctor he had met at the Archer family's residence. So, Kaden once again went to the Archer family's residence to see Trevor.

But before he could walk through the gate, Jeffry stopped him.

Jeffry had been told that two people came the day before to seek treatment, but they were rude to Trevor. Because of that, Jeffry decided to avenge Trevor.

He wouldn't let anyone bully the man who saved him.

Trevor happened to be outside at this time and he also saw Kaden. He asked casually, "What do you want? Is your father is dying? Well, have you brought me what I asked?"

Kaden hadn't asked Curtis for the lab data as Trevor requested, so of course he didn't have it. He shook his head and said awkwardly, "I don't have it, but my father's life is in danger now. How about you treat him first? We can discuss about what you asked later."

The moment Kaden said he didn't have what Trevor asked, Trevor had lost interest in him and turned his head away.

Seeing that Trevor didn't seem to have any intention of treating his father, Kaden roared angrily, "You know what, I don't actually think you can cure him. You might have managed to diagnose his disease, but you can't do anything more. Let's wait and see! The Archer family can protect you for a while, but it can't protect you forever!"

After saying that Kaden left angrily.

However, the next day, Trevor's diagnosis proved true once again.

Just as he had predicted, Alden began to cough up blood, and the old man's face gradually turned pale.

If things continued like this, Alden wouldn't have long to live.

Kaden was so scared his face also turned pale. He searched all over Clouauro but still couldn't find anyone who could treat his father. Obviously the only person who could do it was Trevor. After all, the latter had predicted everything correctly.

After hesitating for a while, Kaden pulled out his phone and dialed Curtis' number.

The doctor at the hospital had told him that if the Craig family hadn't poached all the competent doctors, the hospital would have had skilled practitioners who could treat his father.

He decided to morally blackmail Curtis into giving him what he wanted.

"My father is dying and the only person who can save him is the highly skilled doctor you told me about. But he said that in exchange, he wants the technical documents of your biological pharmacy company. He wouldn't take anything else. What do you think I should do? Can you give me the said documents? My father is dying, and I must save him! That doctor is really exceptional. He's even cured the Archer family's long paralyzed son, and he can stand up again! I can only trust that doctor now!"

Curtis didn't hurriedly refuse. His eyes actually lit up when he heard what Kaden said and he fell into deep thought.

Apparently, Raven really did have exceptional medical skills. Curtis figured he had to kidnap Trevor and force him to work in his company.

He just needed to send the Craig family's strongest bodyguard to get Trevor. He was certain the bodyguard would get the job done.

Curtis believed that Trevor wanted the documents to make himself some money, so he felt lucky that he had already patented all of his company's discoveries.

So, if Trevor had the gall to use the documents for profit, he intended to sue Trevor and take away all of Trevor's property.

Thinking of this, Curtis decided to do Kaden a favor and said, 'The most important thing at the moment is to cure your father. I'll ask someone to bring you the technical documents right away!'