

Chapter 1927 How Do You Know Mobius

The policemen were led by Kaden.

Fully clad in his police uniform, he respectfully walked up to Trevor and asked for instructions.

Before Trevor could give him orders, Curtis pointed at Kaden and scolded, "Are you going crazy? Why did you bring the police here? You're using your public authority to retaliate against me. Aren't you afraid that the Craig family will seek revenge against you for your actions?"

Seeing how arrogant Curtis was reminded Kaden of every unpleasant thing that happened in the past. He marched up to Curtis and slapped him across the face.

"The Craig family? Your family's group has gone bankrupt! What are you still being arrogant about? You have no idea how far your family has fallen from grace. From now on, there will be no Craig family in Clouauro," he concluded disdainfully.

It was only at this moment that it really sunk in for Curtis that the Craig family was doomed.

Quickly thinking on his feet, he decided that his best course of action was to get Kaden back on his side. So he plastered on a winning smile and tried to flatter Kaden.

"We are good friends! Why are you helping an outsider to confront my family?"

Kaden nearly burst out laughing.

"Don't you feel ashamed to call me your friend?"

When I was in the Archer family's house, I pleaded with you to wait until my father was cured before you dealt with your business. Did you have any respect for my wish? You even ordered your bodyguards to beat me! Now you're talking to me about friendship? It's too late!"

Curtis closed his mouth, despair washing over his features as he realized that there was nothing he could say to defend his actions.

While the two of them were talking, Luisa ran to the police team.

She didn't know anyone of them. At that moment, Luisa trusted the police a lot more than she trusted Trevor.

Trevor felt helpless, but he had no choice but to watch her go to them.

Truthfully, he couldn't blame Luisa for her actions. After all, in her eyes, Trevor was just a stranger.

Kaden summarily dismissed Curtis with a shake of his head and turned to Trevor to ask for instructions again.

"What else do we need to do? Please just tell me!"

Luisa was surprised to see the leader of the policemen behaving so respectfully to Trevor and she started wondering who he was.

Trevor waved his hand and asked Kaden to stand by. He turned around and vented his anger on Curtis.

He asked coldly, "I will only ask you one more time. Where is the laboratory of the Craig family's biopharmaceutical company?"

Curtis glared back at him silently.

All hope was not lost yet. He was certain that he could reverse the situation somehow. After all, he still had one trump card left.

When Trevor saw how defiant Curtis was, he suddenly understood why the man wasn't talking. He leaned over and whispered in Curtis' ear, "Do you think Mobius will protect you?"

Against his will, Curtis' eyes went wide. The Mobius was his last hope, and now Trevor knew about them.

He faltered and gulped convulsively. "How... How do you know Mobius?" he stuttered.

Trevor replied with a sneer, "Not only do I know them, but I am also very familiar with them. It is quite bold of Craig family to cooperate with Mobius. Which faction are you working with? Is it the Bat?"

Trevor shook his head at himself. "No, the Bat faction is almost extinct and they don't have the skill for this. It has to be the Wolf faction. You are working with the Wolf faction aren't you?"

Curtis was completely blown away by Trevor's explanation of the inner workings of the Mobius. Definitely, Trevor was very familiar with them. Thus, Curtis came to horrible realization that he didn't have any defense against Trevor.

Voice trembling he murmured, "I'll tell you the address of the lab."

Curtis told him the address of the lab and described it as best as he could. Then he knelt on the floor and pleaded with Trevor for mercy.

"Please spare my life! I've told you everything I know. Please let me go!"

Trevor sneered and said indifferently, "Now you know how to beg for mercy? It's too late! The moment you started coveting Luisa, I sentenced you to death in my heart!"

He already sent all the records he had about Mobius to Jasmine.

Now, he called her and ordered, "Dispatch the Klein action team immediately! Mobius is becoming increasingly involved in more and more businesses"

 Hi! Baby! I miss you!

Check