

Chapter 1962 The Deal

Trevor agreed to Henrik's request. After hanging up, he took Luisa to the Wrights' house.

When Trevor and Luisa arrived, they saw Duran taunting Henrik.

"You have been managing our family's hotel for such a long time, but it hasn't made any improvement so far. On the contrary, the hotel's profit has dropped. If someone as incompetent as you were to take over the Wright family, I'm afraid..."

Kenny also shook his head with a look of disappointment.

Duran suddenly noticed Trevor's presence, and his face changed dramatically. He asked in an unfriendly tone, "Why are you here?"

Trevor smiled and replied jokingly, "Won't you welcome me? Is this how the Wright family entertains its guests?"

Kenny hurriedly replied politely, "Of course not. We are glad you decided to visit us today. Please have a seat. We have some family affairs to deal with right now. I'll be with you shortly."

Trevor nodded and sat down quietly.

Duran's eyes darkened.

He wondered whether Henrik was the one who asked Trevor to come here.

But this was a rare opportunity. He must go through with his plan and finish it today.

With that in mind, Duran continued to brag in front of Henrik, "The family business I run doesn't have as many problems as the hotel you run. Henrik, you clearly still have a lot to learn."

Henrik snorted and retorted, "That's because when I was running the hotel, there have always been evil people making trouble. That was why there was so many problems."

Kenny put on a weird look and pretended to be concerned. He asked, "You say there were people causing trouble? Are you kidding me? How dare anyone offend the Wright family?"

Henrik glanced at Duran and said indifferently, "The main person behind all that was Kurt from the Larson family. But Trevor has already dealt with him, so there will be no more problems with the hotel in the future."

Although Henrik said so, he knew very well that Duran was the one behind all the trouble he faced.

Seeing Henrik staring at him, Duran had the feeling Henrik had managed to get some evidence, which made him nervous. However, Henrik didn't accuse him of anything. Duran breathed a sigh of relief then.

He was glad he had been smart enough not to leave any evidence that could link him to all this. Otherwise, he might have been in trouble.

At the same time, Duran's hatred for Trevor grew tenfold.

His family business had nothing to do with Trevor, but Trevor still decided to get involved! It was clear that Trevor sided with Henrik.

Duran brought back his attention to Henrik and said calmly, "You said it yourself that it was Trevor who dealt with Kurt. That doesn't prove that you're capable, does it?"

At this time, Trevor suddenly stood up and said, "Sure it does! The fact that I'm willing to help Henrik shows that he has strong connections and a good relationship with others. This is also a very important asset for any leader."

Duran was rendered speechless.

Kenny, who had been silent for a long time, finally said, "Well, Mr. Sanderson, you sure have a point. But Henrik, if you want to prove you are capable of running the Wright family, you need to continue to run the hotel well. The task is not very difficult. All you have to do is make sure the hotel's profits increase in two weeks."

Henrik didn't like the deal and wanted to refuse.

He had the feeling that even though Kurt was no longer able to cause him any trouble, Duran was still capable of doing so.

Besides, Kurt's actions had seriously destroyed the hotel's reputation. It wouldn't be easy to turn things around in just two weeks.

On the other side, Trevor winked at Henrik and agreed to the deal on Henrik's behalf.
