

Chapter 1989 Kill Anyone Who Knows The Secret Medicine

Trevor didn't want to linger outside the bar any longer. Since Luisa didn't want to punish Duran, Trevor decided to drop the matter.

However, if Duran still tried to make trouble, Trevor would no longer hold back and he would definitely teach Duran a lesson.

Trevor and Luisa eventually left with Henrik and Cecelia. On the way back, Cecelia gently held Luisa's hand and asked, "Why did you come to this bar alone?"

Of course, Luisa couldn't tell Cecelia the truth, so she made up a lie. "I just suddenly wanted to have a drink. I didn't realize that I had accidentally hung up on Trevor."

Then suddenly, Luisa recalled that she had discussed the medicine with Duran at the bar.

"Earlier this evening I heard Duran talking about the medicine. However, he did not seem to know the side effects of the drug and just assumed that it was a secret drug from the Wright family. Cecelia, are you sure about its side effects?"

Trevor wore a serious expression after hearing what Luisa said.

He had used coercion to obtain information on the medication. So, it was highly unlikely that the information he had obtained was false.

After thinking about it for a while, Trevor came to the conclusion that Duran was probably just following orders from someone in the shadows.

That mysterious person was probably the same one secretly manipulating Mr. Wright. This meant that Duran was just a pawn.

Having come to this realization, Trevor looked at Henrik and Cecelia seriously and said in a low voice, "The two of you should be careful of Duran's parents."

Cecelia figured out what Trevor was thinking and she nodded at once.

Unlike Cecelia, Henrik found it harder to keep his cool at this point. He gritted his teeth and said angrily, "How I wish I could take Duran away and torture him until I get the information we want!"

Trevor didn't say anything and just gave Henrika casual smile.

Then, he brought back his attention to Luisa.

Seeing that Luisa was quiet, Trevor thought she was worried about her memory loss, so he tried to reassure her. He said in a comforting voice, "Don't worry, okay? The villa of the Sanderson family is almost completely repaired. Hopefully, after the construction works there are over, you might be able to recover some memory once you go there."

Luisa didn't say anything and just nodded slightly.

Trevor felt so sorry for her. Alas, there was nothing he could do at the moment. He smoothed her hair gently and didn't say anything more.

On the other side, after leaving the bar, Duran went to the hospital to have his bones fixed. Luckily for him, the doctor easily fixed the dislocated arm. Duran didn't want to stay in the hospital longer than he had to, so as soon as the doctor was done, he left the hospital. Standing in front of the hospital gate, Duran carefully looked around.

After making sure no one was around, he took out his phone and dialed a number.

The other person answered the call almost immediately. With the help of a voice changer, Duran's interlocutor asked in a hoarse voice, "What's the matter?"

Duran looked around carefully again and said in a low voice, "Since we are working together, don't you think I deserve to get some benefits from this cooperation? I need you to help me put Pearson out of business on behalf of the Wright family."

"Okay," the mysterious person replied casually.

Duran was delighted to see that the man agreed. After hesitating for a while, Duran asked cautiously, "I accidentally told Luisa about the secret medicine. I hope that doesn't pose a problem."

At this time, the mysterious person at the other end of the phone suddenly fell into silence, which made Duran panic.

After a while, the man finally spoke and from his tone, it was clear he was angry. "Lock Luisa up! We can't let anyone else know about the secret medicine! If Trevor happens to know about the secret medicine, use Luisa as a bait to bring him to you and kill them both.*

Duran was stunned.

This time around, he was hesitant. Of course, he wanted Trevor to die. However, he didn't have any intention of killing Trevor himself. But his mysterious partner was clearly asking him to do the dirty job.

Trevor was the young master of the Sanderson family. If anything were to happen to him, the Sanderson family would move heaven and earth to find the culprit. At that time, he would definitely know a miserable end.

After hesitating for a moment, Duran said frankly, "Going after Trevor is declaring war on the Sanderson family. I think..."

Before Duran could finish his words, his interlocutor snorted coldly and cut him off. "I didn't ask you to think. I will hire a group of people to get the job done. All you have to do is make sure they complete the task. You will be their leader. Remember, don't let any information about the secret medicine be leaked. Anyone who knows about it must die."
