

Chapter 1922 Found Traces

Braden didn't care about the blood ties between him and Connie and continued to scold her.

"Where the hell did you take Luisa? Tell me now! You bastard! Do you know what you have done?"

Connie was terrified out of her mind. Her eyes suddenly went unfocused and she grabbed her hair in both hands. Then she started giggling manically.

It suddenly dawned on the others around that she had suffered a brief mental disorder.

Trevor didn't have the time to wait for Connie to recover. By the time she was well enough to confess, Luisa could already be dead.

But he had two prominent suspects in mind.

This was done by either the Mobius or the Craig family. Then he started filtering through several pieces of information, trying to pinpoint who was most likely to have kidnapped Luisa between the two.

After moments of deliberation, Trevor finally decided that the Craig family was the most likely suspect.

After all, they were in Clouauro. And Connie had a close relationship with the Craig family.

Trevor rushed to the police station and requested to see the traffic surveillance of the car Luisa drove.

However, the police officers refused to cooperate.

One of the officers raised a brow at him and demanded, "Who are you? I'm afraid we can't allow an ordinary civilian to just waltz in here and see the surveillance video."

Time was of the essence and he was going to lose the little amount of time he had to save Luisa if he stayed here arguing with the officers.

So, he took out his Klein ID and ordered, "You have to cooperate with me to handle this case! Get the traffic surveillance video of the target car

The policeman was very frustrated, but he couldn't throw Trevor out of the station or deny his request. So he took Trevor to the Traffic Surveillance Department and asked the director of the police station to meet Trevor.

As soon as he was in the Traffic Surveillance Department, he announced "A section of the surveillance video is enough. Please hurry up!"

The policeman of the department stood up and replied, "I'm sorry. We've lost all the surveillance data for today."

As he spoke, he started deleting the surveillance files. He was only so brazen because he believed that Trevor was an outsider and wouldn't know what he was doing.

This policeman was the same one Curtis bribed to delete the surveillance video.

Trevor grabbed his wrist and pulled him away from the computer. Eyes blazing, he shouted, "What are you deleting?"

The policeman was stunned to have been caught and took a moment to gape in shock. Still, he managed to snap, "It's none of your business! This is an internal matter of our department. You are just an outsider. Don't interfere with our work! Can you take responsibility for delaying the traffic?"

Kaden chose that moment to walk in.

He was a trusted subordinate of the police chief. The chief happened to be away for something so Kaden came over on his behalf.

Kaden was a little taken aback to see Trevor. It took a few moments for Trevor to explain everything that happened to him. When he was done, Kaden turned to the officer and ordered, "Play the surveillance video now! Don't play tricks again, or I'll send you to prison!"

The policeman froze to the spot and he didn't make any further attempts to delete more videos. He gulped and played the video Trevor wanted.

The video had only played for a few seconds before Trevor realized that Luisa was driving towards the house of the Craig family!

"Damn it!"

Trevor ran out of the police station and quickly rushed to the house of +120 Points at most

The earlier he got there, the safer Luisa would be.

When Trevor was gone, Kaden sternly rebuked the policeman for several minutes. He even announced, "When the director returns, I will let him know that you have been illegally deleting data. You will be fired!"

The policeman gaped at Kaden in shock. He was numb with fear and couldn't even find the strength to cry.

He deeply regretted collecting that bribe from Curtis.
